Explanation

This list is Part 6 of the third series of the Classified Catalogue of books in the Library. It includes titles added from January 1, 1907 up to, but not including, January 1912 and supplements the first and second series of the Classified Catalogue, which include titles of books acquired from the foundation of the Library in 1895 to January 1, 1907.

Following the general plan pursued in the distribution of the first and second series of the catalogue, sections will be issued in pamphlet form as they are printed. When all parts are completed, an index of authors and subjects will be added, so that the sections may be bound into volumes.

The following list includes all books in the class Fiction, arranged alphabetically by author and title under language divisions. The form of entry is that of the author card of the dictionary card catalogue, the same linotype composition being used from which the cards and the Monthly Bulletin have already been printed. Volumes added in order to complete sets of books, parts of which were listed in the former catalogues, are entered here, with references to those catalogues, as well as circulating copies of those books which have previously been in the reference or juvenile collections only.

The symbol at the right-hand side of the page, opposite each title, is the number to be used in calling for the book, and should be copied exactly. If the work is in more than one volume, the volume wanted should be specified. Call numbers preceded by the letter "r" designate books in the reference collection, which cannot be taken from the Library. These books, as well as all others in the Library, may be consulted freely in the Reference room. The letter "j" prefixed to a call number indicates that the book is provided especially for the use of children.

Pure extravaganza. The "City of pleasure" is a glorified Wonderland or Dream city, an enormous amusement enterprise in London. Hero is a popular composer who conducts his own band and directs the show.

Bennett, Arnold. B439c

Clayhanger. Dutton.

First of a trilogy of which "Hilda Lessways" is the second. It is the story of the youth and early manhood of a Five Towns printer, a man of aspiration and some imagination, but too weak-willed to escape from his father's tyranny.

Bennett, Arnold. B439d

Denry the audacious. Dutton.

Also published under the titles "The deeds of Denry the audacious" and "The card."

One of the author's stories in lighter vein. Diverting tale of a young man of the Five Towns whose resourcefulness and instinct for action at critical moments amount to genius.

Bennett, Arnold. B439g

The ghost; a modern fantasy. Small.

This story of a beautiful young opera singer, her spectral lover and his deadly jealousy is frank melodrama with its familiar elements.

Bennett, Arnold. B439gra

Grand Babylon hotel; a fantasia on modern themes. Chatto.

Comedy and satire are delightfully blended in telling the adventures of an American multimillionaire.

Bennett, Arnold. B439gr

A great man; a frolic. Doran.

Satire on the gullibility of the reading public and the quality of its taste. Tells of the meteoric rise to fame of a commonplace clerk who, while recovering from an attack of measles, writes a story called "Love in Babylon," which proves to be a best seller.

Bennett, Arnold. B439gri

The grim smile of the Five Towns. Chapman.

Contents: The lion's share.—Baby's bath.—The silent brothers.—The nineteenth hat.—Vera's first Christmas adventure.—The murder of the mandarin.—Vera's second Christmas adventure.—The burglary.—News of the engagement.—Beginning the New Year.—From one generation to another.—The death of Simon Fuge.—In a new bottle.

"The stories are...all told with a smile and raise an answering smile from the reader, but both the author's and the reader's smiles are grim; almost as grim, at times, as 'The Five Towns' themselves." Academy, 1907.

Bennett, Arnold. B439h

Helen with the high hand; an idyllic diversion. Doran.

"Story in light comedy vein relating the conquest of an elderly, miserly bachelor by a grand-niece, his marriage to a comely widow and his resourceful grand-niece's love story. The scene is again the Five Towns." A. L. A. booklist, 1910.

Bennett, Arnold. B439hi

Hilda Lessways. Dutton.

Story of Hilda Lessways, whom we saw in "Clayhanger" only through the baffled eyes of the hero. It is not a sequel but a complement to the earlier narrative. Much of the old ground is covered, many of the same incidents are recorded, but the scene and point of view have definitely shifted. It brings us only half-way through "Clayhanger," reckoning the length of the narrative, and far from half-way in point of time. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Bennett, Arnold. B439o

The old wives' tale; a novel. Chapman.

A work of singular sincerity and force. Its characters have no very striking charm or significance, and there are in effect but three of them, the wife and daughters of a "general draper" in a small town of Staffordshire. The story-teller gets his effect by means of a steady accretion of meaning detail, displayed in the light of a humor which is both bland and searching. When he has ceased to speak, there remains nothing for us to learn about these people, body, mind, or soul. Condensed from Nation, 1909.

Bennett, Arnold. B439t

Tales of the Five Towns. Chatto.

Contents: At home: His worship the goosedriver.—The elixir of youth.—Mary with the high hand.—The dog.—A feud.—Phantom.—Tiddy-fol-lol.—The idiot.—Abroad: The Hungarian rhapsody.—The sisters Qita.—Nocturne at the Majestic.—Clarice of the autumn concerts.—A letter home.

Bennett, Emerson. rB439p

Mabel; or, The child of the battle field; a tale of Waterloo. Akarman.

Bound with his "Pioneer's daughter."

Bennett, Emerson. rB439m

Mike Fink; a legend of the Ohio. James.

Tale of adventure in which Mike Fink, a real character who was a noted boatman on the Ohio at the beginning of the 19th century, plays a leading part.

Bennett, Emerson. rB439p

Pioneer's daughter; a tale of Indian captivity. Peterson.

Bennett, John. B4392t

Treasure of Peyre Gaillard; being an account of the recovery, on a South Carolina plantation, of a treasure which had remained buried and lost in a vast swamp for over a hundred years, after the ms. narrative by Buck Guignard. Century.

Ingenious and vigorous tale of mystery, involving hidden staircases, negro legends, a double cipher, and a vast treasure.

Benson, Arthur Christopher. B4433b

Beside still waters. Putnam.

Records the quiet retired life of a young man whom an unexpected legacy has freed from the necessity of leading a life of activity.

Benson, Arthur Christopher. B4433m

Memoirs of Arthur Hamilton, B. A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, extracted from his letters and diaries, with reminiscences of his conversation by his friend, Christopher Carr of the same college. Holt.

Reprint of a book first published anonymously in 1886. Arthur Hamilton is an imaginary person whose quiet, uneventful career typifies and stands as an eloquent plea for the life of reflection as contrasted with the life of action.

Benson, Edward Frederic. B443ma

Margery. Doubleday.

Story of a warm-hearted and very human young English girl married to a self-centred archæologist.

Benson, Edward Frederick. B4430

The Osbornes. Doubleday.

Human story of a newly rich and bourgeois family into which a young girl of good birth but no fortune marries, the inevitable jars and misunderstandings that ensue, and the harmony which finally comes through mutual forbearance and good sense.

Benson, Edward Frederic. B443r

A reaping. Doubleday.

Series of 12 essay-like stories, each chapter covering a month of the year. The slight plot concerns a husband and wife keenly alive to the joys and humors of life.

Benson, Edward Frederic. B443s

Sheaves. Doubleday.

The theme of the story is the married life of two people of unequal ages.

Benson, Robert Hugh. B4434c

Brackenridge, Hugh Henry. rB677
Modern chivalry; containing the adventures of Captain John Farrago and Teague O'Regan his servant. pt.3. M.DCC.XIII. John Scull. Pittsburgh.

Believed to be the first edition of part 3 of "Modern chivalry" which was finally published in 4 parts. The date 1713 on the title-page is evidently an error on the part of the printer as the author was not born until 1748. Mr Brackenridge was a resident of

Brackenridge, Hugh Henry—continued. rB677

Pittsburgh in 1793 and the second part of the work was printed in 1792, therefore it is supposed that the printer confused the Roman numerals, printing MDCCXIII instead of MDCCXCIII.

The introduction (p.1–67) contains a poem humorously satirizing the Order of the Cincinnati. The text contains 99 pages and is a very interesting example of the early press of Pittsburgh.

The same. 2v. in 1. 1807–08. Jacob Johnson. Philadelphia..rB677m

Life, adventures and piracies of Captain Singleton, and Life of Colonel Jack, with prefaces and notes, including those attributed to Sir Walter Scott. Bell. (Novels and miscellaneous works.)

"The boy Singleton was kidnapped and sold to gypsies. Later he headed a band of mutineers, who crossed Africa from Madagascar. This part is made up from authentic tales of travellers, and the detailed account of the interior has not been discredited. His career as a pirate follows." Baker's Descriptive guide to the best fiction.

The "Life of Colonel Jack" is the story of a convict.

Story of a pathfinder. Houghton.

Contents: The story of a pathfinder: The courts; Story-writing.—A lover's conscience.—A stranger in the city.—Mr Green's promise.—In slavery days.—The secret story.

The first three chapters are autobiographical, telling of the author's early experiences as a reporter in Albany where he was instrumental in bringing shorthand into use in the courts. A group of short stories follow.

"Both his stories and preface bear rather the impress of the fifties than of the postbellum newspaper world. It is the atmosphere of Greeley's Memoirs, with all the mildness and restraint of what might be called the middle Victorian period in American fiction." Nation, 1907.

An affair of dishonor. Holt.

"There is no child-heroine in "An Affair of Dishonor," no group of simple, breathing, lovable people, even in the background. It is a Restoration romance, not better than its kind—beginning with a duel, and ending with an appropriate end for the villain. The plot is simple, even meagre." Nation, 1910.

De Morgan, William Frend. D423a

Alice-for-short; a dichronism. Holt.

Like "Joseph Vance" a novel of uncommon quality. It is not for the impatient or restive reader, but people who like stories of the Dickens and Thackeray type will find here generous entertainment.

De Morgan, William Frend. D423i

It never can happen again. Holt.

As in two of its predecessors the chief figure is a child of the London slums. There is another story within the story—a complicated and whimsical illustration of the English law prohibiting marriage with a deceased wife's sister.

De Morgan, William Frend. D423j

Joseph Vance; an ill-written autobiography. Holt.

A leisurely story, intensely human and often humorous, of English life in mid-Victorian times.

A very skilful hand has imparted to this narrative its gentle inconsecutiveness, its fond diffuseness, its premature betrayals and redundant echoes, defects engaging and natural, the defects of "Tom Jones," "Henry Esmond" and "David Copperfield." Condensed from Nation, 1906.

De Morgan, William Frend. D423s

Somehow good. Holt.

The story turns upon the hero's loss of memory after an electric shock and his unconscious remarriage to the wife of his youth from whom he had been separated for 20 years. In spite of a theme which might easily have been morbid and melodramatic, the story is sound and sweet and mellow throughout, "somehow good" both in what it tells and the manner of the telling.

Fogazzaro, Antonio. F685l

Leila; tr. by M. Prichard-Agnetti. Hodder.

"Continuation in a certain sense of 'Il Santo,' for, although none of the characters of the earlier work, save in one small incident, reappear in the later one, it is permeated with the same ideas and tendencies, and the hero of 'Leila,' Massimo Alberti, is the devotee of Pietro Maironi ('Il Santo') and a continuator of his tradition... Religion plays a very large part in the book." Nation, 1911.

Fogazzaro, Antonio. F685p

The patriot (Piccolo mondo antico); tr. from the Italian by M. Prichard-Agnetti. Putnam.

The first novel in his "Trilogy of Rome," followed by "The sinner" and "The saint." The mating of an intensely religious man with an unbelieving wife forms the motive of the book.

Fogazzaro, Antonio. F685po

The politician; tr. by G. Mantellini. Luce.

Translation of "Daniele Cortis."
Although written in 1885, the book bears a strong resemblance to his much later work the "Trilogy of Rome." The hero is a man of high ideals who is striving to secure the religious and social regeneration of Italy.

Fogazzaro, Antonio. F685s

The saint (Il santo); tr. from the Italian by M. Prichard-Agnetti, with an introduction by W. R. Thayer.

"Continuation of its author's well-known 'Piccolo Mondo Moderno.' The plot deals with the burning question of the hour—the possible reconciliation of the Church with the nation, rather than with the State... 'Il Santo' is a book to read and ponder over. It is finely written and, in an age of scepticism, treats religious questions with unaffected reverence." Saturday review, 1905.
Being the third novel in his "Trilogy of Rome."

Fogazzaro, Antonio. F685si
The sinner; tr. from the Italian by M. Prichard-Agnetti. Putnam.
The second novel in his "Trilogy of Rome," being preceded by "The patriot" and followed by "The saint." It is the story of a man's conflict between asceticism and the cravings of sense.

Fogazzaro, Antonio.
Trilogy of Rome:
The patriot. F685p
The sinner. F685si
The saint. F685s

Fogazzaro, Antonio. F685w
The woman (Malombra); tr. from the Italian by F. T. Dickson. Lippincott.
One of Fogazzaro's earlier stories.
"An experiment in mystic melodrama which is only saved, at times, from sinking to the level of pure sensationalism by the author's fine delineation of certain personages." Academy, 1907.

Contents: Prologue: The reverend father Adone Doni. — San Satiro. — Messer Guido Cavalcanti. — Lucifer. — The loaves of black bread. — The merry-hearted Buffalmacco.—The lady of Verona.—The human tragedy.—The mystic blood.—A sound security. — History of Doña Maria d'Avalos and the duke d'Andria. — Bonaparte at San Miniato.

France, Anatole, (pseud. of Jacques Anatole Thibault). F861wh

The white stone; a translation by C. E. Roche. Lane.

Opens with the conversation of five Frenchmen and an Italian in the Forum, but this almost immediately gives place to a short story told in Commander Lanciani's room. Scene is laid in Corinth in St. Paul's time, and the story is intended to give the Roman view of Judaism and of the early Christians. Then follows a commentary by the author on his own story, in the form of a renewed conversation. Last of all is a dream of a collectivist Europe three centuries hence.

France, Anatole, (pseud. of Jacques Anatole Thibault). F861wi

The wicker work woman; a chronicle of our own times; a translation by M. P. Willcocks. Lane.

M. Bergeret, the Latin professor, who has already appeared in the "Elm tree on the mall," reappears in this story. The book derives its name from the wicker form used by Mme Bergeret, for her dressmaking purposes, which plays an important part in the story.

Francis, M. E. (pseud. of Mrs Mary E. (Sweetman) Blundell). F867h

Hardy-on-the-hill. Methuen.

Appeared in "Living age," v.259–262, Oct. 1908–Sept. 1909.

Story of Dorsetshire. The chief characters are a well-to-do yeoman farmer of strong character, and two young girls, with their literary and impecunious father, who come from Oxford as tenants on his farm.

Peter Moor's journey to southwest Africa; a narrative of the German campaign; tr. by M. M. Ward. Houghton.

Story of a young soldier who volunteered for service in the unfortunate campaign of the Germans in southwest Africa in 1903. In simple and straightforward language he tells the story of the trip to Africa, the march into the interior, the fighting, the journey home.

Frenssen, Gustav. F929t

The three comrades; tr. from the German. Estes.

The forceful vividness, the breeziness, and the simple strength which were evident in "Jörn Uhl" are even more noticeable in "The three comrades." We are given three masculine characters contrasted with a skill as rare as it is restrained. Life on the shores of the North sea is portrayed with an art that is finished and convincing. The story aims high; it seeks to inculcate a moral, the moral of man's existence. Condensed from Academy, 1907.

A commentary. Putnam.

Contents: The lost dog.—Demos.—Old age.—The careful man.—Fear.—Fashion.—Sport.—Money.—Progress.—Holiday.—Facts.—Power.—The house of silence.—Order.—The mother.—Comfort.—A child.—Justice.—Hope.

Series of little pictures, or idyls, strangely disquieting, of misery and comfort, satiric, ironic, tragic. The animating motive is a desire to puncture the thoughtless complacency of the comfortable classes. It is unusual for a book of such intense social purpose to have such genuine artistic merit. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Galsworthy, John, (pseud. John Sinjohn). G157co

Fashionable New York life is contrasted in this novel with life in a French convent school and a New England rectory. Strongly Catholic in tone.

Harrison, Henry Sydnor. H2983q

Queed; a novel. Houghton.

Queed, at 25, had developed into a confirmed evolutionary sociologist of the most abstruse literary type, and was reduced to a mere walking schedule. The methods used by his friends to transform him into an active member of society are described with a subtle humor and a joyousness which are most refreshing. Adapted from Nation, 1911.

Harrison, Mrs Mary St. Leger (Kingsley), (pseud. Lucas Malet). H299f

Far horizon. Dodd.

The central motive is an unusual friendship between a superannuated London bank clerk and a young actress.

Harrison, Mrs Mary St. Leger (Kingsley), (pseud. Lucas Malet). H299go

The golden galleon. Hodder.

This little story takes its name from a piece of silver-gilt, representing a ship in full sail, given to Miss Povey, a London spinster, by the young man who lodges with her and in whose misdeeds she innocently becomes involved.

Harrison, Mrs Mary St. Leger (Kingsley), (pseud. Lucas Malet). H299s

The score. Dutton.

Contents: Out in the open.—Miserere nobis.

Two stories pitched in an intense key. The first is a tale of a woman's testing and final self-conquest; the second, a dramatic romance, the death-bed confession of a young parricide.

A safety match. Houghton.

Appeared in "Blackwood's Edinburgh magazine," v.190, July–Nov. 1911.

The "safety match" is a marriage between the daughter of an English country clergyman, a 20-year-old girl who has mothered a large family of brothers and sisters, and a man twice her age who had much to learn about women.

Hay, Marie. H3692g

A German Pompadour; being the extraordinary history of Wilhelmine von Grävenitz, landhofmeisterin of Wirtemberg; a narrative of the 18th century. Constable.

Wilhelmine von Grävenitz was a spirited and fascinating German woman prominent at the court of Eberhard Ludwig, duke of Würtemberg.

"The plot, which is founded on facts derived from the Stuttgart archives, is presented with remarkable directness: whilst the author's lively imagination imparts throughout an air of reality to a story which, if it were not vouched for by documentary evidence would be highly improbable...All the dramatic incidents connected with the court life of Wilhelmine von Grävenitz prove that Miss Hay has made a sincere study of the history and manners of Germany, and especially of Wirtemburg in the eighteenth century, with most happy results." Saturday review, 1906.

"'Whirligigs' is half-derisive journalese for what the tragic novelist of Wessex would call life's little ironies—men and their affairs are here presented as serio-comic playthings gyrating unaccountably in the winds of chance. That the unexpected always happens is the essence of the plot." Nation, 1910.

Herrick, Robert, b. 1868. H477ma

Master of the inn. Scribner.

Appeared in "Scribner's magazine," v.42, Dec. 1907.

"Central figure of this little story is one of those teachers who appear from time to time among men, whose function is not only to open the eyes but to gladden the heart and restore the soul. This teacher has about him a little company of men who go to him for regeneration among the mountains of northern New England. Sooner or later every man tells him his secret and with the telling the poison goes out of his life." Outlook, 1908.

Hewlett, Maurice Henry. H499b

Brazenhead the Great. Scribner.

"Adventures from the life of a swashbuckling English soldier of fortune of the fifteenth century, whose magnificent egotism makes him at once the master of circumstance, the dupe of rogues and the victim of his own defective qualities." Life, 1911.

Hewlett, Maurice Henry. H499h

Halfway house; a comedy of degrees. Scribner.

Mr Hewlett's first novel of every-day folk and prosaic modern life. This modern reading of the tale of King Cophetua and the beggar maid is a charming product of inventive fancy, instinct with the essential spirit of comedy. Condensed from Dial, 1908.

Hewlett, Maurice Henry. H499o

Open country; a comedy with a sting. Scribner.

Hilliers, Ashton. H5612a
As it happened. Putnam.
"Loosely knit story of action dealing with highway robbery, adventures with Algerine pirates, and legitimate warfare by land and sea, and intended to represent the misrule of George III. at home and in the colonies. The book lacks the simplicity and finish of the author's Fanshawe of the Fifth but has literary flavor and effective character drawing and shows careful study of the period." A. L. A. booklist, 1909.

Hilliers, Ashton. H5612f
Fanshawe of the Fifth; being memoirs of a person of quality. McClure.
The adventures which befell an English gentleman who cut himself loose from his family and wandered through England as a laborer. Time is about 1800.

Gurney married; a sequel to Gilbert Gurney. 2v. Lea.
English novelist and humorist (1788–1841).
"His later works, 'Gilbert Gurney' and 'Gurney Married' (1836 and 1838), are little else than a gallery of thinly disguised portraits and a string of anecdotes from real life, so excellently told, however, that these slight performances seem likely to survive his more ambitious writings. They appeared in the 'New Monthly Magazine.'" Dictionary of national biography.

Hoover, Bessie Ray. H779o
Opal. Harper.
Sequel to "Pa Flickinger's folks."
Story of "Pa Flickinger's" favorite daughter.

Hope, Anthony, (pseud. of Anthony Hope Hawkins). H781hel
Helena's path. McClure.
Artistic little comedy which concerns itself with the hero's right of way through the heroine's estate. He invades, she barricades, a mimic war ensues and peace is concluded in the usual way.

[Hope, Thomas.] H782a

Anastasius; or, Memoirs of a Greek, written at the close of the 18th century. 3v. Murray.

"This novel appeared anonymously in 1819 and was for some time attributed to Lord Byron. It is of the school of Beckford and Byron, displaying a vivid imagination, remarkable powers of graphic description, a cultivated classical taste, and a minute accuracy in the accounts of Eastern climes and Oriental manners." Allibone's Dictionary of authors.

Contents: A sleep and a forgetting.—The eidolons of Brooks Alford.—A memory that worked overtime.—A case of metaphantasmia.—Editha.—Braybridge's offer.—The chick of the Easter egg.

Appeared in "Harper's magazine" and "Harper's weekly."
Most of the stories deal with some psychic mystery.

Howells, William Dean. H857fen
Fennel and rue; a novel. Harper.

This slender story is the history of a virulent case of "New England conscience" seated in a Southern breast. Mr Howells has succeeded admirably in depicting the excesses to which continual brooding over a trifle may lead those who have no sense of humor. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Howells, William Dean. H857thr
Through the eye of a needle; a romance. Harper.

The first part of this sociological novel contains a view of modern New York as seen by a traveler from the ideal commonwealth of Altruria. The second part is an account of Altruria as seen by the American wife whom he takes home with him and who has a difficult time adjusting her ideas to those of Altruria.

Howitt, William, & Howitt, Mrs Mary (Botham). rH862s

Inchbald, Mrs Elizabeth (Simpson). I242s

A simple story, with an introduction by G. L. Strachey. Frowde.

"Mrs. Inchbald's great romance, by which she is principally known... In spite of the break in the middle which practically divides it into two parts, and of the unexpected frailty of the heroine, it is a supremely tender and touching work, written with much happiness of style, and giving a very lively portraiture of character. It exercised a powerful influence; it was one of the earliest examples of the novel of passion, and seems to some extent to have inspired 'Jane Eyre.'" Dictionary of national biography.

Mad shepherds, and other human studies. Williams.

Unusual book by the editor (1910) of the "Hibbert journal." It purports to be the study of "two notable men and one highly-gifted woman" who redeem a small parish from monotony. Of the three, "Snarley Bob," the surly, half-crazed shepherd, who communed with the stars and had intercourse with spirits, was the maddest, but in his madness there was also sanity.

Ship's company. Scribner.

Contents: Fine feathers.—Friends in need.—Good intentions.—Fairy gold.—Watch-dogs.— The bequest.— The guardian angel.— Dual control.— Skilled assistance.— For better or worse.—The old man of the sea.—"Manners makyth man."

Short, humorous stories of sailors off their ships.

Jacobs, William Wymark. J134s

Short cruises. Scribner.

Contents: The changeling. — Mixed relations. —His lordship. — Alf's dream.—A distant relative.—The test.—In the family.—A love-knot.—Her uncle.—The dreamer.—Angels' visits.—A circular tour.

Many of these stories appeared in the "Cosmopolitan," 1906–07.

"Some of the short stories in this delightful collection are as good as the very best he has ever made of his sailors and labouring men... It has been left to Mr. Jacobs to discover and exploit the perpetual flow of sarcastic bickering which is the most characteristic thing about the social life of the humble in England." Outlook (London), 1907.

Johnston, Mary. J3692lo

The long roll. Houghton.

Accurate account of the Civil war with enough of the personal touches of fiction to add human interest. Gives much attention to field tactics and campaign plans and pictures the war from the awful rather than from the romantic side. "Stonewall" Jackson is the real hero, and there is extraordinary skill shown in the development of the attitude of his "Army of the Valley" toward him, from the almost open contempt of the self-sufficient and bigoted disciplinarian and teacher of military tactics to enthusiastic confidence in the great general. The book closes with his death at Chancellorsville.

Manuel, Juan. rM351c
Count Lucanor; or, The fifty pleasant stories of Patronio; first done into English by James York, 1868. Gibbings. (Tales of the "Spanish Boccaccio.")
Spanish writer (1282–1347).
"Juan Manuel's masterpiece is the Conde Lucanor (also named the Book of Patronio and the Book of Examples)...Like the Decamerone, like the Canterbury Tales—but with greater directness—the Conde Lucanor is the oriental apologue embellished in terms of the vernacular...The examples are taken from experience, and are told with extraordinary narrative skill. Simplicity of theme is matched by simplicity of expression." Kelly's Spanish literature.

Hope Leslie; or, Early times in the Massachusetts. 2v. White.

Miss Sedgwick (1789–1867) held a prominent place among early American writers of fiction.

"The tale has many characters of which English fiction affords no precedent... The author has done no small service in preserving such a picture of what the Indians were, in the early colonial days... The domestic scenes of this novel, especially in the first volume, before the hair-breadth escapes begin, fix themselves in the memory, avouching their own truth and beauty." Harriet Martineau, in Westminster review, 1837.

Appeared in the "Century magazine," v.79–80, Nov. 1909–Oct. 1910.
Brilliant study of the inevitable conflict of genius and domesticity as exemplified in the lives of a coterie of London writers who find both congenial and uncongenial married life a burden to their genius.

Sinclair, May. S616h
The helpmate. Holt.
Appeared in the "Atlantic monthly," v.99–100, Jan.–Sept. 1907.
"At last analysis, Miss Sinclair's new book fines down to the presentation of that ever fresh and insoluble problem, whether the greater harm be done by transgressors who make sin seem tolerable, or by saints who render virtue odious...In view of the fact that in the last two decades so many tendency novels have stormed and cried aloud on the subject of Women's Rights, it is perhaps an interesting sign of the times that so clear and discriminating a voice as Miss Sinclair's should now be heard, quietly and temperately asking a few discreet questions about Husbands' Wrongs!" Nation, 1907.

Happy Hawkins. Small.

A ranch and cowboy novel told by Happy Hawkins himself in undiluted Western language. His story holds the interest in a grip that is at first surprise, then admiration, and at last positive affection. The most dialect-weary reader must own that here the dialect is an indispensable charm. Condensed from Nation, 1909.

Contents: Prologue: The wisdom of love.—A local inquisition.—A soldier of the Lord.—An irregular Christian.—Nathanael.—A domestic difference.—A ruler in Israel.—The power of the child.—Her marriage day.—Righteous overmuch.—Euodias and Syntyche.—A faithful steward.

Stories of a Scottish parish and its minister.

Watts, Mary Stanbery. W336l

The legacy; a story of a woman. Macmillan.

"The legacy is a marked resemblance to a great-grandmother whose career was not edifying. Neither the heroine, who inherits it, nor the reader can be quite sure whether the legacy is moral or merely physical, and the uncertainty, together with the skilful character drawing of commonplace folk in an Ohio town, adds to the interest of a novel whose literary merit is exceptional." A. L. A. booklist, 1911.

Watts, Mary Stanbery. W336n

Nathan Burke. Macmillan.

Historical romance of unusual quality. Nominally it is the autobiography of Gen. Nathan Burke, who won popular fame in the Mexican war and led thereafter an honorable life as member of the Ohio bar, but we are reasonably sure that the Nathan Burke of this chronicle never drew breath outside of it. He belongs to the glorious family of Newcomes, Dombeys, Uncle Tobies, Col. Carters, et al. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Watts, Mary Stanbery. W336t

Weale, B. L. Putnam, (pseud. of Bertram Lenox Simpson). W358f

The forbidden boundary, and other stories. Macmillan.

Other stories: The story of the adventurous Frenchman.—The cult of Sparta.—The fever bed.—A missionary of empire.—The enemy.—Drugs and the man.—Loot.

Short stories, more or less tragic, dealing with the Far East and the interrelations of the white and the yellow races.

"Mr. Weale as an interpreter of Asia is possibly unrivalled...Not alone the Chinese, but Japanese, Asiatic islanders, city crowds, and weird water-people—all are as daily mates to this deeply-versed observer." Nation, 1909.

Weale, B. L. Putnam, (pseud. of Bertram Lenox Simpson). W358h

The human cobweb; a romance of Peking. Dodd.

"This amusing novel narrates the experiences in 1898 of a British civil engineer while attempting to obtain permission to construct railways in China. The scene for the most part is laid in Peking, and much skill is shown in suggesting the atmosphere of intrigue surrounding concession-hunters." Athenæum, 1910.

Weale, B. L. Putnam, (pseud. of Bertram Lenox Simpson). W358u

The unknown God. Dodd.

Story of Protestant missions in modern China. Although the religious and racial conflict forms the paramount interest, a love story strengthens the plot; and the account of the native attack upon the Baptist mission and of the hero's perilous journey into the interior furnishes thrilling reading.

Peters Moors fahrt nach Südwest; ein feldzugsbericht.
The most effective shaft yet directed against the unfortunate campaigns of the Germans in their West African colony. It narrates in simple language the awful experience of a common soldier from North Germany who volunteered for service. While the tale is, of course, more or less fiction, it is fair to assume that the author had access to many documents, such as letters from soldiers to their homes. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Hauptmann, Gerhard. 833 H35n
Der narr in Christo, Emanuel Quint; roman.
Hero is a man whose attitude toward social injustice and individual self-righteousness is supposedly the same as that of Jesus. In his story the author has consciously or unconsciously replied to two questions which have been repeatedly asked in our time: "What would Christ do were he to come into the world to-day?" and "What would the world do to a Christ to-day?" Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Hildegard Mahlmann. Wilbrandt.....833 W69h

Hirschfeld, Georg. 833 H61
Der wirt von Veladuz; roman.
This story powerfully describes the destructive conflict that is carried into a peaceful Swiss village by industrial exploitation. "Der wirt," who tries hard but in vain to defend his native soil against the invasions of irreverent modern enterprise, is a figure of tragical power.

Huldschiner, Richard. 833 H91
Starkenberg; roman.
"Story of mediæval life, full of the brutality and superstitions of a period when the Old World was swept by the scourge of pestilence. Huldschiner handles his material with the poet's imaginative insight and with great dramatic power. Whatever his sources for this story of brotherly feud, of the kidnapping of an innocent girl, and the ravages of the epidemic, he conveys the impression that he has lent a living voice to the old chronicles." A. von Ende.

Audoux, Marguerite. 843 A91

Marie-Claire; roman, préface d'Octave Mirbeau.

Written by a Paris seamstress, hitherto unknown. Tells the story of the author's own youth spent as a child in a convent orphanage, later, as a shepherdess on a lonely farm in Sologne. She recounts with an almost classic purity and simplicity the homely round of her existence which, to her keenly sensitive perceptions, is fraught with charm and significance.

"Picaresque stories, miniature romances, etc., that give striking pictures of all grades of society, but more especially the picaresque classes, in whose adventures Cervantes relates his own experiences in Spain and abroad." Baker's History in fiction.

Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel de. 863 C33s

Los seis libros de la Galatea.

With this are bound his "Viaje al Parnaso" and "Poesías sueltas."

"An unfinished pastoral novel in six books... Prolixity, artifice, ostentation, monotony, extravagance, are inherent in the pastoral school; and the Galatea savours of these defects. Yet, for all its weakness, it lacks neither imagination nor contrivance, and its embroidered rhetoric is a fine example of stately prose." Kelly's History of Spanish literature.

Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel de. 863 C33t

Trabajos de Persíles y Sigismunda.

"His purpose seems to have been to write a serious romance, which should be to this species of composition what the Don Quixote is to comic romance... He calls what he produced 'A Northern Romance,' and makes its principal story consist of the sufferings of Persiles and Sigismunda,—the first the son of a king of Iceland; the second the daughter of a king of Friesland...He has some faint ideas of the sea-kings and pirates of the Northern Ocean, but very little of the geography of the countries that produced them; and as for his savage men and frozen islands, and the wild and strange adventures he imagines to have passed among them, nothing can be more fantastic and incredible." Ticknor's History of Spanish literature.

Historia de Gil Blas de Santillana; traducida por Isla. 2v.

v.2. title reads "Aventuras de Gil Blas de Santillana."

"Lesage was...true to the general spirit of his model, the picaroon romance of Spain, a kind of Roman d'Aventures transported from the days and conventional traditions of chivalry to those of ordinary but still adventurous life in the Peninsula...The piercing observation of human character, which Lesage possessed in a greater degree perhaps than any other French writer, appears, and so does his remarkable power of making the results of this observation live and move." Saintsbury's Short history of French literature.

Mendoza, Diego Hurtado de. 863 M61

La vida de Lazarillo de Tormes y sus fortunas y adversidades; aumentada con la segunda parte, sacada de las crónicas antiguas de Toledo por H. de Luna.

Spanish statesman and man of letters (1503–75).

"The Lazarillo is a work of genius, unlike anything that had preceded it. It is the autobiography of a boy...born in a mill on the banks of the Tórmes...and sent out by his mother as the leader of a blind beggar...Its object is...to give a pungent satire on all classes of society...It is written in a very bold, rich and idiomatic Castilian style...and some of its sketches are among the most fresh and spirited that can be found in the whole class of prose works of fiction." Ticknor's History of Spanish literature.

Ochoa, Juan. 863 O13

Un alma de Dios; novela.

At the time of his death in 1899 the author was considered one of the most promising novelists of Spain.

" 'Un alma de Dios' [is] enchanting in its grace and ease." Athenæum, 1898.

Ochoa, Juan. 863 O13s

Los señores de Hermida; novela; Crítica y cuentos, con un prólogo por Leopoldo Alas y un artículo biográfico por Rafael Altamira.

la boda.—Cosas del tiempo.—El señor de Bergamota (fragmento).—Una promesa de Campoamor.—Campoamor.—Pereda.—Cantares.

"It is characteristic of Ochoa's genius—for it was nothing less—that he should succeed best in depicting personages who are wholly free from any suggestion of eccentricity...This artistic power of interesting us in simple commonplace—almost banal—persons and events is admirably manifested in 'Los Señores de Hermida'...It is...a masterly example of the short story. 'Libertad,' 'La Ultima Mosca' and the 'Historia de un Cojo' are little more than brilliant sketches, wanting in form and finish...The verses at the end of the volume are interesting as metrical exercises and as revelations of a highly impressionable temperament. Of more substantial value are the letters to Campoamor and Pereda, in both of which Ochoa's irony is accompanied by a critical insight hitherto unsuspected in him." Saturday review, 1901.

Pedro Sánchez. Pereda.....863 P426p

Pereda, José María de. 863 P426

Don Gonzalo González de la Gonzalera. (Obras completas, v.3.)

Pereda (1834–1906) was one of the best known of modern Spanish novelists.

"A story in which the author sets forth the grotesque character of an electioneering campaign in Spain." New international encyclopædia.

Pereda, José María de. 863 P426p

Pedro Sánchez [in Spanish]. (Obras completas, v.13.)

Sotileza [in Spanish]. (Obras completas, v.9.)

Story of Spanish fisherfolk, considered one of his best works.

"So thoroughly has he mastered his subject that every fibre, every variety of the sailor's common thread of experience he follows, and touches with scientific certainty. He knows him in all his phases...knows every change in his vivid and picturesque dialect; gives you the man with his savage outbursts, his simple magnanimity, and crude revelations of temperament." Contemporary review, 1896.

Pérez Galdós, Benito. 863 P42a

Angel Guerra [in Spanish]. 3v. (Novelas españolas contemporáneas.)

"His story... is of a man who starts out as a Socialist, concerned in an abortive revolution...and who ends a conservative property-holder...The successive steps of the transformation are traced for us with Galdós's accustomed skill." Nation, 1891.

Pérez Galdós, Benito. 863 P42fo

La fontana de oro; novela historica.

The author's first novel, published in 1870. Deals with the political and social upheaval in Spain during the first part of the 19th century.

El Cid campeador; novela historica original.

Trueba y la Quintana was a novelist and poet (1821–89). The story is founded on the life of the Cid, the popular national hero of Spain, who lived in the 11th century.

Trueba y la Quintana, Antonio de. 863 T77c

Cuentos campesinos. (Obras, v.5.)

Contents: Las siembras y las cosechas.—La felicidad doméstica.—El más listo que Cardona.—Lo que es poesía.—Recuerdos de un muerto.—Los borrachos.—Lozoya.—El estilo es el hombre.—Los tomillareses.—La novia de piedra.—La capciosidad.

Short stories of life in the Basque region.

Valdés, Armando Palacio. 863 V14a

La aldea perdida; novela-poema de costumbres campesinas.

Depicts peasant life in Asturias.

"[Valdés] has abundant cleverness, a sure hand in construction, a distinct power of character-drawing, which have won him more consideration out of Spain than in it, and he has a fair claim to rank as the chief of the modern naturalistic school." Kelly's History of Spanish literature.

Valdés, Armando Palacio. 863 V14r

Riverita [in Spanish]. (Obras completas, v.5.)

"In Riverita we have a most captivating picture of boy life, stamped with truth on every page." Atlantic monthly, 1900.

Valera, Juan. 863 V15c

El comendador Mendoza. (Obras completas, v.7.)

Valera (1824–1905) was among the best known Spanish novelists of his day.

"Vigorous romance, very tragic and moving, with a heroine as captivating as Pepita Jiménez. Idealistic and full of criticism." Baker's Descriptive guide to the best fiction.

Valera, Juan. 863 V15i

Las ilusiones del Doctor Faustino. 2v. in 1. (Obras completas, v.5–6.)

Story of a modern Faust.

"Las Ilusiones del Doctor Faustino has found less favour with critics and with general readers, perhaps because its humour is too refined, its observation too merciless, its style too subtle." Kelly's History of Spanish literature.

Explanation

This list is Part 7 of the third series of the Classified Catalogue of books in the Library. It includes titles added from January 1, 1907 up to, but not including, January 1912 and supplements the first and second series of the Classified Catalogue, which include titles of books acquired from the foundation of the Library in 1895 to January 1, 1907.

Following the general plan pursued in the distribution of the first and second series of the catalogue, sections will be issued in pamphlet form as they are printed. When all parts are completed, an index of authors and subjects will be added, so that the sections may be bound into volumes.

The following list includes all books in the classes History and Travel, arranged according to divisions of the Decimal classification, except that the books of travel relating to a country will be found immediately following the histories of that country. Later editions of books which have already appeared in the first and second series of the catalogue are included in this part, as well as circulating copies of those books which have previously been in the reference collection only. Bibliographies which appeared in Part 1 under "General works" are repeated in this part under the special subjects which they cover. Parts of books treating of these classes are not included. Such entries will be found in the card catalogue at the Central Library, which should be consulted by any one desiring to see the entire resources of the Library on any given subject. The form of entry is that of the author card of the dictionary card catalogue, the same linotype composition being used from which the cards and the Monthly Bulletin have already been printed. Volumes added in order to complete sets of books, parts of which were listed in the former catalogues, are entered here, with references to those catalogues.

The symbol at the right-hand side of the page, opposite each title, is the number to be used in calling for the book, and should be copied exactly. If the work is in more than one volume, the volume wanted should be specified. Call numbers preceded by the letter "r" designate books in the reference collection, which cannot be taken from the Library. These books, as well as all others in the Library, may be consulted freely in the Reference room. The letter "j" prefixed to a call number indicates that the book is provided especially for the use of children.

v.1. The origins.

v.2. The origins (continued).—The rise of a new world.

This work, written in German by an Englishman and first published in 1899, has had brilliant success and wide reading in Germany. Its purpose is to set forth and fully to discuss the main elements which have gone to the making of the civilization of the 19th century; to analyze the legacy of the past which still lives actively in the present.

"This remarkable book is the best instance we have lately met with of history written to prove a thesis...Roughly it is that the Teutons—by which he means all Northmen, Celts, Saxons, Germans, and Slavs alike—deserve the first place among the peoples who have moulded the world's history...It is a monument of erudition, and the skilful handling of erudition; and even those who differ from it most widely will find it in a high degree stimulating and suggestive." Spectator, 1911.

Die grundlagen des 19. jahrhunderts. 2v. [1906.]

Dewe, Juhl Adalbert. 901 D51

Psychology of politics and history. 1910. Longmans.

"Inquiry into the principles of social development and decay along the lines of the nature of man himself. The author is convinced that the attempts to explain the rise and fall of nations on the basis of climate or of geographical conditions, or of economic opportunities, leave out the most important factor in the problem—the psychology of individuals and communities." Catholic world, 1910.

Draper, John William. 901 D79t

Thoughts on the future civil policy of America. 1871. Harper.

Considers the influence of climate and effects of emigration on nations in general and America in particular. Author gives his view of the course of national development, which, he believes, will tend to the concentration of power.

Ducoudray, Gustave. 901 D86

Historya cywilizacyi powszechnej; przekład z francuskiego. 4v. in 2. 1896.

Flint, Robert. 901 F64

Philosophy of history in France and Germany. 1874. Blackwood. (Philosophy of history in Europe, v.1.)

The author was professor of moral philosophy and political economy at the University of St. Andrews and later professor of divinity at the University of Edinburgh.

"A book of conspicuous ability. It is a very able and critical account of the principal efforts that have been made in France and Germany to comprehend and explain the history of mankind. It also attempts to give a philosophical estimate of the success of these efforts...In general, the author is very critical, if not severe, in his judgments. It is only occasionally, as, for example, when describing the works of Michelet and Quinet, that he approaches anything like enthusiasm." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Americanization of the world; or, The trend of the 20th century. 1902. Markley.

Contents: The United States and the British empire.—The rest of the world.—How America Americanizes.—The summing-up.

The author sees much that is encouraging in the spread of American ideals and points hopefully to what he believes will be one of the good results of "Americanization" —the forming of a closer union between the Anglo-Saxon races.

Volney, Constantin François de Chassebœuf, comte de. 901 V37r

The ruins; or, Meditation on the revolutions of empires, and The law of nature, to which is added Volney's answer to Dr Priestly, a biographical notice by Count Daru and the zodiacal signs and constellations by the editor. 1890. Eckler.

Famous contribution to the anti-Christian philosophy of the French revolution, first published in 1791. The fundamental idea is that all the ills of men come from their having abandoned the religion of nature. Author (1757–1820) was a philosophical writer and politician, a Republican member of the Constituent Assembly.

v.6–7 are supplementary volumes of recent history, continuing the work to 1910. "Selected bibliography with occasional notes," v.5, p.3889–3913.

This is a work of reference for history only, although if a man has been a prominent historical personage his record as such is given. The arrangement is very simple and it has such a complete system of cross references that one may at once find information about any particular event, party, office, etc., by turning directly to the heading under which it would appear if it stood under its own title in a cyclopedia. It is made up of extracts from some of the best historical authorities, and gives references to many others for fuller treatment of a subject.

907 Study and teaching of history

Adams, Henry, b. 1838. 907 A21

Letter to American teachers of history. 1910.

Asserts for history, biology, sociology and psychology, which study the "vital energies," independence from the laws and formulas of physics and mechanics.

Allen, John W. 907 A42

Place of history in education. 1909. Blackwood.

Logical and attractive presentation of the scientific conception of history and of its value in any system of education. Among the best things in the book are three hypothetical accounts of the English reformation, embodying in purposely exaggerated form, the Protestant, the Catholic and the purely secular views, all of them, as the author points out, both unscientific and dangerous.

Historical evidence. 1909. Clarendon Press.

Contents: What is evidence?—Sources of historical information.—Historical narratives.—Defects of historical writers.—Documents not narrative.—Indirect sources of information.—Probability.—Special sources of error.—Historical generalizations.

"Not only supplies an adequate statement of the leading principles governing the treatment of evidence, but it is presented with so much sanity and good judgment as to commend itself heartily to any one concerned with the writing of history... As a clear, well-balanced statement of the scope and limitations of criticism as applied to historical evidence, it has no superior; in its moderation and freedom from exaggerated pretensions, it will serve as a corrective of some modern notions regarding the attainment of scientific certainty in historical knowledge." Nation, 1909.

Keatinge, Maurice Walter. 907 K15

Studies in the teaching of history. 1910. Black.

Contents: The problems of method and of value.—Scientific method in history and the problems of the school.—Contemporary documents as a basis of method.—Contemporary documents as atmosphere.—Method and moral training.—On concrete illustration.—The organisation of history teaching.—History and the examination system.—History and poetry.—Some problems and devices of class-room practice.—The teacher of history.

Not only does Mr Keatinge's work mark a distinct advance over all of its predecessors in the same field, but it is in effect the first genuine contribution made in England to the subject of historical method worthy to be ranked with Bernheim, Langlois and Seignobos and Altamira. Mr Keatinge confines himself to an examination of the specific difficulties attending the teaching of history in the pre-university period. He discusses these from the standpoint of the student of psychology, of ethics, of philosophy, and of history, as well as from that of the practical teacher of history. Condensed from American historical review, 1910.

Commercial geography

Adams, Cyrus Cornelius. 910 A21a
Text-book of commercial geography. 1911. Appleton. (Twentieth century text-books.)
Beginning with a consideration of the geographic conditions which control commerce, such as climate, soil, ocean currents, winds, coast formation, water-courses, etc., the book passes on to means of transportation and then, in detail, to the resources of United States, including its island possessions, and the other principal countries of the world. Full, for a text-book, and well illustrated.

Chisholm, George Goudie. 910 C44a
Handbook of commercial geography. 1911. Longmans.
Considers climate, soil, labor, communication, commodities and their production. Discusses also the natural resources, condition and prospects of the countries of the world. Many valuable maps.

Gregory, Herbert Ernest, and others. 910 G86
Physical and commercial geography; a study of certain controlling conditions of commerce. 1910. Ginn.
Contents: The natural environment.—Relation of man to natural conditions.—Geography of trade: The United States.—The British empire.—The German empire.

Robinson, Edward Van Dyke. 910 R54
Commercial geography. 1910. Rand.
"Selected bibliography," apx. p.20–32.
"The purpose of commercial geography, the author asserts, is to explain, in terms of all the factors involved, the geographic division of labor... The book bears evidence of having been designed primarily for high school, rather than for college, use...and in many respects the work, as a whole, is a distinct advance over previous elementary works in commercial geography." Nation, 1911.

Ocean voyages

Amicis, Edmondo de. 910.4 A51s

Sull' oceano. 1905.

Burney, James. 910.4 B93

History of the buccaneers of America. 1891. Macmillan.

Reprinted from the edition of 1816.

The author (1750–1821), an officer in the British navy, sailed with Captain Cook on his second and third voyages. His account is limited almost entirely to the expeditions of the buccaneers in the West Indies during the 17th century.

"Detailed account, prepared with considerable care from sources of information, a large proportion of which existed only in contemporary gossip and which have since disappeared." Larned's Literature of American history.

Conrad, Joseph. 910.4 C75

Mirror of the sea. 1906. Harper.

Contents: Landfalls and departures.—Emblems of hope.—The fine art.—Cobwebs and gossamer.—The weight of the burden.—Overdue and missing.—The grip of the land.—The character of the foe.—Rulers of east and west.—The faithful river.—In captivity.—Initiation.—The nursery of the craft.—The "Tremolino."—The heroic age.

"On the surface this book is very much like A. H. Bullen's 'Idyls of the 'sea' [910.4 B87i], a series of impressions and memories which are the fruit of a real and long sea experience... Long exercise of their stern trade has not drained them of their enthusiasm for it, or failed to qualify them for the expression of that enthusiasm. Mr. Bullen, to be sure, is concerned with the fascination of the sea itself and its inhabitants, while Mr. Conrad is absorbed in the ships that go upon the waters." Nation, 1906.

Purchas, Samuel. r910.8 P98

Hakluytus posthumus; or, Purchas, his pilgrimes; contayning a history of the world in sea voyages and lande travells by Englishmen and others. 20v. 1905–07. MacLehose.

"The intrinsic value of the book is due rather to its having preserved some record of early voyages otherwise unknown, than to the literary skill or ability of the author... A comparison of what he has printed with such originals as remain shows that he was very far indeed from a faithful editor or a judicious compiler, and that he took little pains to arrive at an accurate knowledge of facts. He inherited many of the manuscripts of Richard Hakluyt, but the use he made of them was widely different from Hakluyt's." Dictionary of national biography.

History of the ancient Egyptians. 1908. Scribner. (Historical series for Bible students.)

"A selected bibliography," p.444–454.

To some extent an abridgment of his larger history, but contains also the results of discoveries made in the interval. Though intended ostensibly for Bible students, its authoritativeness and readable style recommend it to a wider circle.

New light on ancient Egypt; tr. from the French by Elizabeth Lee. 1909. Appleton.
Essays on recent researches in Egyptology, for the general reader.
"About the value of the book for the fuller appreciation and comprehension of many phases of Egyptian archaeology, history, art, literature, religion, and magic, there cannot be two opinions. If there is a more capable or versatile writer on these subjects it would be hard to name him." Nation, 1909.

Antiquities

Bliss, Frederick Jones. 913.33 B55

Development of Palestine exploration; being the Ely lectures for 1903. 1906. Scribner.

Contents: The dawn of exploration.—The age of pilgrimage.—The crusaders and after.—From Fabri to Robinson.—Edward Robinson.—Renan and his contemporaries.—The Palestine Exploration Fund.—The exploration of the future.

Author has spent much of his life in Palestine and its immediate vicinity and was for ten years in the employ of the Palestine Exploration Fund. The book is a partial bibliography of exploration in Palestine, with more or less extended comment.

Merrill, Selah. q913.33 M63a

Ancient Jerusalem. 1908. Revell.

"The gist of Dr. Merrill's thesis is that, contrary to the generally accepted view of the present day...the original city of Jerusalem lay not on the eastern, or Temple hill, but northward of the present Zion, or westerly hill, in the neighborhood of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre." Nation, 1908.

Warren, Sir Charles. 913.33 W24

Underground Jerusalem; an account of some of the principal difficulties encountered in its exploration and the results obtained, with a narrative of an expedition through the Jordan valley and a visit to the Samaritans. 1876. Bentley.

The attraction of the volume lies rather in the narrative of personal adventures than in archæological discoveries. A valuable feature is the statistical account of the resources of Palestine, as well as the description of the various classes of the population and their distribution among the different trades.

Wilson, Sir Charles William. 913.33 W76

Golgotha and the holy sepulchre; ed. by Sir C. M. Watson. 1906. Palestine Exploration Fund.

"List of authors and authorities referred to," p.149–155.

Sir Charles Wilson was an authority on the ancient topography of Jerusalem. The book contains a large amount of information which he collected on the question of the validity of the traditional sites of Calvary and the holy sepulchre. Plans and illustrations.

Wilson, Sir Charles William, and others. 913.33 W76r

Recovery of Jerusalem; a narrative of exploration and discovery in the city and the Holy Land, with an introduction by A. P. Stanley; ed. by Walter Morrison. 1871. Bentley.

History

Fraser, James Baillie. 935 F88

Mesopotamia and Assyria from the earliest ages to the present time, with illustrations of their natural history. 1842. Harper.

The author was an indefatigable traveler, visiting India, Persia, Turkey and other countries in the early part of the 19th century, when comparatively little was known of them. His works for that reason had a value then which cannot be claimed for them to-day.

"Excellent reproductions of some of the more interesting finds in ancient Babylonia and Assyria may be found... The text, however, displays a vicious tendency to minimize the changes of opinion in the field of Hebrew history and religion made necessary by recent discoveries, and to gloss over the similarities and magnify the differences between Babylonian conceptions and those of the Biblical narrative." Nation, 1907.

Rome

History

Arnold, William Thomas. 937 A76

Studies of Roman imperialism; ed. by Edward Fiddes, with memoir of the author by Mrs Humphry Ward and C. E. Montague. 1906. Manchester University Press.

"Bibliographical note," p.245–248.

The seven historical essays in this volume were intended to be part of a history of the early Roman empire which the author did not live to complete.

"They deal with a part of the work of Augustus, and in form are neither systematic nor wholly chronological... Four of the chapters treat of the constitutional aspect of the Principate and of domestic policy; these are very readable, and contain some excellent criticism... The remaining chapters throw a bright light on some corners of the empire, but, in spite of some brilliant patches of local colour, do not give a finished picture." English historical review, 1907.

Champney, Mrs Elizabeth (Williams). 937 C35

Romance of imperial Rome. 1910. Putnam.

Contents: Sulpicia.—The song of the sirens.—The loves of Horace.—The villa of unhappy love.—The nameless pedestal.—A dog of Britain.—The necklace of Vesta.—The flight of Apollo.

Combination of history and invention in which some of the heroines of imperial Rome appear, romantically dressed and glorified.

Davis, William Stearns. 937 D32

Outline history of the Roman empire (44 B. C. to 378 A. D.). 1909. Macmillan.

Brief, clear and readable little book written to meet the needs of students of the middle ages who are not familiar with the conditions and institutions which had so large a share in determining the character of European civilization.

Dion Cassius Cocceianus. 937 D62

Dio's Rome; an historical narrative originally composed in Greek during the reigns of Septimius Severus, Geta and Caracalla, Macrinus, Elagabalus and Alexander Severus, and now presented in English form by H. B. Foster. 6v. 1905–06. Pafraets Book Co.

"A list of the more recent dissertations on Cassius Dio," v.1, p.45–47.

"A list of the principal articles on Cassius Dio found in periodicals for twenty years preceding the date of the present translation (1884–1904)," v.1, p.51–60.

"The diligence of Dion as an historian is undoubted, and the various important offices which he held under the emperors gave him valuable opportunities for historical investigation. Although more philosophical than the compilations of the mere annalist, his work is not remarkable for vigour of judgment or critical acumen. His style is far clearer than that of Thucydides, whom he took as his model." Encyclopædia Britannica.

Ferguson, Adam. 1937 F38

History of the progress and termination of the Roman republic. 1825. Jones.

The author (1723–1816) was at one time chaplain in a Highland regiment.

"His military experience gives some value to parts of his narrative. Thomas Carlyle in his rectorial address to the Edinburgh students spoke of Ferguson as 'particularly well worth reading on Roman history.'" Dictionary of national biography.

Ferrero, Guglielmo. 937 F41c

Characters and events of Roman history from Cæsar to Nero; tr. by F. L. Ferrero; the Lowell lectures of 1908. 1909. Putnam.

Contents: "Corruption" in ancient Rome and its counterpart in modern history.—The history and legend of Antony and Cleopatra.—The development of Gaul.—Nero.—Julia and Tiberius.—Wine in Roman history.—Social development of the Roman empire.—Roman history in modern education.

The characters are studied as the embodiment of great national tendencies of their age, rather than as isolated personalities. The phases of Roman life and history are seen as episodes in larger movements, and are considered from economic and social standpoints.

"List of books referred to in the text," v.2, p.353–358.

Author is an Italian, well known for his work in anthropology, sociology, psychology and economics. His main thesis in this history is "that the Roman world-conquest...was in reality the effect of an internal transformation which is continually being re-enacted in the history of societies on a larger or a smaller scale, promoted by the same causes and with the same resultant confusion and suffering—the growth of a nationalist and industrial democracy on the ruins of agricultural aristocracies." Remarkable for the breadth, acuteness and originality of its treatment, for its emphasis on social and economic conditions, for the freshness and vividness of its personal characterizations, and for its essentially dramatic style.

Formby, Henry. qr937 F77

Ancient Rome and its connection with the Christian religion; an outline of the history of the city from its first foundation by Romulus (B. C. 753) down to the erection of the chair of St. Peter in the Ostrian cemetery (A. D. 42–47). 1880. Paul.

Jones, Henry Stuart. 937 J41

Roman empire, B. C. 29–A. D. 476. 1908. Putnam. (Story of the nations.)

A long story told very briefly by one who has the gift to compress and not to abridge. Putting down the book, the reader can carry in his mind the whole marvelous story—looking back on it as a whole. But it is not a book for those who come to the matter with blank minds or with a very little knowledge. Condensed from Saturday review, 1908.

Michelet, Jules. 937 M66

History of the Roman republic; tr. by William Hazlitt. 1847. Bogue.

"A little volume of conspicuous merits and of somewhat serious defects. On every page it shows the genius of the author in the skill and acumen with which it interprets the events it describes. Its most striking characteristics are its brilliancy and its ingenuity. The defects...are the obscurity of many of the author's rhetorical figures, and a lack of thorough information on some important points of Roman history." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Mommsen, Theodor. 937 M81h1

History of Rome [to 29 B. C.]; tr. by W. P. Dickson. 5v. 1908. Scribner.

Pollio, Caius Asinius. 937 P76b

Der bericht über die spanischen unruhen des jahres 48 v. Chr. (Bellum Alexandrinum 48–64); auf grund des codex Asburnhamensis neu hrsg. von Gustav Landgraf. 1889.

Pollio (76 B. C.–4 A. D.) was a Roman orator, poet and historian. Only fragments of his work exist and it is a matter of doubt whether he wrote any portion of the "Bellum Alexandrinum." He is known, however, to have been governor of Further Spain in B. C. 45 and therefore would have been likely to be acquainted with the events of the years directly preceding.

Pollio, Caius Asinius. 937 P76

De bello Africo commentarius; recensuerunt, emendaverunt, adnotatione illustraverunt Eduardus Wölfflin et Adamus Miodoński. 1889.

The view held by the editors that Pollio was the author of the "Bellum Africum" has been contested, its opponents asserting that Pollio did not go through the entire war as the writer of the narrative must have done.

Historical guide to the monuments of ancient Rome.

Lanciani, Rodolfo. 913.37 L21w

Wanderings in the Roman Campagna. 1909. Houghton.

Contents: The land of Saturn.—The land of Horace.—The land of Hadrian.—The land of Gregory the Great.—The land of Cicero.—The land of Pliny the younger, and the land of Nero.—Appendix: The praises of a country life, by Horace; tr. by J. M. Moore.

The author's plan is to traverse the Roman Campagna in the company of this or that famous personage, and to reconstruct the life of the time, for example, of Cicero at his villa in Tusculum, or Horace on the Sabine farm. Thus, in pleasantly untechnical language, he brings archæology within the scope of the general reader.

Lindsay, Alexander William Crawford, lord. 913.37 L72

Etruscan inscriptions analysed, translated and commented upon. 1872. Murray.

The object of the book is not so much to give an accurate interpretation of the inscriptions as to show that the language employed in them was an ancient form of German and to prove that the Etruscans were a branch of the Teutonic race.

Macmillan, Hugh. 913.37 M21

Contains numerous bibliographies.

Aim of the work, to which there are 25 contributors, is to supply such information, apart from that contained in histories and grammars, as would be most useful to the student of Latin literature.

Taylor, Isaac. 913.37 T25

Etruscan researches. 1874. Macmillan.

Argument to prove the Turanian origin of the Etruscans. Based on a consideration of their physical peculiarities, civil and religious polity, mythology, laws of inheritance, marriage and sepulchral customs and monumental remains.

Tucker, Thomas George. 913.37 T81

Life in the Roman world of Nero and St. Paul. 1910. Macmillan.

Learned and competent book put in clear and vigorous style. Tells us valuable things about water-supply, furniture, and the like, in addition to the clean and able survey of the political condition of imperial Rome. A list of references would add value to the book. Illustrated. Adapted from Athenæum, 1911.

Waldstein, Charles, & Shoobridge, L. K. H. qr913.37 W16

Herculaneum, past, present and future. 1908. Macmillan.

"Bibliography of Herculaneum," p.306–318.

Consists of three parts. In the first there is a careful account of previous excavations at Herculaneum, and the works of art that were found in them. The next is a kind of treatise on excavation, and the third consists of correspondence between Prof. Waldstein and various eminent personages in regard to a scheme for international excavation. Throughout the book the object of the authors is always apparent—to urge the excavation of the site, if not by an international commission, then at least by the Italian authorities. Condensed from Athenæum, 1909.

Source book of Greek history. 1909. Heath.

"Bibliography," p.339–349.

Goldsmith, Oliver. 938 G58

Grecian history from the earliest state to the death of Alexander the Great; to which is added a summary account of the affairs of Greece from that period to the sacking of Constantinople by the Othomans. 2v. 1785. Rivington.

Goldsmith's histories were written as hackwork and are merely compilations from well-known writers, but he understood the art of selection and condensation and the charm of his style makes them readable.

Grote, George. 938 G94h

History of Greece from the time of Solon to 403 B. C.; condensed and ed. with notes and appendices by J. M. Mitchell and M. O. B. Caspari. 1907. Routledge.

Bibliography, p.23–25.

It has been condensed by leaving out the mythical and early historical portions and all that follows the fall of Athens.

Grundy, George Beardoe. 938 G947

Thucydides and the history of his age. 1911. Murray.

"This book is preliminary to a historical edition of Thucydides."

Contains maps.

"The three subjects he brings before us are the life and work of Thucydides as a writer and thinker; the economic causes of the great war which Thucydides has inadequately described, owing to his want of appreciation of those causes; and lastly, the art of fighting as practised by the Greeks of that age, and its consequent effect on the questions of war and peace." Athenæum, 1911.

Smaller history of Greece [to 146 B. C.]; revised, enlarged and in part rewritten by C. L. Brownson, with an introduction on ancient oriental nations. 1902. Amer. Book Co.

"First published in 1854, this is still one of the best summaries in our language of the ancient history of Greece for the use of schools and colleges. It follows Grote as an authority, many of its parts being chiefly an abridgment of that distinguished historian." Adams's Manual of historical literature, 1888.

Crete

Antiquities

American Exploration Society, Philadelphia. qr913.39 A51

Gournia, Vasiliki and other prehistoric sites on the Isthmus of Hierapetra, Crete; excavations of the Wells-Houston-Cramp expeditions, 1901, 1903, 1904, by H. B. Hawes, and others. 1908.

Baikie, James. 913.39 B15

Sea-kings of Crete. 1910. Black.

"Bibliography," p.262–263.

"The author writes with keen but tempered enthusiasm of the 'finds' at Cnossus, Phæstus, and Hagia Triada, and what they seem to show... The relations of Crete with Greece, the Cyclades, and Egypt are discussed and illustrated by parallelisms in pottery, sculpture, and metal-working; and about thirty excellent half-tone plates show the principal architectural and artistic results of the various excavations. The book is...as readable as any romance." Dial, 1911.

Burrows, Ronald Montagu. 913.39 B94

The discoveries in Crete and their bearing on the history of ancient civilisation. 1908. Murray.

"Bibliography," p.231–236.

"Author is (1908) professor of Greek in University College, Cardiff. Petrie, William Matthew Flinders. q913.39 P46

Researches in Sinai, with chapters by C. T. Currelly. 1906. Murray.

Result of four months' investigation made by the well-known English Egyptologist of the ancient mines at Magháreh and Serabit and of the ruins of the temple at the latter place. He touches briefly upon the story of the exodus, agreeing in the main with the traditional view that the children of Israel traveled over that part of the peninsula, but advancing an original theory in regard to their numbers. Illustrated by photographs of rock-cut inscriptions and of desert scenery.

Trumbull, Henry Clay. 913.39 T77

Kadesh-Barnea; its importance and probable site, including studies of the route of the exodus and the southern boundary of the Holy Land. 1884. Hodder.

"List of authorities cited," p.435–445.

Discussion of the location of the biblical city of Kadesh, the site of which has been the subject of such earnest debate among scholars. The author supports by his testimony and research Rowlands's identification of its site with 'Ayn Quadees, or Ain Kadis.

Age of chivalry. Crusades

Coulton, George Gordon, comp. r940.4 C83

Medieval garner; human documents from the four centuries preceding the reformation; selected, translated and annotated by G. G. Coulton. 1910. Constable.

Records and tales and diverse documents touching at all points the common life, and especially the religious life, of Europe during these centuries. Most of the extracts are here translated for the first time.

Froissart, Jean. j940.4 F96c

Chronicles of Sir John Froissart; condensed for young readers by Adam Singleton. 1900. Appleton.

A book about the wars and adventures of the age of chivalry, when King Edward III and his son, the Black Prince, were fighting the Scots and the French. It tells among other stories of the famous victories at Crécy and Poitiers, of the battle of the young Lord Douglas with Lord Percy at Chevy Chase and of a crusade against the Saracens at Tunis. Many illustrations from old prints and manuscripts.

Useful and readable summary, intended mainly for young students. Omits the British Isles. Chapters on Germany, Italy and France are especially full and clear. Maps.

Michaud, Joseph François. qr940.4 M66

History of the crusades; illustrated by Gustave Doré. 2v. [1896.] Barrie.

"Although stress is laid on the part played by France in the crusades, the history is told with fairness. The first is the most interesting volume." Leypoldt & Iles's Books for girls and women.

Mills, Charles. r940.4 M69

History of the crusades for the recovery and possession of the Holy Land. 2v. 1820. Longman.

"A work at one time highly esteemed, but, in reality, one that is, in almost every respect, inferior to those of Michaud, Sybel, Cox, and Gibbon. The only quality of the book worthy of note is the fact that the author dwells quite largely upon what may be called the picturesque side of the Crusades. The spirit of the movement is successfully caught, but it is questionable whether the author has not magnified the sentimental side of the subject." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Walsh, James Joseph. 940.4 W18

Thirteenth, greatest of centuries. 1907. Catholic Summer School Press, N. Y.

Eulogy of the men who lived and the works that were achieved in the 13th century. All the great issues, forces and institutions of the century are reviewed,—the rise of the universities, the steps taken toward popular education, the development of letters, hospitals, famous women, Marco Polo and the story of geographical exploration, law and the beginnings of modern commerce.

Modern Europe

Fisher, Herbert Albert Laurens. 940.5 F53

Republican tradition in Europe. [1911.] Methuen.

"Notes," p.287–296.

A brilliant, if not profound, book which traces the course of republican thought and action from the downfall of the Roman empire to the foundation of the republic of Portugal. It passes in review the mediæval theory of government, the Italian city-states, the rise of the Dutch republic, and the Cromwellian commonwealth, and gives largest attention to the French revolution. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

History of the 18th century and of the 19th till the overthrow of the French empire, with particular reference to mental cultivation and progress; tr. with a preface and notes by D. Davison. 8v. 1843–52. Chapman.

"At the time of their first publication in Germany these volumes met with a success that has seldom been surpassed by any historical production of similar magnitude...In some respects the book is quite worthy of its fame. From beginning to end, the author endeavors to excite a spirit of national independence in his countrymen, to wean them from their unreasoning imitation of other nations...A work written for such a purpose could not fail to lose a portion of its importance with the passage of years. But, in spite of this fact, whoever makes use of the book at the present time will be struck with the originality of the thought, the extent of the research, and the suggestiveness of the mode of expression." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Napoleonic period

Jaucourt, Arnail François, marquis de. 940.8 J21

Correspondance avec le prince de Talleyrand pendant le Congrès de Vienne; publiée par son petit-fils, avec notice biographique. 1905.

Jaucourt held the portfolio of foreign affairs during the absence of Talleyrand at the Congress of Vienna and the letters may be termed semi-official. They certainly throw valuable light on events at Paris, while those of Talleyrand give additional information on certain aspects of European affairs. Condensed from English historical review, 1907.

Guizot, François Pierre Guillaume. 940.9 G96

Embassy to the court of St. James in 1840. 1863. Bentley.

During the oriental crisis of 1840, which arose from the ambitions of Mehemet Ali of Egypt and occasioned the famous treaty by which England, Russia, Austria and Prussia bound themselves to eject him from the Turkish province of Syria, Guizot was sent as French ambassador to England. The account of his embassy is valuable as a frank political history and as a review of English society made by an intelligent foreigner.

914 Description and travel

Belloc, Hilaire. 914 B417h

Hills and the sea. [1906.] Methuen.

Short essays, recording the author's impressions as he traveled through Europe, either on foot or by boat, seeking for the most part the out-of-the-way places.

"The men whom the author meets on his travels are vague figures, and their talk is too often the simplest echo of his own opinions, but his observation of landscape and nature is fine and true, and when he presents the spirit of a place, the dreariness of a mountain waste, the atmosphere of an old inn, the temperament of a town, his prose is remarkable and of a kind in English literature at least, but rarely found." Saturday review, 1906.

Bellows, Henry Whitney. 914 B418

Bierbaum, Otto Julius. 914 B47y

Die Yankeedoodle-fahrt und andere reisegeschichten; neue beiträge zur kunst des reisens. 1910.

Contents: Von Fiesole nach Pasing.—Blätter aus Fiesole.—Yankeedoodle-fahrt.—Eine kleine herbstreise im automobil.—Kleine reise.

These contributions to the art of traveling, as the author calls them, are limited to southern Germany, Italy and the Orient, and Yankeedoodle is the name of a Mediterranean steamer. No one familiar with Bierbaum's manner would expect from him a systematic record of any trip. He always indulges in unpremeditated excursions, he has always some surprise in store for us—a habit which in his books of travel constitutes half their charm. He has an abundance of amusing anecdote, charming bits of description, and brilliant flashes of wit. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Moryson (1566–1617?) was an English traveler. He spent the greater part of the years 1591 to 1597 wandering about Europe.

"The first part supplies a journal of his travels through Europe, Scotland, and Ireland, with plans of the chief cities...The second part is a history of Tyrone's rebellion...The third part consists of essays on the advantages of travel, on the geography of various countries of Europe, and on their differences in national costume, character, religion, and constitutional practice...Moryson is a sober and truthful writer, without imagination or much literary skill...His descriptions of the inns in which he lodged, of the costume and the food of the countries visited, render his work invaluable to the social historian." Dictionary of national biography.

History

Balfour, Sir James. 941 B19

Historical works; published from the original manuscripts preserved in the Library of the Faculty of Advocates. 4v. 1824. [Aitchison.]

Balfour (1600–57) was a Scottish historian and Lyon king-of-arms. The "Annals" are not of much value except in that part which is contemporary, and even in that they are jejune, preserving, however, some interesting particulars, chiefly in relation to the ceremonies in which he took part as Lyon king. Condensed from Dictionary of national biography.

Although the first and second volumes comprise the whole of the work called "Annales of Scotland," the same running title is used in volumes 3 and 4, which are made up of fragments of history subsequent to the conclusion of that treatise.

Brown, Peter Hume. 941 B79

History of Scotland. v.3. 1909. Cambridge University Press. (Cambridge historical series.)

v.3. From the revolution of 1689 to the disruption, 1843.

Cowan, Samuel. 941 C84

The ancient capital of Scotland; the story of Perth from the invasion of Agricola to the passing of the reform bill. 2v. 1904. Simpkin.

"Authorities consulted," v.1, p.12.

"Special periods and events in its local history have received attention, but to Mr. Cowan belongs the distinction of first telling the story in full...[He] has been able to avail himself of much unprinted material in illustration of the civic and ecclesiastical history of the place...The municipal records are rendered available for the first time in these volumes." Athenæum, 1904.

Dixon, Benjamin Homer. r941 D64

The Border or riding clans, followed by a history of the clan Dickson and a brief account of the family of the author. 1889. Munsell.

Some account of the part played by these clans in the early history of Scotland.

Ferguson, John, D. D. q941 F38

Linlithgow palace; its history and traditions, with peeps from its windows at the burgh and surrounding district. 1910. Oliver.

Author's careful and exhaustive study of Scottish history and antiquities has enabled him to produce a book of real interest about this ruined palace which was closely identified with the fortunes of the Stuarts.

Lang, Andrew. 941 L23

History of Scotland from the Roman occupation [to 1746]. v.4. 1907. Dodd.

v.4. From 1689 to 1746.

"Mr. Lang is a literary man of high...reputation...No man might have been deemed more likely to write history in a romantic spirit...But the tendencies of our time have been too much for him. His labor has been given to the collation of authorities and the ascertainment of facts. He marshals and examines the divergent or contradictory statements of contemporary writers; he engages in arguments with other recent historians...he takes little or no thought about style, but simply jots down the facts in a succession of short sentences...The modern passion for scrutinizing all the sources and presenting their results in the most plain and summary fashion has seized and carried away this accomplished man of letters." Nation, 1905.

For v.1–3 see preceding catalogue, first series.

Lang, Andrew. 941 L23j

James VI and the Gowrie mystery. 1902. Longmans.

An attempt to unravel one of the mysteries of Scottish history, the slaying of John Ruthven, third earl of Gowrie, and his brother Alexander. Was the tragedy due to an accidental quarrel or was it the result of a deliberate plot? If it was a plot, was it devised by the king and his followers against the Ruthvens, or by the earl and his brother against the king? Much ingenuity has been expended in support of these contradictory theories. Mr. Lang argues that there was a plot, that it was against the king and that the earl and his brother were both in it. Condensed from Athenæum, 1902.

Lang, Jean. 941 L239

Land of romance; the Border, its history and legend, with plates in photogravure from paintings by Tom Scott. [1910.] Jack.

Contents: The Romans on the Border.—The coming of Arthur.—The saints on the Border.—Border wizards.—The monks.—The War of independence.—The reivers.—Mary, queen of Scots.—Border feuds.—Border battles.—The Covenanters.—Prince Charlie on the Border.—Sir Walter's day.

Mackenzie, W. C. 941 M182

Short history of the Scottish highlands and isles. 1906. Gardner.

Traces the social, economic, religious and political development of the people of the Highlands from the earliest time to the present.

M'Kerlie, Peter Handyside. 941 M1822

Galloway in ancient and modern times. 1891. Blackwood.

Digressive history of the place from the earliest times to the reformation. Author is chiefly interested in antiquarian and ethnological subjects. Concludes with a description of modern Galloway.

Marshall, Henrietta Elizabeth. j941 M41

Scotland's story; a child's history of Scotland, with pictures by J. R. Skelton, John Hassall and J. S. Crompton. [1907.] Stokes.

Legendary and true history of Scotland. There is the story of Macbeth, of Robert the Bruce, of the poet king and the beautiful lady of the garden, of the "Glen of weeping" and many others. Colored illustrations.

Paton, James, ed. qr941 P29

Scottish history & life. 1902. Maclehose.

interest and value were there brought together for the sake of illustrating different stages of the national development...It was decided to utilize this material 'in telling the story of Scottish History, and showing what the people were who made it'...Each separate aspect of history or culture is treated by a specialist of recognized authority." Nation, 1902.

There are many illustrations of the articles exhibited.

Robertson, William, 1721–93. 941 R54

History of Scotland during the reigns of Queen Mary and of King James VI till his accession to the crown of England, with a review of the Scottish history previous to that period, and an appendix containing original letters. 1831. Harper.

With this is bound his "Historical disquisition concerning the knowledge which the ancients had of India."

Met with a remarkable success when it appeared in 1759. Author was a Scottish clergyman and historian, principal of the University of Edinburgh.

"Later and more exhaustive methods of research have deprived Robertson's 'History' of most of its historical value. But its sobriety, fairness, and literary character give it a permanent interest to a student of the evolution of historical composition." Dictionary of national biography.

The same. 4v. 1827–30. Winston.....j941 S43t

"Stories on the history of Scotland...They were written for his...grandson [with whom] the great author rode daily among the woods and told the tale, thus ascertaining that it suited the comprehension of boyhood before he reduced it to writing...The period covered in them ranges from Macbeth to 1760." Thomson's Catalogue of the writings of Scott.

Stirling, Amelia Hutchison. 941 S86

Sketch of Scottish industrial and social history in the 18th and 19th centuries. 1906. Blackie.

Traces the social and industrial progress made by Scotland during the 200 years since the union of her Parliament with that of England. Though not in any sense exhaustive, it breaks new ground and contains materials not hitherto brought together.

Thomson, Charles W. 941 T38

Scotland's work and worth; an epitome of Scotland's story from early times to the 20th century, with a survey of the contributions of Scotsmen in peace and in war to the growth of the British empire and the progress of the world. 2v. 1909. Oliphant.

Useful book, though somewhat over-enthusiastic in its championship of Scottish claims and heroes. v.2 contains much biographical material.

Tytler, Patrick Fraser. r941 T99

History of Scotland from the accession of Alexander III to the union. 4v. in 2. 1864. Nimmo.

"His narrative and illustrations, always plain though somewhat diffuse, will still be consulted by any one who seriously studies Scottish history, and, with all its faults, of which the chief is an occasional tendency to unsound generalisation, it contains the most definite and full narrative for the period between the thirteenth and seventeenth centuries." Dictionary of national biography.

Antiquities

Wilson, Sir Daniel. r913.41 W76

Prehistoric annals of Scotland. 2v. 1863. Macmillan.

v.1. The primeval or stone period.—The archaic or bronze period.
v.2. The iron period.—The Christian period.

This work first published in 1851 established the author's reputation as an archæologist. Numerous illustrations.

Muir, James Hamilton. r914.1 M95

Glasgow in 1901; illustrated by Muirhead Bone. 1901. Hodge.

"This book is as far as possible from the conventional civic monograph. It is written by a man who knows every yard of that intricate metropolis, who has loved her own curious beauties, read deeply in her history, and studied her people...The result is a picturesque study, a local history, an industrial record, and a social panorama in one ...The most original part of the book is the last section, 'Glasgow of Fiction'...a set of thumb-nail sketches of the city's types, done with skill, insight, humour, and often a very happy gift of phrasing." Spectator, 1901.

Munro, Neil. 914.1 M96

The Clyde river and firth; painted by M. Y. and J. Y. Hunter, described by Neil Munro. 1907. Black.

Chambers, Robert. 914.144 C35

Traditions of Edinburgh. [1868.] Chambers.

The author of the "Book of days" found his chief amusement when a lad in wandering through the narrow wynds and among the gloomy, but imposing houses of old Edinburgh. The book is based to a great extent on traditions that were fast dying out and is valuable and interesting.

Fyfe, W. T. 914.144 F99

Edinburgh under Sir Walter Scott, with an introduction by R. S. Rait. 1907. Dutton.

Description of the city, its topography, society and manners and notable characters during the period when Scott was its dominant figure. Several chapters are devoted to the great Scottish judges of the 18th century.

Lockhart, John Gibson. r914.144 L76

Peter's letters to his kinsfolk [by Peter Morris, pseud.]. 3v. 1819. Blackwood.

Description of Edinburgh society about 1819.

History

Birkhead, Alice. 941.5 B48

Tales from Irish history. [1910.] Methuen. (Stories from the histories.)

Principal facts in the history of Ireland from the earliest times to the rejection of the home rule bill in 1886. Written with force and freshness.

Chart, D. A. 941.5 C38

Story of Dublin. 1907. Dent. (Mediæval towns.)

Bibliography, p.8.

"There are plenty of truths in his book—plenty of learning also; but there are grave gaps and often annoying inaccuracies...The account of the suburbs is pleasant and chatty, and will serve as a useful guide to the ordinary visitor." Athenæum, 1907.

Well illustrated.

Emmet, Thomas Addis, b. 1828. 941.5 E59

Ireland under English rule; or, A plea for the plaintiff. 2v. 1909. Putnam.

"Bibliography," v.1, p.27–35.

"Although this indictment is severe, yet the facts quoted to substantiate it are numerous and overwhelming. Nor can it be said that the author is prejudiced." American Catholic quarterly review, 1903.

Ferguson, John, of Glasgow. 941.5 F38

Three centuries of Irish history, from the reign of Mary the Catholic to that of Victoria the Protestant; an unbroken record of confiscation and persecution, mixed with massacre and terminating in extermination by unjust and ruinous taxation. Cameron.

Finlay, John Borland. 92 P297s

Ireland; the Irish, their Christianity, institutions, missions, mission fields and learning from the earliest times, with an appendix. 1895. Richardson.

Bound with Sanderson's "Story of Saint Patrick."

Godkin, James. 941.5 G55

Land-war in Ireland; a history for the times. 1870. Macmillan.

From the 16th century to 1870. Author was for 30 years a close student of every phase of the Irish question. This volume was the outcome of a journey through Ulster and the south of the island taken by Godkin in 1869 as special commissioner of the "Irish times," in order to ascertain the feelings of the farmers and the working classes on the land question.

Gordon, James Bentley. 941.5 G65

History of Ireland from the earliest account to the accomplishment of the union with Great Britain in 1801. 2v. 1806. Longman.

Author (1750–1819) was an Irish clergyman and historian, whose sympathies were with the Loyalist party.

Green, Mrs Alice Sophia Amelia (Stopford). 941.5 G82i

Irish nationality. [1911.] Williams. (Home university library of modern knowledge.)

"Some Irish writers on Irish history," p.255–256.

Small volume of 254 pages which reviews the whole course of Irish history, placing the emphasis throughout on the unity and persistence of Irish nationality.

Green, Mrs Alice Sophia Amelia (Stopford). 941.5 G82

Making of Ireland and its undoing, 1200–1600. 1908. Macmillan.

"Object is to show that a great civilization and culture, a great foreign trade, a great reputation, marked out Ireland among the nations of Europe, till it was ruined, first partially by the Anglo-Norman occupation, then completely by the Tudor conquest." Athenæum, 1908.

Leland, Thomas. q941.5 L57

History of Ireland from the invasion of Henry II, with a preliminary discourse on the antient state of that kingdom. 3v. 1773. Noursé.

"Contains few references to original authorities, and is in great part based upon the writings of Moryson, Ware, Cox, Harris, and Carte. It is a dry narrative, and exhibits little knowledge of topography or of literature. It concludes with the capitulation of Limerick in 1691." Dictionary of national biography.

Lowell, Mass.—City library. 1016.9415 L95

Ireland; a list of books relating to Ireland in the Lowell City Library. 1910.

McCarthy, Justin. 941.5 M12ir

Ireland's cause in England's parliament, with preface by J. B. O'Reilly. 1888. Ticknor.

"Succinct and readable apologia for the Irish movement, by one who gave up much to join it, and who has partaken of all its vicissitudes." Nation, 1888.

Mitchel, John. 941.5 M74

History of Ireland from the treaty of Limerick to the present time [1691–1851]. 2v. 1869.

Compilation, rather than the result of original research. Author (1815–75) was a well-known Irish nationalist and newspaper editor.

Morris, William O'Connor. 941.5 M91a

Ireland, 1494–1905; revised with an additional chapter (1868–1905), notes, etc. by Robert Dunlop. 1909. Cambridge University Press. (Cambridge historical series.)

"One of the best general histories of Ireland that has yet appeared." Nation, 1896.

Murray, Robert Henry. 941.5 M97

Revolutionary Ireland and its settlement, with an introduction by J. P. Mahaffy. 1911. Macmillan.

"Bibliography," p.421–438.

"Deals with an important chapter in Irish and English, and indeed European, history. It tells the story of the 'Revolution' in Ireland—the stand which the Irish made in favour of James II. against William of Orange, the failure of the movement, and the after-fruits of that failure in the penal laws...The value of the book lies in the specialization of its scholarship and the development of detail." Athenæum, 1911.

Redmond, John Edward. 941.5 R27

Home rule; speeches of John Redmond; ed. with an introduction by R. B. O'Brien. 1910. Unwin.

Kathleen in Ireland. 1909. Little. (Little people everywhere.)

Story of a little Irish girl and her blind sister who live among the mountains of lonely Donegal. They make visits in different parts of Ireland and hear stories of the good St. Patrick, Finn MacCool, the wee folk and the giants.

[Craik, Mrs Dinah Maria (Mulock).] 914.15 C86

Unknown country. 1887. Harper.

Contents: From Antrim to Cushendall.—Cushendall and Cushendun.—The Giant's Causeway.—Londonderry.—Gweedore.—From Gweedore to Carrick.

Pleasantly written description of the author's travels in Ireland. Illustrated.

Curtis, William Eleroy. 914.15 C93

One Irish summer. 1909. Duffield.

Description of the country and the people and the personal experiences of the author, an American newspaper correspondent.

Fitzpatrick, Samuel A. Ossory. 914.15 F58

Dublin; a historical and topographical account of the city. [1907.] Methuen. (Ancient cities.)

Generally accurate description, including some account of the history of Dublin, the social life of the city, municipal affairs, the cathedrals, theatres, historic houses and distinguished residents. There are several illustrations and a map, which, however, is not of recent date.

Gwynn, Stephen. 914.15 G99f

Fair hills of Ireland. 1906. Maunsel.

"Mr. Gwynn might have styled his book 'The Praise of Ireland.' It is an exultant hymn to her loveliness, especially to those beauties which the careless stranger has neglected." Nation, 1907.

Illustrated, partly in color.

Gwynn, Stephen. 914.15 G99h

A holiday in Connemara. 1909. Macmillan.

Study of that lonely coast which forms the westernmost point of Europe, written by an Irishman with humor, sympathy and intimate knowledge. Europe at large and England and even eastern Ireland itself, he tells us, are but names to the men of Connemara, who live altogether by the seashore, on fish and remittances from America. Condensed from Nation, 1909.

Hall, Samuel Carter, & Hall, Mrs A. M. (Fielding). q914.15 H16

Ireland; its scenery, character, &c. 3v. [1841–43.] Virtue.

"The literary, legendary, and antiquarian portions of the work are compiled with laudable diligence; the illustrations are, for the most part, clear and interesting; and the statements and opinions are in general as sensible, candid, and trustworthy, as could be expected from writers who fairly confess their unwillingness to say anything discreditable to the country and the majority of its people." London quarterly review, 1849.

Hinkson, Mrs Katharine (Tynan). j914.15 H56

Ireland, with illustrations in colour by F. S. Walker. 1909. Black. (Peeps at many lands series.)

A little journey in Ireland, telling about the traits and ways of the Irish people and about Dublin, Cork, Galway, Donegal and other places.

Hitchcock, Francis Ryan Montgomery. 914.15 H62

Types of Celtic life and art. Sealy.

Discussion of the social system of ancient Ireland. There are short chapters on Celtic monuments, tombs and towers.

James, Rolfe Arnold Scott-. 914.15 J16

An Englishman in Ireland; impressions of a journey in a canoe by river, lough and canal. 1910. Dent.

"[Author] set out with a friend to travel from Belfast to Limerick in a Canadian canoe. The route took him through some of the loneliest parts of Ireland, and his book is of quite a different order from the jottings of tourists who inspect advertised bits of scenery or examine centres of political activity." Saturday review, 1911.

Joyce, Patrick Weston. 914.15 J48s

Smaller social history of ancient Ireland; treating of the government, military system and law, religion, learning and art, trades, industries and commerce, manners, customs and domestic life of the ancient Irish people. 1906. Longmans.

An abridgment of his "Social history of ancient Ireland" (914.15 J48).

Lovett, Richard. q914.15 L94

Senior, Nassau William. 914.15 S47

Journals, conversations and essays relating to Ireland. 2v. 1868. Longmans.

v.1. On national property.—Ireland in 1843.—Proposals for extending the Irish poor law.—Relief of Irish distress in 1847 and 1848.—Journal of a visit to Ireland in 1852.

v.2. Journal of a visit to Ireland in 1852 (continued).—Journal of a visit to Ireland in 1858.—Journal of a visit to Ireland in 1862.

Author was a student of Irish affairs and a member of the Irish poor-law commission of 1844. He went often to Ireland and had unusual opportunities of learning the condition and sentiments of the Irish people.

"The claims of [Ireland], its ills and the remedies for them, are told and commented on in sincere yet passionless seriousness." Athenæum, 1868.

Synge, John Millington. 914.15 S99

Aran islands. 1910. Maunsel. (Works, v.3.)

"The Aran Islands...are three small islands lying off the west coast of Ireland, about thirty miles from Galway. The largest is about nine miles long, and the inhabitants, who are for the most part still strangely primitive, gain their living by burning kelp, fishing, and tilling their scant fields...Mr. Synge has a fine eye for colour, and he has painted a truthful though sombre picture of the islands, with their grey clouds, and grey seas, and slaty limestone rocks." Academy, 1907.

Synge, John Millington. 914.15 S99i

In Wicklow; In west Kerry; In the congested districts; Under ether. 1910. Maunsel. (Works, v.4.)

"These essays, dealing with the peasantry and conditions of life on the western coast of Ireland, have all the charm of Mr. Synge's papers on the Aran Islands, and derive value from their shrewd and sympathetic observations of the effect of the various relief measures recently undertaken by the British Government. They are, as might be expected, especially felicitous in their vivid sketches of individual character, in their descriptions of land and sea, their preservation of illuminative domestic detail, and their variety of anecdote." Nation, 1913.

Trench, William Steuart. 914.15 T72

Realities of Irish life. 1868. Lovell.

"Trench's experience of the management of Irish land ranged from the period immediately prior to the famine to that of Mr. Gladstone's first Land Act, and in 1868 the interest which was then aroused in the social condition of Ireland led him to give to the public the record of his experiences...His activity of mind, shrewdness of observation, and thorough knowledge of the Irish peasantry, joined to very considerable powers of vivid and picturesque description, admirably qualified the writer for a work of this kind." Dictionary of national biography.

Church, Alfred John. j942 C46s2

Stories from English history [to 1902]. 1910. Seeley.

A few of the chapter headings are, The story of King Canute.—The Red king.—King Richard's crusade.—"The end of the King-maker."—The boy-king and the three-weeks' queen.—The seven bishops.—The lost colonies.—The Khyber pass.

Coventry, England. 1942 C84

Coventry leet book or mayor's register; containing the records of the city court leet or view of frankpledge, A. D. 1420–1555, with divers other matters; ed. by M. D. Harris. 3v. in 2. 1907–09. (Early English Text Society. Publications, v.134–135, 138.)

The records touch mediæval town life at many points and are full of allusions interesting to students of legal, topographical, ecclesiastical or social history. Valuable to philologists as illustrating the Warwickshire dialect a century before Shakespeare.

Davies, E. Wyatt-. 942 D31

Elementary history of England. 1906. Longmans.

Outline history from Julius Cæsar to the death of Victoria. Written for pupils in the English secondary schools, from the Catholic point of view, and paying particular attention to the events in which religious influences have played a prominent part.

Dixon, William Hepworth. 942 D64

Royal Windsor. 4v. 1879–80. Hurst.

Popular history and description from the founding of the castle by William the Conqueror to the days of Victoria. The account of its history during the 18th and 19th centuries is extremely brief.

Elson, Henry William. 942 E55

Contents: A bas les Juifs.—A delicate mission.—The Field of the cloth of gold.—The revolt of Sir Thomas Wyatt.—Rejected addresses.—Last hours of Mary, queen of Scots. — Westward ho! — A knight-errant's pilgrimage. — The Rye house plot. — The Bloody assizes.—The warming-pan story.—John, lord Hervey.

Fletcher, Charles Robert Leslie. 942 F63

Introductory history of England. 4v. 1904–09.

v.1. From the earliest times to the close of the middle ages [1485].
v.2. From Henry VII to the restoration [1485–1660].
v.3. From the restoration to the beginning of the great war [1660–1792].
v.4. The great European war [1792–1815].

Mr Fletcher's avowed object is to avoid intolerable dulness and he has succeeded. He has a facile pen and infuses much ozone into his pages. The dry-as-dust critic might pick holes in some of his statements, but, where the aim is more to enliven than to record, one must not be too exacting. Condensed from Nation, 1905.

Fletcher, Charles Robert Leslie, & Kipling, Rudyard. 942 F63s

School history of England [to 1911]; pictures by Henry Ford. 1911. Clarendon Press.

Marshall, Henrietta Elizabeth. j942 M41

Island story; a child's history of England, with pictures by A. S. Forrest. [1906.] Stokes.

"In this book you will find the story of the people of Britain. The story tells how they grew to be a great people, till the little green island set in the lonely sea was no longer large enough to contain them all." Begins with the stories of Albion and Brutus and contains all the interesting legends and hero tales in which the history of England abounds, such as The story of the "White Ship."—How Blondel found the king.—Hengist's treachery.—The story of the poisoned dagger.—The story of a make-believe prince.—How the princess Elizabeth became a prisoner.—The fiery cross.—The pipes at Lucknow.

Colored pictures.

History of Henry the Fifth, king of England, lord of Ireland and heir of France. 1886. Appleton.

History of England during the reign as well as the personal life of the king.

Lodge, Edmund. 942.05 L76

Illustrations of British history, biography and manners in the reigns of Henry VIII, Edward VI, Mary, Elizabeth & James I. 3v. 1838. Chidley.

This admirable selection from the Howard, Talbot and Cecil manuscripts in the College of Arms made the author's reputation as an accomplished historical scholar.

Stuart. Commonwealth

1603–1714

Burton, John Hill. 942.06 B95

History of the reign of Queen Anne. 3v. 1880. Blackwood.

"The book, dry without exactness, and desultory without liveliness, hardly deserves to be ranked among histories. The most valuable part is his account of Marlborough's battles, the localities of which he had visited expressly." Dictionary of national biography.

Burton, Thomas. r942.06 B95

Diary of Thomas Burton, member in the Parliaments of Oliver and Richard Cromwell from 1656 to 1659, with an introduction containing an account of the Parliament of 1654, from the journal of Guibon Goddard; ed. and illustrated with notes, historical and biographical, by J. T. Rutt. 4v. 1828. Colburn.

Although the diary is attributed to Burton, member of Parliament from Westmoreland, the identity of the author can be discovered only by the internal evidence, which is very conflicting. It is a detailed report of parliamentary proceedings and speeches and was evidently prepared in the House itself.

Cowan, Samuel. 942.06 C84

Royal house of Stuart, from its origin to the accession of the house of Hanover. 2v. 1908.

Deals fully with the genealogical origins of the Stuarts and in general is better for their history in Scotland than for the English period. Interesting for the general reader. Excellent portraits.

Fea, Allan. 942.06 F31a

After Worcester fight; being a companion volume to "The flight of the king." 1904. Lane.

Brings together the chief contemporary narratives which describe the escape of Charles II from the field where Cromwell won his final victory.

Firth, Charles Harding. 942.06 F52

Last years of the protectorate, 1656–1658. 2v. 1909. Longmans.

v.1. 1656–1657.
v.2. 1657–1658.

Continuation of Gardiner's "History of the commonwealth and protectorate, 1649–1660" (942.06 G17his).

Bibliography, v.1, p.6–11.

Henrietta Maria, queen consort of Charles I. 942.06 H44

Letters, including her private correspondence with Charles the First; collected from the public archives and private libraries of France and England; ed. by M. A. E. Green. 1857. Bentley.

Valuable series of letters covering an important period of English history, the majority of them belonging to the years 1642–46. Slight annotations are added.

Hanoverian period

1714–1837

Stanhope, Philip Henry, earl of, ed. 942.07 S78m

Miscellanies. 1863. Murray.

"Five letters by William Pitt, two by Edmund Burke, and two memoranda by the duke of Wellington make the best parts of this collection. The letters by Pitt are of no great importance, and were omitted by Lord Stanhope from the Life of that statesman...The letters by Burke are of more moment...for they turn entirely on his personal position." Athenæum, 1863.

Waldegrave, James, earl. qr942.07 W15

Memoirs from 1754 to 1758. 1821. Murray.

Waldegrave (1715–63) was the intimate friend and adviser of George II and it is to the political affairs of the last four years of his reign that the "Memoirs" relate.

"[They] are admirable in style and temper, and their accuracy has never been impugned." Dictionary of national biography.

Walpole, Horace, earl of Orford. 942.07 W181

Last journals of Horace Walpole during the reign of George III, from 1771–1783, with notes by Dr Doran; ed. with an introduction by A. F. Steuart and containing numerous portraits reproduced from contemporary pictures. 2v. 1910. Lane.

"Continuation of Walpole's 'Memoirs of the Reign of George III'...The central theme is the marriage of the Duke of Gloucester, brother of the King, with Lady Marion Waldegrave, Walpole's niece, and the struggle to get the marriage acknowledged by the court. There is also a running account of Parliamentary doings during those stirring years, which include the American war and the successful contest with the court party." Nation, 1909.

Nineteenth century. Victorian age

1837–1901

Bright, John. 942.08 B74

Public letters; ed. by H. J. Leech, with additions and a memoir. 1895. Low.

Letters selected from the newspaper files of 35 years. They relate to matters of foreign policy, peace and war, free trade, parliamentary reform, British rule in Ireland and India, constitutional and social questions, etc.

McCarthy, Justin. 942.08 M12sh

Short history of our own times from the accession of Queen Victoria to the accession of King Edward VII. 1908. Harper.

Walpole, Sir Spencer. 942.08 W18h

History of 25 years. v.3–4. 1908. Longmans.

v.3. 1870–75.

v.4. 1876–80.

Really a continuation of his "History of England" from 1815 to the close of the Indian mutiny; the change in title, as he says in his introduction, simply indicates that from 1856 to 1880 foreign affairs occupy the chief place in English annals, while in his earlier volumes he wrote from a "domestic standpoint." Such questions as the housing of the poor, national education, university reform, the advance of science, and religious movements are fully treated. The rivalries of statesmen, and the personal side of party government, though not neglected, receive comparatively slight notice. The clearness and decision conspicuous in his treatment of foreign affairs bear witness to the extent of his knowledge. Condensed from English historical review, 1909.

Antiquities

Camden, William. qr913.42 C14

Britannia; or, A chorographical description of the flourishing kingdoms of England, Scotland and Ireland and the islands adjacent, from the earliest antiquity; tr. from the edition published by the author in 1607, enlarged by the latest discoveries by Richard Gough. 4v. 1806. Stockdale.

Only v.1 of this edition was published under the supervision of Richard Gough. John Nichols superintended the remaining volumes.

Originally written in Latin and published in 1586. It at once ranked the author among the most learned antiquarians of the time and has caused him to be surnamed "the British Pausanias."

Holmes, Thomas Rice Edward. 913.42 H73

Ancient Britain and the invasions of Julius Caesar. 1907. Clarendon Press.

After a preliminary sketch of the history of archæological science in Britain, Mr Holmes discusses the first appearance of paleolithic man and then traces step by step the successive races which entered into the British population up to the Roman period. The physical type of each is described, its geographical distribution, its archæological remains and the probable character of its civilization. Mr Holmes shows wide and thorough acquaintance with the literature of the various sciences concerned, and his references constitute in themselves a valuable bibliography. The general arrangement of the book is intended to serve at once the interest of the scholar and of the general reader. Condensed from American historical review, 1908.

Contents: The Border.—The Lake country.—Three rush-bearings.—A group of industrial counties.—The heart of England: Warwickshire.—The Cotswolds.—Oxford.—Counties of the Severn valley.—Somerset and Devonshire.—Cornwall.

Most of this book appeared in the "Chautauquan," v.45–46, Dec. 1906–May 1907.

Belloc, Hilaire. q914.2 B41h

Historic Thames, with coloured illustrations by A. R. Quinton. 1907. Dent.

"Mr. Belloc's text proceeds on very different lines from those of the ordinary guide-book; he has no desire to tell you what to look for at Medmenham or what happened at Reading; he takes the river as a great natural fact to which our forefathers succeeded, and tries to trace the way it affected, both as a highway and a barrier, the course of history and the lives of the people on its banks...The casual reader who has had history too much thrown at him as a jumble of disconnected facts cannot but gain both pleasure and insight from Mr. Belloc's broad treatment of the river as something organic and living." Saturday review, 1908.

[Berry, Mary.] 914.2 B45

Social life in England and France from the French revolution in 1789 to that of July 1830, by the editor of Madame Du Deffand's letters. 1831. Longman.

Miss Berry (1763–1852) was a close friend of Horace Walpole and for a great many years prominent in English society. Her observations on the social life of France during this period were also founded upon personal experience. This book was written as a sequel to her "Comparative view of the social life of England and France from the restoration of Charles the Second to the French revolution," which appeared in 1828. Concerning the whole work Richard Monckton Milnes writes in his "Monographs, personal and social," "Taken in relation to the English information of that time on such subjects, [it] exhibits much research and power of arrangement. Of the many and various judgments it contains, some are erroneous, and even superficial, but there is a discrimination and fairness in estimating the peculiarities and excellencies of the two countries, which produced as much effect in France as in England."

Contents: First impressions.—Who are the English?—The land of compromise.—English home life.—Are the English dull?—Sport.—Ireland.—An English country town.—Society.—Conclusion.

Conybeare, Edward. 914.2 C76

Highways and byways in Cambridge and Ely. 1910. Macmillan.

Chief interest of the book is divided between Cambridge University and Ely cathedral. Illustrated with drawings by Frederick L. Griggs.

De Milt, Aida Rodman. 914.2 D42

Ways and days out of London. 1910. Baker.

Describes trips to Hampton Court, Rainham and Rochester, Ascot, Richmond, Guildford, Ely, Cambridge, Stoke Poges, Windsor, St. Albans, Epping forest, Dulwich, Colchester, Greenstead, Greenwich, Dunstable and Canterbury.

Dillon, John M. 914.2 D58

Motor days in England; a record of a journey through picturesque southern England, with historical and literary observations by the way. 1908. Putnam.

Account of a trip through the southwestern part of England—as far east as London and as far north as Leamington. Some of the illustrations are from drawings by the author, who, though a lawyer, exhibits a feeling and skill that professional artists often fail to attain. There is a map of the route, a table of distances and a chapter of practical suggestions. Otherwise the text is rather slight. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Edwardes, Tickner. 914.2 E31

Lift-luck on southern roads. 1910. Macmillan.

Account of an unconventional journey from Torquay to the author's home in Sussex, a leisurely tour of 200 miles through the southern English countryside, helped by "lifts" provided by the drivers of various vehicles, from the motor car to the humble cart. These "lifts" furnished the author introductions to people of different ranks and employments, besides giving him opportunities of seeing the country. Delightful book of country gossip and of descriptions of houses and landscape.

Escott, Thomas Hay Sweet. 914.2 E79so

Society in the country house. 1906. Jacobs.

Traces the rise of country house entertaining from the days of Chaucer's 14th century franklin down to the "week-ends" of modern times. From his historical sketch Mr Escott passes to descriptions of certain houses which for generations have played their part in English politics. A cheerful jumble of anecdotes and interesting side-lights on persons and events.

Fea, Allan. 914.2 F31p

Picturesque old houses; being the impressions of a wanderer off the beaten track. [1902.] Bousfield.

Travels through English country. As the title indicates, the author's main interest was in the houses seen by the way and of these he gives many illustrations, from manors and halls to attractive cottages.

Finnemore, John. j914.2 F51

England, containing illustrations in colour. 1908. Black. (Peeps at many lands series.)

Garrett, John Henry. 914.2 G19

The idyllic Avon; a simple description of the Avon from Tewkesbury to above Stratford-on-Avon, with songs & pictures of the river and its neighbourhood. 1906. Putnam.

"A party of three spent a whole summer in a boat on the Avon, navigating that stream from Tewkesbury in Gloucestershire to Stratford-on-Avon, a distance of fifty miles. Something over 250 pages and 89 full-page illustrations are devoted to that stretch of Avon's banks and riverside villages, with which the reader becomes extremely intimate. Stratford is the goal, but those who weary of this well-trodden spot will find the descriptions and pictures of the vale of Evesham and the charming remote villages of Gloucestershire and Worcestershire more to their taste." Nation, 1906.

Gibbs, Joseph Arthur. 914.2 G36

A Cotswold village; or, Country life and pursuits in Gloucestershire. 1909. Murray.

"A pot-pourri of local history and tradition, fox-hunting, shooting, fishing, cricket, politics, landscape, and architecture. In this last feature Gloucestershire is rich, possessing not only the remains of Cirencester and its environs, but examples of all the periods of English Gothic, from the early Norman churches down. In describing them, the author is appreciative and not too technical." Nation, 1900.

Godfrey, Elizabeth, (pseud. of Jessie Bedford). 914.2 G55e

English children in the olden times. [1907.] Methuen.

A thoroughly engaging inquiry into the bringing-up of English children in the past. The author has succeeded in gleaning from correspondence, history and literature much interesting matter on a subject which has been strangely neglected hitherto. Contains chapters on toys and games, nursery-lore, fairy tales, education and an interesting sketch of the children in Shakespeare. Many reproductions of old paintings of children.

Gonzales, Manoel. qr910 P63 v.2

Voyage to Great Britain, containing an historical, geographical, topographical, political and ecclesiastical account of England and Scotland, with a curious collection of things particularly rare both in nature and antiquity; tr. from the Portuguese manuscript. Snell, Frederick John. 914.2 S67

Customs of old England. 1911. Methuen.

Contents: Ecclesiastical.—Academic.—Judicial.—Urban.—Rural.—Domestic.

A book which is at the same time learned and popular. Six chapters are given to the ecclesiastical aspect of mediæval life, which was the most prominent and characteristic, especially in England. Three chapters describe the universities, and three the ancient ways of the law. Three chapters deal with town life, two with rural life, and the last is a chapter of domesticities.

Sparrow, Walter Shaw. q914.2 S73

Old England; her story mirrored in her scenes; text by W. S. Sparrow, pictures by James Orrock. 1908. Pott.

General scheme is to illustrate and describe the historic country scenes of England, and to show "what historic landscapes represent in her progress from the coming of Cæsar to the present day." The 80 illustrations, part of which are in color, are from outdoor sketches, author and artist having visited the places together.

Thacker, Frederick Samuel. 914.2 T33

The stripling Thames; a book of the river above Oxford. 1909. Privately printed.

"A book by a genuine enthusiast...concerned with one of the freshest holiday lands in England. The book is one which every one who knows the country between Oxford and the Cotswolds will gladly linger over...It is also emphatically a book which should interest those new to the district described. It is full of all sorts of old, forgotten things, quaintly and sometimes uncritically collected, and discussed with a happy garrulity." Athenæum, 1910.

Thrupp, John. 914.2 T42

The Anglo-Saxon home; a history of the domestic institutions and customs of England from the fifth to the 11th century. 1862. Longman.

An English honeymoon. 1908. Lippincott.

Contents: Wedding bells and Canterbury bells.—A motor flight into the past.—Zelphine's wedding journey.—In Warwickshire.—A Quaker pilgrimage.—Where poets lived and loved. -Roman England.—Six days in London.—Storied windows richly dight.—Glastonbury's shrine.—"The land of Lorna Doone."—Dundagel by the Cornish sea.—A highway of kings.

Travel told in letters by one of the friends in the author's "Italian days and ways." to which it serves somewhat as a sequel.

Winter, William. 914.2 W79a2

Gray days and gold. 1911. Moffat.

New edition, carefully revised and much enlarged, of a book originally published in 1890. The articles on Scottish scenes and places have been omitted from this edition, and the 24 papers are devoted, with one exception, to English subjects. To all educated travelers along the route which they follow, from Southampton to the Scottish border, they will prove an invaluable and fascinating guide to the spots most notable for their historic interest, literary association, or natural loveliness. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

First published in 1865.

Description

[Ackermann, Rudolph.] qr914.21 A18

Microcosm of London; or, London in miniature, with illustrations by Pugin and Rowlandson. 3v. 1904. Methuen.

First published in 1808–11.

Ackermann (1764–1834) was a fine-art publisher and bookseller. The volumes consist mainly of descriptions of well-known buildings—Christ's hospital, Vauxhall, the Fleet prison, etc. The colored plates add much to the interest.

Apperson, George L. 914.21 A64

Bygone London life; pictures from a vanished past. 1904. Pott.

Contents: Old-time restaurants.—The coffee-houses.—Some old London swells.—Old London museums.—Old London characters.

Papers treating of some aspects of social life in London during the two centuries between the Elizabethan age and the Georgian era.

Archer, Thomas. 914.21 A67

Besant, Sir Walter. qr914.21 B46m

Mediæval London. 2v. 1906. Black.

v.1. Historical & social.

v.2. Ecclesiastical.

Published after the author's death. It is generally considered that Sir Walter Besant did not contemplate presenting these volumes to the world in their present form, as many of the chapters bear rather the character of notes than of connected narrative. They contain a good deal of useful information however on the period covered and there is a very large number of illustrations.

Burroughs, Wellcome & Co. 1914.21 B94

Souvenir map and guide to London. [1909.]

Published as a souvenir for the International Congress of Applied Chemistry, which met in London, May 1909.

Chiefly concerning taverns in London.

Lemon, Mark. 914.21 L58

Up and down the London streets. 1867.

Chapters dealing largely with places of historic interest and illustrated by reproductions of interesting old prints.

Lethaby, William Richard. 914.21 L65

London before the conquest. 1902. Macmillan.

"Useful survey of the ancient topography of London. The author gives a good account of the rivers, roads, bridges, walls, gates, wards, parishes, and churches of London, and devotes a chapter to the early government of the city." American historical review, 1903.

London. Directories. qr914.21 K17

Post office London directory, 1908, 1911. 1907–10. Kelly's Directories.

For volumes for 1897, 1901, 1906 see preceding catalogues.

qr914.21 L82

London interiors; a grand national exhibition of the religious, regal and civic solemnities, public amusements, scientific meetings and commercial scenes of the British capital; beautifully engraved on steel from drawings made expressly for this work, with descriptions written by official authorities. 2v. in 1. [1841–44.] Mead.

Lucas, Edward Verrall. 914.21 L96

A wanderer in London. [1906.] Methuen.

"Mr. Lucas takes his London lightly, skims the cream, revives the reader with the most frivolous bits of information, and never oppresses him under a load of facts... [His] style is always entertaining...full of unexpected suggestions and points of view." Nation, 1906.

Contains numerous reproductions of masterpieces in the public galleries and illustrations in color of London scenes.

Miltoun, Francis, (pseud. of Milburg Francisco Mansfield). 914.21 M71

Dickens' London. 1904. Nash.

"Brief chronology of some of the more important events in the history of the city of London during the lifetime of Charles Dickens," p.[287–288].

Description of the localities especially identified with the life and work of Dickens in London.

Moncrieff, Ascott Robert Hope, (pseud. Ascott R. Hope). 914.21 M81

London. 1910. Black.

Handsome volume concerned with the illustration of London. The numerous plates are by different artists and in varied styles. Some are clear and accurate representations of buildings, while others are impressionistic views of streets. Author modestly says that his task is to accompany the reader through a gallery of illustration, but he does much more than this. The city and the west end, the east end, the Surrey side and the suburbs are all included in the survey, but perhaps the chapter on Clubland best illustrates the author's lively treatment of the vast field he has to occupy. Condensed from Athenæum, 1910.

Neale, John Preston. qb914.21 N17

History and antiquities of Westminster abbey and Henry the Seventh's chapel, their tombs, ancient monuments and inscriptions, also the most remarkable epitaphs and notices of the persons interred, with memoirs of the abbots and deans from the earliest period to the present time; illustrated from drawings by J. P. Neale. 1856. Willis.

Engravings with descriptive text.

Norman, Philip. r914.21 N44

London signs and inscriptions, with an introduction by H. B. Wheatley. 1893. Stock. (Camden library.)

"Mr. Norman...has chiefly confined his attention to the sculptured signs which were built into the fronts of the houses or the corners of the old streets and alleys... [He] is well equipped for the task...being a skilled artist as well as a patient and most curious antiquary." Spectator, 1893.

Ogilvy, James S. qr914.21 O17

Relics & memorials of London city. 1910. Routledge.

Text and pictures, being from one hand, have a real relation to each other. All the buildings chosen for illustration and comment were standing when the present century began but a considerable number of them have already (1910) been taken down or altered. The pictures, 64 in number, are full-page color-plates.

Ogilvy, James S. qr914.21 O17r

Relics & memorials of London town. 1911. Routledge.

Does for London town what the author has already done for the more restricted space of London city. There are 52 colored plates.

Gaddings with a primitive people; being a series of sketches of Tyrolese life and customs. 1878. Holt.

This book incorporates the chapters of his "Tyrol and the Tyrolese."

Mr Grohman has lived for many years among the Tyrolese, and writes of them with the enthusiasm of one who loves and rejoices in their primitive customs. He describes with admirable simplicity and directness the sad and pleasant incidents of daily peasant life. Condensed from Nation, 1878.

Grohman, William Alfred Baillie-. 914.36 G93

Land in the mountains; being an account of the past & present of Tyrol, its people and its castles, with an introduction by Charles Landis. 1907. Simpkin.

"Neither a glorified form of Baedeker nor a treatise on the science of rock-climbing, but a volume dealing, in a fashion fitted to appeal to the ordinary reader, with the history of Tyrol and its feudal castles... Mr. Baillie-Grohman writes at some length on the Tyrolese peasant, mediæval and modern. As he has personal knowledge of the man, his remarks on the peasant as he is have considerable value." Athenæum, 1907.

"Mrs. Holbach's account of 'the land where East meets West' is picturesque, her description of its people and places of interest being admirably supplemented by the numerous illustrations... Dalmatia is a land little known to-day; it is a country with a past—its men provided Cæsar with some of his best soldiers and Venice with some of her best sailors... The globe-trotter, weary of more crowded tracks, is finding out its attractions, in the shape of natural beauty, mediæval remains and quaintly garbed peasants." Saturday review, 1907.

Holland, Clive. 914.36 H72

Tyrol and its people. 1909. Methuen.

"Mr. Clive Holland's methods in this volume do not rise appreciably above the level of the ordinary guide-book... Within these limits, the information given is sound and comprehensive enough. Mr. Adrian Stokes has contributed a series of agreeable paintings, which are augmented by a number of half-tone illustrations." Outlook (London), 1909.

Polish history entitled "In historical times."

Bain, Robert Nisbet. 943.8 B161

Last king of Poland [Stanislaus Poniatowski] and his contemporaries. 1909. Putnam.

The reign of Stanislaus Poniatowski covered the last years of Poland's existence as a nation. The book sketches the earlier history of Poland and presents clearly the political complications leading to the partition. From his acquaintance with Slavonic languages, Mr Bain commanded little known authorities and has produced the most sympathetic and authoritative work on Poland since Brandes.

Hungary in 1851, with an experience of the Austrian police. 1852. Scribner.

The author, an American, visited Hungary in 1851 for the purpose of obtaining information about that country, then just prostrated by the blow which followed the war of independence. He mixed much with Hungarians of all classes and he gives a clear idea of the condition, material and moral, of the Hungarian people in their state of subjection. He writes with moderation, sense and candor; and the impressions unfavorable to Austrian rule in Hungary are not the result of transatlantic prejudice, but of considerate observation. Condensed from Athenæum, 1852.

Stokes, Adrian. 914.39 S87
Hungary; painted by Adrian & Marianne Stokes, described by Adrian Stokes. 1909. Black.

"More than usually effective colour-book. Mrs. Stokes's figure subjects in particular, with their brilliant reds, come out well in reproduction and Mr. Stokes's landscapes are charming. The letterpress, too, is interesting, and the subject... more or less unhackneyed." Burlington magazine, 1909.

History

Bonnechose, François Paul Émile Boisnormand de. 909 L76 v.9
France; revised and ed. by F. M. Fling. 1906. Morris. (In Lodge, H. C. ed. History of nations, v.9.)
"Bibliography," p.495–502.

Crowe, Eyre Evans. 1944 C89
History of France. 5v. 1858–68. Longmans.

"Bears evidence of thorough research. It covers the whole period of French history to the coup d'état of Louis Napoleon [1851] and though it is not of the highest order of merit, it is generally accurate, is composed with temperate judgment, and is presented in a style of considerable literary merit. On the whole, it must be considered one of the most desirable histories of France in the English language." Adams's Manual of historical literature, 1888.

Dutton, Maude Barrows. j944 D95

Little stories of France, with a preface by S. T. Dutton. 1906. Amer. Book Co.

From the time of the Druids and Vercingetorix, the bravest of the Gauls, to the France of to-day. Among others, there are stories of Roland, Charles VI the "Mad king," the Maid of Orleans, the brave Bayard and of Bertrand du Guesclin and of how, disguised, he took the prizes away from full-grown knights when he was only 12 years old.

Guizot, François Pierre Guillaume. 944 G960

Outlines of the history of France from the earliest times to the outbreak of the revolution; an abridgment of [his] "History of France," with chronological index, historical and genealogical tables, etc. by Gustave Masson. 1879. Estes.

Binder's title reads "Concise history of France."
Sources of "The history of France," p.566–573.

Jervis, William Henley Pearson. 944 J28

History of France from the earliest times to the fall of the second empire in 1870; thoroughly revised and in great part re-written by Arthur Hassall, with a chapter on ancient Gaul by F. Haverfield. 1907. Murray.

Binder's title reads "Student's France."

Pitman, Leila Webster. j944 P66

Stories of old France. 1902. Amer. Book Co.

Contents: Chinon: the warrior maid. — Plessis-les-Tours: in the king's train. — Chenonceaux and Chambord: the recreations of a king.—Amboise: a royal mother.—Blois: the three Henries and their struggle for a throne.—A forgotten château: the building of an air castle.—The Louvre and Fontainebleau: the court versus the people. —Versailles: the people versus the court.

Stories about the great châteaux of France, of intrigues and battles and great events in the days of the old monarchy.

Powell, George Herbert, & Powell, O. B. comp. 944 P87

La France monarchique; scènes de la vie nationale depuis le douzième jusqu'au dix-huitième siècle tirées de mémoires contemporains, avec introduction et notes. 1906.

"Bibliographie des ouvrages cités," p.29–31.

Provides, in the shape of some 40 extracts from chroniclers and memoir writers, an excellent epitome of the life and history of old France from the crusades to the revolution, as told by contemporary writers.

Capet and Valois period

987–1589

White, Henry. 944.02 W63

Massacre of St. Bartholomew, preceded by a history of the religious wars in the reign of Charles IX. 1868. Harper.

"Written in a judicious spirit for the purpose of portraying the great struggle that devastated France in the later portion of the sixteenth century, and culminated in the memorable tragedy of 1572. The author proceeds on the theory that the real nature of the contest cannot be understood unless the condition of both Protestants and Catholics during the first half of the century be taken into consideration... Though the author looks upon the events he describes with the eyes of a Protestant, yet his moderation is worthy of universal commendation and confidence." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

1589–1789

Bingham, Denis Arthur. 944.03 B48

Marriages of the Bourbons. 2v. 1890. Chapman.

Book of historical gossip, evidently compiled largely from contemporary memoirs, concerning the French branch of the house of Bourbon.

Broglie, Jacques Victor Albert, duc de. 944.03 B76

The king's secret; being the secret correspondence of Louis XV with his diplomatic agents, from 1752 to 1774. 2v. [1879.] Cassell.

"The historians of the period just before the French Revolution have very generally called attention to the strange freak of Louis XV which led him to enter into a mysterious and secret correspondence with his diplomatic agents without the knowledge of his ministers... The letters are edited in so skilful a manner as to explain their significance, and throw considerable light on the character of the king, if not on the nature of the period." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Browning, Oscar, ed. 944.03 B81

Despatches from Paris, 1784–1790; selected and ed. from the Foreign office correspondence. 2v. 1909–10. (Camden Society. Publications, 3d ser. v.16, 19.)

v.1. 1784–1787.
v.2. 1788–1790.

Motteville, Mme Françoise (Bertaut) Langlois de. 944.03 M94

Memoirs on Anne of Austria and her court, with an introduction by C. A. Sainte-Beuve; tr. by K. P. Wormeley. 3v. 1902. Hardy.

The writer of these memoirs, which after many years retain their authority, was devoted to the service of Anne of Austria and composed the memoirs to justify her queen in the eyes of posterity. Though she wrote a panegyric she tempered her flattery with justice. After the queen, Mazarin takes up the greatest space in her book. Condé, M. Le Tellier, Madame de Chevreuse and Marie de Gonzague are also well drawn. Condensed from Spectator, 1902.

Saint-Simon, Louis de Rouvroy, duc de. 944.03 S15a

Memoirs on the times of Louis XIV and the regency; tr. and abridged by K. P. Wormeley [with an introduction by Sainte-Beuve]. 4v. 1902. Hardy.

"A panoramic picture, drawn with wonderful skill, of the last 20 years of the reign of Louis XIV and of the period of the Regency. The author was himself at court, and was often an actor in the strange scenes he describes." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Taylor, William Cooke. 944.03 T25

Memoirs of the house of Orleans, including sketches and anecdotes of the most distinguished characters in France during the 17th and 18th centuries. 3v. 1849. Bentley.

"All his books are marked by candour and sobriety of mind, and the information is conveyed in an interesting style...Lockhart says that Louis-Philippe was so irritated by the references to his career in this work that he talked of prosecuting the publisher." Dictionary of national biography.

French revolution

1789–1804

Acton, John Emerich Edward Dalberg, baron. 944.04 A18

Lectures on the French revolution; ed. by J. N. Figgis and R. V. Laurence. 1910. Macmillan.

"It is not in the narrative portions that the strength of this volume resides. It is the thought, the suggestion, the political philosophy of the lecturer that make it a book of weight. Lord Acton's lecture on the origin of the ideas of 1789 is the most authoritative and the most brilliant consideration of the philosophic parentage of the Revolution that we have in English...The appendix on the literature of the Revolution is of equally high value." Outlook (London), 1910.

Belloc, Hilaire. 944.04 B41

French revolution. 1911. Williams. (Home university library of modern knowledge.)

"Survey of the French Revolution from the meeting of the National Assembly in May, 1789, to the end of the Terror in July, 1794. Nowhere will the ordinary reader find the meaning of these eventful five years made so clear as in Mr. Belloc's little book." Spectator, 1911.

Burke, Edmund. 1944.04 B91

Reflections on the revolution in France, and on the proceedings in certain societies in London relative to that event, in a letter intended to have been sent to a gentleman in Paris. 1790. Dodsley.

Élisabeth Philippine Marie Hélène, princesse de France. 944.04 E48

Life and letters, followed by the Journal of the Temple by Cléry and the Narrative of Marie Thérèse de France, duchesse d'Angoulême; tr. by K. P. Wormeley. 1902. Hardy.

Has to do chiefly with the stormy period of the French revolution and the prominent figure in the book is Louis XVI. The princesse de France was his sister, the duchesse d'Angoulême, his daughter, and Cléry, the valet who attended him during his imprisonment in the Temple.

Elliott, Mrs Grace (Dalrymple). 944.04 E52

During the reign of terror; journal of my life during the French revolution, with an introduction and notes; tr. from the French by E. J. Méras. 1910. Unwin.

"Written confessedly seven or eight years after the events it relates, it is in no proper sense a 'journal,' and it is often exaggerated, misleading, and even self-contradictory. It throws some light upon conditions in Paris, and upon the private life of the ill-fated Duke of Orleans, but is of slight historical value for the general events of the French Revolution." Nation, 1910.

François, Charles François. 944.04 F87

From Valmy to Waterloo; extracts from the diary of Capt. Charles François, a soldier of the revolution and the empire; tr. and ed. by R. B. Douglas, with a preface by Jules Claretie. 1906. Everett.

Valuable as coming from a young subaltern, who relates incidents and details unknown to the professional historian. Though all his statements may not be accepted unreservedly, he is usually impartial and always ingenuous.

Gibbs, Philip. q944.04 G36

Men and women of the French revolution. 1906. Paul.

Contents: The court at Versailles.—The philosophers.—Men and women of the salons.—Mirabeau and the States-General.—Lafayette and the National Guard.—The people's friend [Marat].—Desmoulins and Danton.—The royal family at the Tuileries and the Temple.—The Girondins.—Robespierre and the Terror.

Illustrated by reproductions of contemporary prints.

Holst, Hermann von. 944.04 H74

The French revolution tested by Mirabeau's career; 12 lectures on the history of the French revolution delivered at the Lowell Institute, Boston, Mass. 2v. 1894. Callaghan.

Kropotkin, Petr Alexeievitch, prince. 944.04 K42

The great French revolution, 1789–1793; tr. from the French by N. F. Dryhurst. 1909. Heinemann.

Kropotkin presents the communistic conception of the great upheaval. It is with the rôle of the masses and with the great economic changes that he is chiefly concerned, matters that have not received in the past the consideration that is due to them. Condensed from American historical review, 1910.

Lamartine, Alphonse de. 944.04 L17h

Histoire des Girondins. 4v. 1858. Furne.

"His history of the Girondists was at once the most popular and the most pernicious of his numerous works. It was a glorification of the Revolutionary spirit, and it has probably had more influence than any other literary production in keeping the revolutionary spirit in France alive." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

First empire

1804–1815

Pardoe, Julia. 944.05 P22

Episodes of French history during the consulate and the first empire. 1859. Harper.

Collection of essays dealing with incidents in the life of Napoleon, Josephine, Bernadotte, Fouché and other prominent figures of the period.

Restoration

1815–1848

De Puy, Henry Walter. 944.06 D44

Louis Napoleon and his times, with notices of his writings, a memoir of the Bonaparte family, and a sketch of French history to the empire, 1853. 1853. Phinney.

French history from 1798 to 1852. Does not pretend to be anything more than a compilation.

Hall, John R. 944.06 H17

Bourbon restoration. 1909. Houghton.

History of the whole Bourbon restoration from Louis XVIII's entry into Paris in 1814 to Charles X's overthrow in 1830. Painstaking, accurate and unbiased, it is perhaps the best account of this period in English, but being based on secondary authorities, it lacks the freshness and permanency of a first-hand investigation in archives. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Lamartine, Alphonse de. 944.06 L17hi

Histoire de la restauration. 8v. in 4. 1851–52.

"It is the production of a rhapsodist, brilliant, interesting, and disappointing. After the author's fashion, it portrays the government from 1815 to 1830. Nearly the whole of the first volume is devoted to proving that 'Napoleon's genius was posthumous.'" Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Second republic and second empire

1848–1870

Agoult, Marie Catharine Sophie de Flavigny, comtesse d', (pseud. Daniel Stern). 944.07 A27

Les journées de juin 1848; ed. by Madeleine Delbos. 1907. Clarendon Press. (Oxford higher French series.)

Falloux, Alfred Frédéric Pierre, comte de. 944.07 F19

Memoirs; from the French by C. B. Pitman. 2v. 1888.

A history of the French Royalist party, 1840–70, rather than a personal biography. "The interest of these two interesting volumes consists rather in the side-lights they throw upon the characters and motives of great men than in their political disclosures, though these are not wanting. They are real contributions to history." Saturday review, 1888.

Third republic

From 1870

Bracq, Jean Charlemagne. 944.08 B67

France under the republic. 1910. Scribner.

The first part, with its statistical and documentary information on the material advance and expansion of the country, will be found very valuable for reference. As a résumé of France's intellectual, artistic, and literary contribution to the world's output during the last four decades, the second part is acceptable, even if the lists of names and works are far from exhaustive. But the author's special interest centres obviously on religious and social problems, which he has treated fully, and to which he has brought frankly his Republican and Protestant points of view. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

An ambassador of the vanquished; Viscount Élie de Gontaut-Biron's mission to Berlin, 1871–1877, from his diaries and memoranda; tr. with notes by A. D. Vandam. 1896. Macmillan.

Gontaut-Biron played an important and honorable part in the negotiations which followed the Franco-German war and it was due in large measure to him that the independence of France was maintained.

Hanotaux, Gabriel. 944.08 H23

Contemporary France; tr. by E. Sparvel-Bayly. v.4. 1909.

v.4. 1877–1882.

"This book belongs to that class of histories whereof the work of Thucydides is a famous example...a narrative written by a contemporary of events which passed in his own time...setting them forth after a lapse of time sufficient to give some perspective. No kind of history is more interesting, none more instructive...M. Hanotaux is a good specimen of...the man of letters who is also a statesman." Nation, 1903.

For v.1–3 see preceding catalogue, second series.

Lawton, Frederick. 944.08 L43

The third French republic. 1909. Lippincott.

"Mr. Lawton's 'anecdotal narration'...of thirty-seven years [1871–1908] of French history is a very readable book. Its most valuable part...is to be found in the summaries of science, literature, art, as they have been developed during these four decades." Spectator, 1909.

Portraits and illustrations.

Renan, Ernest. 944.08 R33

La réforme intellectuelle et morale. 1871.

Contents: La réforme intellectuelle et morale de la France.—La guerre entre la France et l'Allemagne.—Lettre à M. Strauss.—Nouvelle lettre à M. Strauss.—De la convocation d'une assemblée pendant le siège. — La monarchie constitutionnelle en France.—La part de la famille et de l'état dans l'éducation.

Vizetelly, Henry. 944.08 V35

Paris in peril. 2v. 1882. Tinsley.

Animated and diverting account of the siege of Paris in 1870–71, by an eye-witness of many of the events. Author was for seven years the Paris correspondent of the "Illustrated London news." Many illustrations.

Description and travel

Atkinson, Mary Josephine. 914.4 A87

A château in Brittany. 1910. Pott.

Author appears to have belonged to a very delightful party of Americans who established themselves for some months in an old château in the environs of Dinard and from that point explored a certain part of the province. Though they made no excursions beyond the beaten track, this record of their experiences and often original impressions has a singular freshness. Condensed from Spectator, 1911.

[Bankes, George Nugent.] 914.4 B22

Across France in a caravan; being some account of a journey from Bordeaux to Genoa in the "Escargot," taken in the winter 1889–90. 1893. Randolph.

"Troubles and adventures, mishaps and incidents are numerous enough to prevent any sense of monotony, and while at times the author is guilty of efforts at witticism which are apt to fail, he is abundantly and naturally humorous, sees the comical side of things, and hits off the ridiculous and absurd in officials, innkeepers, peasantry, and nobility with a very happy touch." Nation, 1893.

Barker, Edward Harrison. 914.4 B24f

France of the French. 1910. Scribner.

Contents: French character and its influence.—Family life.—Statesmen and politicians.—Literature under the republic.—The press.— Architecture.— Painters.— Sculptors.—Dramatists.—Players.—Musicians and singers.— Science and invention.— Rural France.—Lights and shadows.—Conclusions.

Bell, Mrs Nancy R. Elizabeth (Meugens), (pseud. N. d'Anvers). 914.4 B41

Contents: From Paris to Besançon and Lyons.—Descents of the Rhône and the Tarn and the region of the Causses.—From Clermont-Ferrand to La Rochelle, Ile de Ré, Nantes and Angers.

Farley, Mrs Agnes, (pseud. Vados). 914.4 F23

Belmont book, with an introduction by Arnold Bennett. 1911. Smith.

Truthful and sympathetic sketches of Norman peasant life, written from intimate knowledge and with unusual charm.

Finnemore, John. j914.4 F51

France, with illustrations in colour by Nico Jungman, and others. 1908. Black. (Peeps at many lands series.)

How Nannic, a little Breton girl, went to the "pardon" of St. Anne at Auray. Also describes journeys in Normandy, along the Loire, in the country of the Camisards and in the land of olives, with stories and legends of the "pleasant land of France."

Gostling, Mrs Frances M. (Parkinson). 914.4 G71

Bretons at home, with an introduction [in French] by Anatole Le Braz. 1909. McClurg.

Story of a journey through Brittany. The country is so rich in legend and historical association that the ordinary details of traveling are naturally eclipsed by the human interest. Well illustrated, partly in color.

Gould, Sabine Baring-. 914.4 G73bk

Book of the Cévennes. [1907.] Long.

Contents: The crescent.—Le Velay.—Le Puy.—Round about Le Puy.—L'auberge de Peyrabeille. — Les Boutières. — The volcanoes of the Vivarais. — The canon of the Ardèche.—The wood of Paiolive.—The ravine of the Allier.—The Camisards.—Alais.—Ganges.—Le Vigan.—L'Aigoual.—The land of Ferdinand Fabre.—The Hérault.

Intended as a general introduction to the Cévennes to supplement the ordinary guide-book. Illustrated.

Gould, Sabine Baring-. 914.4 G73bo

Book of the Pyrenees. 1907. Methuen.

Has nothing to say of hotels, fares and routes. It deals with the character and history of the towns and the countrysides, from Bayonne to Perpignan.

Home, Gordon Cochrane. 914.4 H75m

Motor routes of France, to the châteaux of Touraine, Biarritz, the Pyrenees, the Riviera and the Rhone valley. 1910. Black.

Embodies the best features of the road-book. Besides the descriptions of scenery and buildings there are catalogues of places of interest along the route, tables of distances, notes for drivers, a summary of expenses, 60 maps and plans of cities and roads and illustrations both in color and black and white.

Jerrold, Laurence. 914.4 J28

The real France. 1911. Lane.

Contents: The real France.—Realism in politics.—Socialism and people.—England, France and socialism.—Strikes and alarums.—The symbolism of M. "One of the lightest-handed and keenest studies of national character produced by an English brain in our day...Mr. Jerrold explains France." Outlook (London), 1910.

Joanne, Paul Bénigne. r914.4 J32

Itinéraire général de la France; le nord. 1899. (Collection des guides-Joanne.)

Klein, Félix, abbé. 914.4 K31

An American student in France. 1908. McClurg.

In the guise of a Chicago college boy author describes a trip to France, including visits in Paris, Versailles, Rouen and several picturesque and little-known corners of Quercy, Tarn and Auvergne. Much attention is given to the politico-religious discussions of the time (1907), notably to the separation of church and state. Author is one of the best known of the French liberal clergy.

Le Braz, Anatole. 914.4 L478

Land of pardons; tr. by F. M. Gostling. 1906. Macmillan.

"The appearance of Anatole Le Braz's 'Au Pays des Pardons' in 1894 was an event of considerable literary and archæological importance in France. The book was a collection of hitherto unprinted legends of the early Breton Saints supplemented by sympathetic descriptions of the modern ceremonies in their honor (known as 'pardons') which are the last vestiges of the ancient 'Feasts of the Dead'...The translator has performed her task well, but no translation could hope to render the strange, melancholy charm of M. Le Braz's lyric prose." Nation, 1906.

Appeared in "Blackwood's Edinburgh magazine," v.110–114, Nov. 1871–July 1873.

"Careful study of an interesting subject, exhibiting no little acuteness of observation and analytical subtlety. The author is not without prejudices, and now and then the desire to say a telling thing betrays him into exaggeration, but, on the whole, he is not merely an entertaining but a trustworthy guide." Saturday review, 1874.

Castles and châteaux of old Navarre and the Basque provinces, including also Foix, Roussillon and Béarn, with illustrations by Blanche McManus. 1907. Page.

A weaving together of description and history, not only of the castles themselves, but of the region round about. Carcassonne, Pau, Bayonne and Biarritz are among the places visited.

Miltoun, Francis, (pseud. of Milburg Francisco Mansfield). 914.4 M71r

Royal palaces and parks of France. 1910. Page.

"About one-half of this book deals with the royal palaces within the city of Paris proper—the Palais de la Cité, the Tournelles, the Louvre, the Tuileries, the Palais Royal, the Luxembourg, the Elysée, and the Palais Bourbon. The other half takes up in turn the suburban palaces, Vincennes, Conflans, Fontainebleau, St. Cloud, St. Germain-en-Laye, Versailles, and other less royal residences...all of which are easily accessible from the capital. It is thus a very convenient and suggestive guide for the traveller who is not making a comprehensive tour, and who wishes to make Paris the centre of his operations." Nation, 1911.

Paris

History

Lonergan, Walter F. 944.36 L82

Forty years of Paris. 1907. Unwin.

What 40 years can teach a Paris correspondent of a London daily about France and French politics may here be found. The first chapter begins with glimpses of the second empire, the last takes us down to the Clémenceau ministry and the separation law.

Description

Allen, Grant. 914.436 A42a

Paris. [1908.] Wessels. (Grant Allen's historical guides.)

"My purpose is not to direct the stranger through the streets and squares of an unknown town...still less is it my design to give him practical information about hotels, cab fares, omnibuses, tramways, and other every-day material conveniences...I desire rather to supply the tourist who wishes to use his travel as a means of culture with such historical and antiquarian information as will enable him to understand, and therefore to enjoy, the architecture, sculpture, painting, and minor arts of the towns he visits." Introduction.

Baedeker, Karl, comp. 914.436 B14a2

Paris and environs, with routes from London to Paris. 1910.

Cain, Georges. 9914.436 C12

Nooks & corners of old Paris [tr. by Frederick Lawton], with a preface by Victorien Sardou. [1907.] Lippincott.

"Works quoted or consulted," p.327.

Walks through less familiar parts of the city, recalling their old appearance and the events and persons associated with them. Author is curator of the historic collections of Paris. Many illustrations from old drawings, paintings and engravings.

Cain, Georges. 914.436 C12w

Walks in Paris; tr. by Alfred Allinson. 1909. Macmillan.

"All the spots of the city that have any association with heroes of history and romance are passed in review...The ancient and the modern mingle at will...all the way from the thirteenth century down to the reign of M. Fallières." Nation, 1909.

Fully illustrated with maps and plans, and reproductions of old prints.

Girardin, Mme Delphine (Gay) de. 914.436 G44

Choix de lettres parisiennes; ed. by F. de Baudiss. 1906. Clarendon Press. (Oxford higher French series.)

"Bibliography; works of Madame de Girardin," p.192.

Lucas, Edward Verrall. 914.436 L96

A wanderer in Paris. 1909. Macmillan.

The book has charm, a quality nearly always excluded by the office-like air of guide-books. The test is that you can read it right through without being able to refer to the objects described. Mr Lucas has a way of reading life as he sees it for himself, and also of criticizing pictures without any slavish concern for tradition. He keeps us going with happy turns of phrase, drollery, good sense, and, above all, sympathy. Condensed from Spectator, 1909.

Menpes, Dorothy. 914.436 M62

Paris, by Mortimer Menpes; text by Dorothy Menpes. 1907. Black.

Contents: Fascination of the city.—The art of dress.—By the side of the Seine.—Montmartre.—The workers.—Streets and boulevards.—Art and artists.—Theatres and amusements.—Cafés and restaurants.—Joy of life.—The children's pleasures.

Animated description, with illustrations in color.

Peat, Anthony B. North. 914.436 P35

Gossip from Paris during the second empire; correspondence (1864–1869) selected and arranged by A. R. Waller. 1903. Paul.

"Mr. Peat was attached to the French Ministry of Interior and had access to the daily batch of telegrams from all parts of the country. The letters were addressed principally to the Morning Star, a London daily...His unusual sources of information give even to gossip some historical value. Much of the volume is filled with comments upon men, women, and things—gossip, but gossip of a sort which adds color and tone to one's picture of life under the Empire. There is also not a little that is directly helpful to the student of the period." American historical review, 1904.

Sanborn, Alvan Francis. 914.436 S19

Paris and the social revolution; a study of the revolutionary elements in the various classes of Parisian society, with illustrative drawings by Vaughan Trowbridge. 1905. Hutchinson.

"Brilliant and fascinating study...Mr. Sanborn at first introduces us to the anarchist and sets forth the ideas of Reches, Jean Grave and others...then discusses the socialists, passing on to a consideration of the Latin quarter and its Bohemians, to Montmartre with its literary and artistic cabarets. The literature of revolutionary thought is analyzed and the spirit of revolution is traced in music and art. The volume is commended to all who would catch a glimpse of those by-products of social evolution who are often ridiculed and condemned but seldom explained." Annals of the American Academy, 1905.

Whiting, Lilian. 914.436 W646

Paris the beautiful. 1909. Little.

Enthusiastic, but rather vague and indefinite account of some impressions of Paris. Chapters on the Louvre and Luxembourg, the Champs Elysées region, the spring salons, etc. Illustrated.

Williams, Elizabeth Otis. 914.436 W74

Sojourning, shopping & studying in Paris; a handbook particularly for women. 1907. McClurg.

Châteaux of Touraine. 1906. Century.

Contents: Tours.— Loches.— Chinon.— Langeais.— Amboise.— Blois.— Luynes.— Chenonceaux.—Azay-le-Rideau.—Chaumont.—Chambord and Cheverney.

Recounts the historical associations of these old castles. Illustrated in color.

Macdonell, Anne. 914.5 M14

Touraine and its story, with coloured illustrations by A. B. Atkinson. [1906.] Dent.

A genuine and trustworthy addition to English knowledge of this attractive subject, which has everything to delight both tourist and reader. Condensed from Spectator, 1907.

Lees, Frederic. 914.45 L53

Summer in Touraine. 1909. McClurg.

Mr Lees' "summer in Touraine" was mostly spent in visiting the châteaux which line both banks of the Loire, one of the favorite tourist districts of France. He has brought together from all sources information to illustrate the story of the châteaux. He writes with knowledge, sometimes enthusiastically, at others critically. To those who contemplate a tour in this charming region his book is the best preparatory course they could have as a guide for the eye and mind. Condensed from Saturday review, 1909.

Illustrated in color.

Mario, Signora Jessie Merriton (White). 945 M388

Birth of modern Italy; posthumous papers; ed. with introduction, notes and epilogue by the duke Litta-Visconti-Arese. 1909. Scribner.

Signora Mario was one of the band of English champions of Italy which accomplished so much for the cause of unification. She was a most ardent disciple of Mazzini, who is the hero of the story throughout. She dwells especially on the years of his exile in England and his friendship with the Carlyles. But we see also much of the inner workings of the many futile conspiracies and partial uprisings which served to keep alive the hope and passionate purpose of Italy. Written in the heat of strife, the book is not always impartial, especially in its attitude toward Cavour, who is handled harshly.

"Of the astonishing feats of 1860 I here relate the first part, when, landing with a thousand men in plain clothes or in red shirts, armed with muskets fit for the scrap heap, the Liberator, with the aid of the Sicilian populace, took the capital of the island from 24,000 regular troops armed with rifles. The story of that month during which the little band was shut up in that strange island from the knowledge of the expectant world—the tale of those adventures which...involved the whole fate of Italy—has a charm which will, I hope, justify in the eyes of the reader the detail in which it is here told. The latter part of the campaign, after the fall of Palermo and the arrival of the larger expeditions to join Garibaldi...will be treated in a separate volume." Preface.

Roman cities in Italy and Dalmatia. 1910. Sturgis.

"The main object of the book...which on the whole it accomplishes very well—is to make plain that to understand Rome...it is necessary to examine the numerous small but very venerable towns of Italy. Imperial Rome destroyed nearly every monument of her great past...But in the unspoiled hill-towns of Italy—in Praeneste, in Assisi, Perugia...and in the coast-towns such as Terracina and Circeii, there are abundant ruins, the study whereof sheds a strong light upon many obscure passages of Republican history...Praeneste, the Hernican cities, Norba...Turin, Aosta and Verona are taken up in succession, their remains analyzed, and in many instances excellent and unusual photographs are given." American historical review, 1910.

Visit to Italy. 2v. 1842. Bentley.

Author (1780–1863) was the mother of Anthony Trollope. She wrote numerous novels and books of travel. This description of her Italian travels is written in the form of letters.

"All that she writes is accurate and faithful as to facts; but it is apt to fall into the commonplace and jogtrot (except where she is describing scenery)...The chapters on Venice are...the best in the book. They have many really admirable passages, and are written with a warmth and power which, hackneyed though the subject be, make them still well worth reading." Mrs Frances Eleanor Trollope's Frances Trollope.

Okey, Thomas. 945.3 O220

Old Venetian palaces and old Venetian folk, with 50 coloured and other illustrations by Trevor Haddon. 1907. Dent.

"Bibliography," p.311–312.

"The chief existing examples of old palatial architecture are described, so far as possible, in the order of their erection, and grouped into the three main divisions—Byzantine, Gothic, and Renaissance—of their style. Some acquaintance with the main features of Venetian history being assumed in the reader, an attempt has been made to draw from the writings of the three great Venetian diarists a picture, in some detail, of life in the lagoon city during the critical period of its history which elapsed between the closing decades of the fifteenth and the first half of the sixteenth centuries." Preface.

The illustrations add much to the attractiveness of the volume.

Description

Biagi, Guido. 914.55 B47

Men and manners of old Florence. 1909. McClurg.

Contents: Florence within her ancient boundary.—The mind and manners of a Florentine merchant of the 14th century.—The private life of the renaissance Florentines.—Tullia of Arragon.—The twilight of the past.

The learned librarian of the Laurentian and Riccardi Libraries is probably the greatest living authority on Florence in the middle ages and the renaissance. The book consists chiefly of a series of vivid pictures of Florentine life; descriptions of the old city and her buildings, drawn from early chronicles, miniatures and illuminated manuscripts; curious scenes, dramatically told, from the life of the streets; studies of the Florentine mind and manners, from contemporary sources, and of the home life of men and women, of merchant, soldier, artist; accounts of the principal gilds; sketches of the citizens, their dress, their daily occupations and amusements; in short, everything in which a lover of Florence is interested. Condensed from Spectator, 1910.

Brown, James Wood. 914.55 B78

Country walks about Florence. [1908.] Methuen.

"It would be difficult to imagine a better companion for one's daily strolls through the fields and byways of the Florentine contado...Mr. Hutton has read widely, and his book is crammed with valuable information which it is hard to find elsewhere about every bridge and ford and village and castello and rôcca. It is a wise and learned book as well as a beautiful one." Nation, 1909.

Illustrated from drawings and photographs.

Hutton, Edward. 914.55 H977

Florence and the cities of northern Tuscany, with Genoa, with illustrations in colour by William Parkinson. 1907. Macmillan.

Hutton, Edward. 914.55 H977i

In unknown Tuscany, with notes by William Heywood. 1909. Dutton.

"A picturesque volume of impressions...the record of a summer passed on Monte Amiata, apparently in the very abbey where Pius II. lodged...At his best Mr. Hutton has a peculiar power of interpreting the spirit of an Italian district. He feels it poetically, even passionately, and suggests its atmosphere with a fidelity that will be recognized by all who have followed the way from Siena to the mountain." Saturday review, 1909.

Mr Heywood supplies a basis of historical notes and facts.

Hutton, Edward. 914.55 H977s

Siena and southern Tuscany, with illustrations in colour by O. F. M. Ward. 1910. Macmillan.

"With all his old charm of style, Mr. Hutton here displays a just appreciation of the necessity of accuracy in dealing with the facts of history. Not that the present volume is primarily an historical work. There is a good deal of history in it; but the keynote always remains a personal one, and the appeal is rather to the traveller of cultured tastes, the lover of art and of nature, than to the mere student. Siena occupies a scant third of the volume, Arezzo and Borgo S. Sepolcro a single chapter. The rest is devoted to the little towns and villages of southern Tuscany." Nation, 1910.

Lees, Dorothy Nevile. 914.55 L53

Scenes and shrines in Tuscany. 1907. Dent.

As governess in an Italian family which spent the winters at Florence and the summers at a beautiful villa in the country, the author knew and loved her Tuscany well. She describes many phases of rural life in pleasant and interesting chapters. Illustrated.

Lees, Dorothy Nevile. 914.55 L53t

Tuscan feasts and Tuscan friends. 1907. Chatto.

Serves as a sequel to her "Scenes and shrines in Tuscany" (914.55 L53). Full of entertaining glimpses of the daily life of those with whom she lived and of the neighboring peasantry.

Lo stato romano dall' anno 1815 all' anno 1850. 4v. in 2. 1850–53.

Grisar, Hartmann. 945.6 G92

History of Rome and the popes in the middle ages; authorised English translation, ed. by Luigi Cappadelta. v.1–3. 1911–12. Paul.

v.1–3. Rome at the close of the ancient world.

Probably this vast work by a Jesuit scholar was composed as an orthodox counterblast to the history of the city of Rome during the middle ages by the German historian Gregorovius. There is no mistaking the prominence of the ecclesiastical view which pervades the book. The historical information of the author is stupendous and his work makes antiquity almost live before our eyes. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1911.

Intended for students who read French with some ease. Has introduction and notes.

Description

Ball, Eustace Alfred Reynolds-. 914.56 B21
Rome; a practical guide to Rome and its environs. 1908. Black.
Especially intended for tourists who are able to spend only a few weeks in Rome. Gives full details on practical matters, including routes and hotel accommodations.

Cruickshank, J. W. & Cruickshank, Mrs A. M. 914.56 C89
Christian Rome. 1906. Wessels. (Grant Allen's Historical guides.)
Bibliography, p.5–6.
An admirably practical short guide-book which concentrates attention on what is essential.

Cruickshank, J. W. & Cruickshank, Mrs A. M. 914.56 C89u2
Umbrian towns. [1912.] Holt.
Contents: Perugia.— Excursions from Perugia.— Assisi.— Montefalco.— Spello.— Foligno.—Gubbio.—Città di Castello.—Trevi.—Spoleto.—Orvieto.
List of books useful to travellers in central Italy, p.380–381.
A guide-book which places emphasis upon matters of real historical and artistic significance.

Davies, William. 914.56 D31
Pilgrimage of the Tiber, from its mouth to its source, with some account of its tributaries. 1873. Low.
"In most of...[the author's] descriptions we catch not only a vivid sketch of the scene before him, but the local colour which only thorough familiarity with Italian scenery can give...Not the least charm about Mr. Davies' book is his hearty sympathy with an appreciation of the Italian people." Saturday review, 1873.
Gives many legends and historical allusions, especially those connected with Rome. Illustrated.

Field, Walter Taylor. 914.56 F45
Rome. 2v. 1905. Page.
Written in a chatty style and designed to lead the traveler, in successive days' trips, around the city and its immediate environs. Well illustrated.

Frothingham, Arthur Lincoln. 914.56 F97
Monuments of Christian Rome from Constantine to the renaissance. 1908. Macmillan. (Handbooks of archaeology and antiquities.)
A historical sketch of the period is followed by a study of its architecture, painting and sculpture. Illustrated.

Gregorovius, Ferdinand. 914.56 G86
Roman journals, 1852–1874; ed. by Friedrich Althaus and tr. from the German by Mrs G. W. Hamilton. 1907. Bell.
These journals, first issued in German 15 years ago, are already as nearly classic as any work of such recent date can be. Gregorovius was in Italy from 1852 to 1874, while he was writing his history of the city of Rome. His journals kept during this period have a threefold interest. They enable us to trace his progress on his history, they throw very important side-lights on Italian and papal politics in the last years of the papal dominion and they give many characteristic sketches of the distinguished statesmen, authors and painters whom he met. For the student of history, there are many invaluable notes; for the observer of social life there are the most varied sketches, and even gossip. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Hare, Augustus John Cuthbert. 914.56 H26w2

Walks in Rome (including Tivoli, Frascati and Albano), with plans, &c. by St. Clair Baddeley. 1909. Paul.

"He writes, not so much for the sake of instructing the student as of assisting the intelligent tourist...He has supplied in a pleasanter and more intellectual form—but with the practical drawback of filling two somewhat bulky volumes—an enlarged Murray for Rome." Saturday review, 1871.

Hutton, Edward. 914.56 H97r

Rome, with illustrations in colour by Maxwell Armfield. 1909. Macmillan.

This strange and delightful guide-book is a kind of poem about Rome. It has everywhere the quality of suggestion rather than of affirmation. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1909.

Lanciani, Rodolfo. 914.56 L21

Golden days of the renaissance in Rome, from the pontificate of Julius II to that of Paul III. 1906. Houghton.

Contents: The city.—Life in the city.—Paul III.—Michelangelo.—Vittoria Colonna.—Raphael.—Agostino Chigi, "il Magnifico," and the "Contrada dei Banchi."

"No other scholar of his attainments in the history of Roman topography has been able...to draw from accumulated stores of technical knowledge the material for charming causeries, and so to communicate something of the romantic delight of archæological investigation." Nation, 1907.

Singleton, Esther, ed. 914.56 S61

Rome as described by great writers. 1906. Dodd.

Contents: Rome, by Maurice Maeterlinck.—Ancient Rome, by Isaac Taylor.—Rome as it is to-day, by George Pignatorre.—The rise of modern Rome, by Reinhold Schoener.—Roman life and character, by F. M. In the heel of Italy; a study of an unknown city [Lecce]. 1910. Melrose.

"Architectural and historical notes on Lecce buildings," p.331–357; "Bibliography," p.359–372.

The ancient town of Lecce, capital of the historic Terra d'Otranto, with its memories of Greek, Roman, Gothic, Norman, French and Spanish rulers, is but little known to modern tourists. The book gives a history of the town and the surrounding country, and an admirable description of its architecture, especially of the Baroque style, which characterizes so many of its buildings.

Douglas, Norman. 914.57 D75

Siren land. 1911. Dent.

Devoted to Capri and the Sorrentine peninsula. Author knows foot by foot the clefts and pinnacles of the land of the sirens, has lived among the peasants, taken their folklore from their lips, and read their history in the local archives. The book is written from an agile and well-stored mind, and presupposes a cultured public. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Elliott, Mrs Maud (Howe). 914.58 E529
Sicily in shadow and in sun; the earthquake and the American relief work. 1910. Little.
Describes the earthquake of 1908 with the vividness of one who knew the persons engaged in the relief work and who visited the scenes. Interviews, conversations and pictures (these last from the sketches and photographs made by Mr Elliott) combine to produce an indelible impression. As a foil to the tragedy, Mrs Elliott adds an account of a sight-seeing trip to Syracuse and Palermo. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Sladen, Douglas Brooke Wheelton. 1914.58 S63
Sicily, the new winter resort; an encyclopædia of Sicily. 1907. Dutton.
"Books on Sicily," p.21–22.
Comprehensive and carefully prepared guide, including a general description of the island, objects of special interest and biographical sketches of well-known people who have lived there. Fully illustrated.

Wetmore, Mrs Elizabeth (Bisland), & Hoyt, Anne. 914.58 W57
Seekers in Sicily; a quest for Persephone by Jane and Peripatetica, done into the vernacular. 1909. Lane.
Light and popular account of a spring spent in Sicily. Includes descriptions of the scenery, people and ruins of Sicily before the earthquake, with chapters on its associations with history, literature and classical tradition.

Corsica

Obrazy Korsyki. 1897.

Chapman, John Mitchel. 914.59 C36
Corsica, an island of rest. 1908. Stanford.
Author has made many visits to Corsica and writes entertainingly of the country, the people and incidents of travel. Useful information about hotels, routes and points of interest. Many illustrations from photographs.

Lear, Edward. q914.59 L45
Journal of a landscape painter in Corsica. 1870. Bush.
Mr Lear traveled in pursuit of beauty and not as an historian or archæologist, but his descriptions of scenery are admirable and he often enlivens the text with anecdotes. The illustrations give the book its chief value.

Spain

History

Bussaco. 1910. Sonnenschein. (Wellington's battlefields illustrated.)
Detailed description of this battle of the Peninsula war, fought September 27, 1810 between the British-Portuguese army under Lord Wellington and the French army under Masséna. Maps and illustrations.

Clarke, Henry Butler. 946 C53
Modern Spain, 1815–1898; with a memoir [of the author] by W. H. Hutton. 1906. Cambridge University Press. (Cambridge historical series.)
"Bibliography," p.471–481.
A work of undoubted authority. Mr Clarke had known Spain from his boyhood and was perhaps more intimately acquainted than any other foreigner with the intricacies of modern Spanish politics. The book closes with an impartial account of the Spanish-American war. Condensed from Spectator, 1907.

Drinkwater, John, afterward Bethune. qr946 D82
History of the late siege of Gibraltar, with a description and account of that garrison from the earliest periods. 1785. Spilsbury.
Author, ensign in a British regiment stationed at Gibraltar, kept a careful record of events during the siege by the Spanish-French forces, 1779–83. His narrative ranks as a military classic.

Hume, Martin Andrew Sharp. 946 H92c
Court of Philip IV; Spain in decadence. 1907. Putnam.
Mr Hume, who is an acknowledged authority on Spanish history, writes in this volume not so much for the special student as for the general reader. He gives a picturesque description of the life, manners and chief personages of the Spanish court in the first half of the 17th century. Contains several portraits by Velasquez.

Scott, Samuel Parsons. 946 S42

History of the Moorish empire in Europe. 3v. 1904. Lippincott.

"Authorities consulted in the preparation of this work," v.1, p.17–42.

His work, though not without a certain old-fashioned dignity of style, is too monotonous to be popular and too uncritical in its affirmations to content the trained student of history. The scope of the work is amply inclusive. Two volumes cover the whole period of Moorish occupation in the peninsula, while the third contains matter of some interest and value in the form of essays on the art, institutions and influence of the Muslims, as well as on the Jews and the Moriscoes in Spain. Condensed from American historical review, 1905.

Impressions of Spain. 1903. Philip.

The impressions which Mr Calvert has brought back from his journeys in Spain are of cathedrals, picture galleries, cafés, bull-fights, handsome women, and above all, of mines, to which the best chapter in the book is devoted.

Calvert, Albert Frederick. 914.6 C14l

Leon, Burgos and Salamanca: a historical and descriptive account. 1908. Lane. (Spanish series.)

As the larger portion of the book is given up to the 462 illustrations of the art and architectural relics of these old cities, the descriptive matter is necessarily brief, but the author has given an admirably condensed account of the characteristics, history and points of interest of each place. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1908.

Calvert, Albert Frederick. 914.6 C14m

Madrid; an historical description and handbook of the Spanish capital. 1909. Lane. (Spanish series.)

Short chapters on the art, literature and drama of the city, on the court and society, bull-fights, etc. Nearly 500 illustrations from photographs.

Calvert, Albert Frederick. 914.6 C14r

Royal palaces of Spain; a historical & descriptive account of the seven principal palaces of the Spanish kings. 1909. Lane. (Spanish series.)

Contents: The Escorial.—La Granja (San Ildefonso).—El Pardo.—Aranjuez.—Miramar.—El Alcazar (Seville).—Royal palace (Madrid).

Contains many plates.

Cordova, a city of the Moors. 1907. Lane. (Spanish series.)

Sketch of the history of the city and its present appearance, chiefly valuable for its series of photographs, which give a vivid glimpse of the remaining architectural grandeur of the city.

Cayley, George John. 914.6 C29

The bridle roads of Spain; or, Las alforjas, with an introduction by Martin Hume and recollections of the author by Lady Ritchie and Mrs Cobden Sickert. 1908.

First published in 1853 and reprinted "to be read as a little masterpiece of travel by any one upon whom the glamour of Spain has fallen."

"In many ways an original and entertaining work, based as much upon romantic imaginings and thoughts suggested on the road as upon actual fact." Spectator, 1908.

Collins, W. W. 914.6 C71

Cathedral cities of Spain. 1909. Dodd.

The interest of the book is virtually confined to the colored illustrations, the short descriptive chapters being written for the most part in the style of a severely condensed guide-book. The illustrations are successful in reproducing the pervading color not only of the buildings but of the cities described.

Elliott, Mrs Maud (Howe). 914.6 E529

Sun and shadow in Spain. 1908. Little.

Record of travel through Spanish cities, brightened with the author's unfailing enthusiasm and lively imagination. Fully illustrated from photographs.

Ellis, Havelock. 914.6 E53

Soul of Spain. 1908. Constable.

Contents: Introduction.—The Spanish people.—The women of Spain.—The art of Spain.—Velazquez.—Spanish dancing.—Ramon Lull at Palma.—"Don Quixote."—Juan

Ellis, Havelock—continued. 914.6 E53

Valera.—Santa Maria del Mar.—The gardens of Granada.—Segovia.—Seville in spring.—Seville cathedral.—Monserrat.—Spanish ideals of to-day.

The writer interprets rather than describes. He has pondered the details and he gives his reader the result of his thought—always philosophical, often deeply suggestive. His best chapters are the two on "The Spanish people" and "The women of Spain." We have nowhere read a more fascinating attempt at Spanish psychology. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Franck, Harry Alverson. 914.6 F87

Four months afoot in Spain. 1911. Century.

Like his "Vagabond journey around the world," this tour of Spain was made mostly on foot, with a very small expenditure of money and much mingling with the "masses" along the way.

Gautier, Théophile. 914.6 G24v

Voyage en Espagne; ed. by Gerald Goodridge. 1905. Clarendon Press. (Oxford modern French series.)

Hartley, Catherine Gasquoine, afterward Mrs Gallichan. 914.6 H32

Moorish cities in Spain. 1906. Siegle.

Contents: Córdova.—Toledo.—Seville.—Granada.

Impressionistic book which aims at the expression of moods and the reproduction of atmospheres rather than at the statement of fact. Illustrated.

Luffmann, Carl Bogue. 914.6 L97

Quiet days in Spain. 1910. Dutton.

The impression made by Mr Luffmann's book is that the author has been sharing the every-day life of the peninsula. He has little to say of cathedrals or galleries, art or history, but he is to be commended for his portrayal of provincial life and character and for many interesting facts which find no place in handbooks or among the superficial notes of the ordinary traveler. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Marriott, Charles, b. 1869. 914.6 M41

Spanish holiday. [1908.] Methuen.

Traveling on foot or third class by railway, the author gathered many interesting impressions of the country and the people. The route included San Sebastian, Burgos, Madrid, Toledo, etc. Illustrations from photographs and drawings.

O'Reilly, Eliza Boyle. 914.6 O28

Heroic Spain. 1910. Duffield.

Sketchy narrative of an eight months' tour in Spain, varied with pleasant excursions into the domains of history, literature, architecture and art. Author has not only traveled the beaten path, but describes many nooks and corners not visited by the ordinary tourist. The chapter on literature is not merely a rehash of standard text-books, but evinces wide reading and original thought. Introductory chapter gives the prospective tourist much practical advice. Illustrations are unhackneyed and artistic. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Northern Spain; painted and described. 1906. Black.

Illustrated in color.

Williams, Leonard. 914.6 W74g

Granada; memories, adventures, studies and impressions. 1906. Heinemann.

Deals for the most part with places which are off the beaten track of the tourist. There is an account of a visit to the church and college of the Sacro Monte of Granada and of excursions in the Sierra Nevadas and to Guadix.

Williams, Leonard. q914.6 W74t

Toledo and Madrid; their records and romances. 1903. Cassell.

Shows familiarity with Spanish literature and history. There are many illustrations.

Wood, Walter. 914.61 W85

Corner of Spain, with an introduction by Martin Hume; illustrated in colour and line from pictures by F. H. Mason. 1910. Nash.

Describes the life and character of Galicia, the little-known northwest corner of Spain.

Calvert, Albert Frederick. 914.68 C14

Seville; an historical and descriptive account of "the pearl of Andalusia." 1907. Lane. (Spanish series.)

The valuable feature of the book is the illustrations—300 in all—which include buildings and details of buildings and many reproductions of the work of Spanish painters.

Molloy, Joseph Fitzgerald. 947 M79

Russian court in the 18th century. 2v. 1905. Scribner.

Includes the period from 1741, when Elizabeth the daughter of Peter the Great ascended the throne, to the murder of Paul I in 1801. Catharine II is naturally the central figure.

"He has not gone further afield in his 'reading-up' than the easily accessible memoirs of foreign ambassadors to the court of Russia in the eighteenth century, those of Catharine II. and her friend the Princess Dashkoff, Catharine's letters to her French correspondents, and similar sources... But the combination of these offers a vivid picture of the lighter...side of life in Russia." Nation, 1906.

Russia and reform. 1907. Dutton.

In its range, method, and adequacy of knowledge and insight, it is certainly the best account that the Russian liberation movement, which began in 1904, has brought forth. If certain parts, like the chapters on the church or education, show a want of thorough, systematic and complete treatment, they offer, on the whole, sufficient assistance towards the chief aim in mind, the comprehension of forces now at work in the czar's empire. The psychology of the Russian people is portrayed with admirable insight and sympathy. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

"Account by a native official of the intricate workings of the Russian bureaucracy. The author...is not a destructive agitator, but a constructive patriot, being a believer in a constitutional monarchy and a representative of the Constitutional Democracy in the First Duma. Prince Urussov, as governor of Bessarabia, shortly after the terrible pogrom or massacre of Kishinev, traced the responsibility of that crime to the very government he served." Bookman, 1908.

The red reign; the true story of an adventurous year in Russia. 1908. Century.

Within its own class it is probably the best book on present-day Russia that has so far been written, for completeness, clearness and picturesqueness of treatment. The author is a journalist and his point of view is intensely and avowedly anti-governmental. His intimate relations with the most active of the revolutionaries have enabled him to seize what may be called the soul of revolutionary Russia with convincing appreciation. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

An Englishman's Russian experiences. He tells of his first visit in the year of the revolution, of his friends in the towns and in the villages, and of his explorings. He has tramped in Transcaucasia, lived for some time in a mill on the Terek, has slept in the open and in shepherds' huts, has been arrested as a spy and imprisoned. The book is written in a spirit of kindliness and humor, and shows warm sympathy with the Russian in country and town. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1910.

Vikings in western Christendom, A. D. 789 to A. D. 888. 1891. Unwin.
Book is really the history of western Europe during the period covered. Not only are the incursions of the northern pirates chronicled in all their bearings, but the religion and ethics, politics and social conditions of nearly all contemporaneous Europe are taken into account as well. The separate expeditions and their connection with each other Mr Keary follows out as much in detail as available material will allow and the reader may be referred to the story for an interesting and unvarnished record of one of the most stirring episodes in the whole history of the Germanic people. Condensed from Nation, 1891.

Old Dutch towns and villages of the Zuiderzee [with] illustrations by W. O. J. Nieuwenkamp and J. G. Veldheer. 1901. Unwin.

Contents: Monnikendam.—Edam.—Hoorn.—Enkhuizen.—Medemblik.—Buiksloot.—Nieuwendam.—Broek in Waterland.—Durgerdam.—Volendam and Marken.

Drawings and woodcuts of the more remarkable buildings. Accompanying descriptions supply interesting historical data.

Waller, Mary Ella. 914.92 W18

Through the gates of the Netherlands. 1907. Little.

The writer stayed within the gates from midwinter to midsummer when Holland belongs to the Dutch and when ordinary tourists are not swarming over the land. She uses her own eyes and describes her impressions and experiences entirely from the legitimate point of view of an intelligent foreigner, instead of filling her pages with diluted Motley, Amicis and Baedeker. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Belgium

Boulger, Demetrius Charles von Kavanagh. 949.3 B65

History of Belgium. 2v. 1902–09. Privately printed.

v.1. Cæsar to Waterloo.

v.2. 1815–1865; Waterloo to the death of Leopold I.

By closing with the death of Leopold I the author may save himself embarrassment;

Boulger, Demetrius Charles von Kavanagh—continued. 949.3 B65
but it is unsatisfactory from the reader's point of view, for half the career of Belgium as a nation is thus excluded, as well as the present king's exploits as a colonizer and empire-builder. Condensed from Saturday review, 1909.

Vieusseux, André. 949.4 V31
History of Switzerland from the first irruption of the northern tribes to the present time, including the wars of independence, the confederations of the cantons, the reformation by Zuinglius, struggles during the French revolution, etc.; comp. from the best authorities, including Müller, Meyer, Franscini and Kasthofer. 1846. Bohn.
"At the time of its publication, it was one of the best of the short histories of Switzerland. Since 1846, however, much has been done by explorers of early Swiss annals; and consequently it is no longer of its former value. The portions of the work on the period of the Reformation and the period of the French Revolution are of most value." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Greece. Byzantine empire

History

For History of ancient Greece, see 938

Bussell, Frederick William. 949.5 B96

The Roman empire; essays on the constitutional history from the accession of Domitian (81 A. D.) to the retirement of Nicephorus III (1081 A. D.). 2v. 1910. Longmans.

v.1. The pagan empire; the civilian monarchy and the military reaction.—Problems of the new monarchy and the new subjects; or, The limitations of autocracy and the barbarian offer.—Reconstruction and collapse under the houses of Justin and Heraclius; victory of civilian and reaction to military forms.—Zenith and decline of the Byzantine monarchy under Asiatic influence; Roman tradition, the court and the feudal nobility.—Review of the period.—Analysis.

v.2. Political influences moulding the nominal autocracy of the Cæsars (400–1080). —Armenia and its relations with the empire (520–1120); the predominance of the Armenian element.—APPENDIX: The aristocracy and the provincial regiments; or, Emperor, senate and army during the great anarchy (690–720).

Byzantine empire [tr. from the French by A. H. Powles]. 1907. Dent. (Temple primers.)

"Bibliographical criticism," p.228–230.

Gives in very small compass the history of the Byzantine empire from 400 to the fall of Constantinople in 1453.

Rodd, Sir James Rennell. 949.5 R58

Princes of Achaia and the chronicles of Morea; a study of Greece in the middle ages. 2v. 1907. Arnold.

"Historical authorities," v.1, p.1–26.

The history of Greece during the two centuries and a half between the capture of Constantinople in 1204 by the fourth crusade and the destruction of the Greek empire in 1453 has never been satisfactorily written. Sir Rennell Rodd has attempted the task of bringing the narrative sources into some kind of connection as far as relates to Achaia and Morea. He makes no attempt to connect the events related with the history of Greece as a whole or to show their relation to that of eastern Europe. Especially noteworthy is the story of the Villehardouins, who conquered the whole west coast of the Morea, and of the Catalan Company, whose lawless adventures played an important part in the story of the princes of Achaia. Condensed from American historical review, 1907.

Description and travel

Abbott, George Frederick, ed. 914.95 A13

Greece in evolution; studies prepared under the auspices of the French League for the Defence of the Rights of Hellenism; tr. from the French, with a preface by Sir C. W. Dilke. 1909. Unwin.

Allinson, Francis Greenleaf, & Allinson, Mrs A. C. (Emery). 914.95 A43

Greek lands and letters. 1909. Houghton.

Contents: The widespread land of Hellas.— Piræus, the harbour town.— Athens, from Solon to Salamis.—The Acropolis of Athens.—Athens, from Salamis to Menander. — Old Greece in new Athens.— Attica.— Eleusis.— Ægina.— Megara and Corinth, the Gulf of Corinth.— Delphi.— From Delphi to Thebes. — Thebes and Bœotia. — Bœotia (continued).—Thermopylæ.—Argolis.—Arcadia.—Olympia.—Messenia.—Sparta.

"Citations noted" in the appendix, p.453–461.

"A work that is original in plan and very successful in execution. Each Greek province is presented with its modern characteristics, and the incidents of mythology and history associated with it pointed out, largely by means of extracts or summaries from ancient Greek authors. This method serves to make the literature a guide to the country, and gives the book a decided value to the scholarly reader as well as making it an efficient commentary for the studious traveler. Art and archeology are only incidentally touched upon by way of illustration." A. L. A. booklist, 1910.

Ferriman, Z. Duckett. 914.95 F42

Home life in Hellas; Greece and the Greeks. 1910. Mills.

Lifelike picture of the modern Greeks. Author shows familiarity with many out-of-the-way parts of Greece, especially the islands. Condensed from Athenæum, 1911.

Macmillan & Co. pub. 1914.95 M21

Guide to Greece, the archipelago, Constantinople, the coasts of Asia Minor, Crete and Cyprus. 1908. (Macmillan's guides.)

Marden, Philip Sanford. 914.95 M37

Greece and the Ægean islands. 1907. Houghton.

Recounts Mr Marden's own experiences and should prove of use to future travelers. Athens, Delphi, Mycenæ and Olympia are among the places described and among the islands visited were Delos, Samos, Cnidos and Rhodes. Written in a clear style and with enthusiasm. Contains many good illustrations from photographs and a map.

Moore, Mabel. 914.95 M87

Days in Hellas. 1909. Heinemann.

"Interesting and pleasantly informal account of travels in Greece, concerning itself chiefly with modern Greek character and conditions but incidentally giving some information on historical and archeological subjects." A. L. A. booklist, 1910.

Perdicaris, G. A. 914.95 P42

Greece of the Greeks. 2v. 1845. Paine.

Author was a Greek by birth, but an American by adoption and education. In 1836 he was appointed as the first American consul to Greece. The book records his travels during his stay in that country.

Quinn, Daniel. 914.95 Q35

Helladian vistas. 1909. Privately printed.

Papers on Grecian history, ancient, mediæval and modern, with descriptions of scenery and characterizations of the people. There is more of the modern aspect of Greece than of the classical.

Rodd, Sir James Rennell. 914.95 R58

Customs and lore of modern Greece. 1892. Stott.

Contents: Ethnology of modern Greece and historical sketch of the populations.—The land and the people.—Village festivals, fairs, dances and marriages.—Birth, destiny and death.—Beliefs and ceremonies, survivals of the ancient in the new.—Luck, divination and healing.—The supernatural, genii, nereids, vampires, goblins and demons.—The popular poetry.—The Klephts and Klephtic songs.—The saga Suli.—The lyrical poetry.

Turkey in Europe

History

Draganof. 949.6 D78

Macedonia and the reforms; preface by Victor Bérard; tr. from the French. 1908. [Hazell.]

Reviews the so-called reforms imposed by foreign powers upon Turkey in the 20th century, and shows their futility in obtaining better treatment for Macedonia. The bulk of the volume consists of accounts of the civil war in Macedonia, isolated murders, plunderings and burnings.

[Eliot, Sir Charles Norton Edgecumbe.] 949.6 E47a

Turkey in Europe. 1908. Arnold.

Contents: Before the Turkish conquest.—After the Turkish conquest.—The Turks. — Mohammedanism. — The orthodox church. — The Greeks. — The Bulgarians and the Serbs.—The Albanians and Vlachs.—The Armenians.—1907.—The outlook.

Contains a map of the Balkan peninsula and a map of Asia.

"Whatever else the author may be, he is unquestionably and in his own right a master and an authority in his subject. He knows Turkish, colloquial and literary... through and through...He knows also the Turks themselves by long residence and varied intercourse with them...Further, he knows modern Greek and the Greeks at first hand...The learning is undoubtedly there, but with it...much free and breezy intercourse with the peoples on their own hills and in their own villages...It may be said generally that an outstanding characteristic of the book is this union of vivid and personal perception and scholarly, clear-cut tabulation of statement." Nation, 1901.

"We cannot recall any recent book on the subject, and scarcely any of the older authorities, of equal or even approximate merit." Spectator, 1901.

Knight, Edward Frederick. 949.6 K34

The awakening of Turkey; a history of the Turkish revolution. 1909. Lippincott.

Detailed and readable account of the Young Turk movement and the revolution of 1908, by one who has gathered much of his material at first hand. Concluding chapter is an account of the counter-revolution in 1909, and the final success of the Young Turks. Portraits.

McCullagh, Francis. 949.6 M14

Fall of Abd-ul-Hamid, with a preface by Mahmud Shefket Pasha. [1910.] Methuen.

"Mr. McCullagh's book, compared with others dealing with the second Turkish revolution, has this peculiar value, that its writer fell most luckily into the very centre of events and into contact with the people who were making that decisive bit of history. Taking the book as a frank statement from the Young Turk point of view, it is one of quite extraordinary interest and value." Nation, 1910.

Mikes, Kelemen. 949.6 M68

Description and travel

Bełza, Stanisław. 914.96 B42

W stolicy padyszacha (wrażenia z podróży do Konstantynopola). 1898.

Brailsford, Henry Noel. 914.96 B68

Macedonia; its races and their future. 1906. Methuen.

Mr Brailsford spent some time in Macedonia working on behalf of the British Relief Fund, and in this way came into close touch with the Macedonian peasantry. He explains the nature of Turkish rule in that country and suggests measures of reform. Contains a chapter on the Albanians.

Brown, Mrs Demetra (Vaka). 914.96 B78

Haremlik; some pages from the life of Turkish women. 1909. Houghton.

Author, returning to her native Constantinople after six years in America, here records her impressions of the Turkish women who had been her girlhood friends. Written with sympathy and insight and gives an interesting description of the life, customs, and mode of thought of Turkish women.

De Windt, Harry. 914.96 D51

Through savage Europe; being the narrative of a journey throughout the Balkan states and European Russia. 1907. Unwin.

Travel and observation in Montenegro, Herzegovina, Bosnia, Servia, Bulgaria, Roumania and a part of Russia. Servia occupies nearly half the volume and an account of the late King Alexander and Queen Draga is included.

Durham, Mary Edith. 914.96 D94h

High Albania. 1909. Arnold.

Albania has hitherto remained less known than many parts of darkest Africa. It is the one spot on the continent of Europe for which no map worth the name has yet been drawn. The results of Miss Durham's exploration are thus bound to possess the interest and the value of novelty. She presents a wealth of information on Albanian folk-lore, politics, traditions, customs, beliefs and landscape somewhat confusedly thrown together, but with the charm of freshness and the value of accuracy. The political aspect of the book is of most importance at the present hour. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1910.

Garnett, Lucy Mary Jane. 914.96 G19tu

Turkish people; their social life, religious beliefs and institutions and domestic life. [1909.] Methuen.

Also published under the title "Home life in Turkey."

Miss Garnett has provided a full and intimate study of Turkish life in all its departments. She shows us the methods of government, the ways of the church, the social and domestic habits of the people. She tells delightful folk-tales and gives vivid little sketches of scenes and incidents. Especially interesting is her treatment of the woman question. She denies that the religion of Islam relegates woman to an inferior place. Condensed from Spectator, 1909.

Herbert, Frederick William von. 914.96 H46

By-paths in the Balkans. 1906. Chapman.

Contains two chapters on the Balkan gypsies and their music.

"It is an odd pot-pourri of Near Eastern impressions and studies, strung together without much visible connection or logical sequence, but full of curious facts and fancies." Outlook (London), 1906.

Lear, Edward. q914.96 L45

Journals of a landscape painter in Albania, Illyria, &c. 1852. Bentley.

Edward Lear (1812–88) was an English artist and author, best known for his "Book of nonsense." This volume is a record of his travels in European Turkey, illustrated with his own sketches.

Macfarlane, Charles. 914.96 M15

Turkey and its destiny; the result of journeys made in 1847 and 1848 to examine into the state of that country. 2v. 1850. Lea.

Mainly concerned with the condition of the people. The author, a Scottish writer, believed that the break-up of the Turkish empire was imminent and that when the government was overthrown the Turks could be easily converted to Christianity.

Monroe, Will Seymour. 914.96 M83

Turkey and the Turks; an account of the lands, the peoples and the institutions of the Ottoman empire. 1907. Page.

Eight chapters are devoted to a description of Constantinople.

Singleton, Esther, ed. 914.96 S61

Turkey and the Balkan states as described by great writers. 1908. Dodd.

Contents: The Balkan peninsula.—The Ottoman Turks, by E. A. Freeman.—Fall of Constantinople, by Lord John Russell.—Turkish history from the fall of Constantinople to the battle of Navarino, by E. A. Smith, Albert Richard. 914.96 S64

A month at Constantinople. 1850. Bogue.

First impressions of the city as seen in 1849 by a London writer, one of the first travelers to give popular lectures on his experiences in foreign lands. Illustrated.

Smith, Arthur Douglas Howden. 914.96 S642

Fighting the Turk in the Balkans; an American's adventures with the Macedonian revolutionists. 1908. Putnam.

Author went to Macedonia in 1907 as a newspaper correspondent and joined a band of Bulgarian insurgents. He describes not only the events of the revolution, but the manners and customs of the people, in Bulgaria as well as Macedonia. Illustrations and maps.

Sonnichsen, Albert. 914.96 S69

Confessions of a Macedonian bandit. 1909. Duffield.

Author, an American journalist and member of the Macedonian committee of revolution, 1906, enlisted in a mountain cheta (armed band) and describes here his own adventures and the turbulent conditions which resulted in the late Turkish revolution.

Van Millingen, Alexander. 914.96 V19

Constantinople; painted by Warwick Goble, described by Alexander Van Millingen. 1906. Black.

The illustrations are rarely successful in imparting the secret of the charm of this beautiful city. Professor Van Millingen, a learned archæologist and authority on the ancient city, has unbent for the general reader and presents a sketch of the history and life of the city, suggestive to the imagination, not too crowded with facts, yet sufficiently full to embody the impression created by the pictures.

Mijatovich, Chedomille. 914.97 M68

Servia and the Servians. 1908. Pitman.

"Mr. Mijatovich who used to be Servian minister at London, writes with equal charm and authority. There is only one chapter on Servia and that is historical; the rest of the volume is on the Servians, their customs, beliefs, literature, and folk-lore... a veritable little encyclopaedia of national life and psychology." Nation, 1909.
Illustrated.

Stead, Alfred, ed. 914.97 S79

Servia by the Servians. 1909. Heinemann.

Comprehensive estimate of Servia and the Servian race from the pens of representative Servians. King Peter writes the introductory chapter on the ideals of national development, the director of the state archives gives a historical survey, the minister of public instruction writes on education, museums and libraries, and other authorities supply chapters on religion, manners and customs, finance, economics, industries, agriculture, trade, diplomacy, art and literature. Truce in the East and its aftermath; being the sequel to "The reshaping of the Far East." 1907. Macmillan.

Contents: Japan and the new position.—China and the Chinese.—The powers and their influence.—Appendices.

Points out some grave aspects of the situation. He believes that the so-called peace between Japan and Russia is simply a truce; that Russia is still unbeaten; and that the Anglo-Japanese alliance is an artificial arrangement and cannot last. Appendixes contain valuable material, including texts of treaties, a detailed statement of China's foreign trade in 1905, and of her commercial liabilities and assets, tables of the Japanese public debt and cost of the war.

Keen study of the contact of western civilization with eastern in India, China and Japan. Discusses in particular English administration in India. Touches also on the new responsibilities of the United States in the East and the ambitions of Japan as they are likely to affect America.

Hart, Albert Bushnell. 915 H31

The obvious Orient. 1911. Appleton.

Contents: The coast.—Japan.—China.—American colonies.—British colonies.

The title expresses the author's admission that "no one can learn all there is in the most ancient and inscrutable of the continents in an eight months' experience." He had, however, rather unusual opportunities to observe the governmental and social conditions in Japan, China and the Philippine islands and his book reflects much more than surface impressions.

China

History

Bland, John Otway Percy, & Backhouse, E. q951 B53

China under the empress dowager; the history of the life and times of Tzŭ Hsi, compiled from state papers and the private diary of the comptroller of her household. 1910. Heinemann.

"Some of the documents have never before been published and the whole book, in its sound learning, lack of bias and wealth of information, is a revelation of the empress' personality and of Chinese diplomacy. There are many photographic illustrations and a map of Peking with full descriptive index to important buildings and sites." A. L. A. booklist, 1911.

Conger, Mrs Sarah (Pike). 951 C74

Letters from China, with particular reference to the empress dowager and the women of China. 1909. McClurg.

"Mrs. Conger, widow of our late Minister to the Court of Peking, writes...with all the zest, all the fresh curiosity, of an intelligent and observant woman visiting new and, in some instances, startling scenes for the first time...The Boxer disturbances, falling within the period of Mr. and Mrs. Conger's residence in Peking [1898–1904], afforded material for many anxious entries in the diary kept by the wife during that trying time." Dial, 1909.

"Three hundred pages of the most pungent descriptive writing, a vivid and violent story of personal experiences, things seen, heard and felt, during the ghastly months of the Boxer terror in Pekin, and of the merciless reprisals taken by Europe after the relief of the Legations." Outlook (London), 1907.

Description and travel

Brown, Arthur Judson. 915.1 B78

New forces in old China; an inevitable awakening. 1904. Revell.

Contents: Old China and its people.—The commercial force and the economic revolution.—The political force and the national protest.—The missionary force and the Chinese church.—The future of China and our relation to it.

Describes the operation of three great transforming forces in China,—western trade, politics and religion.

Bryson, Mrs Mary Isabella. 915.1 B84c

Child life in Chinese homes. 1885. Religious Tract Soc.

Written after nine years' residence in China as a missionary. Second part contains true stories of Chinese boys and girls known to the author. Illustrated.

Changing China. 1910. Nisbet.

Contents: China in transition.—Religions of China and the missionary.—The new and the old learning.—Appendix: Will Russia be represented on the mission field?

Bibliography, p.11–12.

Written by trained inquirers fresh from the field. Discusses with sympathy the weak and strong sides of Chinese civilization, its meaning to the world, foreign relations, cities, rivers, the impending economic revolutions, opium, the woman question and Chinese architecture. Every phase of the native religions and the missionaries is treated with catholicity and vigor. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Przyszłość Chin; groźne wnioski z przesłanek lekceważonych. 1898.

Geil, William Edgar. 915.1 G28g

The great wall of China. 1909. Sturgis.

An American student of China, knowing the language and at ease among the people, has traveled from end to end of the wall. Fortunately he took his camera with him, and so was able to provide the only element that is admirable in his book. His pages are a mine of fact and history and discussion but disfigured by a tone of levity and facetiousness. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1910.

Headland, Isaac Taylor. 915.1 H38

Court life in China; the capitals, its officials and people. 1909. Revell.

Goes far towards bringing the remarkable empress dowager within our comprehension as woman and ruler, and succeeds in showing Chinese officials and people in their proper light in the world's history. The book is appreciative of the Chinese and hopeful that increasing knowledge will result in greater respect for Chinese statesmanship and honesty.

Headland, Isaac Taylor. j915.1 H380

Our little Chinese cousin. 1903. Page.

Tells of the childhood of Chenchu, a little Chinese girl, and how she escaped having her feet bound. Illustrated with photographs and Chinese drawings.

Johnston, Reginald Fleming. 915.1 J36

From Peking to Mandalay; a journey from north China to Burma through Tibetan Ssuch'uan and Yunnan. 1908. Murray.

The journey was undertaken for the purpose of visiting the tribes subject to China which inhabit Chinese Tibet and Yunnan. Buddhism in China and Buddhistic legends are discussed at some length.

A book written with learning, authority and enthusiasm which should be read by those who care for the judgments of a man who has brought to bear in remote parts of the Chinese empire a full knowledge of the Chinese character and language. Condensed from Spectator, 1908.

Johnston, Reginald Fleming. 915.1 J361

Lion and dragon in northern China. 1910. Dutton.

Contents: Weihaiwei and the Shantung promontory. — History and legend. — Chinese chronicles and local celebrities.—British rule.—Litigation.—Village life and land tenure.—Village customs, festivals and folk-lore.—The women of Weihaiwei.—Widows and children.—Family graveyards.—Dead men and ghost-lore.—Confucianism.—Taoism, local deities, tree-worship.—The dragon, mountain-worship, Buddhism.—Religion and superstition in East and West.—The future.

Of interest chiefly for its colored illustrations.

Little, Archibald John. 915.1 L74g

Gleanings from 50 years in China; revised by Mrs Archibald Little. [1910.] Low.

Contents: Trade and politics.—Travel.—Drama and legend.—Religion and philosophy.

Mr Little's name is mainly associated with western China, and particularly with the attempt to make practicable for steam navigation the rapids which separate Ich'ang from Chung-ch'ing on the Yangtze Kiang river. Book consists of articles which have appeared from time to time in periodicals.

Margary, Augustus Raymond. 915.1 M38

Journey from Shanghae to Bhamo and back to Manwyne, from his journals and letters, with a brief biographical preface; to which is added a concluding chapter by Sir Rutherford Alcock. 1876. Macmillan.

Margary (1846–75) was an English traveler attached to the legation at Pekin. He was the first Englishman to traverse the route described.

Oliphant, Laurence. 915.1 O23

Narrative of the earl of Elgin's mission to China and Japan in the years 1857, '58, '59. 1860. Harper.

Mr Oliphant was private secretary to Lord Elgin on his expeditions to China and Japan, with both of which countries treaties were made providing for additional trade facilities. The book has slight political interest. It is essentially a traveler's account of life and scenery in the countries visited.

Hedin, Sven. 915.15 H39t

Trans-Himalaya; discoveries and adventures in Tibet. 2v. 1909. Macmillan.

The special quest of Dr Hedin was that hitherto unexplored range of mountains to which he now assigns the name of "Trans-Himalaya." It is an immense chain, stretching for about 600 miles and forming the northern watershed of the great Brahmaputra, as well as of the upper Indus, yet its very existence was largely the subject of conjecture. Dr Hedin crossed this range by eight different passes and mapped out its contours in considerable detail. The volumes in which he tells the story of his great achievement differ from all his previous books on the "Forbidden land" in possessing greater human interest. For the first time he was able to penetrate what he terms "Tibet proper" and for this good fortune he is indebted to the amicable relations established with Tibet by the British mission of 1904. Condensed from Nature, 1910.

Holdich, Sir Thomas Hungerford. 915.15 H71

Tibet, the mysterious. 1904. Rivers. (The story of exploration.)

"Bibliography of Tibet," p.337–341.

Treats briefly of the history of Tibet and contains a description of Lhasa, the capital, but the main purpose of the book is to summarize the results of private and government exploration from the 16th century to the present time. Maps and illustrations.

Korea

McKenzie, Frederick Arthur. 951.9 M17

Tragedy of Korea. [1908.] Dutton.

Story of the awakening and the destruction of the nation, chiefly concerned with events since 1901. Author is an authority on the Far East, and writes largely from personal experience. He shows much sympathy for the people and severely criticizes Japan's Korean policy. Illustrated.

Allen, Horace Newton. 915.19 A42t

Includes administration, finance, currency, banking, commerce, agriculture and industries, sanitation, education, etc.

Ladd, George Trumbull. 915.19 L13

In Korea with Marquis Ito. 1908. Scribner.

Contents: A narrative of personal experiences.—A critical and historical inquiry.

Marquis Ito invited Professor Ladd of Yale to be his guest and helper in Korea, where, as resident-general, he represents the protectorate of Japan. From a competent observer and fair-minded critic, with very unusual opportunities for correct information, we have the truth about Korea and Japan in Korea. Condensed from Outlook, 1908.

Japan

Bibliography

Wenckstern, Friedrich von, comp. qr016.95 W51

Bibliography of the Japanese empire; being a classified list of books, essays and maps in European languages relating to Japan published from 1894–1906. v.2. 1907.

v.2. 1894–1906; and a supplement to Léon Pagès' Bibliographie japonaise [and] A list of the Swedish literature on Japan, by Valfrid Palmgren.

For v.1 see preceding catalogue, first series.

History

Griffis, William Elliot. 952 G89j

Japanese nation in evolution; steps in the progress of a great people. [1907.] Crowell.

The rise of the Japanese is traced from prehistoric times, with special emphasis laid upon the author's theory that the original stock of this people is Aryan or Ainu, not Mongolian. To this fact he attributes the secret of the nation's superiority.

Kämpfer, Engelbrecht. 952 K12

History of Japan, together with a description of the kingdom of Siam, 1690–92; tr. by J. G. Scheuchzer. 3v. 1906. MacLehose.

Fifty years of new Japan (Kaikoku gojūnen shi); English version ed. by M. B. Huish. 2v. 1909. Smith, Elder.

Most authoritative work yet published (1911) in English on the progress of modern Japan. The compiler has been a potent influence in this growth and a directing spirit in the great educational, literary and political movements that are re-making the nation. The 56 chapters have been contributed by almost as many authors. In v.1, history, politics, finance, industry and trade are treated; in v.2, religion, literature, culture and education, philosophy, medicine, philanthropy, art and social influences.

Russo-Japanese war

Barry, Richard Hayes. 952 B27e

The events man; being an account of the adventures of Stanley Washburn, American war correspondent. 1907. Moffat.

Account of the operations of a newspaper dispatch boat in the waters between Korea and Port Arthur during the early months of the Russo-Japanese war.

Camperio, Filippo. 952 C16

Al campo russo in Manciuria; note di un marinaio. 1907.

Gulick, Sidney Lewis. 952 G96

White peril in the Far East; an interpretation of the significance of the Russo-Japanese war. 1905. Revell.

Résumé of the development of Japan during the latter half of the 19th century, followed by chapters on the meaning of the war and the problems of the Far East.

Hamilton, Sir Ian Standish Monteith. 952 H21

Staff officer's scrap-book during the Russo-Japanese war. 2v. 1907. Arnold.

Sir Ian Hamilton was with the Japanese army, as the military representative of India.

"The author belongs to that very small class of soldiers who add to an extensive technical equipment the knowledge that to conduct war is to play on the psychology of individuals and of masses, and to that even smaller class with whom the pen flashes as readily as the sword. Sir Ian is a wit, the best of comrades, fair to foe as to friend, willing to acknowledge a mistake or a weakness, and always a military critic of the first rank." Nation, 1907.

Kuropatkin, Gen. Aleksei Nikolaevich. 952 K43

The Russian army and the Japanese war; being historical and critical comments on the military policy and power of Russia and on the campaign in the Far East; tr. by A. B. Lindsay, ed. by E. D. Swinton. 2v. 1909. Dutton.

Translation of the fourth volume of General Kuropatkin's history of the campaign in Manchuria, the manuscript of which found its way to London after its suppression in Russia.

"It is careful in statement and dispassionate in tone, and its interest and value consist in its presentation of new facts; its disclosure of Russia's aims and purposes, particularly in the Far East; its generous estimate and cordial appreciation of the Japanese; and its frank and unsparing revelation of the weaknesses, blunders, and shortcomings of the Russian Government and Russian military administration." Outlook, 1910.

McCormick, Frederick. 952 M14

Tragedy of Russia in Pacific Asia. 2v. 1907. Outing.

During the late war Mr McCormick, in the capacity of Associated Press correspondent, supplied the English-speaking world with what usually proved to be the most authentic information to be had, especially from the Russian side. Despite more or less serious limitations his volumes contain much that is essential to a full knowledge of the war and a good deal that one may never be able to lay hold of elsewhere. Condensed from Dial, 1908.

"O," pseud. 952 O11

The yellow war. 1905. Blackwood.

Many of these articles appeared in "Blackwood's Edinburgh magazine," v.176–177, July 1904–Feb. 1905 under the title "The war in the Far East."

Scenes from the Russo-Japanese war. The author was an eye-witness of many of the incidents related.

"Most of the book can only be described as lurid; and yet the author writes simply, is never rhetorical, and clearly labours to be temperate and exact. But he is mastered by his material, and the cumulative effect of his faithful description is...not far distant from tragedy." Spectator, 1905.

Politovski, Evgenii Sigismondovitch. 952 P76

From Libau to Tsushima; a narrative of the voyage of Admiral Rojdestvensky's fleet to eastern seas, including a detailed account of the Dogger bank incident; tr. by F. R. Godfrey. 1906. Murray.

Politovsky was engineer-constructor in the second Russian fleet, and had charge of repairing the damages which happened on its voyage to the East. He kept a diary, which he sent home in letters to his wife in Russia. The entries extend from August 1904 to May 1905, when he went down in his flagship. A more faithful picture of what the Russians thought and said and did during these nine months there could not be. Condensed from Spectator, 1906.

Sakurai, Tadayoshi. 952 S15

Human bullets; a soldier's story of Port Arthur, with an introduction by Count Okuma; tr. by Masujiro Honda, ed. by A. M. Bacon. 1907. Houghton.

While in command of his company the author was desperately wounded and he has spent his years of convalescence in writing exactly what he saw and felt. He is a Buddhist and writes from the Buddhist point of view. The book is an excellent work on fighting, a fine exposition of Japanese patriotism, and a valuable study of the relations between Buddhist and Shintu or official Japanese doctrine. Condensed from Athenæum, 1907.

[Scidmore, Eliza Ruhamah.] 952 S41

As The Hague ordains; journal of a Russian prisoner's wife in Japan. 1907. Holt.

Whether or not this is an actual record of daily events, it is full of human interest and vivaciously written. Starting out an intensely patriotic Russian, the author gradually transfers her sympathies to the Japanese.

Seaman, Louis Livingston. 952 S43

From Tokio through Manchuria with the Japanese. 1905. Appleton.

As a military surgeon, Dr Seaman was chiefly interested in the treatment of the sick and wounded in time of war, and in the means taken to prevent sickness in the field. He had some interesting and exciting experiences, but prominence is always given to the hospitals and medical system.

Semenov, Vladimīr Ivanovich. 952 S47b

Battle of Tsu-shima, between the Japanese and Russian fleets, fought on 27th May 1905; tr. by Capt. A. B. Lindsay, with a preface by Sir G. S. Clarke. 1909. Murray.

"The author of this remarkable book had exceptionally good opportunities for clearly observing the battle of the Sea of Japan. He was in the flagship 'Knyaz Suvoroff,' but was in her as a passenger to Vladivostok, not as a combatant officer, and hence had ample facilities for making observations and notes throughout the battle until he was wounded too seriously to continue his record of the incidents of the fight. Again, having served with the Port Arthur fleet in the sortie of August 10th, he was able to bring a more trained and critical judgment to bear on the events of the day than any other eyewitness of the action from the Russian side." Spectator, 1907.

Semenov, Vladimīr Ivanovich. 952 S47

Rasplata (The reckoning); his diary during the blockade of Port Arthur and the voyage of Admiral Rojēstvensky's fleet; tr. by L. A. B. 1909. Murray.

"We are not quite sure that the diary upon which Commander Semenoff bases his picturesque story of the Port Arthur fleet and the voyage of Admiral Rozhestvensky ever existed. We are not even sure that there is such a person as Commander Semenoff of the Russian navy. Internal evidence points both ways... Whatever may be the case, we have... an exceptionally readable account of Russia's naval campaigns, written from the anti-governmental standpoint, with much grasp and authority and without excessive prejudice... Minutiæ of naval technique are skilfully blended with much real fighting, a great amount of psychological data, and a good bit of denunciation." Nation, 1909.

Description and travel

Alcock, Sir Rutherford. r915.2 A35

Capital of the Tycoon; a narrative of a three years' residence in Japan. 2v. 1863. Harper.

Alcock was England's first consul-general in Japan. A considerable part of his book is occupied with oriental diplomacy and politics, but its chief interest is in the descriptions of Japanese life and customs.

Umé San in Japan. 1910. Little. (Little people everywhere.)

Begins by telling what little "Miss Plum Blossom" did on her 11th birthday and also describes the "tea-ceremony" of the illustrious dolls, the cherry blossom and flag festivals, the New Year's merrymaking and other happy times, including a trip to Kamakura and the island of shells.

[Busk, Mrs William, ed.] 915.2 B96

Manners and customs of the Japanese in the 19th century; from the accounts of recent Dutch residents in Japan and from the German work of P. F. von Siebold. 1848. Harper.

It was to the Dutch mission sent to Japan in 1823 that Europe was indebted for its early information in regard to that country. Siebold lived with the Dutch colony for six years and he was for a long time considered one of the great authorities on Japan.

Clement, Ernest Wilson. 915.2 C56a

Handbook of modern Japan, with an additional chapter on the Russo-Japanese war. 1907. McClurg.

"A thesaurus of information concerning modern Japan...It would be difficult to name an important theme left unnoticed in this handy volume. History, industry, modern politics, manners and customs, the new woman, literature, language, æsthetics, religions, Christian missions,—are all discussed." Dial, 1904.

De Benneville, James Seguin. 915.2 D35m

McKenzie, Frederick Arthur. 915.2 M17

The unveiled East. 1907. Dutton.

An alarmist view of the situation in the Far East. Mr McKenzie believes that Japan has entered fully upon a campaign of aggressive imperialism.

Miyakawa, Masuji. 915.2 M75

Life of Japan. 1907. Baker.

Author was the first Japanese to be admitted to the American bar and is (1907) lecturer in the law school of the University of Indiana. The book is a general survey, including manners and customs, industrial development, army and navy and government of Japan. In the concluding chapter the improbability of an American-Japanese war is discussed.

Mohl, Ottmar von. 915.2 M77

Am japanischen hofe. 1904.

Redesdale of Redesdale, Algernon Bertram Freeman-Mitford, baron. 915.2 R27

Garter mission to Japan. 1906. Macmillan.

Lord Redesdale was dispatched to Japan by King Edward in January 1906 to carry the Order of the garter to the emperor. The description of the ceremonials of investiture is disposed of in the first 30 pages. What follows is a day by day account, delightfully written, of the entertainments and sights which came in the way of the English party.

Scherer, James Augustin Brown. 915.2 S32w

What is Japanese morality? 1906. Sunday School Times Co.

Keen analysis of Japanese morals, the mainspring of which the author finds in patriotic loyalty.

Schroeder, Oswald, & Pflanz, Ernst. 915.2 S38

Eine reise nach Ostasien. 1905. (Mit camera und feder durch die welt, v.3.)

[Shigemi, Shiukichi.] 915.2 S55

A Japanese boy, by himself. 1890. Holt.

This story of the author's early life is an excellent picture of home life among the middle classes in Japan. In his 14 chapters he describes school and home customs, actors and theatres, fishing, kite-flying, holidays, religious festivals and ceremonies and many other matters of interest.

Steel, Mrs Flora Annie. 954 S81

India through the ages; a popular and picturesque history of Hindustan. 1909. Routledge.

Comes down only to the period of the mutiny. The author is peculiarly fitted for the work by her knowledge of and sympathy with the people of India gained from long residence and association. Maps of India at different periods from 231 B. C. to the present.

"The master-motive of the book is...to display in the light of its history the romantic side of India's ever-changing rulers and its slow changing people." Saturday review, 1908.

Description and travel

Arnold, Sir Edwin. 915.4 A75

India revisited. 1886. Roberts.

"A reprint with additions of letters written for the Daily Telegraph during six months' absence from England. It contains a series of glowing word-pictures, suited alike to the subject and to the writer himself...Wherever he goes Mr. Arnold sets off his word-pictures with scraps of history, legend, poetic and mythologic lore. He brings within his focus all that is beautiful, brilliant or effective in the outer aspects of the world he passes through—the world whether of natural scenery, or of life, manners, and art." Athenæum, 1886.

Ball, Eustace Alfred Reynolds-. 915.4 B211

sovereign advantage, which could scarcely belong to any one in India, of a judicial detachment. Altogether, the book is an example of what such a study should be; it is wise and serious, firm but humane; it displays statecraft as well as historical knowledge ...One thing above all others Mr. Chirol makes clear...He shows that in India—the same thing is true of most Eastern countries—religion is politics." Spectator, 1910.

Cumming, Constance Frederica Gordon-. 915.4 C91

In the Himalayas and on the Indian plains. 1901. Chatto.

An historical relation of Ceylon, together with somewhat concerning severall remarkeable passages of my life that hath hapned since my deliverance out of my captivity. 1911. MacLehose.

Contains facsimile of title-page of edition of 1681.

Author was for nearly 20 years a captive on the island of Ceylon.

"The book, which is both delightful and trustworthy, is the first account of Ceylon in the English language." Dictionary of national biography.

Königsmarck, Hans Adolf Erwein Max, graf von. 915.4 K37

Die Engländer in Indien; reiseeindrücke. 1909.

Author traveled extensively in India, particularly in the north and west, and writes briefly and entertainingly of his impressions. Illustrated from photographs.

Lindsay, Charles Harcourt Ainslie Forbes-. 915.4 L72

India, past and present. 2v. 1903. Coates.

Author was born in Calcutta and spent several years of his later life in India. The book is a readable general description of the country, with an account of its history, legends, manners and customs, etc. Illustrated.

Loti, Pierre, (pseud. of Julien Viaud). 915.4 L91
India; tr. by G. A. F. Inman, ed. by R. H. Sherard. [1906.] Laurie.
Vivid and picturesque description of the country and people. The route is from Ceylon through southern India to Benares where the author went to study the religious faith of the Hindus.

McManus, Blanche, afterward Mrs Mansfield. j915.4 M21
Our little Hindu cousin. 1907. Page. (Little cousin series.)
Also published under the title "Chola, our little Hindu cousin."
Tells about the bazars of India, the festival of the goddess of learning, a journey in an ox wagon to the sacred river and the holy city of Benares, a tiger hunt, etc.

Mody, H. P. 915.4 M76
The political future of India; a study of the aspirations of educated Indians, a prize essay, with two other essays commended by the adjudicators. 1908. Hodder.
Other essays: Regeneration on a racial basis, by Action Front.—Experimental reform, by Moghal.
Discussions of the following questions: (1.) Is it possible for the diverse races of India to become one united self-governing community? (2.) By what steps and in what period of time can this consummation be attained? (3.) How can encouragement best be given to legitimate political aspirations, and seditions most effectively suppressed?

Morison, Margaret Cotter. 915.4 M897
A lonely summer in Kashmir. 1904. Duckworth.
Author writes in pleasant fashion of her experiences, which were for the most part unexciting, during several weeks of solitary journeying through Kashmir. Many unusually good illustrations.

Murray, Alexander Henry Hallam. 915.4 M97
High-road of empire; water-colour and pen-and-ink sketches in India. 1905. Dutton.

Noble, Margaret E. (pseud. Nivedita). 915.4 N38
Web of Indian life, by the sister Nivedita (Margaret E. Noble) of Ramakrishna-Vivekananda. 1906. Heinemann.
Contents: The setting of the warp.—The Eastern mother.—Of the Hindu woman as wife.—Love strong as death.—The place of woman in the national life.—The immediate problems of the oriental woman.—The Indian sagas.—Noblesse oblige; a study of Indian caste.—The synthesis of Indian thought.—The oriental experience.—The wheel of birth and death.—The story of the great god: Siva or Mahadev.—The gospel of the Blessed one.—Islam in India.—An Indian pilgrimage.—On the loom of time.
The author went to Calcutta to conduct a girls' school there and to study the life of Hindu women. Her description of the view which she gained from the inside is interesting but she appears to see everything relating to India in too rose-colored a light to be regarded as an absolutely safe authority.

Warner, Sir William Lee-. 915.4 W23
Citizen of India. 1906. Macmillan.
Handbook of general information in regard to the country, its people and government.

Workman, Mrs Fanny (Bullock), & Workman, W. H. 915.4 W89p

Workman, Mrs F. (Bullock), & Workman, W. H.—continued. 915.4 W89p

Workman climbed to the top of Pinnacle Peak, 23,300 feet. While the bulk of the work relates to the serious affair of mountain-climbing, the authors still find space for dealing with the lighter incidents that attend all journeys. Illustrated from photographs taken by Mrs Workman.

Younghusband, Sir Francis Edward. 915.4 Y41

Kashmir; described by Sir Francis Younghusband, painted by E. Molyneux. 1909. Black.

"Major Molyneux was fortunate in securing the collaboration of the British Resident at Srinagar to describe the main features of the beautiful country which are depicted in the seventy exquisite coloured illustrations in this book; for no other European knows the country and its people better... His description is confined to Kashmir proper, the renowned valley of that name surrounded by forests and the snow-capped Himalayas, and not with Kashmir State." Outlook (London), 1909.

Persia

History

Browne, Edward Granville. 955 B79

The Persian revolution of 1905–1909. 1910. Cambridge University Press.

Professor Browne attempts an historical vindication of the Nationalist movement in Persia. He has not been an eye-witness of the events which he describes but he is as thoroughgoing a student of Persian politics as he has been of Persian literature. The narrative ceases with the deposition of Mohamed Ali Shah and the restoration of the Constitution in 1909. Condensed from Saturday review, 1911.

Description and travel

Birt, Francis Bradley Bradley-. 915.5 B49

Through Persia, from the gulf to the Caspian. 1909. Dutton.

"Excellent guide-book to Persia... Mr. Bradley-Birt, in his brightly written and unassuming account of a journey home from India... gives us a very living notion of the Persians, of Persia, and, above all, of the mighty past." Contemporary review, 1910.

The most interesting part is that descriptive of the southwestern region of Persia, in which lie Shiraz and the ruins of Persepolis. Gives a graphic impression of the ancient empire of the Sassanians.

Cresson, William Penn. 915.5 C87

Persia; the awakening East. 1908. Lippincott.

Contents: The threshold of Asia.—Across the Caspian.—Teheran, the city of contrasts.—The rulers of Persia, the palace.—The rulers of Persia, the parliament.—The religions of Persia.—A Persian caravan.—Hawking in Persia.—Bagdad of to-day.—A pilgrimage to Kerbela.—The Persian gulf.

Dieulafoy, Mme Jane Paule (Magre). qb915.5 D57

La Perse, la Chaldée et la Susiane; relation de voyage. 1887.

Mme Dieulafoy was the wife of a French archæologist who made important discoveries in Persia. She accompanied him on his travels and the book is a fully illustrated account of her experiences.

Hedin, Sven. 915.5 H39

Overland to India. 2v. 1910. Macmillan.

On his way to his last exploration of Tibet, Dr Hedin chose for his route the unfrequented and little-known salt deserts of Persia, which stretch from Teheran eastward through Khorasan, Seistan and Baluchistan to Quetta on the Indian railway system. As a result we obtain much geographical information that is new and a breezy narrative of adventure. Condensed from Saturday review, 1911.

Jackson, Abraham Valentine Williams. 915.5 J12

Persia past and present; a book of travel and research. 1906. Macmillan.

"List of works of reference," p.26–29.

Author is (1907) professor of Indo-Iranian languages at Columbia University. An interesting account is given of the Zoroastrian community at Yezd.

"A volume which has a permanent value, and will take its place by the side of those of Sir Robert Ker Porter and Lord Curzon." Saturday review, 1907.

Lorey, Eustache de, & Sladen, D. B. W. 915.5 L87

Queer things about Persia. 1907. Nash.

"Simple, but entertaining, record of the experiences and impressions gained during two years' residence in the Persian capital by a young member of the French Legation. M. de Lorey describes his house, his servants, street scenes, bazaars, a dinner at the palace of the Grand Vizier, a reception by the late Shah, and a religious play...Much interesting and valuable information is given in regard to marriage and divorce, and the position of women, the material relating to the Shah's harem having been obtained from one of its doctors." Nation, 1907.

Sykes, Ella C. 915.5 S98p

Persia and its people. 1910. Macmillan.

Contents: Some description of Persia.—A bird's-eye view of the history of Persia.—The shah, his capital and government.—The Persian man.—A Persian city, Meshed, the holy.—The environs of a Persian city, Meshed.—A popular account of the religions of Persia.—Muharram.—Travel.—The Persian woman.—Country life.—The Persian gulf and the Karun river.—Fauna and flora.—Marco Polo in Persia.—A glance at the antiquities of Persia.—Sport and amusements.—Four Persian poets.—A slight account of the arts and crafts of Persia.—Persian superstitions and the art of medicine.

Valle, Pietro della. qr910 P63 v.9

Extracts from [his] travels in Persia. [1811.] (In Pinkerton, John, ed. General collection of voyages and travels, v.9, p.1–137.)

Wills, Charles James. 915.5 W76b

Behind an Eastern veil; a plain tale of events occurring in the experience of a lady who had a unique opportunity of observing the inner life of ladies of the upper class in Persia. 1894. Blackwood.

Purports to record the experiences of a young English girl, who joined her father in Shiraz after he had married a Persian princess. With its mingling of the real and the fanciful, the book might almost be called a novel having its time and setting true to the actual circumstances of life in and about Shiraz and Teheran.

Wishard, John G. 915.5 W81

Twenty years in Persia; a narrative of life under the last three shahs. 1908. Revell.

Author is (1908) director of the American Presbyterian hospital at Teheran and has made three journeys through Kurdistan, parts of Asiatic Turkey and Persia. He describes the condition of the people and their recent political awakening, paying especial attention to the religious situation and the work of medical missions. Illustrated.

Turkey in Asia

Bell, Gertrude Lowthian. 915.6 B41

Amurath to Amurath. 1911. Heinemann.

Account of a journey through Asiatic Turkey. Miss Bell's itinerary began at Aleppo and followed the Euphrates south-east for 500 miles from Kharkhemish to Babylon; thence along the Tigris from Bagdad to Diyarbekr, and westerly through Kharput and Cæsarea to Konia, in Asia Minor. Fully illustrated.

Bunsen, Victoria (Buxton) de. 915.6 B88

Soul of a Turk. 1910. Lane.

The collective experiences of five journeys in the Near and Middle East, and especially of one visit during which the author and a friend traveled alone in Asia Minor, through the Taurus mountains across Mesopotamia to Baghdad, and home across the Syrian desert to Damascus and Egypt. The author thus gained an intimate knowledge of Eastern life which is denied to the ordinary well guarded traveler. Her book, written with singular sympathy and insight, is especially valuable in showing the primitive feelings and instincts which form the background of religion and superstition in the Orient.

Fraser, David. 915.6 F88

The short cut to India; the record of a journey along the route of the Baghdad railway. 1909. Blackwood.

This railway is proposed to connect Constantinople with the Persian gulf, but only a short section has been built (1909) as an extension of the existing Anatolian railway. Author is chiefly interested in the political and commercial questions associated with the project, but the record of his exciting personal adventures during the journey, and the description of the little known regions of Turkey in Asia through which he passed make the volume interesting also to the general reader. Illustrations from photographs. Map.

Huntington, Ellsworth. 915.69 H94

Palestine and its transformation. 1911. Houghton.

"Index of biblical references," p.427–430.

Differs from the great mass of Palestinian literature. The subject is treated from the point of view of a geographer whose main interest is the study of the effect of physical environment upon the distribution of human beings and upon man's mode of life and thought. His book is a brilliant study, valuable in its conclusions as to the influence of the physiography and climate of Palestine on the character, history and movements of the Jews.

Africa

960 History

Johnston, Sir Harry Hamilton. 960 J36b

Britain across the seas, Africa; a history and description of the British empire in Africa. [1910.]

Contents: Introductory.—Pepper, slaves and gold.—Cape Colony.—Zulu-Kafir movements in the early 19th century. — The founding of Natal. — The creation of the Orange river sovereignty and the Transvaal. — The history of the Transvaal. — Cape Colony from 1835 to 1885.—Rhodes and Rhodesia; "British Central Africa."—Natal and the union of South Africa.—The natives of British South Africa.—The Mascarene archipelagoes.—The west coast of Africa.—Nigeria.—Egypt and the Egyptian Sudan.—East Africa.

"Notes" after some of the chapters.

Author has taken an active, and, in some instances, a prominent part in the upbuilding of the empire in each of the great divisions of the African continent. He describes the different peoples, their peculiarities of appearance, customs and languages, relates such of their early history as is known, and their connection with the white man—trader, missionary and official. Half the volume is devoted to the story of the various events, including many wars, which have led up to the unification of South Africa.

Modern Egypt. 2v. 1908. Macmillan.
Lord Cromer was from 1883 to 1907 British consul-general in Egypt.
Nothing can detract from the supreme importance of this record of the making of existing Egypt by the man who made her. The last word on the subject could be written only by Lord Cromer, and he has written it with vigor and lucidity of expression, coupled with a sense of humor and a talent for irony. Above all, he writes with a largeness of view, a generosity of temper and a sense of responsibility which belong characteristically to the man who has been at the helm of Egypt through this eventful and fruitful quarter of a century. Condensed from Athenæum, 1908.

Egypt of the future. 1907. Heinemann.

Contents: My relations with Egypt.—Our present position in Egypt.—The Eastern question.—Egypt and Europe.—Militant Islam.—How Egypt is governed to-day.—The future of Egypt.

As Mr Dicey was for many years the only publicist of any importance who advocated the expediency of England's assuming an avowed and permanent protectorate over Egypt, his latest book is of a highly controversial character. He would have Egyptian officials in place of English, leaving internal administration in native hands while maintaining British supremacy. Condensed from Academy, 1907.

Kumm, Hermann Karl Wilhelm. 916.2 K43

From Hausaland to Egypt through the Sudan. 1910. Constable.

Author is (1911) a missionary as well as a doctor of philosophy and a sportsman. His journey was made for the Sudan United Mission, the chief object of which is to counteract the advancing Mohammedan propaganda in central Africa. With a view to surveying the field of possible work in this direction, he determined to cross central Africa, from northern Nigeria across the north of the German Cameroons, through French Equatorial Africa to the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. One will find few finer examples of cool daring and splendid endurance than in Dr Kumm's record. Condensed from Athenæum, 1911.

Loti, Pierre, (pseud. of Julien Viaud). 916.2 L91

La mort de Philæ.

Descriptions of modern Egypt, from the Sphinx and the pyramids up the Nile to Philæ. Author laments the destruction of ancient Egypt by the forces of modern civilization and is especially impatient of the British occupation, to which he ascribes all the vulgarization of the Nile valley, culminating in the erection of the dam which has submerged the island of Philæ and its temples.

Withers, Percy. 916.2 W82

Egypt of yesterday and to-day. [1910.] Stokes.

Writer took to Egypt a leisurely taste for architectural and artistic antiquities, a breadth of reading in poetry and of unhackneyed and apt quotation, a feeling for humanity even in Egyptian tombs, and a very real power of clear description and sober suggestiveness. Book will be useful to any one on the Nile except the professional student, and even he may find ideas in it. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Abyssinia

Skinner, Robert Peet. 916.3 S62

Abyssinia of to-day; an account of the first mission sent by the American government to the court of the king of kings, 1903–1904. 1906. Longmans.

Lively and entertaining account of the experiences of the commission sent to negotiate a commercial treaty with Emperor Menelik's government. Considers also the social and political conditions of the country. The author, who is (1906) American consul general at Marseilles, was chief of the commission. Many illustrations.

Morocco

Alarcón, Pedro Antonio de. 964 A32

Diario de un testigo de la guerra de África. [1859–60.] 2v. in 1. 1898.

Author was a Spanish statesman and novelist (1833–91).

"His share in the Morocco campaign of 1859 bore fruit in his Diario de un testigo de la Guerra de Africa (1860) a chronicle noteworthy for its vivid picturesqueness and stirring patriotism." New international encyclopædia.

Rankin, Reginald. 964 R19

In Morocco with General d'Amade. 1908. Longmans.

Major Rankin acted as war correspondent for the London "Times" during the French operations near Casablanca in 1908. He gives a graphic account of military events, interspersed with chapters on the history and daily life of the natives. Map and illustrations.

Amicis, Edmondo de. qr916.4 A51

Le Maroc; tr. de l'italien par Henri Belle. 1882.

Picturesque description of places, people and scenery, with many illustrations.

Aubin, Eugène. 916.4 A89

Das heutige Marokko. 1905.

Bonsal, Stephen. 916.4 B62

Morocco as it is, with an account of Sir Charles Euan Smith's recent mission to Fez. 1893. Allen.

Written in rather a lively, journalistic style, without presenting much new information. Sir Charles Euan Smith's mission in 1892 was an unsuccessful attempt to negotiate a commercial treaty with the sultan.

Finnemore, John. j916.4 F51

Morocco, with illustrations in colour by A. S. Forrest. 1908. Black. (Peeps at many lands series.)

Partial contents: In Tangiers.—The feast of the sheep.—Children in Morocco.—How the sultan travels.—The Moor at home.—In a Berber "ksor."—Where the dates come from.

Algeria

r916.5 A44

Almanach du Petit colon algérien, par Charles Marchal, 1893.

Campbell, Thomas. 916.5 C16

Letters from the south. 2v. 1837. Colburn.

Written from Algiers in 1834 to the "New monthly magazine." Author was the first Englishman to visit Algiers after the French conquest to study the changes produced by that event. Illustrated.

North Central Africa

Stanley, Sir Henry Morton. 966 S78

Coomassie and Magdala; the story of two British campaigns in Africa. 1874. Harper.

Account of the Ashanti war of 1874 and of the expedition sent to Abyssinia in 1868 under the command of Sir Robert Napier.

Bosman, Willem. qr910 P63 v.16

New and accurate description of the coast of Guinea, divided into the gold, the slave and the ivory coasts [tr. from the Dutch. 1814]. (In Pinkerton, John, ed. General collection of voyages and travels, v.16, p.337–547.)

Bulpett, C. W. L. 916.6 B87

Picnic party in wildest Africa; being a sketch of a winter's trip to some of the unknown waters of the upper Nile. 1907. Arnold.

Account of an exploring and hunting trip in the wilds of central Africa. It purposes to show how much that is novel and enjoyable in African travel and sport is within the reach of the ordinary person.

Johnston, Sir Harry Hamilton. 916.6 J36

Liberia, with an appendix on the flora of Liberia by Otto Stapf. 2v. 1906. Hutchinson.

"Bibliography," v.1, p.13–17.

The first volume is devoted to the history of the Liberian state and of the colony of freed slaves founded there in 1821 by the American Colonization Society. The second volume is a compendium of the geography and natural history of Liberia.

Landor, Arnold Henry Savage. 916.6 L22

Across widest Africa; an account of the country and people of eastern, central and western Africa as seen during a 12 months' journey from Djibuti to Cape Verde. 2v. 1907. Hurst.

Apart from the fact that the journey was the first crossing of Africa from ocean to ocean in its widest part, it has no special interest or importance. His route took him through no new country, he had no striking adventures, while he went too rapidly to gather valuable information about the natives. The larger part of his narrative consists of a record of each day's experiences and a brief description of the surface features of the country traversed. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

McDermott, Patrick A. r916.6 M14

Development of West Africa. [1904.]

Reprinted from the "Journal" of the Manchester Geographical Society, May 1904.

Vischer, Hanns. 916.6 V35

Across the Sahara from Tripoli to Bornu. 1910. Arnold.

Singularly fresh and delightful book of pure travel. The author exposed himself to all kinds of desert incidents, sand-storms and heavy marches, barely escaping a raid by the robber Tawareks. The story of the caravan journey is an exciting one.

South Central Africa

Bourne, Henry Richard Fox. 967 B65

Civilisation in Congoland; a story of international wrong-doing, with a prefatory note by Sir C. W. Dilke. 1903. King.

History of Congo Free State from 1876 to 1902 and an indictment of Belgian rule. Based on official documents and accounts of travelers, missionaries and agents.

Bòttego, Vittorio. q916.7 B64

Il Giuba esplorato; sotto gli auspici della Società Geografica Italiana. 1895. (Viaggi di scoperta nel cuore dell' Africa.)

Churchill, Winston Leonard Spencer. 916.7 C46

My African journey. 1908. Doran.

Author went from Mombasa by rail to Victoria Nyanza, then by rickshaw, bicycle and canoe through Uganda to the navigable waters of the Nile. Hunting was not the principal object of this journey of the English under-secretary of state for the colnies. He went to study the administrative problems of the East Africa and Uganda protectorates, and writes with much enthusiasm of the wonderful possibilities of the region. Illustrated from photographs. Maps.

Cunningham, James Francis. q916.7 C92

Uganda and its peoples; notes on the protectorate of Uganda, especially the anthropology and ethnology of its indigenous races, with a preface by Sir Harry Johnston. 1905. Hutchinson.

Author has been engaged for some time in the administration of the Uganda protectorate. Sir Harry Johnston's preface gives a summary of Uganda anthropology, while Mr Cunningham supplies photographic illustrations of the races described and an account of their social customs.

Davis, Richard Harding. 916.7 D32

Congo and coasts of Africa. 1907. Scribner.

Picturesque descriptions, with illustrations from photographs taken on the trip, of travels in the Congo Free State and elsewhere in Africa. The book makes no noticeable contribution to the much disputed political situation in the Congo.

Du Chaillu, Paul Belloni. 916.7 D86c

Country of the dwarfs. 1905. Harper.

Du Chaillu, Paul Belloni. 916.7 D86i

In African forest and jungle. 1903. Scribner.

Du Chaillu, Paul Belloni. 916.7 D86l

Lost in the jungle. 1869. Harper.

Du Chaillu, Paul Belloni. 916.7 D86m

My Apingi kingdom, with life in the great Sahara and sketches of the chase of the ostrich, hyena, &c. 1898. Harper.

A continuation of "Lost in the jungle."

Du Chaillu, Paul Belloni. 916.7 D86s

Stories of the gorilla country. 1895. Harper.

Adventures among wild men and beasts on west coast of Africa.

Du Chaillu, Paul Belloni. 916.7 D86w

Wild life under the equator. 1896. Harper.

Eliot, Sir Charles Norton Edgecumbe. 916.7 E47

East Africa protectorate. 1905. Arnold.

The British East Africa protectorate was constituted in 1895 an administrative division of British East Africa, the other division being the Uganda protectorate. It extends from the Umba to the Juba river and inland as far as the boundaries of Uganda. The author was for three years royal commissioner for the protectorate. His book covers the history of the country, its geography, native races, administration, trade, missions and the prospects which it holds out to intending colonists.

Geil, William Edgar. 916.7 G28

Yankee in pigmy land. 1905. Hodder.

Narrative of a journey across equatorial Africa, by rail to Uganda, by caravan through the great forest and by steamboat to the mouth of the Congo.

Johnston, Sir Harry Hamilton. 916.7 J36g

George Grenfell and the Congo; a history and description of the Congo Independent State and adjoining districts of Congoland, together with some account of the native peoples and their languages, the fauna and flora, and similar notes on the Cameroons and the island of Fernando Pô, the whole founded on the diaries and researches of the late George Grenfell and others. 2v. 1908. Hutchinson.

"Bibliography of Congo-Cameroons languages," v.2, p.887–891.

"Nominally it is a history of the missionary work of George Grenfell, but in reality it is an encyclopædia of information on all matters connected with the Congo, based primarily on Grenfell's diaries, but supplemented largely from other sources...The second volume is purely of the nature of an encyclopædia dealing with the anthropology of the river-basin, its natural history, and native customs and beliefs. But the first volume is biographical and historical in its aim, and may be read with interest and with profit by many who have no special knowledge of the subject...Magnificently illustrated." Spectator, 1908.

Kirkland, Caroline. 916.7 K28

Some African highways; a journey of two American women to Uganda and the Transvaal, with an introduction by [R. S. S.] Baden-Powell. 1908. Estes.

Lloyd, Albert B. 916.7 L75u

Uganda to Khartoum; life and adventure on the upper Nile, with a preface by Victor Buxton. 1907. Unwin.

Record, simply told, of travel, adventure and missionary work among the natives of a little known part of central Africa.

Maugham, Reginald Charles Fulke. 916.7 M48

Portuguese East Africa; the history, scenery & great game of Manica and Sofala. 1906. Murray.

The opening chapters deal with the history of Portuguese colonization in East Africa, but the greater part of the book is concerned with big game hunting in that district. Some light is thrown on anthropological questions and the habits and languages of the natives.

Meyer, Hans, b. 1858. q916.7 M65

Across east African glaciers; an account of the first ascent of Kilimanjaro; tr. from the German by E. H. S. Calder. 1891. Philip.

"Bibliography," p.384–397.

"It is replete with information and with exciting adventure, narrated with unfailing brightness and animation...The descriptions of the volcanic scenery, with its aspects of savage desolation, are wonderfully vivid and picturesque." Saturday review, 1891.

There are illustrations and maps and the appendixes contain notes on the natural history of the region.

Morel, Edmund Deville. 916.7 M88

British case in French Congo; the story of a great injustice, its causes and its lessons. 1903. Heinemann.

"In the French Congo, which adjoins the Congo State...concessions have been granted by recent French Ministers for the Colonies to Belgian companies closely related to the Antwerp companies holding concessions in the Congo State. The privilege and favour granted to them are in violation of the arrangements as to the free-trade zone and the maritime zone which were adopted by the Powers...Mr. Morel is a perfectly safe guide." Athenæum, 1903.

Morel, Edmund Deville. 916.7 M88k

King Leopold's rule in Africa. 1905. Funk.

Indictment of Belgian misrule in the Congo Free State. Mr Morel is one of the men who have done most to bring home to the public both the truth of and the responsibility for the Congo horrors.

Morel, Edmund Deville. 916.7 M88r

Red rubber; the story of the rubber slave trade flourishing on the Congo in the year of grace 1906. 1906. Nassau Press.

History of the misdeeds of the Congo State, with chapters on the possible or probable action of England. Has an interesting preface by Sir Harry Johnston. The best, because the latest, authority on the present aspect of a pressing question. Condensed from Athenæum, 1906.

Patterson, John Henry. 916.7 P31i

In the grip of the Nyika; further adventures in British East Africa. 1909. Macmillan.

The author of "The man-eaters of Tsavo" is assured of a welcome for whatever he cares to write which is accorded to few books of big-game shooting. In his new book we get no yarns so blood-curdling as those of the lions that terrorized the railway, but we have a record of journeys into the distant northern parts of the East African Protectorate, ill-fated journeys, where the wilds seemed to conspire to prevent return. He writes simply and accurately, and the plain stories have the vividness of complete reality. The end of the expedition was tragic, and but for the courage of the survivors would have been a wholesale tragedy. Condensed from Spectator, 1910.

Patterson, John Henry. 916.7 P31

Man-eaters of Tsavo, and other East African adventures, with a foreword by F. C. Selous. 1907. Macmillan.

Descriptions of the reign of terror created by the man-eating lions which descended on the workers of the Uganda railway, creating a panic so great that at one time work on the railway was actually brought to a stand-still. This state of affairs Col. Patterson vowed to end, and did end, after superhuman toil and great peril. The veteran hunter, F. C. Selous, says of the book, "No lion story I have ever heard or read equals in its long-sustained and dramatic interest the story of the Tsavo man-eaters as told by Colonel Patterson."

Starr, Frederick. 916.7 S79

The truth about the Congo. 1907. Forbes.

Reprint of a series of articles which appeared in the "Chicago daily tribune" between January 20 and February 3, 1907. They are frankly and unqualifiedly a defense of existing conditions in the Congo, based on a trip of several months' duration. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Swann, Alfred James. 916.7 S972

Fighting the slave-hunters in central Africa; a record of 26 years of travel & adventure round the great lakes and of the overthrow of Tip-pu-Tib, Rumaliza and other great slave-traders, with an introduction by Sir H. H. Johnston. 1910. Lippincott.

Account of the author's efforts to wipe out the slave traffic which existed around

Swann, Alfred James—continued. 916.7 S972

Lakes Nyassa, Tanganyika and Victoria Nyanza and of his ultimate success in establishing a rigid patrol and a protectorate for the natives. He first went to Africa as a missionary, but was afterward called upon by Sir Harry Johnston to administer the Lake Nyassa district.

Treves, Sir Frederick. 916.7 T73

Uganda for a holiday. 1910. Smith.

Author has given us a delightful book of travel in his account of a visit to Victoria Nyanza by way of Mombasa and the Uganda railway. Object is to describe the outlook of a traveler, who has no theory to develop, no creed (except kindliness) to preach, and no business to push, on a new and wonderful country. Condensed from Contemporary review, 1910.

Ward, Herbert. 916.7 W21v

A voice from the Congo; comprising stories, anecdotes and descriptive notes. 1910. Scribner.

Sketches of native life in central Africa, descriptive notes concerning the manners, customs and superstitions of the land and numerous anecdotes illustrating the character of the people. The 72 illustrations are of unusual interest. They include reproductions of photographs of the native, of his implements, and of some remarkable sculptures, one of which, a bronze statue of a Congo chief, won a gold medal at the Paris Salon in 1908.

Weule, Karl. 916.7 W58

Native life in East Africa; the results of an ethnological research expedition; tr. by Alice Werner. 1909. Appleton.

Wollaston, Alexander Frederick Richmond. 916.7 W84

From Ruwenzori to the Congo; a naturalist's journey across Africa. 1908. Murray.

"Entertaining account of a journey across Africa by a member of the British Museum expedition sent out in 1905 to make collections of the peculiarly rich fauna and flora of the Ruwenzori region. The book has not a scientific aim, however, but is simply a record of the impressions made by Africa's hot and hilly roads, winding waterways and cloud-girt mountain-sides." Nation, 1909.

Illustrated from photographs.

Bibliography

Mendelssohn, Sidney, comp. qro16.968 M61

South African bibliography, with a descriptive introduction by I. D. Colvin. 2v. 1910. Paul.

v.1. Author-catalogue, A–Menp.

v.2. Author-catalogue, Ment–Z.—South African imperial blue-books.—Magazines, &c.—Magazine articles.—Autograph letters, &c.—Chronological and topographical subjects index.—Cartography of South Africa.—Appendix to author-catalogue.

"These two...volumes (each over 1,000 pages), embodying the labour of years, will be a boon to any one engaged in African research. They were at first intended to be a catalogue raisonné of Mr. Mendelssohn's own collection, but this 'has since developed until it forms a reasonably complete Bibliography of Literature relating to South Africa, in the wider sense of the term, from the earliest period up to the present time.' The Introduction...and Mr. Mendelssohn's numerous and instructive notes, provide a fund of interesting reading which one scarcely expects in a work of this nature." Athenæum, 1911.

History

Cronwright-Schreiner, C. S. 968 C89

The land of free speech; record of a campaign on behalf of peace in England and Scotland in 1900. 1906. New Age Press.

Pro-Boer in its attitude. The author was not cordially welcomed in England and the book is largely an account of his reception in the various places where he told or attempted to tell what he believed to be the truth concerning South Africa and the Boer war.

American Philosophical Society. r970.1 A51

Transactions of the Historical & literary committee of the American Philosophical Society, held at Philadelphia, for promoting useful knowledge. v.1. 1819. Small.

Contents: An account of the history, manners and customs of the Indian nations who once inhabited Pennsylvania and the neighbouring states, by John Heckewelder.—A correspondence between John Heckewelder and P. S. Duponceau respecting the languages of the American Indians.—Words, phrases and short dialogues in the language of the Lenni Lenape, or Delaware Indians, by John Heckewelder.

Brady, Cyrus Townsend, and others. 970.1 B68

Northwestern fights and fighters. 1907. McClure. (American fights and fighters series, v.5.)

Contents: The Nez Percé war.—The Modoc war.

"Bibliography," p.25.

The chapters are almost all of them written by United States army officers and describe in detail the various battles of these Indian wars.

Catlin, George. 970.1 C28

The boy's Catlin; my life among the Indians; ed. with biographical sketch by M. G. Humphreys. 1909. Scribner.

The parts of Catlin's volumes on the North American Indians which will be of most interest to boys have been condensed and brought together in chronological order. The author spent eight years traveling among the Indians of the Northwest and the prairies, noting their customs and recording his observations with pen and brush.

Eastburn, Robert. 970.1 E18

Dangers and sufferings of Robert Eastburn and his deliverance from Indian captivity, with introduction and notes by J. R. Spears. 1904. Burrows. (Narratives of captivities.)

Reprinted from the original edition of 1758.

Robert Eastburn, whose "Faithful narrative" is one of the most valuable because one of the undoubted, original authorities relating to the war that destroyed the French power in North America, was captured by a force of French soldiers and Indians, carried to Canada and adopted into an Indian family. He remained there, part of the time with the Indians, and part with the French, for nearly two years. Condensed from introduction.

Fox, Florence Cornelius. j970.1 F85

Indian primer. 1906. Amer. Book Co.

Stories in simple language of the cliff-dwellers, Zuñi Indians, Hiawatha, Pocahontas, the Eskimos, etc. Pictures of Indian life.

Grinnell, George Bird. 970.1 G92i2

Indians of to-day. 1911. Duffield.

The same..... j970.1 G92i2

"The Indians of to-day—what are their numbers? where do they live? how do they subsist? Are they becoming civilized, educated, learning the white man's ways? These are some of the questions which intelligent people are asking, and to which, so far as may be, the answer is given in the pages that follow." Author's preface.

The book is illustrated by many large reproductions of excellent photographs of Indian chiefs.

Hodge, Frederick Webb, ed. 970.1 H66

Handbook of American Indians north of Mexico. 2 pts. in 2v. 1910–11. U. S. Government. (United States—Ethnology bureau. Bulletin no.30.)

"Contains a descriptive list of the stocks, confederacies, tribes, tribal divisions, and settlements north of Mexico, accompanied with the various names by which these have been known, together with biographies of Indians of note, sketches of their history, archeology, manners, arts, customs, and institutions, and the aboriginal words incorporated into the English language."

Arrangement is alphabetical. Contains large map showing the linguistic families of American Indians north of Mexico. Illustrated.

How, Nehemiah. 970.1 H84

Narrative of the captivity of Nehemiah How in 1745–1747, with introduction and notes by V. H. Paltsits. 1904. Burrows. (Narratives of captivities.)

Reprinted from the original edition of 1748.

How was captured at Great Meadow Fort, now Putney, Vermont and taken by the Indians to Canada, where he died in 1747. He evidently jotted down from day to day the names of the new prisoners who were brought in, the deaths which occurred, etc. and it is of this bare enumeration of facts that the book principally consists.

James, George Wharton. 970.1 J16w

What the white race may learn from the Indian. 1908. Forbes.

Tells what the author himself has learned from the Indians of the West, chiefly in regard to physical health and vigor. The Indian regimen made him, formerly a victim of chronic ill health, physically a new man. Condensed from Outlook, 1908.

Johnson, Mrs Susanna (Willard), afterward Mrs Hastings. r970.1 J365

Narrative of the captivity of Mrs Johnson. 1907. Huntting.

Reprinted from the 3d edition, published at Windsor, Vermont, 1814, with all corrections and additions.

"Bibliography," p.7–8.

Mrs Johnson and her family were captured by the Indians at Charlestown, N.H., in 1754 and taken to Canada. In her narrative she tells of the privations and suffering endured on the journey and of her experiences during the three years in which she was held as a prisoner.

McLaughlin, James. 970.1 M19

My friend the Indian. 1910. Houghton.

First-hand study of Indian life and character, by an Indian agent and inspector, who for 38 years has lived among, or had official dealings with, the Sioux, talking their language and learning to know their hearts. A plea for justice for the Indian.

McClintock, Walter. 970.3 M13

The Old North trail; or, Life, legends and religion of the Blackfeet Indians. 1910. Macmillan.

Mr McClintock was adopted as a son by Siyeh or Mad Wolf, a chief and leading orator among the Blackfeet Indians. He has lived among the Blackfeet for 14 years and has made a special study of their life and folklore. He offers us a well written and well illustrated book. Copious descriptions of sacred rites and stories constitute the main interest of the work for the serious student. They bear the signs of the most complete authenticity. No bias, theological or anthropological, is observable. Literary touches are plentiful, but their tone is not false. We have here, in fact, the rather uncommon case of a white man who, being at once sufficiently sympathetic and sufficiently unsophisticated, has managed to acquire the Indian point of view, even while not entirely surrendering his own. Condensed from Athenæum, 1910.

Leupp, Francis Ellington. 970.5 L65

The Indian and his problem. 1910. Scribner.

For many years a student of the Indian problem and for seven Indian commissioner, Mr Leupp speaks with an authority which he nowhere imposes. The book is delightfully reasonable, full of excellent and significant anecdotes. Against the self-accusing phrase "a century of dishonor," Mr Leupp protests, substituting "a century of misunderstanding." The difficulty with our Indian policy is that we have too long delayed to deal with the individual Indian. We have legislated instead for the race, or for the tribe. The result has been to prolong the term of tutelage and actually to hold back the Indians who were ready to become citizens. Again and again he insists that the Indian problem is an individual and a human problem. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Annual report (12th–13th, 21st, 44th, 47th–48th, 51st, 55th), of the commissioner of Indian affairs, for 1843–44, 1852, 1875, 1878–79, 1882, 1886. 1843–86.

This report forms part of the Report of the secretary of the interior.

For Indian affairs before 1825 see American state papers, Indian affairs, v.1. The supervision of Indian affairs was originally committed to the secretary of war. Under him was appointed first a superintendent of Indian tribes, who subsequently became superintendent of Indian affairs. By act of Congress approved July 9, 1832, provision was made for the appointment of a commissioner of Indian affairs, to be an officer of the War department. On the organization of the Department of the interior in 1849, his office was made one of the bureaus of said department, with which it has since been connected.

original inhabitants, in a series of letters to the duchess of Lesdiguières; tr. from the French. 2v. 1761. Dodsley.

French missionary and traveler (1682–1761). The journal here given formed a part of the third volume of the original edition of his history of New France.

"The first place in time and importance among the contributions to the general history of Canada of a date earlier than the present [19th] century, must be given to this Jesuit's Histoire et Description Générale de la Nouvelle France, avec le Journal Historique d'un Voyage fait par l'Ordre du Roi dans l'Amérique Septentrionale, which was issued at Paris in 1744...Charlevoix arrived in Canada in September, 1720, on an expedition to inspect the missions of Canada. His purpose took him throughout the limits of New France and Louisiana, and by the Illinois and the Mississippi to the Gulf. His work is commensurate with his opportunities; his faults and errors were those of his order; and his religious training inclined him to give perhaps undue prominence to the ecclesiastical side of his subject." Winsor's Narrative and critical history of America.

Elkington, Ernest Way. 917.1 E48

Canada, the land of hope. 1910. Black.

Chiefly on its industries and resources.

Grant, George Monro, ed. qr917.1 G78

Picturesque Canada; the country as it was and is. 2v. 1882. Belden.

Chapters on the principal cities, and on Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, the Muskoka lakes, etc. Very fully illustrated by pictures of characteristic scenes and well-known places of interest.

Griffith, William Lenny. 917.1 G89

Dominion of Canada. 1911. Pitman. (All red series.)

Comprehensive and trustworthy account of its history, physical characteristics, people, social conditions, government and production.

Haight, Canniff. 917.1 H14

Country life in Canada 50 years ago; personal recollections and reminiscences of a sexagenarian. 1885. Hunter.

Johnson, Clifton. 917.1 J35

Picturesque St. Lawrence. 1910. Macmillan.

"He has journeyed up and down the St. Lawrence, and its principal tributaries, with an observant and discriminating eye, and has brought together in a compact guidebook the sort of material that is likely to appeal to the intelligent tourist." Nation, 1910.

Lahontan, Louis Armand de Lom d'Arce, baron de. 1917.1 L15

New voyages to North-America, containing an account of the several nations of that vast continent, a geographical description of Canada, also a dialogue between the author and a general of the savages, to which is added a dictionary of the Algonkine language; done into English. v.1. 1703. Bonwicke.

1917.1 L94

Lovell's gazetteer of the Dominion of Canada, containing the latest and most authentic descriptions of over 14,850 cities, towns, villages and places, with Newfoundland, besides general information, drawn from official sources, as to the names, locality, extent, etc. of over 3,000 lakes and rivers, with a table of routes; ed. with an introduction by G. M. Adam. 1908.

Moodie, Mrs Susannah (Strickland). 917.1 M87

Roughing it in the bush; or, Life in Canada. 2v. 1852. Putnam.

"Written by a sister of Agnes Strickland, who married a half-pay officer and emigrated to Upper Canada in 1832. She was destitute of any special training which could fit her for life in the wilderness, but succeeded in adapting herself to the trials of her new existence. Her book is a loose narrative...largely interspersed with dialogue. It contains a sprightly picture of the life led by English settlers in Canada during the first half of the century, and in this sense is of distinct historical value." Larned's Literature of American history.

Plummer, Mary Wright. j917.1 P72

Roy and Ray in Canada. 1908. Holt.

The twins, Roy and Ray Stevens, who have already visited Mexico, spend a summer in eastern Canada. They go to Ottawa, "run the slides" on a lumber crib, see a championship game of lacrosse in Montreal, visit quaint old Quebec, Indian Lorette, Lake St. John, Louisburg and the land of Evangeline.

Siegfried, André. 917.1 S57

Race question in Canada. 1907. Appleton.

Contents: The rival races.—The political life of Canada.—The balance of power and influence.—Canada's external relations.

Yeigh, Frank. 917.1 Y22

Through the heart of Canada. 1911. McClurg.

Chapters on Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, the Magdalen islands, Quebec, Montreal, Ontario, British Columbia, on the foreigner in Canada, the police patrol, ranch life, mountains and mountain climbing.

British Columbia

British Columbia—Provincial information bureau. r917.11 B75

Year book of British Columbia and manual of provincial information, 1911. 1911.

For volumes for 1897, 1903 see preceding catalogue, second series.

qr917.11 B756

British Columbia review; being a series of articles descriptive of the Pacific province, its magnificent resources and its present and probable development, contributed by provincial writers, authorities and experts. 1906.

Canadian Pacific Railway Company. r917.11 C16

British Columbia; Canada's Pacific province, its natural resources, advantages and climate. [1909?]

Talbot, Frederick A. 917.11 T15

New garden of Canada; by pack-horse and canoe through undeveloped new British Columbia. 1911. Cassell.

Lively description of northern British Columbia and its possibilities for the prospector, the farmer and the lumberman.

Northwest territory

Laut, Agnes Christina. 971.2 L37

The conquest of the great Northwest; being the story of the adventurers of England known as the Hudson's Bay Company; new pages in the history of the Canadian Northwest and Western states. 2v. 1908. Outing.

Canadian Pacific Railway Company. r917.12 C16

Western Canada; Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, how to reach it, how to obtain lands, how to make a home. [1908?]

Southesk, James Carnegie, earl of. 917.12 S72

Saskatchewan and the Rocky mountains; a diary and narrative of travel, sport and adventure during a journey through the Hudson's Bay Company's territories in 1859 and 1860. 1875. Edmonston.

"If Lord Southesk does not add much to our knowledge, he has succeeded in giving a lively picture of a curious region...He has added a rather incongruous appendix containing the meditations upon Shakspeare which occurred to him during his journey. The remarks upon Hamlet approach the dimensions of an essay...His remarks have the merit...of being the fruit of independent meditation, and, if they cannot add much to so well-worn a subject, they are interesting in themselves." Saturday review, 1875.

Young, Egerton Ryerson. 917.12 Y37

Battle of the bears; life in the North land. 1907. Wilde.

Account of a missionary's travels, with dog-trains and Indian guides, in the Canadian Northwest. Contains considerable material about the life and customs of the Indians of that region.

Ontario

Kingsford, William, comp. r016.9713 K27

Early bibliography of the province of Ontario, Dominion of Canada, with other information. 1892. Rowsell.

Being a supplementary chapter to his "Canadian archæology."

Ontario Historical Society. qr971.3 O25

Papers and records. v.2–date. 1900–date.

917.13 L65

Letters from Muskoka, by an emigrant lady. 1878. Bentley.

According to the preface, the author was a Frenchwoman whose fortunes were impoverished by the Franco-German war. She emigrated with her family to Muskoka, Ontario, and the book gives rather a dismal picture of their life and its privations.

White, James, F. R. G. S. r917.13 W63

Place-names in the Thousand islands, St. Lawrence river. 1910.

Published for the Geographic board of Canada.

Quebec

LeMoine, James McPherson. 971.4 L58

Quebec, past and present; a history of Quebec, 1608–1876. 1876. Coté.

Narrative of external events, not a study of municipal development, but useful for the general reader who cannot approach original French authorities. Continued by his "Picturesque Quebec."

Pauli, Frederick Gustave. r917.14 P32

Record of a trip through Canada's wilderness to Lake Chibogamoo and to the great lake Mistassini in the summer of 1906. 1907. Privately printed.

Short, illustrated description, with map. The journey was made for the purpose of investigating the mining possibilities of the region around Lake Chibogamoo.

Nova Scotia

Nova Scotia Historical Society. r971.6 N47

Contents: Inaugural address by Governor Archibald.—History of St. Paul's Church,

Nova Scotia Historical Society—continued. 971.6 N47

by G. W. Hill.—Nicholson's Journal of the capture of Annapolis in 1710.—An account of Nova Scotia in 1744.—Papers relating to trials for treason in 1776–7.—Thomas's Diary of the expedition of 1755 against the Acadians.—Proposals for attack on Nova Scotia in 1776–7.—The first council.—Journal of Witherspoon.—History of St. Paul's Church.—Memoir of the Rev. James Murdoch.—Memoir of Sir Alexander Croke.—Papers relating to the Acadian French.—History of St. Paul's Church, by G. W. Hill.—Winslow's Journal of the expulsion of the Acadians in 1755.—Government house, by A. G. Archibald.—Biographical sketch of Hon. Samuel Vetch.—Papers connected with the administration of Mr Vetch, 1710–13. — Journal of Colonel John Winslow. — The Province building.—The expulsion of the Acadians.—Gordon's Journal of siege of Louisbourg, 1758.—Papers read before society since its inception.—Papers printed in Transactions.

Willson, Beckles. 917.16 W76

Nova Scotia; the province that has been passed by. 1911. Constable.

Contents: Canada's "front door."—New Scotland's beginnings.—New Scotland's characteristics.—Halifax and the Haligonians.—Windsor and "Sam Slick."—Grand Pré and Evangeline.—Annapolis Royal and Digby.—Yarmouth and shipbuilding.—Shelburne and the loyalists.—Bridgewater and Lunenburg.—On the government's farm.—Pictou and New Glasgow.—Cape Breton.—The Sydneys.—Louisbourg.—A new Inverness.—Amherst.

Book is at once a protest against the neglect with which Nova Scotia has been treated by settlers and an enthusiastic presentment of its claims to immediate consideration. Author treats of its historic associations as well as of its resources and possibilities.

Prince Edward Island

Campbell, Duncan. 971.7 C15

History of Prince Edward Island. 1875. Bremner.

General history from the time that the island became a British province, in 1763, until its union with the other confederated provinces of the dominion, in 1873. The land question is dealt with at considerable length.

Crosskill, William Hay. 917.17 C89

Prince Edward Island, garden province of Canada; its history, interests and resources, with information for tourists, etc. 1899.

Contains a map and numerous illustrations.

Labrador

Gosling, W. G. 971.9 G69

Labrador; its discovery, exploration and development. 1910. Rivers.

Book of real authority and the most complete that has yet (1910) been written on the subject. Begins with the disputed Norse settlement and closes with an account of Dr Grenfell's work. Nearly a third of the volume is devoted to an account of the discovery and cartography of Labrador. Gives full account of its fisheries.

Grenfell, Wilfred Thomason. 917.19 G87d

Down to the sea; yarns from the Labrador. 1910. Revell.

Sketches, some of them in story form, of his experiences as missionary physician along the Labrador coast.

Grenfell, Wilfred Thomason. 917.19 G870

Off the rocks; stories of the deep-sea fisherfolk of Labrador, with an introduction by Henry Van Dyke. 1906. Sunday School Times Co.

Contents: Off the rocks.—"That bit o' line."—Little Prince Pomiuk.—"The copper store."—The preacher.—When we let our pilot go.—"Reported lost."—Johnny.—"The joy of their Lord."—Uncle Silas, fisherman.—Peter Wright, mail carrier.—

Grenfell, Wilfred Thomason—continued. 917.19 G870

Uncle Rube's net.—Green pastures.—She hath done what she could.—Not my will, but Thine.—How Santa Claus came to Cape St. Anthony.

The same 917.19 G8702

This edition does not contain: She hath done what she could.—Not my will, but Thine.—How Santa Claus came to Cape St. Anthony.

True stories, which have come within the author's knowledge and experience as a missionary among the Labrador fishermen.

Grenfell, Wilfred Thomason, and others. 917.19 G871

Labrador, the country and the people. 1909. Macmillan.

Contents: Historical introduction, by W. S. Wallace.—Travelled routes to Labrador; The physiography of Labrador, by W. T. Grenfell.—The geology and scenery of the northeast coast, by R. A. Daly.—The Hampton river and the Grand falls, by A. P. Low.—The people of the coast, by W. T. Grenfell.—The Indians, by W. B. Cabot.—The missions; Reindeer for Labrador; The dogs; The cod and cod-fishery; The salmon-fishery; The herring and other fish; The ocean mammals, by W. T. Grenfell. — The birds, by C. W. Townsend.—The flora, by E. B. Delabarre.—APPENDICES: Insects of Labrador, by C. W. Johnson and John Sherman, jr.—The marine Crustacea, by M. J. Rathbun.—The mollusks, by C. W. Johnson.—List of the mammals of Labrador, by Outram Bangs.—List of the birds of Labrador, by C. W. Townsend and G. M. Allen.—List of Crustacea on the Labrador coast, by M. J. Rathbun.

"Ten out of the sixteen chapters are the work of Dr. Grenfell; the remaining six and the appendices on the natural history of Labrador are the work of specialists. The book reveals an almost unknown country and will be indispensable to tourists and students. There is a map, an index and numerous illustrations from Dr. Grenfell's collection of photographs." A. L. A. booklist, 1909.

Hubbard, Mrs Mina Benson. 917.19 H87

A woman's way through unknown Labrador; an account of the exploration of the Nascaupee and George rivers. 1908. Murray.

The journey was undertaken by Mrs Hubbard in 1905 to complete the work begun by her husband, who perished in an expedition to Labrador two years before. An important scientific result was the obtaining of the pioneer maps of the rivers explored. The book contains also the diary of Hubbard's last days.

Townsend, Charles Wendell. 917.19 T66

Along the Labrador coast. 1907. Estes.

While traveling primarily as an ornithologist, the author neglected nothing of interest—historical, botanical or human. Beside the general account there are chapters devoted to fish and fishermen, the Eskimo dog, the need of an Audubon society, and Dr Grenfell and his work.

Wallace, Dillon. 917.19 W171

The long Labrador trail. 1907. Outing.

Appeared in "Outing," v.48–50, Aug. 1906–June 1907.

Continuation of "The lure of the Labrador wild."

"He describes his expedition through the heart of the Labrador peninsula...One gets from this narrative perhaps a clearer picture than has ever before been available of the characteristics of one of the least-known quarters of the Continent." Nation, 1907.

Chynoweth, W. Harris. 972 C47

Fall of Maximilian, late emperor of Mexico, with an historical introduction. 1872. Privately printed.

"Well balanced account of the events which made Maximilian's execution necessary, and of the brilliant legal efforts to save him from the effect of events which had been in large measure entirely beyond his control. Inspired by a desire to remove the inevitable stigma left by the execution upon the character of the Mexican people, by one who knew them intimately, and who desired no less to place on record the many fine qualities of the emperor." Larned's Literature of American history.

Diaz del Castillo, Bernal. 1910.8 K21 v.3–4

History of the discovery and conquest of Mexico [by Hernando Cortés], written in the year 1568. [1811–12.] (In Kerr, Robert, 1755–1813. General history and collection of voyages and travels, v.3–4.)

Memoirs of the Mexican revolution, including a narrative of the expedition of Gen. Xavier Mina, with some observations on the practicability of opening a commerce between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans through the Mexican isthmus and on the future importance of such commerce to the civilized world and more especially to the United States. 1820. Privately printed.

"Based on the journal of Mina's English commissary general, and upon the personal experiences of the author, whose mercantile visits to Mexico were ended by his imprisonment and deportation to Spain under circumstances which perhaps explain his severe strictures upon the acts of those who were trying to put down the revolution." Larned's Literature of American history.

Title reads "Mexico; a geographical sketch, with special reference to economic conditions and prospects of future development."

Barton, Mary. 917.2 B28

Impressions of Mexico with brush and pen. 1911. Macmillan.

To see Mexico as Mary Barton has represented it is almost to share in a discovery. In the series of 20 reproductions from her paintings, exhibited in London, as in the narrative accompaniment, there is a charming display of temperament and personality; in both an absolute honesty of expression. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Blaisdell, Etta Austin, & Dalrymple, Julia. j917.2 B52

Manuel in Mexico. 1909. Little. (Little people everywhere.)

About Manuel's life on an hacienda; how he played burro-corrido and other games with the Indian boys and how he and his friend Benito became pages to a great lady in Mexico city and took part in the Christmas festivities.

Land of the Montezumas. 1889. Alden.

Travels in Mexico. Starting from Denver, the author journeyed by way of El Paso, Chihuahua, Zacatecas, Aguas Calientes, Lagos, San Luis Potosi, Guadalajara, Querétaro and Tula to the city of Mexico. Contains four historical chapters and two on mining.

Edwards, William Seymour. 917.2 E32

On the Mexican highlands, with a passing glimpse of Cuba. 1906. Jennings.

Ten years ago the author made a trip from his home in West Virginia to Mexico city by rail, returning by way of Havana and Florida. Although he spent but a month in Mexico, his time was well occupied. His observations are keen yet sympathetic, and his style is intimate and friendly without any pedantry or padding. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Mexican trails; a record of travel in Mexico, 1904–07, and a glimpse at the life of the Mexican Indian. 1909. Putnam.

"An impressionistic painting, full of the atmosphere and color of the real Mexico... Mr. Kirkham has traversed many miles of territory still untouched by modern civilization, and his pictures of Indian life are full of feeling and pathos, relieved by touches of humor... The narrative is refreshingly free from statistics and chapters on the financial resources of the country and the political situation... Illustrated with twenty-four full-page reproductions of photographs." Nation, 1909.

Yucatan

Fancourt, Charles Saint John. 1972.6 F21

History of Yucatan from its discovery to the close of the 17th century. 1854. Murray.

"Very useful summary...of the references to Yucatan in the early Spanish histories. The author possessed a thorough and intimate acquaintance with the country and with its peoples." Larned's Literature of American history.

Contains map.

Arnold, Channing, & Frost, F. J. T. q917.26 A75

The American Egypt; a record of travel in Yucatan. 1909. Doubleday.

Though much space is given to archæological speculations the most interesting part of the book is the description of the people and their life. There is a striking account of the "green gold of Yucatan," the hennequin or Sisal-hemp which has brought immense profit to some big Yucatecan growers during the last 15 years.

Stephens, John Lloyd. 917.26 S83

Incidents of travel in Yucatan. 2v. 1843. Harper.

The result of the author's second visit to the peninsula, in which he made Yucatan the region of investigation of the most thorough character. "Incidents of travel in Central America, Chiapas and Yucatan" (917.28 S83i) describes his first visit.

Central America and its problems; an account of a journey from the Rio Grande to Panama, with introductory chapters on Mexico and her relations to her neighbors. 1910. Moffat.

"Central American bibliography," p.341–342.

Not only the most recent work on its subject but practically the only book that is of value as dealing with present-day conditions. The newspaper articles which form its basis have been revised so that the book has unity, and in liveliness of narrative and incident it is admirable. Condensed from Outlook, 1910.

Squier, Ephraim George. 917.28 S77

States of Central America; their geography, topography, climate, population, resources, productions, commerce, political organization, aborigines, etc., comprising chapters on Honduras, San Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Belize, the Bay islands, the Mosquito shore and the Honduras Inter-oceanic Railway. 1858. Harper.

Léger, Jacques Nicolas. 972.94 L54

Haiti; her history and her detractors. 1907. Neale.

Author is (1908) envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Hayti in the United States. The first part deals with the history of the island from its discovery by Columbus to 1902, the second is a general description which aims to correct many popular misconceptions.

"Haiti, at last, has a champion who is entitled to be heard; for he speaks from fulness of knowledge, and from a position of political eminence sends forth no uncertain sound. It is not too much to say that the latest book on Haiti is also the best that has ever appeared respecting the so-called 'Black Republic.'" Nation, 1908.

Popular history of the United States of America [to 1904, by J. D. Steel and Mrs E. B. Steel]. 2v. 1904.

"Intended to provide a more detailed treatment of the history of the United States ...than can be given in the ordinary school or college compendium...Cannot be recommended as entirely satisfactory. The first part of the work treating of settlement and colonial life is better than the long chapters on the wars and later political administrations. Particularly in the last part of the book there is not sufficient generalization, and topics are treated indiscriminately without due regard to their importance or perspective...Many illustrations, but many of them are badly executed." Larned's Literature of American history.

Clark, George Ramsey, and others. 973 C52
The navy, 1775 to 1909. 2v. 1910. Lord Baltimore Press.

Concise history intended especially for the instruction of midshipmen. Naval events are regarded from a professional rather than a picturesque point of view and official reports have been largely drawn upon.

Hill, Frederic Stanhope. 973 H55
Romance of the American navy, as embodied in the stories of certain of our public and private armed ships from 1775 to 1909. 1910. Putnam.

"An attempt is made to cover in a single volume of moderate size the whole history of the navy from the time of the first war with England up to and including the recent cruise of the battleship fleet around the world. As a proper basis for his story, the writer has availed himself of a wide range of both original and secondary sources." Nation, 1910.

Spears, John Randolph. 973 S74s

Short history of the American navy. 1907. Scribner.

This little book issued for the Navy League of the United States presents the argument of history in favor of an up-to-date and efficient navy.

Chalmers, George. 973.2 C35

Introduction to the history of the revolt of the American colonies; being a comprehensive view of its origin, derived from the state papers contained in the public offices of Great Britain. 2v. 1845. Munroe.

"One of the most suggestive works ever written on early American history...It is only a sketch of a large subject; it contains crude statements; it shows lack of sympathy with much that was new and valuable in colonial development; it exhibits the narrow spirit of English officialism. But it reveals, as does no other work, the essential unity of the period of which it treats." Larned's Literature of American history, 1902.

Abridged from the author's manuscript "History of Lord Dunmore's war."

Neill, Edward Duffield. 973.2 N21

English colonization of America during the 17th century. 1871. Strahan.

"Rev. Mr. Neill was an assiduous and learned investigator, and one of the earliest critics of the beginnings of colonial history. In this work, as in his other writings, he has drawn largely from original manuscripts and documents, some of which have been since more fully and accurately printed. The narrative, which is badly proportioned and often disconnected and digressive, deals with the history of Virginia, Maryland and the Popham colony, and treats of Wingfield, Rolfe, Pocahontas, John Smith, of the Puritans in Virginia, of the services of Copeland, chaplain of the East India Company, of Calvert and Maryland to 1650, and of education and religion. Some of Mr. Neill's main contentions...have not received the final stamp of approval. The chief value of the work to-day lies in its documents and notes." Larned's Literature of American history.

[Smith, William, 1727–1803.] r973.2 S66r

Relation historique de l'expédition contre les Indiens de l'Ohio en 1764, commandée par Henry Bouquet; on y a joint des mémoires militaires contenant des réflexions sur la guerre avec les sauvages; tr. de l'anglois par C. G. F. Dumas. 1769.

"This book is an authentic and reliable narrative of one of the earliest British military expeditions into the Territory northwest of the Ohio river. It narrates the details of the first victory, gained over Indian forces, by English troops, after the savages had been taught the use of fire-arms. The whole narrative is most entertaining for the interest of the subject, and for the quaintness of that highly literary style of the last century. This French edition contains a Preface, and some biographical notices of Bouquet by the French translator Mons. Dumas." Thomson's Bibliography of Ohio.

Trumbull, Benjamin. r973.2 T779

General history of the United States of America from the discovery in 1492; or, Sketches of the divine agency in their settlement, growth and protection, and especially in the late memorable Revolution, exhibiting a general view of the principal events from the discovery of North America to the year 1765. v.1. 1810. Mallory.

"This is the first of three proposed volumes which would extend to Washington's second administration, but the series was never completed. It aims to point out the especial interpositions of Providence in behalf of the United States. The work is faithfully but very tediously done as compared with modern historical writing." Larned's Literature of American history.

Washington, George. qr973.2 W27j

Journal of Maj. George Washington, sent by Robert Dinwiddie, lieutenant-governor of Virginia, to the commandant of the French forces on Ohio [1753], to which are added the governor's letter and a translation of the French officer's answer, with a map of the country as far as the Mississippi. 1754. Jefferys.

A reprint of the London edition of 1754, issued in 1865 as no.1 of the series "Sabin's reprints."

First published in Williamsburg, Va. by Hunter in 1754.

Revolution and confederation

1775–1789

Abingdon, Willoughby Bertie, earl of. r973.3 A14

Thoughts on the letter of Edmund Burke to the sheriffs of Bristol on the affairs of America. Jackson.

First published in 1777.

Abingdon (1740–99) was an English politician, "one of the most steady and intrepid assertors of liberty" in his age. He seized every opportunity between 1775 and 1783 of attacking the policy that produced the war with America. In his "Thoughts on the letter of Edmund Burke" he attacked Burke for not following up with sufficient energy or persistency his first great speeches against the war. Condensed from Dictionary of national biography.

Baxter, James Phinney, comp. r973.3 B33

British invasion from the North; the campaigns of Generals Carleton and Burgoyne from Canada, 1776–1777, with the journal of Lieut. William Digby of the 53d or Shropshire regiment of foot, illustrated with historical notes. 1887. Munsell.

Greene, George Washington. 973.3 G83

The German element in the War of American independence. 1876. Hurd.

Contents: Baron von Steuben.—Gen. John Kalb.—German mercenaries.

"The author disclaims in this book any original contributions to history. Its three popularly written chapters are based on Kapp's three volumes...relating respectively to Steuben, Kalb and the German mercenaries...Mr. Greene's volume is not conspicuously impartial or judicial, but it is a popularly written and readable narrative." Larned's Literature of American history.

Hazelton, John Hampton. 973.3 H38

Declaration of independence; its history. 1906. Dodd.

"May be taken as embodying the final study of the Declaration as a document. Every known detail concerning its framing, signing, and publication has been carefully gathered...An encyclopædic work." Nation, 1906.

with Arnold's treason; prepared from the originals, with an introduction and notes. 1866. [Bradford Club.]

"The editor's introduction, 47 pages, reviews the incidents of the two raids by the British upon the Mohawk valley in Oct., 1780, plausibly concluding that their purpose was to draw away troops from West Point, thus facilitating the surrender of that place ...The correspondence here first published includes letters between Gen. Washington and Gov. Geo. Clinton, between Clinton and officers who led troops against the British, etc. It is valuable material, in the use of which the editor shows great carefulness, and the ability to set forth the salient points in compact and lucid language." Larned's Literature of American history.

House, Charles J. comp. r973.3 H837

Names of soldiers of the American revolution who applied for state bounty under resolves of March 17, 1835, March 24, 1836 and March 20, 1836, as appears of record in land office. 1893. Burleigh.

Paullin, Charles Oscar. 973.3 P32
Navy of the American revolution; its administration, its policy and its achievements. 1906. Burrows.
"Bibliography," p.481–505.
Small book into whose narrow compass the author has packed an unusually succinct and trustworthy account of the creation, organization and control of the Continental navy and the various state navies. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Pausch, Georg. r973.3 P32
Journal of Captain Pausch, chief of the Hanau artillery during the Burgoyne campaign; tr. and annotated by W. L. Stone, introduction by E. J. Lowell. 1886. Munsell.
"Since the author of the original journal, in German, was a Hessian officer in Burgoyne's army, his information is at first hand. Mr. Stone's translation into English is supplied with intelligent and helpful notes, and an index. For the special student, rather than the general reader." Larned's Literature of American history.

Perkins, James Breck. 973.3 P43
France in the American revolution. 1911. Houghton.
Covers a field hitherto only partially exploited. Deals with the situation in France on the eve of the American revolution, with the first diplomatic relations of the two countries, with the important military aid furnished to the Americans and with the part played by France in the peace negotiations. Author has had access to a large amount of documentary material.

Raynal, Guillaume Thomas François, abbé. r973.3 R24

Révolution de l'Amérique. 1781.

"The work of a philosophical French writer on political science. States in brief form the leading facts from 1763 to 1778. Discusses, after the manner of the time, the claims of both parties. Interesting from its point of view." Larned's Literature of American history.

Richards, Henry Melchior Muhlenberg. r974.8 P3993 v.17

The Pennsylvania-German in the Revolutionary war, 1775–1783. 1908. (In Pennsylvania-German Society. Proceedings and addresses, v.17.)

Forms v.18 of "Pennsylvania; the German influence in its settlement and development."

The author draws largely on contemporary documents. He includes the roster of the German regiment and gives biographical sketches of Pennsylvania-Germans who were prominent in the military service.

Rochambeau, Jean Baptiste Donatien de Vimeur, comte de. r973.3 R56

Memoirs relative to the War of independence of the United States; extracted and tr. from the French by M. W. E. Wright. 1838.

"He repudiates all idea of writing in the character of a professed author, and both the style and substance of his autobiography are those of a military memoir. Still he records many significant facts, geographical and economical... But the most attractive feature of Rochambeau's American reminiscences is his cordial recognition of the popular mind and heart. He appreciated, better than many more superficial observers, the domestic discipline, the religious toleration, and the genuine independence of character which then formed our noble distinction in the view of liberal Europeans." Tuckerman's America and her commentators.

Rosengarten, Joseph George. r973.3 R72

Defence of the Hessians. 1899.

Reprinted from the "Pennsylvania magazine of history and biography," July 1899.

Summary of an anonymous pamphlet printed in 1879 justifying the alliance of the Hessians with England at the time of the Revolutionary war.

Smith, Justin Harvey. 973.3 S65

Our struggle for the 14th colony; Canada and the American revolution. 2v. 1907. Putnam.

"List of sources," v.1, p.621–638.

The author is (1907) professor of modern history in Dartmouth College. A readable and trustworthy account of the attempt made by the 13 colonies to win Canada from British allegiance. Contains maps and illustrations.

Stark, James Henry. 973.3 S79

Loyalists of Massachusetts and the other side of the American revolution. 1910. Privately printed.

The greater part of the book consists of biographies of leading Loyalists and histories of their families.

Stone, William Leete, b. 1835. r973.3 S881

Visits to the Saratoga battle-grounds, 1780–1880. 1895. Munsell.

By notable people who have visited the battle-grounds. Introduction gives brief history of battle.

Stryker, William Scudder. r973.3 S92n

The New Jersey volunteers (loyalists) in the Revolutionary war. 1887. Naar.

Brief account of the services of the Tory volunteers of New Jersey in the Revolutionary war, with rosters and notes on some of the commanding officers.

Thwaites, Reuben Gold, & Kellogg, L. P. ed. r973.3 T43
The Revolution on the upper Ohio, 1775–1777; comp. from the Draper manuscripts in the library of the Wisconsin Historical Society and published at the charge of the Wisconsin Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. 1908. Wisconsin Historical Soc. (Draper series.)

Collection of contemporary documents from the treaty with the Indians at Pittsburgh in 1775 to the coming of Gen. Hand to Fort Pitt in 1777 to take command of the West.

United States—Library of Congress. qr016.352 U25
List of works relating to the French alliance in the American revolution; comp. by A. P. C. Griffin. 1907.
Bound with "Select list of books on municipal affairs."

United States—Library of Congress. qr973.3 U25
Naval records of the American revolution, 1775–1788; prepared from the originals in the Library of Congress by C. H. Lincoln. 1906.

"More than half of this volume is occupied by a list of the bonds filed under the letters of marque, in which are indicated all who were concerned in the vessels as master, bonder, owner, or witness. This is a valuable contribution to history, as the bonds also give the nature of the ship, and the size of the crew and armament, as well as the State to which she belonged." Nation, 1907.

Walworth, Mrs Ellen (Hardin). qr973.3 W19
Battles of Saratoga, 1777, and The Saratoga Monument Association, 1856–91. 1891. Munsell.

Contains a sketch of the campaign, a history of the Monument Association, a supposed visit to the battle-ground and a visitor's guide to Saratoga Springs. Forms a useful guide-book to the traditional spots. Illustrated with maps and photographs.

Watson, Henry Clay. 973.3 W31

[Sullivan, William.] 973.4 S95

Familiar letters on public characters and public events from the peace of 1783 to the peace of 1815. 1834. Russell.

"Sullivan was a pessimistic and irreconcilable Federalist, and his work is extremely biased. It contains interesting and often accurate sketches of men and events, but frequently want of knowledge is apparent. He is particularly hostile and unfair to Jefferson, though he supports his characterization by quoting copiously from Jefferson's Writings. He develops in a clear manner and pleasant style the principles for which Federalists stood." Larned's Literature of American history.

War of 1812. Missouri compromise

Cruikshank, Ernest Alexander, ed. r973.5 C897

Documentary history of the campaign on the Niagara frontier, 1812–14. v.8. 1907. (Lundy's Lane Historical Society. Publications.)

For v.1–7 see preceding catalogues.

Cullum, George Washington. 973.5 C91

Campaigns of the War of 1812–15 against Great Britain; sketched and criticised, with biographies of the American engineers. 1879. Miller.

"Not a minute history of the war, but studies of the chief operations in their tactical and strategical aspects. An admirable attempt to bring out clearly the truth on many disputed points, and to bestow praise where it rightfully belongs. Especially valuable are the copious biographical data, and the Journal of the northwestern campaign of 1812–13, under Maj.-Gen. Wm. H. Harrison, by Bvt. Lt.-Col. Eleazer D. Wood, here first published." Larned's Literature of American history.

Indiana—Tippecanoe battle-field monument commission. r973.5 I242

Tippecanoe battle-field monument; a history of the association formed to promote the enterprise, the action of Congress and the Indiana legislature, the work of the commission and the ceremonies at the dedication of the monument. 1909.

Ingersoll, Charles Jared. 973.5 I24

Historical sketch of the second war between the United States of America and Great Britain, declared by act of Congress the 18th of June 1812 and concluded by peace the 15th of Feb. 1815. 1849. Lea.

"Ingersoll wrote from personal knowledge, being a member of Congress during the war, and on 'intimate and confidential terms' with most of the administration...He has many shrewd and profound observations on the political measures of the time, and his character sketches are frequently just, sometimes unfair, always striking...His work possesses great value, though much in relation to the war is now known which was hidden from contemporaries." Larned's Literature of American history.

[Kimball, Horace.] r973.5 K25

American naval battles; being a complete history of the battles fought by the navy of the United States, from its establishment in 1794 to the present time [1831]. 1831. Smith.

Lucas, Sir Charles Prestwood. 973.5 L96

Canadian war of 1812. 1906. Clarendon Press.

"Mr. Lucas plunges into an account of the hostilities along the Canadian frontier without furnishing his reader with such data as would explain the state of feeling on either side of it...A little is said of the combats at sea and of the attacks upon Washington, Baltimore, and New Orleans. Otherwise the book is in the strictest sense 'an instalment of Canadian history'...The sources in the main are official dispatches...His tone throughout is discriminating, and though admiration for the courage of the Loyalists may be said to dominate the narrative as a whole, it does not lead to special pleading on their behalf or wilful detraction from the merits of their opponents." Nation, 1906.

Lucas, Robert. qr973.5 L96

Robert Lucas journal of the War of 1812 during the campaign under Gen. William Hull; ed. by J. C. Parish. 1906. Iowa State Historical Soc.

Lucas was a brigadier-general in the Ohio militia. The journal chronicles the daily events from April 25 to Sept. 4, 1812, and throws some light on Gen. Hull's surrender of Detroit.

Ray, Perley Orman. 973.5 R24

Repeal of the Missouri compromise; its origin and authorship. 1909. Clark.

"Selected bibliography," p.289–299.

Thesis for Ph. D., Cornell University.

A sound piece of historical work and a contribution of first-rate importance. Professor Ray uncovers for the first time the political conditions in Missouri which for several years had made the opening of the Nebraska country an issue of increasing importance. His investigations seem to show conclusively that the real author of the Kansas-Nebraska legislation, though not its sponsor, was David R. Atchison, Benton's implacable political enemy, and successor in the Senate. Condensed from Nation, 1909.

Sargent, Nathan. 973.5 S24

Public men and events from the commencement of Mr Monroe's administration in 1817 to the close of Mr Fillmore's administration in 1853. 2v. 1875. Lippincott.

"A superficial book, written by a Washington newspaper correspondent, who was an 'old line Whig;' presents character sketches of notable men, together with a variety of information, sometimes weighty, sometimes trivial, on political measures. The book is vividly written, is not accurate, and is decidedly though not violently partisan." Larned's Literature of American history.

Stevens, Frank Everett. q973.5 S84

Black Hawk war, including a review of Black Hawk's life. 1903. Privately printed.

More valuable as a collection of interesting material than as an historical or biographical narrative. Has two chapters dealing with the part played in the war by Lincoln and Jefferson Davis. Many maps and illustrations.

Mexican war

Dallas, George Mifflin. r973.6 D16

Great speech upon the leading topics of the day, delivered at Pittsburgh [Sept. 18, 1847], with a brief biographical sketch, &c. 1847. Times and Keystone Job Office.

Frost, John. 973.6 F96

Mexican war and its warriors, comprising a complete history of all the operations of the American armies in Mexico, with biographical sketches and anecdotes of the most distinguished officers in the regular army and volunteer force. [1850.] Mansfield.

George, Isaac. 973.6 G31
Heroes and incidents of the Mexican war, containing Doniphan's expedition, the cause of the war with Mexico, a description of the people and customs at that time, a sketch of the life of Doniphan, together with sketches and portraits of the heroes of that struggle. 1903. Review Pub. Co.

Some phases of the Civil war; an appreciation and criticism of Mr James Ford Rhodes's fifth volume [of the History of the United States, 1864–1866]. 1905. Wilson.
Reprinted from the Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society, second series, v.19, p.315–356.

Alexander, Edward Porter. 973.7 A375
Military memoirs of a Confederate; a critical narrative. 1907. Scribner.
General Alexander was chief of ordnance in the Army of northern Virginia and afterward chief of artillery in Longstreet's corps. The book is devoted primarily to criticism of the strategy of the war on both sides, but is at the same time reminiscent and anecdotal.

Brownlow, William Gannaway (Parson Brownlow). 973.7 B82
Sketches of the rise, progress and decline of secession. 1862. Childs.

Compendium of the War of the rebellion; comp. and arranged from official records of the Federal and Confederate armies, reports of the adjutant generals of the several states, the army registers and other reliable documents and sources. 1908. Dyer Pub. Co.

Contents: Number and organization of the armies of the United States.—Chronological record of the campaigns, battles, engagements, actions, combats, sieges, skirmishes, etc. in the United States, 1861 to 1865.—Regimental histories.

Eggleston, George Cary. 973.7 E35h

History of the Confederate war, its causes and its conduct; a narrative and critical history. 2v. 1910. Sturgis.

"Not a southern account...but an attempt to write a history of the causes and conduct of the war 'with absolute loyalty to the truth.' In temper, appraisal of motives and judgments of men the book fulfils its purpose, but frequent inaccuracies, dogmatic statements and few references to authorities preclude its consideration as a serious contribution to history." A. L. A. booklist, 1910.

Formby, John. 973.7 F77

American civil war; a concise history of its causes, progress and results. 2v. 1910. Scribner.

v.1. Text.
v.2. Maps.

Synopsis from which details are eliminated. Will enable the casual reader of parts of the Civil war history to understand the relation of what he reads to the other events of the war, and help the professional student to coördinate and compare the operations conducted in different fields at the same time, and in the same field from the beginning to the end of the war. Sixty-five maps. Condensed from American historical review, 1911.

Fry, Gen. James Barnet. 973.7 F97

Military miscellanies. 1889. Brentano.

"The author is best known by his able services as Provost-Marshal-General enforcing the draft during the Civil War. His close contact with both civil and military administration gave great opportunities for observation of Lincoln, Stanton, Halleck, and others, and his reproduction of casual essays and reviews is a mine of rich material for personal study of leading men. His earlier service on the staff of General Buell was also an important experience, and his long life as an officer of the regular army gave him the inside view of the character and qualities of prominent soldiers." Larned's Literature of American history.

Gasparin, Agénor Étienne, comte de. 973.7 G21

Uprising of a great people; the United States in 1861, to which is added a word of peace on the difference between England and the United States [tr.] from the French by M. L. Booth. 1862. Scribner.

Gasparin was a student of American history and politics and a warm advocate of abolition.

"De Gasparin's Uprising of a great people fell on American hearts, at the darkest hour of the strife, like the clarion note of a reënforcement of the heroes of humanity." Tuckerman's America and her commentators.

Headley, Joel Tyler. 973.7 H38

The great rebellion; a history of the Civil war. 2v. 1866–73. Amer. Pub. Co.

"A reasonably adequate view of the war, for uncritical readers, as seen by one who

Reprinted from "Fraser's magazine."

The same. 1882. Holt. (In his Dissertations and discussions, v.1, p.1–27.) 308 M68 v.1

Examination of the principles involved in the Civil war and the possible or probable issues.

Pearson, Elizabeth Ware, ed. 973.7 P35

Letters from Port Royal [South Carolina] written at the time of the Civil war. 1906. Clarke.

When the Sea Island region of South Carolina fell into the hands of the Federals in November 1861, a band of Northern men and women, with Edward L. Pierce of Milton, Mass. at their head, went there to undertake the work of preparing the slaves for freedom and of raising the cotton crop of 1862 on the various plantations. This account of the Port Royal experiment is an accurate picture of slavery as well as a record of unselfish patriotism.

Plum, William Rattle. 973.7 P71

Military telegraph during the Civil war in the United States, with an exposition of ancient and modern means of communication and of the Federal and Confederate cipher systems; also a running account of the war between the states. 2v. 1882. Jansen.

"Curious medley of trivial personal anecdotes about telegraph operators, glimpses of hazardous war service, an interesting chapter on military cryptographs, a little valuable history, and, as expressed in the title, a running account of the war. The author, himself an ex-operator, believed that the services during the Rebellion of the Telegraph Corps, which was not a corps, were not properly appreciated by the nation, and he has made a vigorous attempt to commemorate them, introducing by name every operator of whom he could learn anything." Nation, 1882.

Fort Jefferson and its commander [Gen. L. G. Arnold], 1861–2. 1910.

Reprinted from "Journal of the Military Service Institution;" compiled from the official records and other authentic sources.

Demonstrates the importance of this fort, which commanded the entrance to the Gulf of Mexico, and the efficiency of its commander.

Townsend, Edward Davis. 973.7 T66

Anecdotes of the Civil war in the United States. 1884. Appleton.

"Gen. Townsend was on the personal staff of Gen. Scott in 1861, was transferred to the Adjutant-General's office as Chief Assistant, and was closest of all our officers of rank to the War Department and Army Headquarters during the Civil War...His modest title of Anecdotes for his book does not do justice to the capital importance of many things he relates, though he mingles interesting matter of varying degrees of weight...No writer of personal recollections can claim greater authority for what he tells." Larned's Literature of American history.

[Weyman, B. F. & Weyman, W. P. comp.] qr973.7 W58

[Scrap book of newspaper clippings about the Civil war.] 2v.

v.1 contains many clippings about the Pittsburgh Subsistence Committee.

Wilson, John Laird. qr973.7 W769

Pictorial history of the great Civil war; its causes, origin, conduct and results, embracing full and authentic accounts of its battles by land and sea, containing carefully prepared biographies of the leading generals and naval commanders of both the North and the South. 1881. Gately. Pittsburgh.

Political history

Kennedy, John Pendleton. 973.7 K18

Mr Ambrose's letters on the Rebellion. 1865. Hurd.

Good small treatise on secession and state's rights, giving a summary of the events and influences which culminated in rebellion. Originally published in the "National intelligencer." The author's long political experience and his intimate relations with the South, though himself a Union man, give special value to the work.

Naval history

[Crandall, Warren Daniel, & Newell, I. D.] r973.7 C86

History of the Ram fleet and the Mississippi Marine Brigade in the War for the Union on the Mississippi and its tributaries; the story of the Ellets and their men. 1907.

The Ram fleet and its successor the Mississippi Marine Brigade, which did good service during the Civil war, were constructed under the direction of Charles Ellet, a colonel of engineers in the army. Portraits of many of the officers and men are included.

Porter, Admiral David Dixon. q973.7 P835n

Naval history of the Civil war. 1886. Sherman.

"Admiral Porter's accuracy of statement has been seriously impeached. His report of conversations and proceedings during President Lincoln's visit to Richmond (the Admiral being present) is said to be untrue to a degree which cannot easily be accounted for." Larned's Literature of American history.

Special campaigns and battles

Battine, Cecil. 973.7 B32

Crisis of the Confederacy; a history of Gettysburg and the Wilderness. 1905. Longmans.

"An excellent commentary upon our civil war...A subsidiary motive of the book is to display the true use of cavalry, which the author holds was developed in Virginia by Stuart...A confessed Confederate bias does not interfere with impartial treatment." Nation, 1906.

Beecham, Robert K. 973.7 B37

Gettysburg, the pivotal battle of the Civil war. 1911. McClurg.

"A combination of personal views acquired on the scene of action by a minor officer, and the inadequate consideration of the evidence now open to all students of military history." Nation, 1911.

Burrage, Henry Sweetser. 973.7 B94

Gettysburg and Lincoln; the battle, the cemetery and the National park. 1906. Putnam.

Alexander, John Henry, b. 1846. 973.7 A37

Mosby's men. 1907. Neale.

Narrative of a Confederate soldier who served in the cavalry known as Mosby's rangers.

Gordon, Gen. George Henry. 973.7 G657

Brook Farm to Cedar mountain in the War of the great rebellion, 1861–62. 1883. Osgood.

A revision and enlargement of "A history of the Second Massachusetts regiment" and the "Second Massachusetts regiment and Stonewall Jackson."

"General Gordon has done the public a real service in publishing this volume. It is made up of papers written for the annual gatherings of the officers of his regiment... Hence we have as correct a picture of the real life of one of our very best volunteer regiments as it is possible to get...General Gordon writes easily; he passes from one mood to another very naturally; he has the power of saying strong things; he has also a nice sense of humor. His narrative is animated; the details never become tedious." Nation, 1883.

Hosmer, James Kendall. 973.7 H82

The color-guard: being a corporal's notes of military service in the 19th Army Corps. 1864. Walker.

"The history of a nine months' regiment, the 52d Massachusetts, from Nov., '62, to July, '63. Its operations were in the department of Louisiana, and the writer...tells with good literary style and with interesting and valuable historical details, of the daily life of the volunteer, as he observed it from the point of view of the man in the ranks. The story includes some account of the siege and capture of Port Hudson." Larned's Literature of American history.

Munson, John William. 973.7 M96

Reminiscences of a Mosby guerrilla. 1906. Moffat.

Mosby's rangers were an independent body of Confederate cavalry, recruited for scouting and raiding purposes, afterwards organized as a regular branch of the Confederate service. The author's purpose is purely reminiscent and not the serious one of estimating Mosby's service.

Personal narratives

Andrews, Eliza Frances. 973.7 A56
War-time journal of a Georgia girl, 1864–1865. 1908. Appleton.
"The days are so filled with talk, action, discomfort, dauntless gayety, and the contemplation of distressing sights, that the nightly records constitute an amazing instance of the force of the diary habit. The result is a crowded but evidently veracious picture of life as it had to be lived during the last months of the Confederacy." Nation, 1909.

Hopkins, Luther W. 973.7 H78
From Bull Run to Appomattox; a boy's view. 1908. Fleet.
Author entered the Confederate army at the age of 17, and here relates his experiences. Intended for boys, but will perhaps be of more interest to old soldiers. Portraits.

Kerbey, Joseph Orton. 973.7 K19
Boy spy; a substantially true record of events during the War of the rebellion; the only practical history of war telegraphers in the field, a full account of the mysteries of signalling by flags, torches and rockets, thrilling scenes of battles, captures and escapes. 1889. Belford.

Kieffer, Henry Martyn. 973.7 K24

Recollections of a drummer-boy. 1888. Houghton.

Personal experiences of three years of active service during the Civil war. Appeared in "St. Nicholas," v.9–10, Nov. 1881–Oct. 1883.

McCarthy, Carlton. 973.7 M128

Detailed minutiæ of soldier life in the Army of northern Virginia, 1861–1865. 1884. McCarthy.

"A very lively series of sketches of life in the ranks of the Confederate army in Virginia. The characters and scenes selected are the amusing and humorous, mostly; but they have the ring of true experience, from the enthusiastic enlistment, through the disillusion of hard campaigning, to the despair and surrender at Appomattox." Larned's Literature of American history.

McKim, Randolph Harrison. 973.7 M18

A soldier's recollections; leaves from the diary of a young Confederate. 1910. Longmans.

Appendix contains his "Motives and aims of the soldiers of the South in the Civil war," p.283–336, and "General J. E. B. Stuart in the Gettysburg campaign," p.337–362.

"The venerable rector of the Church of the Epiphany in Washington, D. C., gives in this book an account of his service half a century ago in the Army of Northern Virginia...He took part in the action from Bull Run to Appomattox, at first in the ranks, then as a staff-officer in the Stonewall division, and ended as chaplain of Mumford's cavalry...The record, though composed in age, is largely taken from the young man's diary and letters. What it may lack in grace and picturesqueness is amply made up by its straightforward honesty and force and by its spirit of warm humanity." Nation, 1911.

Moore, Edward Alexander. 973.7 M87

Story of a cannoneer under Stonewall Jackson, in which is told the part taken by the Rockbridge artillery in the Army of Northern Virginia, with introductions by R. E. Lee, jr. and H. S. Tucker. 1907. Neale.

The Rockbridge battery of artillery was one of the two or three best-known artillery companies of the Confederate armies. It followed Jackson until his death and then fought on until Appomattox Courthouse. Mr Moore makes no effort to describe or comment on the campaigns, but he has remembered so many details of camp and battle, so many comic and tragic incidents of his service and of his comrades, that the book possesses genuine value despite occasional eccentricities of style. The narrative is as full of incident and adventure as any novel. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Van Alstyne, Lawrence. 973.7 V17

Diary of an enlisted man. 1910. Tuttle.

Knauss, William H. 973.7 K33

Story of Camp Chase; a history of the prison and its cemetery together with other cemeteries where Confederate prisoners are buried. 1906. Pub. House of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

It has been largely due to the efforts of the author, who was a soldier in the Union army, that the cemetery at Camp Chase has been properly cared for. Letters written by the prisoners, extracts from books, newspapers, etc. are here brought together to give some idea of life in the prison during the war.

Page, James Madison, & Haley, M. J. 973.7 P145

True story of Andersonville prison; a defense of Major Henry Wirz. 1908. Neale.

Lieutenant Page was a prisoner at Andersonville from February to October 1864. So far as his own experience and observation go, he is able to deny the oft-repeated charges of robbery, brutality and neglect which survivors of Andersonville have lodged against Wirz.

Hospitals. Sanitary service

Atlantic City, N. J. Citizens Executive Committee on the 44th National Encampment, G. A. R. r973.7 A88

Cox, Samuel Sullivan. 973.8 C85

Three decades of Federal legislation, 1855 to 1885; personal and historical memories of events preceding, during and since the American civil war. 1894. Reid.

"Cox was a war Democrat, and his book has the merits and the defects of a history written by an acute politician who took part in many of the events narrated. The last decade is very inadequately discussed; the value of the book is principally in that portion devoted to the events of the reconstruction period. It is written in a controversial spirit and colored throughout by the writer's political sympathies; is rambling and discursive, and clothed in rough and choppy English." Larned's Literature of American history.

Documentary history of reconstruction, political, military, social, religious, educational & industrial, 1865 to the present time. 2v. 1906–07. Clark.

"References" at the beginning of each chapter.

Its purpose is to make accessible to the student and the general reader some of the sources of the history of the reconstruction period. The selections are well made and are to a high degree illustrative of public sentiment at the time. The work has the limitations which are inseparable from all source-books of limited size, but it also has what many source-books have not, namely, interest. Condensed from American historical review, 1907.

Dicey, Edward. 917.3 D54

Six months in the Federal states. 2v. in 1. 1863. Macmillan.

English journalist's view of the United States, gained by a visit in 1862. Dignified and impersonal in tone, containing scarcely an offense against good taste and good feeling. Chiefly concerned with the Civil war and the great moral problems involved, it bears honorable testimony to the accuracy of his observation, as well as to his powers of comparison and judgment.

Contents: New England; an autumn impression.—New York revisited.—New York and the Hudson; a spring impression.—New York; social notes.—The Bowery and thereabouts.—The sense of Newport.—Boston.—Concord and Salem.—Philadelphia.—Baltimore.—Washington.—Richmond.—Charleston.—Florida.

Mr James is a native American, yet in general he appears as a curiously alien observer. He comes to his task saturated with the conventions, the ideas, and the ideals of an older and more sophisticated civilization, of a sheltered and intellectually fastidious milieu; and by this standard he insensibly measures all American institutions and tendencies. "The American scene" is a work of marvellously keen and subtle analysis; it transfixes the defects and shortcomings of American civilization with unerring thrusts, but its vision is, if anything, too personal, too microscopic. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

American sketches. 1908. Blackwood.

Contents: New York.— Boston.— Chicago.— New England.— The yellow press. — Liberty and patriotism.—The millionaire.—The American language.—American literature.—The underworld.—Epilogue.

The view of America which it contains is the view of an English visitor who has not much time to spare and who must seize quickly upon the most striking objects presented to him. He is always shrewd, he is often witty, but he is very rarely kind, or even just. There is, in fact, a touch of caricature in Mr Whibley's profile of the American people: but it is none the less worth looking at. Condensed from Spectator, 1908.

Elliott, Charles Wyllys. 1974 E52

New England history from the discovery of the continent by the Northmen, A. D. 986 to the period when the colonies declared their independence, 1776. 2v. Scribner.

"Not...a genuinely philosophical history. The work contains much that is suggestive, and the use made of material is often admirable. But the author exhibits the shallowness which is characteristic of 18th century writers, and his admiration for colonial democracy is of too pronounced a type to permit of his doing justice to aught save the independent tendencies of old Puritan New England." Larned's Literature of American history.

Mathews, Lois Kimball. 974 M47

Expansion of New England, the spread of New England settlement and institutions to the Mississippi river, 1620–1865. 1909. Houghton.

A book of unique importance. What Mrs Mathews has done is to show, from an exhaustive study of local material, the forces which from the beginning determined the growth of settlement in New England; the course which the expansion took in the founding of new towns and the opening of natural avenues of communication; the effect of soil, climate and accessibility, as well as of Indian wars and religious dissensions, upon migration; and the final overflow of New England men and women, with their inherited political, social and religious ideas, into western New York, the Ohio country, and Michigan and Wisconsin. The twenty-nine maps showing the location and extent of New England settlement at various dates and in various parts of the country, are in the highest degree informing. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

"The journal of John Winthrop, father and founder of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, as a source for our early history is equalled in value only by the similar record of William Bradford, governor of Plymouth...[It] is quaint, not always clear, often short-sighted—nevertheless the narrative of a wise, well-meaning man...James Savage, the best antiquarian of his day, has supplemented the Journal with notes of great value." Larned's Literature of American history.

The purpose of the book is not historical, certainly not critical. The author assigns to the spots she touches the fact or fiction which links it especially with the life of the past. She is anxious to relate, not what actually occurred, but what the country-folk have believed as occurring; and in pursuing this end she pours out a lavish store of things amusing, pathetic, often in a high degree romantic, the selection showing a good appreciation of what takes hold of the heart of the world. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

History

Bartlett, William Henry. 974.4 B27

Pilgrim Fathers; or, The founders of New England in the reign of James the First. 1853. Hall.

Contents: The Pilgrims in England.—The exiles in Holland.—The settlement in America.

"This work was written that the British public might be better informed regarding the early history of their kinsmen across the sea. It is a compilation put together in an anecdotal and gossipy fashion, calculated to interest its readers. Mr. Bartlett may lay claim to some originality in the attention he has given to topographical details, but taken as a whole he has shown little critical ability." Larned's Literature of American history.

Illustrated.

Cockshott, Winnifred. 974.4 C64

Pilgrim Fathers; their church and colony. [1909.] Methuen.

"Chief authorities," p.13–15.

Goodwin, John Abbott. r974.4 G63

[Pilgrim republic; an historical review of the colony of New Plymouth, with sketches of the rise of other New England settlements, the history of Congregationalism and the creeds of the period.] 1888. Ticknor.

Title-page wanting.

"Authorities," p.12–13.

"An elaborate and impartial study, based on a careful examination of original sources, not easily found. Written for popular reading, but 'without much imagination and humor.' The preface contains an estimate of the original and secondary authorities. There is considerable fulness of valuable detail as to local affairs at Plymouth." Larned's Literature of American history.

Hawthorne, Nathaniel. j974.4 H36g

The whole history of grandfather's chair; or, True stories from New England history, 1620–1803. 1896. Houghton.

Among the stories told by grandfather to the children are, The pine-tree shillings.—The sunken treasure.—The Salem witches.—The old French war and the Acadian exiles.—The Boston massacre.

"Sketch of the life of Nathaniel Hawthorne," p.5–24.

Johnson, Edward. r974.4 J36

Wonder-working providence, 1628–1651; ed. by J. F. Jameson. 1910. Scribner. (Original narratives of early American history.)

Contains map and two facsimiles.

"A history of New England the book is not, but rather a history of Massachusetts down to...1651. Among New England histories it has the distinction of being the first to appear in print, for it was printed in London in 1653 (dated 1654). It was printed anonymously, but its author is known to have been Captain Edward Johnson, selectman and town clerk of...Woburn, Massachusetts...The hot zeal, the narrow partisanship, the confident dogmatism, which characterized so much of Puritanism, have in him a striking example...While he gives much valuable information, especially as to the successive planting of new towns and churches in Massachusetts, he is not seldom inaccurate." Jameson's History of historical writing in America.

Mackennal, Alexander. q974.4 M17

Homes and haunts of the Pilgrim Fathers, with illustrations by Charles Whymper. 1899. Religious Tract Soc.

Oliver, Peter. 974.4 O23

Puritan commonwealth; an historical review of the Puritan government in Massachusetts in its civil and ecclesiastical relations, from its rise to the abrogation of the first charter. 1856. Little.

"An account of colonial Massachusetts from the point of view of an ardent churchman and upholder of aristocratic ideas. Peter Oliver was a descendant of the Olivers who at the time of the American Revolution stood stoutly with the Tories. He has no love for Puritanism. While the tone of Mr. Oliver is thus that of a belated cavalier and prelatist, he is well informed and able. The work has value as a counter-weight to the numerous presentments of New England Puritanism quite too partial." Larned's Literature of American history.

Oliver, Peter—continued. 974.4 O23

Washburn, Emory. r974.4 W27

Sketches of the judicial history of Massachusetts from 1630 to the Revolution in 1775. 1840. Little.

"Really an essay on the constitutional history of Massachusetts with notices of the more eminent judges and lawyers of the colonial era. Author was a Massachusetts judge and a close student of history. The book is written from original sources." Larned's Literature of American history.

New York

History

Albany (N. Y.) Chamber of Commerce. r974.7 A32

Albany, New York; a beautiful and attractive city in which to live, a most advantageous city in which to do business.

Alexander, De Alva Stanwood. 974.7 A3752

Political history of the state of New York. 3v. 1906–09. Holt.

v.1. 1774–1832.
v.2. 1833–1861.
v.3. 1861–1882.

Largely a history of a few leading men, with some of their more important contemporaries.

"A history written on such a plan is perforce interesting, if for no other reason than because men are more attractive than institutions. Mr. Alexander has not neglected his opportunity, and his pages are enlivened and enriched by numerous pen-pictures of New York politicians and statesmen, which constitute what are perhaps the most valuable, as well as the most entertaining portions. The style is terse and clear." Nation, 1906.

Arnoux, William Henry. qr974.7 A76

Dutch in America; a historical argument. 1890. Privately printed.

"The following pages were presented to the Court of Appeals in the State of New York as an argument in an elevated railroad case then pending, in which the fundamental question involved was whether the Dutch Roman law prevailed in Manhattan Island before 1664...This question depended upon the determination of the historical question who, under the law of nations, discovered and settled New York. To aid the Court in the solution of this problem this argument was written." Preface.

Contends that the English, not the Dutch, discovered New York and established the first colony.

Atkins, Barton. 974.7 A87

Modern antiquities; comprising sketches of early Buffalo and the Great lakes, also sketches of Alaska. 1898. Courier Co.

Griffis, William Elliot. 974.7 G89

Story of New Netherland; the Dutch in America. 1909. Houghton.

"Authorities used in preparation of this volume," p.279–281.

Sketches the beginning and growth of the Dutch settlement in New York, telling the story of the governors and patroons and describing customs and social life, school and church interests.

Hammond, Jabez Delano. 974.7 H22

History of political parties in the state of New-York from the ratification of the Federal constitution to Dec. 1842, to which are added notes by Gen. Root. 3v. 1852.

v.3 title reads "Political history of the state of New York from Jan. 1, 1841 to Jan. 1, 1847, including the life of Silas Wright."

Impartial and candid. Based on personal knowledge, contemporary newspapers and pamphlets, and official documents.

"To the work has always been attributed high authority, and it has been regarded as one of the most valuable of American political histories. The style in which it is written is clear and interesting, tracing effectively the origin of political movements and the causes of crises in the life both of individuals and parties." Larned's Literature of American history.

Howell, George Rogers, and others, ed. qr974.7 H85

Bi-centennial history of Albany; history of the county of Albany, N. Y. from 1609 to 1886, with portraits, biographies and illustrations. 1886. Munsell.

O'Callaghan, Edmund Bailey. r974.7 O13

History of New Netherland; or, New York under the Dutch. 2v. 1848. Appleton.

"When this work was written, nothing of value, save original sources, existed on New Netherland history...It is emphatically a work of original research, and still [1902] maintains its place as the leading authority upon the times of which it treats. Vol. 1 carries the reader to the close of Kieft's administration, and vol. 2 is devoted wholly to the career of Stuyvesant...The whole is written in a vigorous style, with copious citations and translations of documents." Larned's Literature of American history.

Turner, Orsamus. r974.7 T86p

Pioneer history of the Holland purchase of western New York, embracing some account of the ancient remains, and a history of pioneer settlement under the auspices of the Holland company, including reminiscences of the War of 1812, the origin, progress and completion of the Erie canal, etc. 1849. Jewett.

"Although the best existing 'history' of the Holland Purchase, it is a disorderly encyclopædia of data on every phase of pioneer settlement and early development of the region. A valuable repository of information, it falls far short of being an adequate narrative, and utterly fails to show its particular subject as related to the general history of the United States." Larned's Literature of American history.

Butterfield, Consul Willshire. 974.88 B98

History of the Girtys; also of the part taken by them in Lord Dunmore's war, in the western border war of the Revolution and in the Indian war of 1790–95. 1890. Clarke.

"Gathers from many obscure sources the thread of Simon Girty's renegade life, and the scarcely more reputable careers of others of the family, whose services, in aid of Indians and of British, made the name of 'Girty' a terror along the western borders of Pennsylvania and Virginia. The author undertakes not merely to record the facts, but to show the falsity of a vast amount that has been published about the Girtys, some of it in works held in good repute." Larned's Literature of American history.

Crumrine, Boyd. qr974.88 C89

Ritenour. Pittsburgh.

The same. r974.88 D66a

First published in 1824.

"Joseph Doddridge...was a physician and a missionary of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and in both his professions a man highly esteemed. He was born in Maryland in 1769, and in his fourth year removed with his family to the western border of the line between Pennsylvania and Virginia. With abundant opportunities in his youth of familiarity with the rudest experiences of frontier life near hostile Indians, he was a keen observer, a skilful narrator, and a diligent gatherer-up of historical and traditional lore from the hardy and well-scarred pioneers...He was a keen student of nature as well as of humanity. His pages give us most vivid pictures of life under the stern and perilous conditions; not, however, without their fascinations, of forest haunts, of rude and scattered cabins, of domestic and social relations, of the resources of the heroic whites, and of the qualities of Indian warfare in the desperate struggle with the invaders." Winsor's Narrative and critical history of America.

Maps—Braddock, Pa. r974.886 M

Plan of the boroughs of Braddock and North Braddock, showing the location of the field of battle, July 9th, 1755; located by Sydney Dillon, delineated by T. F. Graham and L. H. Park. no.1–2. 1909.

Size, 14x17⅞ inches, folded in 12° cover; scale, 600 feet to 1 inch.

The location of battle-field and road shown here is based on a study of the ground in connection with the two maps made by Pat. Mackellar, engineer with Braddock's army, and the plan from Winsor's "Narrative and critical history," v.5, p.499, and the Carnegie, McCandless Co.'s property map of 1873 showing contours of the bottom land in the vicinity of the road.

Mackellar's map no.1 has title "A sketch of the field of battle of July 9th upon the Monongahela seven miles from Fort Duquesne, shewing the disposition of troops when the action began;" no.2 has title "A sketch of the field of battle shewing the disposition of the troops about 2 o'clock when the whole of the main body had joined the advanced and working parties then beat back from the ground they occupied as in plan no.1."

Beverly, Robert. r975.5 B46

History of Virginia, with an introduction by Charles Campbell. 1855. Randolph.

Contents: The history of the first settlement of Virginia and the government thereof to the year 1706.—The natural productions and conveniences of the country suited to trade and improvement.—The native Indians; their religion, laws and customs in war and peace.—The present state of the country as to the polity of the government and the improvements of the land the 10th of June 1720.

"This work comes down to 1707, with a continuation to 1720...Jefferson calls Beverley 'concise and unsatisfactory,' but this can apply only to the first book, which deals with the civil history and makes up only a part of the whole. The author had had experience in the public records of the colony, and the books treating the institutional life of the colony and the Indians are both full and satisfactory. The Indian section is particularly full, being based on Smith's and Hariot's accounts and illustrated by De Bry's engravings. The editor supplies a biographical introduction." Larned's Literature of American history.

Bruce, Philip Alexander. 975.5 B82i

Institutional history of Virginia in the 17th century; an inquiry into the religious, moral, educational, legal, military and political condition of the people, based on original and contemporaneous records. 2v. 1910. Putnam.

History of Augusta county, Virginia. 1882. Yost.

Pryor, Mrs Sara Agnes (Rice). 975.5 P97

Birth of the nation, Jamestown, 1607. 1907. Macmillan.

Frankly popular story of the establishment of the Virginia colony. It is distinctly a book for the moment, quite evidently written for the benefit of visitors to the Jamestown Exposition, and not free from the repetitions and trivialities which suggest haste. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Stith, William. r975.5 S86

History of the first discovery and settlement of Virginia, with an appendix containing ancient charters or letters patent. v.2. 1912.

v.2. Complete index, by M. P. Robinson.

"The style is inelegant as well as diffuse...By all the later historians the work is cited as a high authority." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Virginia; information for the homeseeker and investor. 1904. Waddey.

Wirt, William. r917.55 W81

Letters of the British spy. [1811.] Lucas.

Author (1772–1834) was an American lawyer, politician and writer, attorney-general of the United States, 1817–29, and antimasonic candidate for president, 1832. These few letters were written from Richmond, Virginia, and published anonymously in 1803. Though they refer to the appearance, politics and prominent citizens of the district, most of the space is occupied in philosophizing on many subjects.

North Carolina

Lawson, John. r975.6 L42

North Carolina; a study in English colonial government. 1904. Macmillan.

"Bibliography," p.252–254.

Author is (1907) associate professor of economics and of history in the University of North Carolina.

"Mr. Raper's monograph belongs with Smith's South Carolina and Mereness's Maryland in the succession of useful studies in colonial administration...This book is limited mainly to a study of the royal province, its organization and practical operation. Local administration is hardly touched, and the relations of church and state are passed over with a few references to controversies during the proprietary period...It is the result of serious and for the most part accurate research." American historical review, 1904.

Trinity College, Durham, N. C., Historical Society. r975.6 T74

Annual publication of historical papers, ser. 1–6. 1897–1906.

Fuller, Hubert Bruce. 975.9 F98

Purchase of Florida; its history and diplomacy. 1906. Burrows.

"Bibliography," p.381–382.

"Excellent as is Mr. Fuller's book and valuable as are the new facts that it contains, it is open to two serious criticisms. The material upon which it is based is inadequate, and the knowledge which it displays of European diplomatic situations is insufficient." Nation, 1906.

Swift, Frederick R. 917.59 S97

Florida fancies. 1903. Putnam.

Contains also "'Jack' Stanley; a romance of the Cuban war."

Account of a journey up the Ocklawaha river, in which the hunting of alligators furnished the chief excitement.

Mississippi

Lowry, Robert, & McCardle, W. H. 976.2 L96

History of Mississippi from the discovery of the great river by Hernando DeSoto, including the earliest settlement made by the French under Iberville, to the death of Jefferson Davis. 1891. Henry.

"The only portion of the work possessing originality is that which treats of the period immediately preceding and following the Civil War. Mr. Lowry has been twice Governor of the state, and both he and Colonel McCardle are well informed as to its more recent political history. The remainder of the work is largely based on an uncritical study of Gayarré and Claiborne." Larned's Literature of American history.

Reed, Richard F. r976.2 R28

The Natchez country, from the settlement by the French to the admission of Mississippi as a state. 1909. [News Print.]

Western states

History

Parrish, Randall. 978 P26

The great plains; the romance of western American exploration, warfare and settlement, 1527–1870. 1907. McClurg.

Best described as a collection of border stories and traditions, with running commentaries on contemporary conditions from the Spanish exploration to about 1870. The choice of material is commendable, the weaving skilful, and the interest well sustained. It is history in lighter vein and adapted to general reading...Makes no pretence to a source basis...is not free from minor inaccuracies. Condensed from Dial, 1907.

Description and travel

Bell, William Abraham. 917.8 B41

New tracks in North America; a journal of travel and adventure whilst engaged in the survey for a southern railroad to the Pacific ocean during 1867–8, with contributions by W. J. Palmer, A. R. Calhoun, C. C. Parry and W. F. Colton. 1870. Chapman.

Contents: Introduction: Sketch of the route; Physical geography of the Mississippi basin and of the Rocky mountains: Physical geography of the Colorado basin; Physical geography of the "Great basin region."—From the Mississippi river to the Rio Grande del Norte.—The native races of New Mexico and Arizona.—From the Rio Grande del Norte to the Pacific ocean.—The Pacific railways.

"Dr. Bell...was a good observer, possessed the power of presenting his narrative in a highly interesting way, and succeeded in embodying much information of both general and scientific interest. He falls into the usual errors prevalent at the time concerning the Indians, and many terms of Spanish origin are sadly misspelled. An excellent map, many good illustrations, and a number of tables of distances, etc., lend the work additional worth." Larned's Literature of American history.

Bowles, Samuel. 1917.8 B66

Across the continent; a summer's journey to the Rocky mountains, the Mormons and the Pacific states, with Speaker Colfax. 1865. Privately printed.

Contents: Introduction.—Alexander Henry.—Jonathan Carver.—Alexander Mackenzie.—Lewis and Clark.—Z. M. Pike.—Alexander Henry (the younger).—Ross Cox.—The commerce of the prairies.—Samuel Parker.—T. J. Farnham.—Fremont.

"Entertaining accounts of the hunters, explorers and trappers who traveled through the Northwest country between the years 1761 and 1844. In many of the stories the words of the adventurers are quoted." A. L. A. booklist, 1911.

Told in a style which will be attractive to young people.

Hayden, Ferdinand Vanderveer, and others. 917.8 H37

The great West, its attractions and resources, and the recent explorations in the Yellowstone park, "The wonderland of America;" also valuable information to travellers and settlers, with the homestead, pre-emption, land and mining laws. 1880. Franklin.

Hayden wrote from intimate knowledge, as he was connected for many years with the United States geological and geographic surveys in the West, and it was largely due to the results of his explorations that the Yellowstone park was made a perpetual reservation.

Johnson, Clifton. 917.8 J35

Highways and byways of the Rocky mountains. 1910. Macmillan. (American highways and byways.)

Contents: When the fields turn green in Nebraska.—Historic Kansas.—In Oklahoma.—A Texas bubble.—On the banks of the Rio Grande.—Pueblo life in New Mexico.—Around Pike's Peak.—In the heart of the Rockies.—Life in a Mormon village.—Wyoming days.—Mountain and valley in Montana.—May in the Yellowstone.—Custer's last battlefield.—Among the Black Hills.—A Dakota paradise.

An enthusiastic description of the West, its activities and industries. There are numerous illustrations.

Palmer, Joel. 1917.8 T43 v.30

Journal of travels over the Rocky mountains, to the mouth of the Columbia river, made during the years 1845 and 1846, containing minute descriptions of the valleys of the Willamette, Umpqua and Clamet [and] a general description of Oregon territory. 1847. (In Thwaites's Early western travels, 1748–1846, v.30.)

Reprint of original edition.

"He gives us a simple narrative of each day's happenings...taking especial care to indicate the route, each night's camping places...and whatever else might conduce to the well-being of the emigrant and his beasts. The great care taken by the author, with this very practical end in view, results in his volume being the most complete description of the Oregon Trail that we now possess." R. G. Thwaites, in preface.

Prudden, Théophile Mitchell. 917.8 P97

On the great American plateau; wanderings among canyons and buttes, in the land of the cliff-dweller and the Indian of to-day. 1906. Putnam.

Enthusiastic account of the highland country of the southwest. Does not go deeply into geology nor zoölogy, but gives a somewhat impressionistic glimpse of its formation, scenery and present and past inhabitants.

Richardson, Albert Deane. 917.8 R41

Beyond the Mississippi; from the great river to the great ocean; life and adventure on the prairies, mountains and Pacific coast, 1857–1867. 1867. Amer. Pub. Co.

Roe, Mrs Frances Marie Antoinette (Mack). 917.8 R59

Army letters from an officer's wife, 1871–1888. 1909. Appleton.

"These entertaining letters written during the 70's and 80's, when Colorado, Montana, Wyoming and Utah were still territories, are concerned with a phase of army life which is past and describe primitive living conditions, gay society, good hunting, adventures with desperadoes, and Indian warfare." A. L. A. booklist, 1909.

Rusling, James Fowler. 917.8 R89

Across America; or, The great West and the Pacific coast. 1874. Sheldon.

"Gen. Rusling was sent by the War Department on a tour of inspection to the Pacific coast just after the Civil War, and, besides his reports that appeared as public documents, prepared a general narrative of his travels. It is of interest from giving a picture of the far West at the time of its most rapid awakening." Larned's Literature of American history.

Sabin, Edwin Legrand. 917.8 S11

Around the circle; a thousand miles through the Rockies. 1908. Denver & Rio Grande Railroad.

Thayer, Eli. 978.1 T34

History of the Kansas crusade, its friends and its foes; introduction by E. E. Hale. 1889. Harper.

"A work of importance, indispensable to a knowledge of the period with which it deals; but it must be used with care. The author was the promoter of the Massachusetts Emigrant Aid Company, in 1854, and a prominent figure in the movement to people Kansas Territory with northern settlers. He does not always show, however, the part of other agencies than his own in making Kansas a free state; and he is especially bitter in his criticism of Garrison and the Abolitionists, whom he classes with the enemies of the Union. The book is a compilation, letters and newspaper extracts being freely used." Larned's Literature of American history.

Mowry, Sylvester. 917.91 M94

Arizona and Sonora; the geography, history and resources of the silver region of North America. 1864. Harper.

"Within its limited range this book is important to students of the Southwest, and more particularly Arizona between 1859 and 1864. Mowry, a West Point graduate and a member of the Boundary Commission, was one of the most noted pioneer miners of his time, and his views of the relation of the government to mining interests, of the southern railroad route across the continent, and of various Indian outbreaks, are still interesting. Much of the descriptive portion of the book is simply local, and for that reason it must always remain a classic of early Arizona, preserving valuable letters and glimpses of pioneer mining camps that would otherwise be forgotten." Larned's Literature of American history.

Munk, Joseph Amasa, comp. r016.979 M96

Arizona bibliography; a private collection of Arizoniana. 1908.

California

History

Engelhardt, Zephyrin. q979.4 E63

Franciscans in California. 1897.

"This book is very interesting, and embodies the result of much, though narrow, historical research. Its point of view is of course that of a Franciscan friar, and it criticises many statements of the early American observers of Spanish-Californian life. The defense made of Padre Junipero Serra and other pioneer priests against Bancroft, his principal authority quoted, is striking. A supplementary part, 'modern history,' brings the story of the Franciscans in California to February, 1897." Larned's Literature of American history.

Printed and published at the Holy Childhood Indian School, Harbor Springs, Michigan.

Harris, James Morrison. r979.4 H29

Guinness, Geraldine. 918.5 G96

Peru; its story, people and religion. [1909.] Revell.

"Bibliography," p.429–432.

"In spite of its offensive tone of gushing religiosity, contains an element of human interest. This lies in the first contact of an ardent young missionary with the varied types which Peru offers...The best thing in the volume, however, is the illustrations after photographs, which are numerous, characteristic, and reproduced with unusual success." Nation, 1909.

Markham, Sir Clements Robert. 918.5 M39c

Cuzco, a journey to the ancient capital of Peru; and Lima, a visit to the capital and provinces of modern Peru. 1856. Chapman.

Contains an appendix on "Quichua; a sketch of the grammar &c of the language of the Incas."

Medley of personal adventure and observation, descriptions of modern Peruvian society, narratives of Spanish-Peruvian history, and investigations touching Peruvian antiquities before the advent of the Spaniards. Condensed from Spectator, 1850.

Panama. United States of Colombia

Johnson, Willis Fletcher. 986 J36

Four centuries of the Panama canal. 1906. Holt.

The most thorough and comprehensive work that has yet appeared on the Panama canal, though the discussion of the engineering side of the subject is inadequate. Devotes 100 pages to the history of Panama. Mr Johnson's views throughout are those of the present administration. Condensed from Nation, 1906.

Borneo

Gomes, Edwin Herbert. 919.11 G59

Seventeen years among the Sea Dyaks of Borneo; a record of intimate association with the natives of the Bornean jungles [with] an introduction by John Perham. 1911. Lippincott.

"Pleasing picture of a savage race which seems above the average in intelligence and morals, and a comprehensive description of their social life, customs, folklore, religion, sports, songs, etc. Especially good reading are the chapters on missionary work, and on the position of women. There are many good illustrations from photographs." A. L. A. booklist, 1911.

Low, Hugh. 919.11 L95

Sarawak; its inhabitants and productions, being notes during a residence in that country. 1848. Bentley.

Result of over two years spent in Sarawak. Considerable space is devoted to the Dyaks, one of the native races of Borneo.

Wade, Mary Hazelton. j919.11 W11

Our little brown cousin. 1901. Page. (Little cousin series.)

Also published under the title "Anahei, our little brown cousin."

This little cousin lives in Borneo and the story tells of his food, play, home and pets, as well as of the life and occupations of his father and mother.

Philippine islands

Blair, Emma Helen, & Robertson, J. A. Ph. B. ed. r991.4 B52

Philippine islands, 1493–1898; explorations by early navigators, descriptions of the islands and their peoples, records of the Catholic missions, as related in contemporaneous books and manuscripts; tr. from the originals, with historical introduction and additional notes by E. G. Bourne. v.35, 46, 52–55. 1906–09. Clark.

"Bibliography," v.53; Bibliography at the end of each volume.

The first comprehensive collection of authentic contemporaneous records of the history and life of the people of the Philippines. They have been carefully selected and arranged from a mass of printed works and unpublished manuscripts in the great libraries and government archives of Spain, Italy, France, Mexico and the United States, and are here reproduced mainly in English. Prof. Bourne's introduction is a scholarly and comprehensive sketch of Philippine history.

For other volumes see preceding catalogue, second series.

Dauncey, Mrs Campbell. 919.14 D28

An Englishwoman in the Philippines. 1906. Murray.

Familiar letters, 1904–05, of the wife of an English business man at Iloilo, describing social experiences, and the difficulties of housekeeping. Has much to say of the political situation. The author has never been in America and her abundant comment is distinctly unfriendly.

Fee, Mary Helen. 919.14 F32

A woman's impressions of the Philippines. 1910. McClurg.

Miss Fee was one of the host of American school-teachers who went to the Philippines; but, unlike many of her associates, she had the fortitude to remain there long enough to gather more than surface impressions. A decade of work in the islands, chiefly at Capiz and Manila, enabled her to gain instructive material on the political, religious, social and industrial conditions of the Philippines. Condensed from Dial, 1910.

Lindsay, Charles Harcourt Ainslie Forbes-. 919.14 L72

America's insular possessions. 2v. 1906. Winston.

v.1. The Great Antilles.—Porto Rico.—Guam.—Hawaii.—Panama.

v.2. The Philippines.

He has produced a brief and interesting review of the history of our island possessions; has described them and their inhabitants with accuracy and sympathy; and has loyally sought to make the best possible showing for their administration under American rule. Photographic illustrations abound. As to the past and present the book is interesting and valuable. As to the problem of the near future it is almost voiceless. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

MacClintock, Samuel. j919.14 M13

The Philippines; a geographical reader. 1903. Amer. Book Co.

Tells about the government, the city of Manila, the Moros, the Visayans, the Negritos and other peoples and places of the Philippine islands.

Manila Merchants' Association. r919.14 M333

Manila, the pearl of the Orient; guide book to the intending visitor. 1908.

United States—War department. r919.14 U2533

Special report of W. H. Taft, secretary of war, to the president on the Philippines. 1908.

Wade, Mary Hazelton. j919.14 W11

Our little Philippine cousin. 1902. Page.

Life of a little Filipino boy, Alila of Luzon. Tells about his first party, the building of the house, the buffalo hunt, tapping for tuba, etc.

Wright, Hamilton Mercer. 919.14 W93

Handbook of the Philippines. 1907. McClurg.

Contents: Physiography.—Philippine developments.—The peoples of the Philippines.—Manners, customs, dress and houses.—American ideals and schools in the Philippines.—Filipino traits.—Laws and government.—The forests of the Philippines.—History of the Philippines.—Agriculture.—Manufactures.—Hemp-raising.—Tobacco industry.—The sugar industry.—Little-known opportunities.—The Philippines for the sightseer.—Philippine ideals.—Observations and bits of travel.—Christianity in the Philippines.—Philippine commerce.—The Filipino as a worker.—Appendix.

"Bibliography" at the end of each chapter.

The appendix gives statistics in regard to the commerce of the Philippine islands, occupations, routes of travel, etc. Illustrations and maps.

Java

Day, Clive. 992.2 D33

Policy and administration of the Dutch in Java. 1904. Macmillan.

"Titles of works cited," p.19–21.

The author has taken the testimony of the printed documents in the case and from these has written a most interesting work, the only book in English treating of this subject which is worthy of entire praise. His purpose is simply to tell of the policy and administration of the Dutch, although he furnishes an introductory chapter on the native organization, giving therein a good account of the island and its people. Condensed from Nation, 1904.

Australasia

Abbott, J. H. M. j919.3 A13

South seas (Melanesia), with illustrations in colour by Norman Hardy. 1908. Black. (Peeps at many lands series.)

A voyage from Sidney, Australia to the New Hebrides, New Caledonia and Solomon islands of the South seas, with much information about the strange people of these "Black islands" and their strange ways.

Elkington, Ernest Way. 919.3 E48

The savage South seas; painted by N. H. Hardy. 1907. Black.

Contents: British New Guinea.—The Solomon islands.—The New Hebrides.

The main feature of the book is the 68 illustrations, which are beautiful colored reproductions of paintings. They represent every important phase of native life. The accompanying text adds much information in regard to the customs, superstitions, legends and practices of the natives. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Gregory, John Walter. r919.3 W17a

Australia. 2v. 1907–08. Stanford. (Stanford's compendium of geography and travel.)

of the distinguished sailors who, as explorers and governors, took part in laying the foundations of the colonies.

Australia. r919.4 A93
Visit of the fleet of the United States of America; programme for Sydney, 20–27th August 1908; issued by the commonwealth government. 1908.

Favenc, Ernest. 919.4 F28
Explorers of Australia and their life-work. 1908. Whitcombe. (Makers of Australasia.)

Simple, concise account, based on journals, letters, official reports, contemporary newspapers, etc. Covers entire period, from 1788 to the beginning of the 20th century. Author is himself an Australian explorer. Portraits, maps and plans.

Fraser, John Foster. 919.4 F88
Australia; the making of a nation. 1910. Cassell.

He admired them and their country greatly, though not always in a way that pleased them; but he saw things that did not appear to promise well. Accordingly he says what these things are, and he does it in a reasonable way. It is clear that Mr Fraser, as a well-wisher of the country, has really written his book to make these criticisms. Condensed from Spectator, 1910.

Gunn, Mrs Jeannie. 919.4 G97
We of the Never-never. 1907. Macmillan.

Account of a year's experiences among the bushmen of the northern territory of Australia.

Taunton, Henry. 919.4 T24
Australind; wanderings in western Australia and the Malay East. 1903. Arnold.

"Mr. Taunton's account of his varied life and adventures...partly on shore in West and North-West Australia, and subsequently in pearl-fishing on the coast and shipping horses over to Java, is full of interesting and instructive matter. His reminiscences are spread over the seventies and eighties, his last pearling season being that of 1886–7." Athenæum, 1904.

Wise, Bernhard Ringrose. 919.4 W81
Commonwealth of Australia. 1909. Little.

"Outline sketch of a modern system of government which for ten years has combined the parliamentary system of Great Britain with the federal system of the United States. The book covers: (1) economic, social and political conditions, past and present; (2) the framework of the commonwealth government and its relation to the component states: (3) the legislative history of its first decade. This is the only book devoted to the special features of Australian policy." A. L. A. booklist, 1909.

Issued by the government of South Australia.

South Australia—Crown lands, Commissioner of. r919.42 S72

Crown land laws of South Australia; comp. from acts of Parliament by T. Duffield. 1908.

With this are bound: How can tropical and sub-tropical Australia be effectively developed? by Matthew Macfie; The south-eastern district of South Australia in 1880; The turning of the way; an address on the present educational position, by W. R. Smith; Notes on agriculture in South Australia.

New South Wales—Intelligence department. r919.44 N26

New South Wales, the mother state of Australia; a guide for immigrants and settlers. 1906.

Largely devoted to the agricultural advantages of New South Wales, but giving also some account of the fisheries and mineral industries, climate, education, etc. Illustrated.

New Guinea

Grimshaw, Beatrice Ethel. 919.5 G92

The new New Guinea. 1911. Lippincott.

"Well informed woman's impressions and a vast amount of information concerning customs, resources, cannibalism, coffee and rubber-growing, pearl fishing and native characteristics, all told with such keen appreciation and lively wit as to make an unusually engaging record." A. L. A. booklist, 1911.

Pratt, Antwerp Edgar. 919.5 P88

Two years among New Guinea cannibals; a naturalist's sojourn among the aborigines of unexplored New Guinea; with notes and observations by his son Harry Pratt, and appendices on the scientific results of the expedition. 1906. Lippincott.

"Mr. Pratt devotes little space in this book to natural history, its bulk being given to a gossipy description of the author's journeyings, with remarks, too often inaccurate, on the natives he came in contact with." Nature, 1906.

Polynesia

Christian, Frederick William. 919.6 C46

Eastern Pacific lands; Tahiti and the Marquesas islands. 1910. Scott.

Travel and historical inquiry among the islands of eastern Polynesia. A mournful picture of the decay of the Marquesan islanders and the waning population. Appendixes provide anthropological, botanical and philological notes. Illustrated.

Grimshaw, Beatrice Ethel. 919.6 G92

In the strange South seas. 1908. Lippincott.

Entertaining record of her three years' adventures in Tahiti, Samoa, the Cook and other groups of islands, some of which she was the first white woman to visit. Describes vividly the appearance of the islands and the life of the natives, as well as showing the great undeveloped wealth to be found there and the opportunities offered to white settlers. Illustrations.

Stewart, Charles Samuel. 919.6 S849

Visit to the South seas in the U. S. ship Vincennes, during the years 1829 and 1830, with notices of Brazil, Peru, Manilla, the Cape of Good Hope and St. Helena; ed. and abridged by William Ellis. 1832. Fisher.

Grimshaw, Beatrice Ethel. 919.61 G92

Fiji and its possibilities. 1907. Doubleday.

Also published under the title "From Fiji to the Cannibal islands."

"Account of the journey of an Englishwoman into the interior of the Fiji and New Hebrides (or Cannibal) Islands where no white woman had ever been before. Though not a serious study the book gives an excellent idea of social and economic conditions on the island. Illustrated from interesting photographs by the author." A. L. A. booklist, 1908.

Stubbs, Laura. 919.61 S93

Stevenson's shrine; the record of a pilgrimage. 1903. Moring.

Description of Vailima. The book adds little to our knowledge of Stevenson, but the pictures of his home and its surroundings are of interest.

Hawaiian islands

Cumming, Constance Frederica Gordon-. 919.69 C91

Fire fountains; the kingdom of Hawaii, its volcanoes and the history of its missions. 2v. 1883. Blackwood.

"She has spent months and years, instead of the ordinary tourist's weeks and days, in the Society, the Friendly, and the Sandwich Isles...Few have described life in the islands of the Pacific so graphically...In her first volume we have an account of a residence in the largest island, including trips along the coast and rides in the interior. The second volume is a sort of history of the islands since their discovery by Cook, with descriptions of native rule, of the introduction of missionaries, and of the most remarkable eruptions that have occurred during the last century." Saturday review, 1883.

Mauna Loa, one of the most famous of the volcanoes, is described at some length.

Hawaiian Gazette Co. pub. q919.69 H36

Picturesque Honolulu. 1907.

Popular illustrated sketch of the city.

Honolulu, Chamber of Commerce. r919.69 H76

Krout, Mary Hannah. j919.69 K42

Alice's visit to the Hawaiian islands. 1900. Amer. Book Co. (Eclectic school readings.)

The travels of a little girl in the Hawaiian islands. Tells about the food, houses, customs and cities of the islands, about a trip to the great volcano of Kilauea, and about Molokai, the leper island.

Stoddard, Charles Warren. 919.69 S861

Lepers of Molokai. [1908.] Ave Maria Press.

The attention of the world was first forcibly directed to Father Damien and his work by the present little volume, originally published in 1885. Describes a visit to the leper settlement in 1884 and the author's acquaintance with Father Damien. This edition contains also letters of sympathy and eulogy written to Mr Stoddard after the priest's death in 1889.

Arctic regions

History

Conway, Sir William Martin. 998 C76

No man's land; a history of Spitsbergen from its discovery in 1596 to the beginning of the scientific exploration of the country. 1906. Cambridge University Press.

"Bibliography of the history and geography of Spitsbergen," p.305-327.

Author has himself made two expeditions to Spitsbergen. A considerable portion of the book is devoted to the whaling industry which was carried on along the coasts of the islands. Contains maps and illustrations.

"Sir Martin Conway arouses the interest of his readers in the curious history of a land which though never permanently inhabited has played the part of an apple of discord between the great Powers of former days." Saturday review, 1906.

Cranz, David. r998 C86

ברמן, שלמה.

פרידטיוף ננסן ומסעותיו (עם תמונתו).

Borup, George. 919.8 B639

A tenderfoot with Peary, with a preface by G. W. Melville. 1911. Stokes.

Introduces a distinctly new note into the cold and formal literature of Arctic exploration. Author, a Yale athlete, was the youngest member of the last polar expedition. He approached his great adventure with a huge appetite and he has written about it with an utter lack of self-consciousness. Condensed from Life, 1911.

Carstensen, Andreas Christian Riis. 919.8 C23

Two summers in Greenland; an artist's adventures among ice and islands, in fjords and mountains. 1890. Chapman.

"The portion of the country visited by Mr. Carstensen was small, but it serves well as a sample of the whole... Written neither by a sportsman nor by a man of science, it simply contains a gossipy narrative of what the author saw, heard, and experienced during his visits... Those who wish for scientific information must seek it elsewhere than in the pages of this lively book." Spectator, 1890.

Fiala, Anthony. q919.8 F44

Fighting the polar ice, with an introduction by W. S. Champ, and reports by W. J. Peters, R. W. Porter and O. S. Fassig. 1906. Doubleday.

Account of the second Ziegler expedition. Well illustrated.

Gordon, William John. 919.8 G65

Round about the North pole. 1907. Dutton.

Contents: Spitsbergen.—Novaya Zemlya.—Franz Josef Land.—Cape Chelyuskin.—The Lena delta.—Bering strait.—The American mainland.—The Parry islands.—Boothia.—Baffin bay.—Smith sound.—Greenland.

"A more inspiring record of bravery, endurance, sacrifice of self for the sake of one's comrades, unflinching devotion to duty...it would be difficult to find than is contained in this account of the heroes of Arctic research. In telling the story of the different expeditions from that of Sir Hugh Willoughby in 1553, to Robert Peary's in 1906, the author has divided the region into sections...describing the exploration of each section by itself. The main incidents and achievements of the various expeditions are grouped together with numerous extracts from journals and anecdotes." Nation, 1907.

Maps, portraits and other illustrations.

Greely, Adolphus Washington. 919.8 G82ha

Handbook of polar discoveries. 1906. Little.

Short bibliography at the end of each chapter.

Topical arrangement of Arctic exploration from the close of the 15th century to 1905.

The same. 1910..... 919.8 G82ha2

Contents: Arctic discoveries.—Antarctic discoveries.

"Polar bibliography," p.318–324; bibliography at the end of each chapter.

Summary of the results of polar discovery from the close of the 15th century to 1910. It is to be regretted that before publishing the fourth edition of his well-known and indispensable guide-book, Gen. Greely did not await the issue of the dispute touching Dr Cook's alleged discovery of the North pole.

"Gen. Greely's high standing as an Arctic authority insures reliability, at the same time that it gives special value to his personal estimate of the accomplishments of different explorers." Nation, 1906.

Hoare, J. Douglas. 919.8 H64

Arctic exploration. 1906. Methuen.

Summary of Arctic exploration from early times to the close of the 19th century.

[Leslie, Alexander.] 919.8 L64

Arctic voyages of Adolf Erik Nordenskiöld, 1858–1879. 1879. Macmillan.

"List of books and memoirs relating to the Swedish Arctic expeditions," p.418–440.

Popular account of 21 years of Nordenskiöld's Arctic explorations, including a sketch of the history of the Northeast passage expedition, 1878–79.

Miertsching, Johann August. r919.8 M67

Reise-tagebuch des missionars Joh. Aug. Miertsching, welcher als dolmetscher die nordpol-expedition zur aufsuchung Sir John Franklins auf dem schiff Investigator begleitete in den jahren 1850 bis 1854. 1855.

Mulgrave, Constantine John Phipps, baron. qr919.8 M95

Voyage towards the North pole, undertaken by His Majesty's command, 1773. 1774. Bowyer.

Baron Mulgrave (1744–92) was a captain in the British navy.

"In 1773 he commanded the Race-horse, which, in company with the Carcass, was fitted out to attempt the discovery of a northern route to India. The expedition sailed to the north of Spitzbergen, and, finding the sea absolutely blocked with ice, returned without any result. The voyage is now principally remembered from the fact that Nelson was a midshipman on board the Carcass." Dictionary of national biography.

Nansen, Fridtjof. 919.8 N12w

Wśród nocy i lodów; Norweska wyprawa podbiegunowa, 1893–1896. 2v. 1898.

Polish translation of "Farthest north."

Parry, Sir William Edward. r919.8 P26

Journals of the first, second and third voyages for the discovery of a north-west passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 1819–25, in His Majesty's ships Hecla, Griper and Fury. 5v. 1828. Murray.

Payer, Julius, ritter von. 919.8 P33

New lands within the Arctic circle; narrative of the discoveries of the Austrian ship "Tegetthoff" in the years 1872–1874; tr. from the German. 1877. Appleton.

Besides the discovery and exploration of Franz-Joseph-Land, the expedition accomplished valuable scientific results, which are here recorded. The book abounds in excellent descriptions of Arctic scenery.

Peary, Robert Edwin. q919.8 P35n

Nearest the pole; a narrative of the polar expedition of the Peary Arctic Club in the S. S. Roosevelt, 1905–1906. 1907. Doubleday.

Thrilling narrative of a three hundred mile dash with dogs and sledges from Cape Sheridan to 87° 6′ north latitude, over the shifting ice of the polar sea. Contains excellent photographic studies of the Eskimos.

Peary, Robert Edwin. 919.8 P35no

The North pole; its discovery in 1909 under the auspices of the Peary Arctic Club, with an introduction by Theodore Roosevelt and a foreword by G. H. Grosvenor. 1910. Stokes.

It is the story of the voyage related for the general reader, a story of intense interest, effectively told. "I knew it was my last game upon the great Arctic chessboard," says the author in his opening chapter. It was success now, or final defeat in the effort to which nearly a quarter-century of his strong manhood had been devoted. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Peary, Robert Edwin, & Peary, M. A. qj919.8 P35

Snowland folk; the Eskimos, the bears, the dogs, the musk oxen and other dwellers in the frozen North. 1904. Stokes.

Large print. Many pictures from photographs and drawings.

Van Campen, Samuel Richard. 919.8 V17

Dutch in the Arctic seas. v.1. 1876. Trübner.

v.1. A Dutch Arctic expedition and route.

No more published.

A general survey of the field of Arctic exploration and a plea for renewed activity on the part of the Dutch. The second volume was to have recorded what they had already accomplished. Appendix contains a chronological table of Arctic voyages from 860 to 1876.

Whitney, Harry. 919.8 W65

Hunting with the Eskimos; the unique record of a sportsman's year among the northernmost tribe, the big game hunting, the native life and the battle for existence through the long Arctic night. 1910. Century.

Story of a sportsman who lived for over a year among the Eskimos, sharing their life in every detail.

Antarctic regions

Charcot, Jean Baptiste Auguste Étienne. q919.9 C37

Voyage of the "Why not?" in the Antarctic; the journal of the second French South polar expedition, 1908–1910; English version by Philip Walsh. [1911.] Hodder.

The lover of adventures, recounted modestly and without exaggeration, will find much to his taste in this volume, which consists mainly of extracts from Dr Charcot's journal. The illustrations are admirable. Condensed from Athenæum, 1911.

Shackleton, Sir Ernest Henry. q919.9 S52

Heart of the Antarctic; the story of the British Antarctic expedition, 1907–1909, with an introduction by H. R. Mill [and] an account of the first journey to the South magnetic pole, by T. W. E. David. 2v. 1909. Lippincott.

Valuable as are the scientific results set forth in this volume it is the description of the two journeys—the one toward the South pole, which was not reached, and the other to the magnetic pole, which was reached—that is of the highest interest. The story is told in a perfectly direct and simple fashion, so that we seem to follow the travelers mile by mile and day by day. Of great interest, too, is the account of the ascent of Mt. Erebus, the most southerly known volcano. Condensed from Nation, 1909.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY
OF PITTSBURGH
PRESS

Explanation

This list is Part 8 of the third series of the Classified Catalogue of books in the Library. It includes titles added from January 1, 1907 up to, but not including, January 1912 and supplements the first and second series of the Classified Catalogue, which include titles of books acquired from the foundation of the Library in 1895 to January 1, 1907.

Following the general plan pursued in the distribution of the first and second series of the catalogue, sections will be issued in pamphlet form as they are printed. When all parts are completed, an index of authors and subjects will be added, so that the sections may be bound into volumes.

The following list includes all books in the class Biography, arranged according to divisions of the Decimal classification, except that the Individual biography has been arranged alphabetically by subject, and 92 used as its class number. Later editions of books which have already appeared in the first and second series of the catalogue are included in this part, as well as circulating copies of those books which have previously been in the reference collection only. Bibliographies which appeared in Part 1 under "General works" are repeated in this part under the special subjects which they cover. Parts of books treating of these classes are not included. Such entries will be found in the card catalogue at the Central Library, which should be consulted by any one desiring to see the entire resources of the Library on any given subject. The form of entry is that of the author card of the dictionary card catalogue, the same linotype composition being used from which the cards and the Monthly Bulletin have already been printed. Volumes added in order to complete sets of books, parts of which were listed in the former catalogues, are entered here, with references to those catalogues.

The symbol at the right-hand side of the page, opposite each title, is the number to be used in calling for the book, and should be copied exactly. If the work is in more than one volume, the volume wanted should be specified. Call numbers preceded by the letter "r" designate books in the reference collection, which cannot be taken from the Library. These books, as well as all others in the Library, may be consulted freely in the Reference room. The letter "j" prefixed to a call number indicates that the book is provided especially for the use of children.

v.2. Lucien. — Louis Bonaparte and Hortense.— Jerome Bonaparte.— Eliza Bacciochi.— Pauline Borghese. — Caroline Murat. — The Beauharnais. — Stephanie.— The Taschers.—Berthier.—Napoleon III.—Count Leon.

r920 B4873

Biographical magazine, containing portraits of eminent and ingenious persons of every age and nation, with their lives and characters. 2v. 1819–20. Wilson.

Brantôme, Pierre de Bourdeilles, seigneur de. r920 B71

Memoires, contenant les vies des hommes illustres et grands capitaines étrangers de son tems. 2v. 1739.

Brantôme (c. 1540–1614) was a French soldier and courtier.

"The great merit of Brantôme lies in the extraordinary vividness of his powers of literary presentment... His irregular, brightly coloured, and easily flowing manner, represents, as hardly any age has ever been represented, the characteristics of the great society of his time... [His] unquestioning acceptance of, and belief in, the moral standards of his own society, give a genuineness and a freshness to his work which are very rare in literature. Few writers, again, have had the knack of hitting off character, superficially it is true, yet with sufficient distinction, which Brantôme has." Saintsbury's Short history of French literature.

Brantôme, Pierre de Bourdeilles, seigneur de. r920 B71m

Memoires, contenant les vies des hommes illustres et grands capitaines françois de son tems. 4v. 1739.

"Indifferent to honor and morality, he is an impartial witness to the vice and crime of his epoch. None has mirrored more truly the Valois court or its moral ideas." New international encyclopædia.

Brookfield, Mrs Frances M. 920 B77

The Cambridge "Apostles." 1906. Pitman.

Contents: The "Apostles."—W. H. Brookfield.—The friend of the "Apostles."—J. W. Blakesley.—Charles Buller.—A. H. Hallam.—J. M. Kemble.—Henry Lushington.—F. D. Maurice.—R. M. Milnes.—James Spedding.—John Sterling.—Alfred Tennyson.—R. C. Trench.—G. S. Venables.

Reminiscences of some of the earlier members of a famous literary society of Cambridge University, humorously dubbed the "Apostles" because its membership was limited to 12. It was in its prime between 1824 and 1840, and has numbered among its members some of the most distinguished Englishmen of the century. Henry Sidgwick was a prominent "Apostle" and in the recently published memoir of his life (92 S5682) there are many interesting allusions to the society.

Brown, Anna Robeson, afterward Mrs Burr. 920 B78

The autobiography; a critical and comparative study. 1909. Houghton.

"Bibliography of autobiographical writings," p.425–439.

Far reaching comparative and scientific study of the origin, motives, ideals and psychological importance of the autobiography. Eight hundred biographies in Latin, French, German, English and Italian have furnished the groundwork for investigations of the "obscure and important questions of the subjective tendency in private history, of the standards of sincerity, and of the relative value of the deliberate self-study and the unconscious self-revelation."

Buchan, John. 920 B848

Some 18th century byways, and other essays. 1908. Blackwood.

Contents: Prince Charles Edward.—Lady Louisa Stuart.—Mr Secretary Murray [John Murray of Broughton].—Lord Mansfield.—Charles II.—The making of modern Scotland.—Castlereagh.—A comic Chesterfield [the 11th earl of Buchan].—A Scottish lady of the old school [Lady John Scott].—The Victorian chancellors.—The first lord Dudley.—Mr Balfour as a man of letters.—John Bunyan.—Count Tolstoi and the idealism of war.—The heroic age of Ireland.—Rabelais.—Theodor Mommsen.—The apocalyptic style.

Buchan, John—continued. 920 B848

Essays and reviews collected from "Blackwood's magazine" and the "Spectator."

Bungay, George Washington. 920 B88

Off-hand takings; or, Crayon sketches of the noticeable men of our age. 1854. De Witt.

Biographical sketches of statesmen, men of letters, etc. Chiefly American.

Burke, Sir John Bernard. r920 B917

Howe.—W. J. Rolfe.—Göttingen and Harvard a century ago.—Old Newport days.—A half-century of American literature.

Chiefly pen portraits of the author's friends and contemporaries. Many of the papers have a peculiar interest, either because they bring out an unfamiliar phase of a well-known character, or because they introduce the reader to some little known but unique personality.

[Higginson, Thomas Wentworth, ed.] 920 H53h

Harvard memorial biographies. 2v. 1867. Sever.

"List of obituary works," v.2, p.470–472.

"A series of memoirs of those graduates and former undergraduates of Harvard University who fell in battle during the recent war, or who died in consequence of services rendered in the contest. Former members of the Professional Schools of the University are not included...Historic interest has been kept subordinate to the exhibition of personal character." T. W. Higginson, in preface.

Hill, Constance. 920 H551

House in St. Martin's street; being chronicles of the Burney family. 1907. Lane.

The book is named from the house of Sir Isaac Newton, which was occupied by the Burneys from 1774 to 1783, but in reality the book follows the family about, especially Fanny, to Streatham, Bath, Brighton and elsewhere, in such a way that the title is something of a misnomer.

Hitchcock, Thomas. 920 H625

Unhappy loves of men of genius. 1891. Harper.

Contents: Gibbon and Madame Necker.—Dr Johnson and Mrs Thrale.—Goethe and Charlotte von Stein.—Mozart and Aloysia Weber.—Cavour and the unknown.—Irving and Mrs Carlyle.

"The stories are concisely and sympathetically told, and the book presents in small compass what, in lieu of it, must be sought through many volumes." Dial, 1891.

Hitchman, Francis. 920 H62

Eighteenth century studies; essays. 1881. Low.

Contents: John Wilkes.—The founder of Methodism [John Wesley].—Charles Churchill, parson and poet. — David Garrick. — Richard Cumberland. — "The cook's oracle" [William Kitchiner].—Isaac Disraeli and Bolton Corney.—Dr Dibdin and the Roxburghe Club.—Joseph Priestley.—The author of "Sandford and Merton" [Thomas Day].—Erasmus Darwin.

Hobbes, John Oliver, (pseud. of Mrs Pearl Mary (Richards) Craigie). 920 H64

The artist's life. 1904. Laurie.

Contents: Balzac, Turner and Brahms.—Dante and Goya.—Dante and Botticelli.

Three lectures which do not contain any very profound or original criticism, but are charming and graceful appreciations. The first lecture, which gives its title to the book, is an interesting comparison of the lives and difficulties of Balzac, Turner and Brahms, and from these three artists a generalized idea of the special problems of the artist's life is drawn. The last two lectures were delivered before the Dante Society. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1904.

Hobbes, John Oliver, pseud.—continued. 920 H64

Holland, Rupert Sargent. j920 H72

Historic boyhoods. 1909. Jacobs.

v.1. Life of Lord Falkland.—Life of Lord Capell.

v.2. Life of Lord Capell (continued).—Life of Marquis of Hertford.

v.3. Life of Marquis of Hertford (continued).—Appendix: An account of the origin of the collection of portraits in the gallery and a descriptive catalogue of the pictures.

"The forming of this famous portrait-gallery had been one of the Chancellor's magnificent passions...The quality of the collection was more remarkable than its number: for it was not made at haphazard, but selected by design, under the eye of one by whom all that was eminent in English story was thoroughly known and appreciated, and comprised what he considered the élite of the nation during the most stirring years of all its annals, from the Armada to the Restoration." Edinburgh review, 1852.

The portraits themselves are not reproduced.

Lindsay, Alexander William Crawford, lord. 920 L72

Lives of the Lindsays; or, A memoir of the houses of Crawford and Balcarres. 3v. 1858. Murray.

The author, 25th earl of Crawford and 8th earl of Balcarres, was well versed in the history and genealogy of this ancient Scottish family.

"To a Norman gentleman, M. Toustain de Richebourg, our chronicler is indebted for many of his archæological materials; while abundance of lighter matter, concerning more modern times and persons, has been gathered from journals, diaries, and memorials kept by the Lindsays...It is by no means a constant fact that every heraldic painter shall execute his labour of love and reverence with so much sincerity, delicacy and patience as Lord Lindsay has. He has given us a book which Scott would have delighted to honour." Athenæum, 1849.

r920 L7472

Lives of eminent & remarkable characters born or long resident in the counties of Essex, Suffolk & Norfolk. 1820. Longman.

B. Eads; C. W. Field.—INVENTORS: Robert Fulton; Charles Goodyear; Eli Whitney; Chauncey Jerome; Elias Howe, jr.; R. M. Hoe; Samuel Colt; S. F. B. Morse.—PUBLISHERS: James Harper; J. T. Fields.—EDITORS: J. G. Bennett; Robert Bonner.—LAWYERS: John Marshall; J. T. Brady.—ARTISTS: Benjamin West; John Rogers; Hiram Powers; Emmanuel Leutze. — DIVINES: H. W. Beecher; Peter Cartwright. — AUTHORS: H. W. Longfellow; Nathaniel Hawthorne. — ACTORS: Edwin Booth; Joseph Jefferson.—PHYSICIANS: Benjamin Rush; Valentine Mott.

Not limited solely to those who have gained pecuniary wealth. The author explains that he has included in his short biographical sketches artists, writers, inventors, etc. who have benefited the world and in that way won for themselves enduring riches.

Maccunn, Florence A. 920 M143

Sir Walter Scott's friends. 1910. Blackwood.

Contents: Old ladies of Sir Walter's youth: Alison Rutherford (Mrs Cockburn); Mrs A. M. Keith.—Parliament house friends: George Cranstoun (Lord Corehouse); Thomas Thomson (deputy-clerk registrar); William Erskine (Lord Kinnedder); J. A. Cranstoun (Countess Purgstall).—Family friends: Tytlers of Woodhouselee; Clerks of Eldin and Adams of Blair-Adam; Mrs Maclean Clephane of Torloisk.—Makers of the "Minstrelsy:" Introductory; John Leyden; Joseph Ritson; Robert Surtees of Mainsforth; C. K. Sharpe; James Hogg.—Buccleuch group: The House of Buccleuch; Frances, lady Douglas; Lady Louisa Stuart.—"Marmion" group: W. S. Rose; George Ellis; Sir William Forbes; James Skene and Colin Mackenzie.—Literary ladies: Anna Seward; Joanna Baillie; J. B. S. Morritt of Rokeby. — The Abbotsford household: Sir Adam Fergusson; Willie Laidlaw; Tom Purdie.—Scott's relation to other poets: Campbell; Crabbe; Moore; Lord Byron; Wordsworth and Southey.

Its charm for the most part is that it brings us into familiar friendship with a host of old Scottish ladies, Edinburgh advocates, antiquarian lairds, and great folk whom we had learned to know a little in Lockhart and other writers of memoirs. Some of the material is from printed sources, but a great deal of it Miss Maccunn has drawn from stores of unpublished correspondence. Beyond its burden of entertainment the chief merit of the book is the light it throws on the genesis of Scott's poems and novels. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Macedo, Joaquim Manuel de. r920 M15

Brazilian biographical annual. v.1. 1876.

Lives of the early Medici as told in their correspondence. 1911. Badger.

"Interesting selection of intimate letters, which covers the lives of Cosimo, Piero, and Lorenzo. She has taken her material not merely from the well-known printed sources, but also from those many little volumes issued privately in honour of the marriage of a friend—in accordance with a graceful Italian custom which has successfully prevented quantities of valuable material from being of use to any but the few—and above all from the Medici archives in Florence. Consequently much of the contents of the present volume is altogether new... The majority of the letters are political." Athenæum, 1910.

The Medici. 2v. 1909. Dutton.

"Authorities consulted," v.1, p.15–17.

This work saps the foundations of many a time-honored misconception built upon stories that cannot bear critical examination. The author places before us the results of the most recent research, impartially sifting the evidence as he goes; it is we who draw the inevitable conclusions. In the course of his survey he conscientiously examines the life of each member of the Medici family whose name has come down to posterity. The work accordingly comprises more than a hundred biographical sketches of members of the house of Medici, beginning with its founder Giovanni di Bicci, and ending with the electress Anna Maria Ludovica; while the connected subjects upon which it throws light are of the most varied character. Condensed from Athenæum, 1909.

Portraits de femmes et d'enfants. 1909.

Contents: Madame de Charmoisy.—La comtesse de Boigne.—Madame de Charrière.—Julie de Lespinasse.—Trois comédiennes: Ariane, Le tombeau de la Malibran, La princesse des Iles d'Or.—Une inconnue de Sainte-Beuve.—L'enfance de Bayart.—L'enfance de Mistral.

"These biographical sketches include subjects of varying date, some familiar, others little known. The latter may be said of 'Madame de Charmoisy,' the 'Philothée' of St. François de Sales, and also of 'Madame de Charrière,' the gifted woman of letters of the later eighteenth century, whose works and whose personality so strongly attracted Sainte-Beuve. As to portraits of children, it would be difficult to excel in charm 'L'Enfance de Mistral.'" Spectator, 1909.

Brantôme, Pierre de Bourdeilles, seigneur de. 920.7 B71

Book of the ladies (Illustrious dames), with elucidations on some of those ladies by C. A. Sainte-Beuve; tr. by K. P. Wormeley. 1902. Hardy.

to provide with husbands among men of rank in France for the better maintaining of his own power. The careers of the four who became Duchesses of Bouillon, Mercœur and Mazarin, and Comtesse de Soissons, are full of the interest that attaches to all memoirs of the remarkable Court of the young Louis XIV; but it is the strangely romantic life of Marie Mancini, Duchess of Colonna, who came so near to sharing the throne of the king, that is the core of the book." Outlook (London), 1906.

Women artists of Bologna. [1907.] Methuen.

Contents: Caterina dei Vigri.—Properzia de' Rossi.—Lavinia Fontana.—Elisabetta Sirani.

"Authorities," p.309–310.

"The life of Caterini dei Vigri...is as typical of one side of Italian mediævalism as that of the sculptress Properzia dei Rossi of the Renaissance, and those of Lavinia Fontana and Elisabetta Sirani of the life of the later sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Many excellent illustrations assist in forming a complete estimate of the artistic achievement of the four subjects of biography, and the author is to be congratulated on a local study of genuine and scholarly interest." Outlook, (London), 1907.

Finck, Henry Theophilus. 927.8 F49

Success in music, and how it is won, with a chapter on tempo rubato by I. J. Paderewski. 1909. Scribner.

Contents: Music, money and happiness.—Successful singers.—Great pianists.—Four types of violinists.—Teachers, parents and pupils.

Begins with some interesting statistics as to the pecuniary returns of a musical career. Then follow a number of biographies of special interest, the inclusion of such names as Geraldine Farrar, Mary Garden, Victor Maurel, Maurice Renaud, Ludwig Wüllner and others making this portion of the work very much up to date (1910). The author has a personal acquaintance with most of the singers he describes and his pages are enlivened with anecdotes and conversations, as well as with shrewd estimates.

v.7. South Carolina.
v.8. Massachusetts.
v.9. New York.
v.10. North Carolina.
v.11. Pennsylvania.
v.12. Virginia; records of the state enumerations, 1782 to 1785.
The aim is to publish eventually lists of the heads of families of all the 17 states included in the first census. The work will probably be of service chiefly to genealogists. Under each town of a county are given the names of the heads of families and there is a general index at the end of each volume.

Seals. Coats of arms. Crests

Birch, Walter De Gray. qr929.8 B48

Seals. [1907.] Methuen. (Connoisseur's library.)

"This book on seals is less useful than we could wish...Except for ten pages at the beginning, the work is devoted to the seals of the middle ages and later times. It contains nothing about the seals of the Orient since the founding of Islam, and yet in modern times there is no part of the world where seals are used so commonly as in the Moslem East. There is no mention of the seals...of the remote East...nothing about the engraved gems of Greek and Greco-Roman antiquity...Dr. Birch is known as a trustworthy guide...and yet we must conclude that the vast deal of interesting information in this...work is limited in range and hardly made accessible." Nation, 1908.

Bloom, James Harvey. 929.8 B56

English seals. 1906. Methuen.

Short bibliography at the end of some of the chapters.

Description of royal and episcopal seals, also of those of knights, squires, corporations, etc. Numerous illustrations.

"Papers written and read" by E. G. Acheson, p.133–134.

Acheson is (1910) a chemist and inventor, who has discovered some entirely new and valuable materials, including carborundum and artificial graphite. Book is chiefly autobiographical.

Acton, John Emerich Edward Dalberg, baron. 92 A188l

Lord Acton and his circle; ed. by Abbot Gasquet. [1906.] Allen.

Collection of letters covering the period 1858–71, most of them written by Lord Acton to Richard Simpson and Mr Wetherell and relating to the fortunes, policy and management of the "Rambler," the "Home and foreign review," the "Chronicle" and the "North British review." There are also a few hitherto unpublished letters from Cardinal Newman.

Adams, James Capen. 92 A2144h

Hittell, Theodore Henry. Adventures of James Capen Adams, mountaineer and grizzly bear hunter of California. 1911. Scribner.

Adams (1807–60) lived like a primitive man, but his object was the capture rather than the destruction of wild animals. His stories of many exciting adventures are graphic and interesting. Mr Hittell's discovery of Adams is as interesting as any of the adventures subsequently narrated to him by the hunter.

Addison, Joseph. 92 A225a

Aikin, Lucy. Life of Joseph Addison. 2v. 1843. Longman.

"Contains many letters of Addison never before published, [and] is the subject of an essay by Macaulay, who, while praising Miss Aikin's other works, and especially her 'Memoirs of the Court of James I,' observes that she was 'far more at home among the ruffs and peaked beards of Theobald's than among the steenkirks and flowing periwigs which surrounded Queen Anne's tea table at Hampton.'" Dictionary of national biography.

Albany, Louise Marie Caroline von Stolberg-Gedern, countess of. 92 A326v

Vaughan, Herbert Millingchamp. The last Stuart queen, Louise, countess of Albany; her life & letters. 1910. Duckworth.

Author divides his narrative into three distinct parts: the years extending from 1772, when the countess of Albany was the wife of the Pretender, Prince Charles Edward Stuart, to her legal separation from him in 1784; the time of her close association with Alfieri until his death in 1803; and the last 20 years of her widowhood, during which she was the central figure of a salon at Florence that achieved a European reputation.

Albee, Mrs Helen (Rickey). 92 A3282a

The gleam. 1911. Holt.

"Might be called the autobiography of a soul—a record of the development of the spiritual instinct from its dawn in a child of six to its fruition in a woman of forty-seven. It is told with sincerity and simplicity, with a childlike frankness, and at the same time great reticence in all matters except those of the spirit, and also with an astonishing lack of what is commonly called egotism." Nation, 1911.

Albemarle, George Monk, duke of. See Monk, George, duke of Albemarle.

Albemarle, George Thomas Keppel, earl of. 92 A328

Fifty years of my life. 1876. Holt.

The sixth duke of Albemarle (1799–1891) was both a soldier and a traveler. This record of his life, which comes only to 1854, is vivaciously written and interspersed with many anecdotes, especially of his early years when he spent much time at the court of George IV as the playfellow of the princess Charlotte.

Alcott, Louisa May. 92 A355m

Moses, Belle. Louisa May Alcott, dreamer and worker; a story of achievement. 1909. Appleton.

This biography of the author of "Little women" is written especially for girls. It reveals her buoyant nature and the happiness of her home life, both of which found expression in her stories.

Aldrich, Thomas Bailey. 92 A365g

Greenslet, Ferris. Life of Thomas Bailey Aldrich. 1908. Houghton.

"Bibliography," p.261–292.

Mr Greenslet has brought to his work delicacy and reticence, together with a skill in words that reproduces something of the charm of one who made refinement the end of all his labor. He tells just enough of the child's surroundings at Portsmouth, of the clerk and youthful editor in New York; he follows the man sympathetically through his Boston years of prosperous toil and golden ease, to the honored close. It is a happy life gracefully told. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Alexander I, of Bulgaria, titular prince of Battenberg. 92 A3744k

Koch, Adolf. Prince Alexander of Battenberg; reminiscences of his reign in Bulgaria, from authentic sources. 1887. Whittaker.

Alexander (1857–93) was elected prince of Bulgaria in 1879 and resigned in 1886. His rule was during a critical period in Bulgaria's history and the life, which is written by Alexander's court chaplain, dwells at length on political events.

Alexander the Great. qr92 A374a

Arrian. History of the expedition of Alexander the Great and conquest of Persia [Indian history and An account of the division of the empire and conquests of Alexander after his death, from Photius's abridgment]; tr. from the original Greek by [John] Rooke. 1813. Davis.

"Of Arrian's original works the one of greatest importance is his account of the expedition of Alexander the Great...It contains the most complete and authentic account of that conqueror's career, being based upon the lost works of Aristobulus and Ptolemy, the son of Lagus, both of whom accompanied the king during the expedition." Encyclopædia Britannica.

Alexander, James Waddel, 1804–59. 92 A376

Forty years' familiar letters, constituting, with the notes, a memoir of his life; ed. by John Hall. 2v. 1860. Scribner.

Alexander was a Presbyterian clergyman, for some years professor in the Princeton Theological Seminary and later pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York city.

Alexander, John Henry, 1812–67. r92 A376p

Pinkney, William, 1810–83. Memoir of John H. Alexander; read before the Maryland Historical Society, May 2, 1867. [1867.] (Maryland Historical Society. Publications.)

Alexander was a Maryland scientist, at one time professor of physics in the University of Pennsylvania and later in the University of Maryland.

Alexander, William, called earl of Stirling, 1726–83. r974.9 N26c v.2

Duer, William Alexander. Life of William Alexander, earl of Stirling, major general in the army of the United States during the Revolution, with selections from his correspondence. 1847. New Jersey Historical Society.

Being v.2 of Collections of the New Jersey Historical Society.

Alexander was the first governor of King's College, now Columbia University, which he had taken an active part in promoting. In the Revolution he early achieved military distinction, was in command of New York city and later of Albany. This biography by his grandson is the chief authority for his life.

Alexandra Feodorovna, empress of Russia. 92 A379g

Grimm, August Theodor von. Alexandra Feodorowna, empress of Russia; tr. by Lady Wallace. 2v. 1870. Edmonston.

Portrays life of the capital, court and imperial family as a background for the character of the empress, wife of Nicholas I. Author was for many years her close friend.

Alford, Henry, dean. 92 A389

Life, journals and letters; ed. by his widow. 1873. Lippincott.

Henry Alford (1810–71) was dean of Canterbury and editor of the Greek testament, which constitutes his chief claim to gratitude and fame.

Alice Maud Mary, princess of England, grand duchess of Hesse-Darmstadt. 92 A398

Letters to Her Majesty the queen [Victoria], with a memoir by H. R. H. Princess Christian. 1897.

"Sketch of the life of Princess Alice, by Sir Theodore Martin," p.273–281.

First published in 1884.

Princess Alice (1843–78) was the second daughter of Queen Victoria. The letters are familiar and unaffected. Most of them relate to the details of social and domestic life and to the princess's many charities. They also include material relating to the Austro-Prussian and the Franco-Prussian wars.

Alighieri, Dante. See Dante Alighieri.

Alison, Sir Archibald. 92 A413

Some account of my life and writings; an autobiography; ed. by Lady Alison. 2v. 1883. Blackwood.

English historian (1792–1867).

"The last volume of his autobiography contains full details of many interviews with distinguished persons in London and elsewhere, his reception at the houses of the nobility, and his speeches at public dinners and meetings, together with speculations upon politics, human nature and criticism...On the whole, his accounts of distinguished men, though coloured by his prejudices, are sensible as far as they go. The book is amusingly characteristic of his even temper, calm conviction of his own merits, and confidence in his own predictions; but, like all autobiographies, is chiefly interesting in the earlier part." Dictionary of national biography.

Allingham, William, 1824–89. 92 A437

Diary; ed. by H. Allingham and D. Radford. 1907. Macmillan.

"List of works," p.390–391.

Allingham was an Irish poet. The interest of his diary depends little on his own literary achievements and much on the fame of his friends, the chief of whom were Tennyson and Carlyle. Rossetti and Browning are often mentioned and a host of lesser literary names. Allingham knew how to draw the best from his friends in conversation and we learn much of their characteristics from his pages.

Angelo, Henry. 92 A584

Reminiscences, with memoirs of his late father and friends, including original anecdotes and curious traits of the most celebrated characters that have flourished during the last 80 years. 2v. 1828–30. Colburn.

Angelo (1760–1839?) was the son of an Italian fencing master, Domenico Angelo Malevolti Tremamondo, known in England as Domenico Angelo. He became the virtual head of his father's académie in 1785. His circle of acquaintances included many distinguished men.

"The stories range among all ranks of society, from the regent and William IV to Macklin and Kean, and from Byron to Lady Hamilton. Verisimilitude is occasionally lacking, and the writer abstains throughout with a graceful ease from giving any dates." Dictionary of national biography.

Angoulême, Marie Thérèse Charlotte, duchesse d'. 92 A593l

Lenôtre, Louis Léon Théodore Gosselin. Daughter of Louis XVI, Marie Thérèse Charlotte de France, duchesse d'Angoulême; tr. by J. L. May. 1908. Lane.

"List of documents," p.337–339.

Includes only the period between her imprisonment in the Temple and her marriage, 1799. Though the main interest is Madame Royale, we learn enough about her unhappy family and her friends and relatives to complete the picture and give the atmosphere of the time. Illustrated.

Anne Boleyn, queen of Henry VIII. 92 A613b

Benger, Elizabeth Ogilvy. Memoirs of the life of Anne Boleyn, queen of Henry VIII. 2v. 1821. Longman.

The attempt is made throughout to justify Anne's conduct. Author was an English poet and novelist, the compiler of several biographies.

Anne of Austria, queen of Louis XIII of France. 92 A6133g

Grant, Mrs Colquhoun. Queen and cardinal; a memoir of Anne of Austria and of her relations with Cardinal Mazarin. 1906. Murray.

Deals with the mystery of their relations, though it does not solve the problem of their reputed marriage.

Anne of Brittany, queen of Charles VIII and of Louis XII. 92 A6134d

De la Warr, Constance Mary Elizabeth Sackville, countess. A twice crowned queen, Anne of Brittany. 1906. Nash.

"Works consulted," p.11.

Anne of Brittany (1476–1514) married two successive kings of France, Charles VIII and Louis XII. This story of her romantic career shows with some detail the life which surrounded the nobility of France at that time.

Antes, Henry. qr92 A627h

Heckewelder, pseud. Newspaper clippings about Henry Antes. 1890.

Clippings from the Lancaster "Examiner and express," Oct. 9–10, 1890 and "News era," Oct. 25, 1890, and from the "Bethlehem daily news," Nov. 1, 1890.

Arbuthnot, Sir Alexander John. 92 A667

Memories of Rugby and India; ed. by Constance, lady Arbuthnot. 1910. Unwin.

The "Memories" tell little of Rugby or of Arnold, but give some glimpses of Rugby boys who lived to be famous. The recollections of Indian service are somewhat random and disconnected. Thirty years of this service the author spent in Madras, as director of public instruction, as chief secretary to the Council, and later as member of the Council.

Arc, Joan of. See Joan of Arc.

Argenson, René Louis de Voyer, marquis d'. 92 A688

Journal and memoirs; published from the autograph mss in the library of the Louvre by E. J. B. Rathery, with an introduction by C. A. Sainte-Beuve; tr. by K. P. Wormeley. 2v. 1902. Hardy.

"The Marquis d'Argenson [1694–1757], a statesman and a man of great intelligence, concealed under a rough and clumsy exterior, has left memoirs which are valuable for the early and middle part of the reign of Louis XV." Saintsbury's Short history of French literature.

Argyll, George Douglas Campbell, duke of. 92 A695

Autobiography and memoirs; ed. by the dowager duchess of Argyll. 2v. 1906. Murray.

"List of published works, pamphlets, letters, etc. by the duke of Argyll," v.2, p.595–601.

This very full memoir of the eighth duke of Argyll (1823–1900) consists of an autobiography, which, however, comes down only to 1857, supplemented by a memoir by the dowager duchess, letters, etc. The duke's interests were many. He is well known as the author of "The reign of law," and other scientific works, he played a considerable part in politics and ranked high as an orator. The book has many interesting descriptive criticisms of his political and literary contemporaries. Portraits and other illustrations.

Helm, William Henry. Jane Austen and her country-house comedy. 1909. Nash.

"Bibliographical note," p.251–253.

"In the meagre details of Jane Austen's career he diligently seeks for the material of her novels, and from the novels in turn deduces the realities of her personal experience...His appreciation contains perhaps too much of the critical element to be wholly acceptable to the straitest sect of Jane Austen enthusiasts; but his applause is as ungrudging as it is discriminating, and has the note of personal affection." Athenæum, 1909.

Bacon, Delia Salter. 92 B129b

[Bacon, Theodore.] Delia Bacon; a biographical sketch. 1888. Houghton.

Delia Bacon (1811–59) was an American author who zealously advocated the Baconian authorship of Shakespeare's plays. She lived for five years in England while making her researches. The story of her life is tragic, for her brilliant though unsound mind finally gave way under the strain of her delusion, but her biography has interest and value, if only for the glimpse it gives of her friends, Hawthorne, Carlyle and Emerson. The former was from first to last her faithful and devoted friend, and all three were her correspondents. Emerson served as her channel of communication with editors and publishers.

Biographies of three Canadian political leaders, Baldwin (1804–58), LaFontaine (1807–64) and Hincks (1807–85).

Baldwin, William Henry, jr. 92 B196zb

Brooks, John Graham. An American citizen; the life of William Henry Baldwin, jr. 1910. Houghton.

An American railway executive (1863–1905), from 1896 to the time of his death president of the Long Island railway. Book is both important and inspiring, revealing the sturdy qualities of a man who turned his back on questionable methods and attained success without loss of integrity.

Baltimore, George Calvert, baron. r92 B217c

[Campbell, Bernard U.] Review of John P. Kennedy's Discourse on the life and character of George Calvert, the first lord Baltimore. 1846.

Reprinted from the "United States Catholic magazine," v.5, April 1846.

Takes exception to Kennedy's remarks on Lord Baltimore's motives for colonization, believing them to have been solely religious, and contends that Lord Baltimore was at one time a Protestant.

Baltimore, George Calvert, baron. r92 B217k

Kennedy, John Pendleton. Discourse on the life and character of George Calvert, the first lord Baltimore; made before the Maryland Historical Society, Dec. 9, 1845. 1845. (Maryland Historical Society. Publications.)

Balzac, Honoré de. 92 B218c

Correspondence of Honoré de Balzac, with a memoir by his sister, Madame de Surville; tr. by C. L. Kenney. 2v. 1878. Bentley.

One of the most important sources of our knowledge of the novelist's life and character.

Balzac, Honoré de. 92 B218la

Lawton, Frederick. Balzac. 1910. Richards.

For the most part an impartial plain-speaking, well-informed account of a wonderful personality. Mr Lawton has not made any notable additions to the materials for Balzac's biography, but he has gathered up nearly all the most illuminative anecdotes, and retold most of the bits of history collected by various experts from printed and manuscript sources. He has also sketched the plots of many of the principal novels. If there be any admirers of Balzac who are sensitive to criticism of his manners and habits, they may be advised to leave Mr Lawton's stout book unread. Condensed from Athenæum, 1910.

Howe, Mark Antony De Wolfe. Life and letters of George Bancroft. 2v. 1908. Scribner.

"Bibliography of books and pamphlets by George Bancroft; comp. by H. C. Strippel," v.2, p.329–341.

Author had access to the private papers of the historian.

"Mr. Howe has performed creditably a work of peculiar difficulty. He had to dispose of a large mass of material; but he has confined the narrative within proper limits. He evinces a fair degree of sympathy; and he has been wise enough to let Mr. Bancroft tell most of the story himself through the medium of letters." Nation, 1908.

Bancroft, Marie Effie (Wilton), lady, & Bancroft, Sir S. B. 92 B2232b

The Bancrofts; recollections of 60 years. 1909. Murray.

These theatrical reminiscences, though containing much that is trivial and egotistical, constitute a pleasant and valuable dramatic record. Both the Bancrofts enjoyed honorable and successful careers on the English stage and were for many years the managers of two London theatres, the old Prince of Wales and the Haymarket. They had notable success in producing some of Robertson's plays and the public appreciation of their work was instant and permanent.

v.3. 1865–1866.

The author participated actively in American affairs of the last three-quarters of the century. He was for 12 years one of the editors of the New York "Evening post," was consul at Paris, 1861–64, and minister to France, 1864–67. His recollections are full of memories of American statesmen of the middle 19th century and letters from public men of distinction. Especially full and frequent are the letters from Charles Sumner, an intimate friend. These three ample volumes close with his retirement from the diplomatic service.

Stoddart, Anna M. Life of Isabella Bird (Mrs Bishop). 1906. Murray.

Isabella Bird (1831–1902) was an English traveler who made many remarkable journeys—through Tibet, Persia, Armenia, Manchuria, Korea, Australia, the United States and elsewhere, visiting places where no white woman had ever been. She carefully recorded all that she saw. Her biographer gives many extracts from her letters of description and succeeds also in bringing out her attractive personal side.

Blackie, John Stuart. 92 B515b

Letters to his wife, with a few earlier ones to his parents; selected and ed. by his nephew, A. S. Walker. 1910. Blackwood.

Blackie (1809–95) was a Scottish philologist, for 30 years professor of Greek in the University of Edinburgh. The letters to his parents cover about two years and a half, while he was a student in Germany and Italy. The youthful letters are followed by others written ten years later to Miss Wyld, whom he afterward married. The rest of the correspondence, and the largest part, covers Blackie's married life, 1843–95. The letters are various in theme but uniform in their tone of steadily sustained cheerfulness. They contain references to nearly all the distinguished men of his time.

Blaine, Mrs Harriet Bailey (Stanwood). 92 B5222

Letters; ed. by H. S. B. Beale. 2v. 1908. Duffield.

Written between 1869 and 1889, mostly to her children, they at first abound in domestic detail, but later reveal more clearly both her own and her husband's likeable personalities. The allusions to him and his more famous contemporaries are utterly free, and sometimes very intimate, evidently made without the slightest idea of publication.

Blake, William. 92 B528

Letters; together with a life by Frederick Tatham; ed. from the original manuscripts with an introduction and notes by A. G. B. Russell. 1906. Methuen.

"Tatham, sculptor and miniature painter, knew Blake in his last years intimately, and his account of the poet is the best contemporary document we have...Mr. Russell's Introduction is written from large knowledge, and is a really valuable essay on Blake as an artist." Nation, 1906.

Blake, William. 92 B528c

Chesterton, Gilbert Keith. William Blake. [1910.] Duckworth. (Popular library of art.)

"Contains much about Blake, but more about Mr. Chesterton and his views on life, poetry, and painting, with passing allusions to...other fascinating but irrelevant topics ...As a piece of controversial criticism it is good reading. For sympathetic insight and appreciation we must seek elsewhere." Saturday review, 1911.

Blake, William. 92 B528sy

Symons, Arthur. William Blake. 1907. Constable.

"List of books consulted," p.13–15.

Mr Symons has here gathered together and reprinted from the manuscripts, where possible, all the records of Blake's life from contemporary sources, down to the publication of Gilchrist's Life in 1863, but excluding the Letters and Tatham's Life. Among other things is a complete and exact transcription of the parts of Crabbe Robinson's Diary and reminiscences alluding to Blake. Mr Symons's own contribution to the work affords an admirable criticism of Blake as artist, poet and thinker and settles a number of disputed biographical points. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Bobin, Isaac. r92 B575

Letters of Isaac Bobin, private secretary of Hon. George Clarke, secretary of the province of New York, 1718–1730. 1872. Munsell. (New York colonial tracts, no.4.)

Written to his patron from New York city. They afford glimpses of commercial, political and domestic affairs, but are chiefly devoted to the enumeration and price of various commodities which the writer sends at different times to Mr Clarke.

Boccaccio, Giovanni. 92 B576h

Hutton, Edward. Giovanni Boccaccio; a biographical study. 1909. Lane.

"English works on Boccaccio," p.355–359; "Boccaccio and Chaucer and Shakespeare," p.360–366; "Synopsis of the Decameron together with some works to be consulted," p.367–393.

There is (1910) no other study of Boccaccio in English to compare with Mr Hutton's in fulness or in literary worth. The many illustrations from old pictures, books and manuscripts add much to the value of the book.

Boigne, Eléonore Adèle (d'Osmond) Le Borgne, comtesse de. 92 B594

Memoirs; ed. from the original ms. by Charles Nicoullaud. v.1–3. 1907–08. Heinemann and Scribner.

v.1. 1781–1814.
v.2. 1815–1819.
v.3. 1820–1830.

The comtesse de Boigne (1781–1866) was a brilliant and attractive Frenchwoman whose salon, during the first half of the 19th century was frequented by many distinguished persons. Her vivacious memoirs throw many sidelights on events from the reign of Louis XVI to the revolution of 1848. She relates much of the gossip of her time and her personalities are often touched with prejudice.

Brace, Charles Loring. 92 B676

Life; chiefly told in his own letters; ed. by his daughter [Emma Brace]. 1894. Scribner.

Brace (1826–90) was an eminent American philanthropist, chief founder of the New York Children's Aid Society. His life may almost be said to be a history of philanthropic effort in the United States during a quarter of a century. Not only has the society which he built up in New York done an immense work, but his system has been widely copied in other states and in Europe.

Brady was a Pennsylvania hero of pioneer days who won fame as an Indian fighter. He commanded a band of scouts known as "Brady's rangers."

Brahms, Johannes. 92 B6882c

Colles, Henry Cope. Brahms. 1908. Brentano. (Music of the masters.)

"Bibliography," p.9–10; "Complete list of works by Johannes Brahms," p.163–168.

Does not attempt to present any new material, or to tell the uneventful life of the composer, but gives a concise and lucid description of his works.

Brahms, Johannes. 92 B6882h

Henschel, George. Personal recollections of Johannes Brahms; some of his letters to and pages from a journal kept by George Henschel. 1907. Badger.

Slight and fragmentary reminiscences of recital tours with Brahms in Germany in the '70's.

Brahms, Johannes. 92 B6882ma

Maitland, John Alexander Fuller-. Brahms. 1911. Methuen.

Less space is given to his biography than to analyses of his compositions. Author is frankly eulogistic. His book is the most comprehensive work about Brahms that has yet appeared in English (1911).

Brandes, Georg Moritz Cohen. 92 B697

Reminiscences of my childhood and youth. 1906. Duffield.

Dr Brandes, who is eminent as philosopher, critic and literary artist, shows himself in this attractive volume mainly in the last of these capacities. The book comes to an end while he is still under thirty. The first half deals mainly with his life in Denmark and throws many interesting side-lights on Danish scholars and men of letters. The second half tells of his sojourn in France and Italy and his brief visit to England. Condensed from Athenæum, 1906.

Layard, George Somes. A great "Punch" editor; being the life, letters and diaries of Shirley Brooks. 1907. Pitman.

Brooks (1815–74) was from an early age a voluminous contributor to the press, besides writing a number of novels. In 1870 he assumed the editorship of "Punch." He was a great talker of the old sort; a tremendous writer, turning out jokes, poems, parliamentary reports, any kind of "copy," with incredible ease—a born journalist. His letters are of the kind that must have filled the recipient with joy, but that somehow in cold print, half a century later, sound forced and schoolboyish. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Brown, Henry Armitt. 92 B788h

Hoppin, James Mason, ed. Memoir of Henry Armitt Brown, together with four historical orations. 1880. Lippincott.

Contents: Memoir.—Historical orations: Oration delivered in Carpenters' hall, Philadelphia, on the 100th anniversary of the meeting of the Congress of 1774; "The settlement of Burlington" [N. J.]; an oration delivered in that city, Dec. 6, 1877, in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of its settlement; Oration at Valley Forge, June 19, 1878, the 100th anniversary of the departure of the army of the Revolution from winter quarters at that place; Oration composed to be delivered at Freehold, New Jersey, June 28, 1878, the 100th anniversary of the battle of Monmouth.

More than half the book is occupied with the memoir of Brown (1844–78), who was a Philadelphia lawyer and orator of much ability and promise. His principal orations, which are here included, were historical in character.

"Bibliography," p.397–400.

Readable volume of appreciation, written from the point of view of the negro. Disappointing in that it betrays little original research and contains many inaccuracies, partly because the author has relied on his predecessors in the field. The last chapter is a notable discussion of the race question as it stands to-day in the light of John Brown's sacrifice.

No pains have been spared to produce a biography both accurate and complete. Author has traced Brown's life from day to day throughout the entire active period of his career, has gone minutely over the ground on which he operated, and tested every printed or verbal statement with the rigid thoroughness of a laboratory investigator. We have here a book, and the only book, in which the unquestioned facts of John Brown's career are completely exhibited. If the author's conclusions differ from the conclusions of others, he cannot be charged with either withholding or distorting the evidence upon which they are based. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Browning, Oscar. 92 B8182

Memories of 60 years at Eton, Cambridge and elsewhere. 1910. Lane.

Oscar Browning (b. 1837) was master of Eton from 1860 to 1875 and has been lecturer in history and political science at Cambridge since 1876. He has found his supreme interest in the education of statesmen, and he looks upon Mr Gerald Balfour and Lord Curzon, whom he taught, as works of his hand. His book is personal from beginning to end, but never self-important.

Browning, Robert. 92 B819r

Robert Browning and Alfred Domett [letters]; ed. by F. G. Kenyon. 1906. Dutton.

Contains some 30 letters from Browning and Joseph Arnould, afterwards judge of the Supreme court of Bombay, to Alfred Domett, who went as a colonist to New Zealand in 1842 and remained there for 30 years. The letters are those of friends and are chiefly occupied with the personal affairs of the writers. The volume is of much interest if only as showing Browning's sympathetic nature and gift for friendship.

Griffin, W. Hall. Life of Robert Browning, with notices of his writings, his family & his friends; completed and ed. by H. C. Minchin. 1910. Macmillan.

"The late Professor Hall Griffin was an enthusiastic student of Browning, and had collected a large amount of biographical and illustrative material. Among other things, he discovered the diary of Alfred Domett; he visited and identified all Browning's homes, early and late; and his friendship with the Browning family and with some of Browning's closest friends gave him access to many unpublished sources of information ...Book is more than a thesaurus of facts. It is admirably written, and full of good sense and good judgment. It does not attempt to provide any elaborate critical apparatus, but such criticism as is given seems to us exceptionally balanced and sane. The book is primarily a biography, and in the second place a history of literary influences and the genesis of the poems." Spectator, 1910.

Butler, Sir William Francis. 92 B972b

Sir William Butler; an autobiography. 1911. Constable.

Sir William Butler (1838–1910) was an Irish soldier who served under Lord Wolseley in Canada, in Ashanti, in Egypt and in South Africa. The most interesting part of the book is perhaps to be found in the last three chapters which relate to the South African war. Disapproving of the British management of the situation, just before the outbreak of hostilities he resigned his command and returned to England. The autobiography ends at this point but there is a brief supplementary chapter by his daughter. The book makes agreeable reading, both from the vigor of the narrative and from the frankness of the views expressed.

Cabot, George. 92 C1143

Life and letters [ed.] by H. C. Lodge. 1878. Little.

"Cabot [1751–1823] was a leading Massachusetts Federalist, and president of the Hartford Convention. Aside from its general value as an authoritative biography, the volume has special importance for its publication of Cabot's letters, and its exhibition of the attitude of the New England Federalists towards the national government in the time of the war of 1812." Larned's Literature of American history.

Walker, Williston. John Calvin, the organiser of reformed Protestantism, 1509-1564. 1906. Putnam. (Heroes of the reformation.)

"Bibliographical note," p.11–18.

"No other equally brief life has so well assimilated the vast amount of material or summed up Calvin's character and career with so much insight; and no other life of Calvin preserves throughout so judicial a tone. It is a book whose scholarship will appeal to both the church historian and the general historical reader." American historical review, 1907.

Cambridge, George William Frederick Charles, duke of. 92 C147

George, duke of Cambridge; a memoir of his private life based on journals and correspondence; ed. by Edgar Sheppard. 2v. 1906. Longmans.

v.1. 1819–1871.

v.2. 1871–1904.

The duke of Cambridge, as the cousin of Queen Victoria, occupied a high place in court circles. He was also commander-in-chief of the British army from 1856 to 1895.

"This memoir...attractive as it is to the observer of character and manners, and absorbing as it must be to those who take a proper interest in all printed matter bearing upon the daily life of exalted personages, has not very great importance in the narrow sense in which the word is understood among students of politics." Outlook (London), 1906.

Morley, Henry. Jerome Cardan; the life of Girolamo Cardano of Milan, physician. 2v. 1854. Chapman.

Cardano (1501–76) was an Italian mathematician, physician, astrologer and author, one of the most interesting characters connected with the revival of science in Europe. The work of Cardano's which retains most interest for this generation is his autobiography, "De vita propria." In its clearness and frankness of self-revelation it stands alone among records of its class and may be compared with the autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini. Professor Morley has ably condensed Cardano's autobiography and at the same time supplemented it by information from the general body of his writings and other sources.

Carlyle, Alexander, 1722–1805. 92 C2142c

Autobiography of Dr Alexander Carlyle of Inveresk, 1722–1805; ed. by J. H. Burton, with notes. 1910. Foulis.

Carlyle was a Scottish clergyman, an eloquent debater and skilful leader in the General Assembly.

"His 'Autobiography' gives a most agreeable impression of him as a genial, cultivated, liberal-minded, and sagacious minister of the kirk, who united to the breadth of the man of the world a sincere devotion to what he considered to be the true interests of his order, and it is unrivalled as a picture of the Edinburgh and Scotch society of his time." Dictionary of national biography.

Carlyle, Mrs Jane Baillie (Welsh). 92 C2141i

Ireland, Mrs Annie Elizabeth. Life of Jane Welsh Carlyle. 1891. Chatto.

Mrs Ireland writes sympathetically, if somewhat effusively, of Mrs Carlyle. She thinks that the causes which militated most strongly against her happiness were in her own complicated nature rather than in circumstances.

Conway, Moncure Daniel. Thomas Carlyle. 1881. Harper.

Mr Conway's personal intercourse with Carlyle was long-continued and intimate and he has given evidently a faithful and trustworthy delineation of the man. The book is rich in anecdote and conversation, especially that relating to Carlyle's early life. The most interesting part is the correspondence, containing extracts from letters written by Carlyle to two college friends between the years 1814 and 1824, when Carlyle was a young tutor. There are also letters to Leigh Hunt and several other persons. Condensed from Dial, 1881.

Wylie, William Howie. Thomas Carlyle, the man and his books; illustrated by personal reminiscences, table-talk and anecdotes of himself and his friends; revised by William Robertson, with a prefatory note and a brief memoir of the author by his daughter, M. A. Wylie. 1909. Unwin.

By a friend and fellow-countryman of Carlyle. First published in 1881.

Masterly little biography; a picture deftly painted and pleasant, yet far above the mere art of the portrait-painter; appreciative to the verge of hero-worship, but stopping short at that point where hero-worship becomes idolatry:—a bit of work, indeed, which it would be hard to surpass for sympathy, delicacy, liberality of view, and wealth of friendly insight. Read, as it should be read, after the "Reminiscences," it purifies the memory of certain ignoble moods. Condensed from Contemporary review, 1881.

My army life and the Fort Phil. Kearney massacre, with an account of the celebration of "Wyoming opened." 1910. Lippincott.

Binder's title reads "Army life on the plains."

The massacre of Fort Kearney ranks next to that of Custer and his troops in the annals of American army tragedies. On Dec. 21, 1866, 81 officers and men of the 18th Infantry perished in combat with 3,000 Indians near Fort Kearney. Author was the wife of one of the officers killed in the massacre and she sets forth in this volume the record of her brief and tragic frontier experience.

Catharine II, empress of Russia. 92 C279

Memoirs, with a preface by A. Herzen; tr. from the French. 1859. Appleton.

"As this work was not published until the outbreak of the Crimean War, the question of its genuineness was everywhere raised. From internal evidence it is now generally accepted as authentic; though it was long in the hands of Catherine's imperial successors, and the proof that it was not tampered with is not quite complete. The volume has to do almost exclusively with Catherine's early years. But it is a most extraordinary uncovering of Russian court life. The imbecility of Peter the Third, the dissimulation and ambition of his wife, the mixture of barbarism and brutality that everywhere prevailed, are nowhere else more graphically portrayed." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

"The mass of contemporary documents, admirably annotated and indexed, that Mr. Dalton has collected, illustrating the war of Dutch independence and English history during the reigns of James and Charles I., is of much value. Lord Wimbledon and his associates, for the most part, are permitted to describe themselves... These volumes can be recommended to a student who, though 'well up in Gardiner,' is willing to gain fresh insight into the causes of collision between the Crown and the people." Athenæum, 1885.

"Though we can award much praise to Miss Aikin, we cannot say that she has fulfilled our idea of a complete and satisfactory Memoir. Her work is, in several respects, deficient and meagre: it has not enough of such information as affords an insight into characters, manners and opinions,—the state of society, and the civilisation and condition of the people at large." Edinburgh review, 1834.

Charles I, king of England. qr92 C375s

Skelton, Sir John, (pseud. Shirley). Charles I. 1898. Goupil.

"The letterpress of the book consists of a clever and interesting but rather rambling and very one-sided essay on King Charles. Sir John Skelton cannot, of course, maintain that his hero committed no faults, but he strongly holds that he was far more sinned against than sinning, and thinks that the Civil War must be ascribed to the Long Parliament's arrogance, not to the King's incurable tendency towards mental reservations and double-dealing." Saturday review, 1898.

Macgilvray, Walter. John of the Golden Mouth, preacher of Antioch and primate of Constantinople. 1871. Nisbet.

"John—who was as exclusively known to his contemporaries by that name as he is to us by his complimentary title of Chrysostom or the 'golden-mouthed'—is one of the most splendid and interesting figures in the early history of the Church. Less profound a theologian than Athanasius, or Augustine, or Gregory of Nazianzus...less learned than Origen or Jerome; less practically successful than Ambrose, he yet combines so many brilliant gifts that he stands almost supreme among the Doctores Ecclesiae as an orator, as an exegete, as a great moral reformer, as a saint and confessor." Farrar's Lives of the Fathers.

Churchill, Lady Randolph Spencer, afterward Mrs Cornwallis-West. 92 C4693

Reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill. 1908. Century.

Lady Randolph Churchill lived for many years among the most distinguished people in Europe, and noted not only their political significance, but their clothes, manners and temperaments. Mrs Cornwallis-West is able to write with such detachment of Lady Randolph Churchill as to exploit somewhat drolly her beauty and personal charm. The letters printed and the conversations quoted abound in allusions of the sort that people usually leave their heirs to publish. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

"Mr. Sergeant describes the story of Cleopatra as 'the most enthralling romance of antiquity;' and he has aimed in telling it at making her 'as interesting to the general reader as some of the queens and empresses of more recent times'... It is all done well and skilfully. The history is sound and the scholarship satisfactory. The characters are distinct and living." Spectator, 1910.

Cleveland, Grover. 92 C582g

Gilder, Richard Watson. Grover Cleveland; a record of friendship. 1910. Century.

"It has seemed to the writer not only an obligation of friendship but of patriotism to make some record of the personality of Mr. Cleveland, as revealed in an intimacy of many years. The large traits of his character, and those important public services which far transcended partisan accomplishment, have made their impress upon the American people and the world...Sympathetic speakers and writers have told much, also, of his characteristics and his daily walk, but the full portrait has not yet been rounded out. I desire merely to add a few intimate touches to that portrait, not thinking to complete it; but only to help loyally toward its completion." Introduction.

Parker, George Frederick. Recollections of Grover Cleveland. 1909. Century.

"Bibliography," p.409.

"The book is properly named. There is a preliminary sketch of Cleveland's life before he became a national figure, and hardly any really important event of his career goes entirely unmentioned: but the book is not a biography...Mr. Parker's...are not the only recollections the book contains. Others of Cleveland's friends have contributed to his store, and perhaps the most valuable of all are certain of Cleveland's own, given from time to time in conversation, dealing with some of the most interesting episodes of his career and with the best-known of his contemporaries. And yet, although thoroughly reminiscential, the book is not light and gossipy, or of a newspaper or magazine flavor, but a careful presentment of a great public character as seen by his intimates." Nation, 1909.

Cobbett (1762–1835) was an English political writer, agriculturist and grammarian. He emigrated to America in 1792 and began the publication of "Porcupine's gazette," which upheld the Federal side in politics. Twice prosecuted for libel, he returned to England and started his famous "Weekly political register," which, from being a Tory organ, gradually changed its politics and became the determined opponent of the government. Among his best known works is his "Grammar of the English language."

"The especial interest of this autobiography aside from the simple, straight-forward account of the author's own life and work, lies in the sincere report of impressions of contemporary men and women, and in the prominence given to socialistic ideas and movements started by William Morris. Most is told, naturally, of the Pre-Raphaelite group of painters, the promoters of the arts and crafts movement, and their friends, with whom he had most to do. Walter Crane may perhaps claim a wider interest among men than some of his greater confrères, by reason of the variety of expression which his art found for itself." A. L. A. booklist, 1908.

Curran (1750–1817) was an Irish lawyer, statesman and orator. He conducted the defense in the bloody series of persecutions instituted by the government against the leaders of the Irish insurrection in 1798.

Curtis, Benjamin Robbins, 1809–74. 92 C933

Memoir, with some of his professional and miscellaneous writings; ed. by his son, B. R. Curtis. 2v. 1879. Little.

Curtis was one of the foremost of Massachusetts lawyers.

"The biographical part of this memoir, contained in the first volume is the work of Mr. George Ticknor Curtis, the brother of Judge Curtis. The second volume consists altogether of professional and miscellaneous writings, of which the most important are an article on 'Debts of the States'...the Report of the Commissioners on the Reform of Procedure in Massachusetts; the dissenting opinion in the Dred Scott case; and the Argument in Defence of President Johnson, delivered before the Senate in 1868. The biography is well written, and as much is made as was possible out of the uneventful life of its subject." Nation, 1879.

Gen. Wilson was a warm personal friend of Dana's and his biography is naturally uncritical. The book is fullest and most authoritative in the chapters covering Dana's work in the war as a kind of glorified confidential reporter with the army for Stanton, and later as assistant secretary of war. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

English politician (1691–1762) who allied himself first to one party, then another, to further his own advancement. He was also a patron of literature.

"It is the most curious illustration in existence of the character of the servile place-hunters of the time, with unctuous professions of virtuous sentiment which serve to heighten the effect. It also contains some curious historical information, especially as to the Prince and Princess of Wales during the period 1749–60." Dictionary of national biography.

Domett, Alfred. 92 B819r

Browning, Robert. Robert Browning and Alfred Domett [letters]; ed. by F. G. Kenyon. 1906. Dutton.

Contains some 30 letters from Browning and Joseph Arnould, afterwards judge of the Supreme court of Bombay, to Alfred Domett, who went as a colonist to New Zealand in 1842 and remained there for 30 years. The letters are those of friends and are chiefly occupied with the personal affairs of the writers. The volume is of much interest, if only as showing Browning's sympathetic nature and gift for friendship.

Letters to severall persons of honour; the text ed. with notes by C. E. Merrill. 1910. Sturgis.

Contains facsimile of title-page of original edition, London, 1651.

Intimate passages are rare, and as a rule the letters move in the peculiar field of generalization that makes most of the correspondences of his age neither quite literature nor quite familiar self-revelation. The letters that passed from man to man in those days were written not so much to acquaint the recipient with the details of the sender's life, as to foster the ideal of friendship, and it is with this understanding that we must approach Donne's letters. Mr Merrill's explanatory and historical notes show judgment and learning. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Mr Carr, a life-long Republican, heard in part the great debates of 1858, and then and later was on friendly terms with the contestants, of whom he gives interesting personal anecdotes. He writes out of full knowledge and in a spirit of candor, believing that the man of whom in early life he strongly disapproved has suffered injustice and failed of recognition as a most potent factor in saving the Union. He makes very vivid the memorable work of Douglas in his last days. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Italian sculptor (1817–82).

"An unaffected and unpretending record of his life and thoughts...The history of his early struggles and poverty, the pictures of his childhood and youth, are eminently interesting...If the 'Thoughts upon Art' do not exhibit any great profundity of thinking, they are earnest, instructive, and characteristic. His descriptions of his travels in France and England; his criticisms and anecdotes of artists and persons in Florence; his account of his daily life in his studio and at his home,—are lively and amusing. Altogether, the book has a special charm which it is not easy to define." W. W. Story, in introduction.

Durham was an English statesman whose name is chiefly associated with the Reform bill and the reorganization of Canada. In 1838 he was made governor-general of the British provinces of North America, and his report made on retirement remains the charter of Great Britain's present-day colonial policy. His biographer furnishes much detail concerning his life, his work in Canada occupying about one-fourth of the space.

Mumby, Frank Arthur. Girlhood of Queen Elizabeth; a narrative in contemporary letters, with an introduction by R. S. Rait. 1909. Houghton.

"List of printed works and manuscript collections from which letters have been selected," p.9–10.

Illustrates the dangers and hardships which surrounded Elizabeth up to the time of her accession (1559) and shows the relations between Henry VIII, Elizabeth, Mary and Edward VI.

Mr Mumby has modernized the spelling in the letters in order to reach as large a public as possible. Apart from the more serious value of the book, it shows in a most interesting way the elements which helped, in her girlhood, to mold Elizabeth's character.

Fessenden (1806–69) was one of the leaders of the Republican party through the antislavery struggle, the Civil war and reconstruction. The records of these events are found only in part in these volumes, but what is lacking in the way of history is more than made good by private letters and memoranda of the senator, giving us his inmost thoughts at critical periods and portraying his personality as no other hand could do. The arrangement of the matter is defective, but the matter itself is of the first class. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Lord Lovat (1667?–1747) sided with the government in the Jacobite uprising of 1715, but with the rebels in 1745–46. He was captured at the battle of Culloden, tried for treason and executed. Forbes (1685–1747) was a Scottish judge and a warm supporter of the government.

"He gives...authorities which show an extent of research, among printed and unprinted materials, for which...we were not prepared...The value of his labours can only be acknowledged by those who, by having studied this portion of our history, can estimate the skill with which he has compressed so much into so small a compass." North British review, 1847.

English naturalist (1815–54).

"Forbes lived an unusually full life, occupied in promoting science and arousing enthusiasm and awakening intelligence in others. To almost every department of biology he rendered much service...He played an important part in elevating palæontology to a high position in practical geology, and in elucidating ancient British zoology." Dictionary of national biography.

Fortuny y Carbo, Mariano José Maria Bernardo. 92 F794d

Davillier, Jean Charles, baron. Life of Fortuny, with his works and correspondence; from the French, with notes and reminiscences by a friend. 1885. Porter.

"Fortuny [1838?–74] was one of the most artistic of modern artists; a painter and etcher who, whatever the final judgment of his brother artists upon his work may prove to be, is certain never to be ignored by them...A number of his letters, and a brief and sympathetic discussion of his merits are contained in this book." Sturgis and Krehbiel's Annotated bibliography of fine art.

Foscari, Francesco. 92 M761w

Wiel, Mrs Alethea Jane (Lawley). Two doges of Venice; a slight sketch of the lives and times of Tomaso Mocenigo and Francesco Foscari. 1891. Chiswick Press.

Mocenigo was doge of Venice from 1414 to 1423, and Foscari, from 1423 to 1457. They were politically at variance, the former endeavoring to maintain the position of Venice by a policy of peace, the latter standing for an aggressive policy.

Foscolo, Ugo. 92 F797

Foster, John Watson. 92 F8173

Diplomatic memoirs. 2v. 1909. Houghton.

These volumes contain a personal record and are to be clearly differentiated from his three earlier works dealing with diplomatic subjects. His long career in the American diplomatic service affords him a large fund of material upon which to draw. He has served as minister to Mexico, to Russia and to Spain; he was prominent in the Bering sea arbitration, the Alaskan boundary dispute and the Hague peace conference, and upheld China's interests in the peace negotiations with Japan.

Foster, Myles Birket. 92 F8172c

Cundall, Herbert Minton. Birket Foster. 1906. Black.

"List of the principal books illustrated by Birket Foster," p.193–198.

"The art of Birket Foster [1825–99] makes only a limited appeal to modern taste. It is somewhat smug and conventional; it is essentially mid-Victorian in its influence, and yet there is a quiet pastoral charm about his work which will insure it a permanent place in the English school of landscape-painters and illustrators of the later half of the nineteenth century." Outlook (London), 1907.

Fox, Charles James. 92 F851l

Landor, Walter Savage. Charles James Fox; a commentary on his life and character; ed. by Stephen Wheeler. 1907. Murray.

This book was printed in 1812, but has never before been published, as the antagonistic tone it assumed toward Fox made it inadvisable to bring it out at the time. It is a commentary on John Bernard Trotter's "Memoirs of Charles James Fox," which appeared in 1811.

"As an historical estimate of Fox the book is too polemical to have much value, but the style has a rare energy and color." Nation, 1907.

v.1. The alliance.

v.2. The treaty of peace and Franklin's life till his return.

"In 1882 the United States government acquired...a large mass of hitherto unpublished documents written by or relating to Benjamin Franklin, which had been bequeathed by Franklin to his son, Wm. Temple Franklin. From these papers Mr. Hale, assisted by his son, has compiled an account of Franklin's life in France during the nine years of his residence there (1776–85). The work has been done in a thoroughly impartial and scholarly manner, but has led to no revision of past judgments regarding Franklin's career in France, except in some minor matters of detail." Larned's Literature of American history.

A diplomatist's wife in many lands. 2v. 1911. Dodd.

"The daughter of Thomas Crawford the sculptor, the sister of Marion Crawford, a kin on the mother's side to the Wards of New York and the Howes of Boston, allied by marriage with gentlefolk of England and Germany, Mrs. Hugh Fraser has had a most distinguished acquaintance. As a diplomatist's wife, she has travelled widely and lived in many lands. She gathers up not merely her personal reminiscences, but an enormous amount of material touched only by report. The record is not so much of her life as of her interests. A certain superciliousness in her literary manner hardly detracts from the charm of her narrative." Nation, 1911.

Fraser, James, bp. 92 F887h

Hughes, Thomas. James Fraser, second bishop of Manchester; a memoir, 1818–85. 1887. Macmillan.

Written from intimate knowledge. Bishop Fraser was a man of singular charm and openness of mind, keenly interested in all the social and educational movements of his day. Many of his letters are included.

Recollections of baron de Frénilly, peer of France (1768–1828); ed. with an introduction and notes by Arthur Chuquet, tr. from the French by Frederic Lees. 1909. Heinemann.

"Frénilly...while not a conspicuous figure in the history of the Revolution, was acquainted with those who were. He was a typical product of the privileged class of the old régime, a young man-about-town with no other purpose in life than to shine in society. His 'Recollections,' which were begun only in 1837, show a remarkably keen memory, particularly for small but picturesque details, but they are so deeply dyed in aristocratic prejudice that he would be a bold historian who would be willing to rest content with such a source for any incident which it recounts." Nation, 1909.

Frothingham, Octavius Brooks. 92 F971s

Stedman, Edmund Clarence. Octavius Brooks Frothingham and the new faith. 1876. Putnam.

Short, appreciative sketch.

Frothingham (1822–95) was a Unitarian minister who represented the most radical branch of that body. He was one of the founders of the Free Religious Association and finally withdrew from connection with any specific church. The last years of his life were spent in Boston, where he devoted himself to literary work.

Fuller, Arthur Buckminster. 92 F982f

Fuller, Richard Frederick. Chaplain Fuller; being a life sketch of a New England clergyman and army chaplain. 1863. Walker.

Life of Arthur Buckminster Fuller (1822–62), a Unitarian minister and brother of Margaret Fuller. He was chaplain of the 16th regiment of Massachusetts volunteers and was killed at the battle of Fredericksburg.

Fulton, Robert. r92 F986c

Colden, Cadwallader David. Life of Robert Fulton; read before the Literary and Philosophical Society of New York, with an appendix [containing documents]. 1817. Kirk.

A biography of considerable length as it contains material not read before the society. The author was a personal friend of Fulton and writes chiefly in regard to his inventions.

Fulton, Robert. 92 F986s

Sutcliffe, Mrs Alice (Crary). Robert Fulton and the "Clermont;" the authoritative story of Robert Fulton's early experiences, persistent efforts and historic achievements, containing many of Fulton's hitherto unpublished letters, drawings and pictures. 1909. Century.

Furness, William Henry, & Emerson, R. W. 92 E586r

Records of a lifelong friendship, 1807–1882, Ralph Waldo Emerson and William Henry Furness; ed. by H. H. F[urness]. 1910. Houghton.

Furness (1802–96), whose friendship with Emerson dated from childhood, was a Unitarian clergyman, for 50 years minister of the First Unitarian Church in Philadelphia. This correspondence, covering the years from 1837 to 1875, is full of affection and mutual recognition. A poem entitled "Fortus" is included, written by Emerson, aged ten, and illustrated by Furness, aged eleven.

Galton, Francis. 92 G159

Memories of my life. [1908.] Methuen.

"Books and memoirs by the author," p.325–331.

Author, born in 1822, is an English anthropologist and traveler, known especially for his studies of heredity and his discovery of the method of personal identification by means of finger-print impressions.

"Those who are interested in the history of the growth of science in this country, and in the men who participated in its development, will thank Dr Galton for having provided them with a characteristic account of his own life and of his relations with three generations of men of thought and action." Nature, 1908.

Garman, Charles Edward. 92 G187

Letters, lectures and addresses; a memorial volume prepared with the coöperation of the class of 1884, Amherst College, by E. M. Garman. 1909. Houghton.

Charles E. Garman (1850–1907) was connected for 25 years with the faculty of Amherst College, and exercised a remarkable influence as a teacher who made philosophy a matter of vital interest to young men. He lifted college teaching out of mechanical and academic routine, and passing by the opportunity to publish or to pursue original investigation. devoted all his energies to being an inspiring teacher. Appendix contains tributes by former students who had felt his charm and power.

Garrick, David. 92 G194

Some unpublished correspondence; ed. by G. P. Baker. 1907. Houghton.

Binder's title reads "Letters of David Garrick."
Reproduces some 40 letters and manuscripts, which although interesting do not throw much new light on the actor's disposition, ability or career. Many portraits.

Garrick, David. 92 G194p

Parsons, Mrs Florence Mary. Garrick and his circle. 1906. Putnam.

"Some works consulted," p.17–20.
A careful study of the period derived from the mass of existing material. Written with excellent taste and keen judgment.
"Invaluable to all who may desire to acquaint themselves with theatrical and social conditions during the latter half of the eighteenth century in England, but are unable to go to the original sources of information." Nation, 1906.

Garrison, Wendell Phillips. 92 G1952

Letters and memorials. 1908. Riverside Press.

Contents: Letters.—Fortieth anniversary of the "Nation."—Poems.—Editorials and essays.—The new Gulliver.
"Wendell Phillips Garrison," p.3–11.
Aim of this small selection from the whole body of his work is to exhibit some of the principles and convictions, the editorial methods and ideals, the tastes and interests of the man who for over 40 years (1865–1906) was literary editor of the New York "Nation."

Garrison, William Lloyd. 92 G195sw

Swift, Lindsay. William Lloyd Garrison. 1911. Jacobs. (American crisis biographies.)

"Bibliography," p.387–390.
Sets forth in brief compass and in an orderly manner the main events of Garrison's career, giving enough of general history to show the connection and enough of personal detail to show the man. More successfully than almost any other historian who has dealt with the abolition movement, Mr Swift has outlined the moral foundations of Garrison's course. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Gaskell, Mrs Elizabeth Cleghorn (Stevenson). 92 G215c

Chadwick, Mrs Esther Alice. Mrs Gaskell; haunts, homes and stories. 1910. Pitman.

"Bibliography," p.454–464.
It was Mrs Gaskell's wish that her biography should not be written, hence none of her letters are available and the lack of them is felt in this book, which is partly biographical and partly critical and which identifies many of the persons and scenes of her novels with actual characters and incidents.

Gibbon, Edward. 92 G361me

Memoirs written by himself, and a selection from his letters, with occasional notes and narrative by Lord Sheffield; ed. by Henry Morley. 1891. Routledge.

"Edward Gibbon's unfinished Memoirs...are justly regarded as one of the best pieces of Autobiography in English Literature. Supplemented by his nearest surviving friend, with an account of his death and a selection from his familiar letters, they reproduce for us the writer of the 'History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire.'" Introduction.

Giffard, Martha (Temple), lady. 92 G377

Martha, lady Giffard, her life and correspondence (1664–1722); ed. by J. G. Longe, with preface by [E. A.] Parry. 1911. Allen.

Lady Giffard was the sister of Sir William Temple, lived with him, accompanied him in his diplomatic missions and survived him for some years. As a letter-writer she does not shine in comparison with her sister-in-law, Dorothy Osborne, to whose "Letters" this volume is in a sense a sequel, but her letters give perhaps a wider view of the domestic and courtly life of the time, and they carry on the story of Sir William Temple's life which his wife's letters begin.

Gilchrist, Mrs Anne (Burrows). 92 G385

Her life and writings; ed. by H. H. Gilchrist, with a prefatory notice by W. M. Rossetti. 1887. Unwin.

This life of the English authoress (1828–85) is largely composed of letters and anecdotes. She numbered among her friends and correspondents the Carlyles, the Rossettis, Tennyson and Walt Whitman. Two essays on Whitman's poetry are included.

Gilman, Daniel Coit. 92 G421f

Franklin, Fabian. Life of Daniel Coit Gilman. 1910. Dodd.

Mr Gilman (1831–1908) scored more, and more various, successes than any other man who ever dealt with education in America. Others may have equaled him in the quality of their service, but none conducted so many important enterprises so successfully. Deeply associated with the organization of the Sheffield Scientific School at New Haven, with the upbuilding of the University of California, the foundation of Johns Hopkins University, and of its Medical School, he found energy at seventy to inaugurate the work of the Carnegie Institution, and in the last year of his life he practically gave shape to the Russell Sage Foundation for sociological and charitable investigation. In treating such a career, the biographer had no choice but to merge the hero in his causes. This Dr Franklin, a former Johns Hopkins colleague, has done, adding as a sort of supplement a selection from his intimate correspondence, and a brief sketch of his family life by Mrs Gilman. Dr Franklin has set forth with admirable orderliness and lucidity the chief activities of a varied and complicated life. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Story of his long career as editor, preacher and social reformer.

Godkin, Edwin Lawrence. 92 G554

Life and letters; ed. by Rollo Ogden. 2v. 1907. Macmillan.

Bibliography, v.2, p.260–268.

Godkin (1831–1902) was an American journalist and political writer, born in Ireland. In 1865 he established and became editor of the "Nation." He was one of the foremost leader writers in the history of the American press and his editorials in the "Nation" from the first influenced the best thought of the time.

Goethe, Frau Catharina Elisabetha (Textor). 92 G5593

Goethe's mother; correspondence of Catharine Elizabeth Goethe with Goethe, Lavater, Wieland, Duchess Anna Amalia of Saxe-Weimar, Friedrich von Stein and others; tr. from the German, with biographical sketches and notes, by A. S. Gibbs, with an introductory note by Clarence Cook. 1880. Dodd.

In his life of Goethe, Lewes speaks of Goethe's mother as "one of the pleasantest figures in German literature." The letters are natural and delightful, full of pride in her famous son, warmth of affection and joyousness of spirit.

Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von. 92 G559d

Düntzer, Johann Heinrich Joseph. Goethes leben. 1883.

"A valuable contribution. But it will not supersede Lewes's book [Life and works of Goethe, 92 G559le]; it will be read with it...The book is not so much a biography as materials for a biography. Of the writer's industry in collecting and verifying his materials it is impossible to speak too highly, but of his skill in arranging them it is still less possible to speak politely...The other stumbling-block is the attitude of adoration Herr Düntzer assumes toward Goethe." Saturday review, 1884.

Father and son; biographical recollections. 1907. Scribner.

"Record of the author's childhood and youth in a home where the most austere Puritanism prevailed; of his father, a scientist of distinction, devoted first of all to the religious bringing up of his son. Tells of the development of the boy's individuality, and the final break between father and son, between the rigid religion of the past and the liberality of the present, which sacrificed neither the love of the father nor the respect of the son. Written with great charm, with delicacy of feeling, poetic insight, and not a little humor." A. L. A. booklist, 1908.

Letters, 1810–45; ed. by her son F. L. Gower. 2v. 1894. Longmans.

The countess of Granville [1806–68] was the daughter of the fifth duchess of Devonshire, famous for her beauty, and the wife of a diplomat who at various times represented England at the courts of St. Petersburg, The Hague and Paris.

"Her letters to her brother and sisters, written in all the freedom of confidential intercourse, are racy, graphic, humorous and instinct with good sense and right feeling ...[Their] greatest charm, however...is the pathos which underlies their mirth, and the true nobility of character which, in scenes little favourable to serious thought or delicate feeling, preserved Lady Granville throughout life wholly unspotted by the world ...The work forms an important and most agreeable addition to our knowledge of English society in the first half of the century." Saturday review, 1894.

Davey, Richard. The nine days' queen, Lady Jane Grey and her times; ed. with introduction by Martin Hume. [1909.] Methuen.

"Bibliography of Lady Jane Grey," p.363–364.

Easy, informed and sympathetic, Mr Davey is rightly equipped for the task he set himself in writing of Lady Jane Grey. In his account of her nine days' sovereignty, her education and bringing-up, he corrects some errors of strange popularity, and in the introduction Mr Hume exposes the political situation in Europe and the social condition of England in such a way as to make intelligible much that would confuse the average man. The work will please the general public. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1909.

Grierson, Francis. 92 G8912

Valley of shadows. 1909. Constable.

Contents: Proem.—The meeting-house.—The load-bearer.—The log-house.—Socrates gives advice.—Silas Jordan's illness.—The cabin of Socrates.—At the post-office.—My visit to the load-bearer's home.—A night of mystery.—Sowing and reaping.—The flight.—The camp-meeting.—The pioneer of the Sangamon country.—The regulators.—Alton and the Mississippi.—Abraham Lincoln.—St. Louis; society and the churches.—The great fair.— The Planters' house.— The torch-light procession.— Camp Jackson.—General Fremont.—The dance of death.—In the maze.—Grierson's raid.—The valley of shadows.

The author of this fascinating book of reminiscence was born in England in 1848. The next year his father emigrated to America and settled in the Illinois country. There the sensitive and keenly observant boy grew to manhood. The thread of incident running through the first two-thirds of the book gives it somewhat the character of a novel, but the last chapters have slight connection with what has gone before. Three chapters are given to Fremont and his experiences, and there is an admirable description of the Lincoln-Douglas debate, and of the city of St. Louis about 1860. It is a matter of regret that a work which makes, in large part, so welcome an addition to autobiographical literature should not have been more consistently carried out. Condensed from Nation, 1909.

Savile (1633–95) was an English politician and statesman, lord privy seal under Charles II and William III.

"His finely balanced intellect appears to best advantage in his writings. As a censor of the heated partisan conflicts of the day, and as an inspirer of the declaration of rights...Halifax exercised a far-reaching influence, and his political opinions rather than his acts give his career its chief historical importance." Dictionary of national biography.

Hamilton, Alexander. 92 H1980

Oliver, Frederick Scott. Alexander Hamilton; an essay on American union. 1906. Constable.

The duchess of Hamilton (1734–90) was one of the most beautiful and virtuous of the women of her time. The author has consulted contemporary newspapers and letters and has produced an entertaining if somewhat gossipy narrative.

Hamilton, Emma (Lyon), lady. qr92 H211b

Baily, J. T. Herbert. Emma, lady Hamilton; a biographical essay with a catalogue of her published portraits. 1905. Menzies.

Brings together 23 reproductions of the most famous of her portraits, including all the best Romneys. The text is more of a setting for the pictures than an original contribution to history.

Hamilton, Emma (Lyon), lady. 92 H211s

Sichel, Walter Sydney. Emma, lady Hamilton; from new and original sources and documents, together with an appendix of notes and new letters. 1905. Constable.

Lady Hamilton (1761?–1815) was a celebrated English beauty, wife of Sir William Hamilton, ambassador at Naples. She was a powerful influence in the life of Lord Nelson and was supposed to have played a considerable part in the political relations of the court of Naples with England.

"Mr. Walter Sichel has utilised several new 'sources' for the life of Lady Hamilton. Some letters by her were not acquired by the British Museum until 1896 and were therefore unknown to earlier writers on the Neapolitan period of Nelson's life; and there can be no doubt that the author's treatment of the whole subject is far more complete and authoritative than that of Mr. Cordy Jeaffreson." English historical review, 1906.

Hampden (1594–1643), a leader in both the Short and the Long Parliaments, is chiefly remembered as the opposer of ship-money. This biography called forth Macaulay's essay on Hampden, in which the work is praised, although he regrets that no new material has been brought to light.

Harding, Chester. 92 H255

Sketch of Chester Harding, artist, drawn by his own hand; ed. by his daughter, M. E. White. 1890. Houghton.

Harding (1792–1866) was an American portrait-painter, a self-educated artist who rose from the humblest beginnings to prominence and popularity. He painted many of the celebrities of his time in England and America. He was at one stage in his career engaged in business in Pittsburgh as a sign-painter.

Hastings, Selina Shirley, countess of Huntingdon. 92 H3433l

Life and times of Selina, countess of Huntingdon, by a member of the houses of Shirley and Hastings. 2v. 1844. Painter.

The countess of Huntingdon (1707–91) was one of the most influential promoters of the early Methodist movement and an intimate friend of the brothers Wesley and of Whitefield. She founded numerous chapels and expended large sums in the support of young men trained for itinerant preaching.

Hastings, Warren. 92 H343g

Gleig, George Robert. Memoirs of the life of Warren Hastings; comp. from original papers. 3v. 1841. Bentley.

The main source for Hastings's biography and the text of Macaulay's famous essay. Macaulay says that the work consisted of "three big, bad volumes, full of undigested correspondence and undiscerning panegyric."

Hastings, Warren. 92 H343la

Lawson, Sir Charles Allen. Private life of Warren Hastings, first governor-general of India. 1895. Sonnenschein.

"Anecdotic biography of the Governor-General, with notices of his friends, his enemies, his trial in Westminster Hall, and his later years. It is admirably illustrated with portraits and views and reproductions of contemporary caricatures. The author is more deeply interested in the personality than in the achievements of his hero. He does not attempt to deal with the administration of Hastings in India or with his career as a public man." Nation, 1895.

"Mr. Jervey has devoted his book more to the times in South Carolina and particularly in Charleston, and to the course of federal politics upon the state-rights issue, than to a detailed narrative of Hayne's doings. In fact the book is principally a chronicle of Charleston affairs from 1791 to 1839, with Hayne's career a recurring rather than a continuous theme." American historical review, 1910.

Hearn, Lafcadio. 92 H3852j

Japanese letters; ed. with an introduction by Elizabeth Bisland. 1910. Houghton.

Contents: Letters to B. H. Chamberlain.—Letters to W. B. Mason.—Letters to Mrs Hearn.

"To those who still practice the moribund art of hobnobbing with books, of being intimate with them and running in on them for informal converse, the volume offers endless possibilities of intellectual stimulus and pleasant intercourse. Nine-tenths of the collection are letters to Basil Hall Chamberlain, the noted and devoted student of Japan and guide, philosopher and familiar mental crony of Hearn's Japanese years. In these letters Hearn has almost literally poured out his mind to his friend. The comments of a keen critic of literature and of life, the subtle characterizations of an intuitively sympathetic observer, the whimsies of a child-like and sensitive imagination, and the joyous discoveries and puzzled bewilderments of a delver into alien mysteries, all tumble over one another in the fine disarray of an untrammeled spontaneity and with the unsought perfection of trained faculties at play." Life, 1911.

Life and letters [ed.] by Elizabeth Bisland. 2v. 1906. Houghton.

v.1. Introductory sketch, by Mrs Elizabeth (Bisland) Wetmore.—Letters.

v.2. Letters (continued).

Hearn (1850–1904) was peculiarly fitted by temperament to become the ideal interpreter of Japan and he has left a series of books unique in our language. Mrs

Hearn, Lafcadio—continued. 92 H3852

Wetmore, who was his intimate friend for 20 years, has succeeded in depicting his sensitive and exotic nature, which the letters themselves reveal even more clearly. A correspondence of unusual interest.

Hearn, Lafcadio. 92 H3852g

Gould, George Milbry. Concerning Lafcadio Hearn. 1908. Jacobs.

"Bibliography," by Laura Stedman, p.336–416.

Dr Gould approaches the subject from a novel point of view. He is an eye specialist, well known for a series of studies in which he has derived the eccentricities of various geniuses from faulty vision. In this respect Hearn, with his one eye intensely myopic, offered a tempting field which the oculist could not avoid. In the actual details of Hearn's life, Dr Gould presents not much that is new. The most valuable parts of the book are those in which Hearn's literary activities are traced. Besides a long and complete analysis of all his published works, with extracts from the reviews of the time, there is also a full bibliography, which includes even the manuscripts left by Hearn. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

v.1. Childhood and youth.—Student years.—Wander years.—In exile.
v.2. In exile (continued).—The living tomb.

Compilation from his published writings in prose and verse, arranged in such a way as to form a sort of biography. Does not present a complete and coherent life of the poet, and the unity of the narrative is disturbed by the disparity of style shown in the various extracts. These extracts are not held together by any thread of commentary and no explanatory notes are supplied in the English version. In spite of defects, however, it is a useful collection of material in convenient form.

Henry IV, king of France and Navarre. q92 H451b

Blair, Edward T. Henry of Navarre and the religious wars. 1895. Lippincott.

The book lays no claim to scholarship. It cites no sources and gives no references to authorities. It is a simple narration of the fortunes of Henry IV, places the personal element in the foreground and makes love affairs and court intrigue of equal importance with the movement of politics.

Hyde, A. G. George Herbert and his times. 1906. Putnam.

"In coming to this theme Mr. Hyde has nothing new to add to our knowledge of Herbert's life or surroundings. But he has a cultivated style, is well read in the general field, and from common sources has put together a thoroughly entertaining volume." Nation, 1906.

Herbert of Lea, Sidney Herbert, baron. 92 H463s

Stanmore, Arthur Hamilton Gordon, baron. Sidney Herbert, lord Herbert of Lea; a memoir. 2v. 1906. Dutton.

Herbert (1810–61) was an English statesman and a man of peculiarly attractive personality and character. His connection with the War office, where he rendered his most important service, covered the period of the Crimean war.

Herrick, Robert, 1591–1674. 92 H477m

Moorman, Frederic William. Robert Herrick; a biographical & critical study. 1910. Lane.

Patient and minute research has not enabled Mr Moorman to add anything distinctly new to the story of Herrick's life, but he has given a very readable critical study of his poems.

Hiester, Joseph. r974.8 P3993 v.16

Richards, Henry Melchior Muhlenberg. Governor Joseph Hiester; a historical sketch. 1907. (In Pennsylvania-German Society. Proceedings and addresses, v.16 [pt.3].)

Stephen Higginson (1743–1828) was a Salem merchant, the grandfather of the author. He was active in the suppression of Shay's rebellion.

Hill, George Birkbeck. 92 H552

Letters; arranged by his daughter Lucy Crump. 1906. Arnold.

The most important literary work of Hill (1835–1903) was the editing of Boswell's Johnson.

"They cannot in fairness be ranked high in epistolary literature, but with the connecting bits of biography they give us some insight into an impressively though not winningly individual character, and furnish a sufficiently detailed account of a scholarly career more than creditable in its achievements and not lacking in heroic and pathetic features...We should be duly thankful for the glimpses we get of Swinburne, Burne-Jones, and other interesting men, and for some of Dr. Hill's frank utterances on literature and politics...There are a few capital sayings and anecdotes." Nation, 1907.

Hincks, Sir Francis. 92 B195l

Leacock, Stephen Butler. Baldwin, LaFontaine, Hincks; responsible government. 1907. Morang. (Makers of Canada.)

v.2. Flügeladjutant unter Friedrich Wilhelm IV und König Wilhelm, 1856–63.
v.3. Die kriege 1864 und 1866.—Friedenszeit bis 1870.
v.4. Der krieg 1870/71.—Reise nach Russland.

"The interest excited by the Memoirs of Prince Chlodwig zu Hohenlohe-Schillingsfürst has thrown into the background those of the general of artillery, Prince Kraft zu Hohenlohe-Ingelfingen, who belonged to an older branch of the same family...The work is valuable as a contribution to the history of Germany in the latter half of the nineteenth century, and especially as a record of events leading up to the establishment of the German empire." Nation, 1907.

Hohenlohe-Schillingsfürst, Chlodwig Karl Viktor, fürst zu. 92 H689

Memoirs; authorised by Prince Alexander of Hohenlohe-Schillingsfuerst and ed. by Friedrich Curtius, English ed. supervised by G. W. Chrystal. 2v. 1906. Macmillan.

Prince Hohenlohe (1819–1901) was one of the founders of German unity. From 1866 to 1870 he was Bavarian minister of foreign affairs and chancellor of the German empire, 1894–1900. His intimate political association with Bismarck enabled him to contribute much of interest to the story of that statesman's long career and final downfall.

"They deserve to take rank among the few personal records left by the actors in great episodes which help to make their genesis and development more intelligible to later times...The book is extremely well translated and is to be recommended without reserve to all students of European history not by reason of any startling revelations it contains...but because it throws much light on a complicated and important series of events and is the record of an upright, courageous and far-seeing statesman." Saturday review, 1906.

Hook, Theodore Edward. 92 H7732b

Barham, Richard Harris Dalton. Life and remains of Theodore Edward Hook. 2v. 1849. Bentley.

Hook (1788–1841) was an English novelist and humorist, the editor of "John Bull," a scurrilous but very facetious and at one time powerful journal. He was master of a low style of humor, and the most brilliant improvisatore, whether with the pen or at the piano, that his country has seen. Condensed from Dictionary of national biography.

Hopkins, William. r92 H786p

Pennsylvania—Constitutional convention, 1872. Obituary addresses on the occasion of the death of William Hopkins of Washington county, delivered March 6, 1873. 1873. Lippincott.

Hopkins (1804–73) was one of the most prominent citizens of Washington county. He served for several terms in the state legislature and was in 1872 elected a member of the convention to revise the constitution of Pennsylvania.

Hopper, Isaac Tatem. 92 H788c

Child, Mrs Lydia Maria (Francis). Isaac T. Hopper; a true life. 1853. Jewett.

Hopper (1771–1852) was a philanthropist, member of the Society of Friends and an ardent abolitionist. The book contains many stories concerning the fugitive slaves whom he befriended.

Horace. r92 H793m

Milman, Henry Hart. Life of Quintus Horatius Flaccus. 1854.

"It is...both well written and—what with such a subject is of essential importance—gracefully and genially conceived, and should be taken into account by every subsequent editor of the Roman Lyrist." Edinburgh review, 1850.

Horner, Francis. 92 H811

Memoirs and correspondence; ed. by Leonard Horner. 2v. 1853. Little.

Howell, James. 92 H856

Epistolæ Ho-elianæ; or, Familiar letters, with an introduction by Agnes Repplier. 2v. 1907. Houghton.

Howell (1594?–1666) was one of the greatest travelers of his day, a friend of Ben Jonson, an accomplished linguist and an outspoken loyalist. Charles II created for him the position of historiographer royal, which he retained until his death. He is one of the earliest as well as one of the most delightful of the succession of English letter-writers.

"Philosophic reflection, political, social and domestic anecdote, scientific speculation, are all intermingled with attractive ease in the correspondence which he professes to have addressed to men of all ranks and degrees of intimacy...But the 'familiar epistles' as a whole, although of much autobiographic interest, cannot rank high as an historical authority." Dictionary of national biography.

Hassard, John Rose Greene. Life of John Hughes, first archbishop of New York, with extracts from his private correspondence. 1866. Appleton.

Archbishop Hughes was noted for his skill in debate and his warm defense of the Roman Catholic church against attacks. These public controversies and discussions his biographer has described at considerable length.

Hugo, Victor. 92 H899ba

Barbou, Alfred. Victor Hugo and his time; tr. from the French by E. E. Frewer. 1882. Harper.

"Full circumstantial and interesting account of the life of the poet and of the circumstances of the production of his poems...Dumas' Memoirs, Gautier's Histoire du Romantisme...are drawn upon, as they always must be, for the memorable days of 1830...On later days not less noteworthy for their literary productiveness, if hardly as interesting in point of biography, M. Barbou has much that is curious and readable... All the poet's residences from Feuillantines to the Avenue d'Eylau are pleasantly described." George Saintsbury, in Academy, 1882.

Contains portraits, views of the poet's homes, illustrations from his works and several reproductions of his own drawings.

Huntington, Frederic Dan, bp. 92 H945

Memoir and letters [ed.] by A. S. Huntington. 1906. Houghton.

"Bibliography," p.431.

When Bishop Huntington (1819–1904) first entered the ministry he was a Unitarian. Later his views changed and he became rector of an Episcopal church in Boston and from 1869 until his death he was bishop of Central New York. The memoir goes very little into the discussion of theological questions, but shows rather the man as his family and intimate friends knew him. The glimpses which one gets of his early life and later summers spent in Hadley, Massachusetts are particularly delightful.

Comprehensive summary of a considerable body of literature on Ibsen, containing a sketch of his life, detailed synopses of his plays, a variety of selected comment and interpretation, and a liberal proportion of the author's own views, which often show strong common sense and a power of discrimination. Condensed from Nation, 1908.

Ignatius de Loyola, St. 92 I175t

Thompson, Francis. Saint Ignatius Loyola; ed. by J. H. Pollen. 1909. Burns.

"The story of the great Spanish nobleman who became 'a fool for Christ's sake,' has been told over and over again; and nothing new could be looked for in Francis Thompson's book, except the form in which the well-known events would be clothed... As was to be expected, in this narrative of St. Ignatius not a shred of its romance and poetry has escaped the singer of 'The Hound of Heaven.' With a wealth of imagery, which sometimes even usurps the function of poetry, he carries us smoothly on from one event of Ignatian history to another." Catholic world, 1910.

"Bibliography," p.315–322.

Sympathetic narrative of Jacqueline's stormy, melodramatic career. In spite of the author's wide reading and signal industry, the princess's personality remains somewhat shadowy, and the volume is more valuable as a consistent account of the methods by which Burgundian power was built up in the Netherlands. Many illustrations.

Jusserand, Jean Jules. Romance of a king's life; tr. from the French by M. R. 1896. Unwin.

"The substance of this sketch of the energetic career of King James [James I of Scotland] is a paraphrase of the 'King's Quair' combined with an account of the mission of Regnault Girard to Scotland in 1435–36 for the purpose of taking back to France the Princess Margaret, who was to become Dauphiness." Athenæum, 1897.

Jaricot, Pauline Marie. 92 J194m

Maurin, Julia. Pauline Marie Jaricot, foundress of the Association for the Propagation of the Faith & of the Living Rosary; tr. from the French by E. Speppard. 1906. Benziger.

Pauline Marie Jaricot (1799–1862) was the daughter of a wealthy silk weaver of Lyons. The Association for the Propagation of the Faith was founded to aid Roman Catholic missions and the Living Rosary was a devotional association. She was also interested in enterprises for the improvement of the condition of the working classes.

"It is the life of one of those women who recall, in a less conspicuous way, St. Catharine of Siena...She resembled her in this: that being a single woman, living at home a quiet, obscure religious life, she yet left a conspicuous mark on the organization of the vast Church to which she belonged." Athenæum, 1906.

Eminent classical scholar (1841–1905), from 1889 until his death regius professor of Greek at the University of Cambridge.

Jefferson, Thomas. 92 J2323d

Domestic life of Thomas Jefferson; comp. from family letters and reminiscences, by his great-granddaughter, S. N. Randolph. 1871. Harper.

"When the great collection of Jefferson's manuscripts was sold to the United States government, there was reserved a mass of papers which were deemed to be of such a private nature as to possess no value in the national archives, and to belong more properly to the family. These eventually came into the possession of Jefferson's great-granddaughter, and they form the raison d'être of this book. It possesses the merits and demerits which might be expected, the documents being of positive value, and the family recollections and traditions of distinct interest; but the book is faulty in method, being both ill-proportioned and disjointed. It is, therefore, far more valuable to the maker than to the reader of history." Larned's Literature of American history.

Jefferson, Thomas. qr92 J2323

Germantown letters, together with other papers relating to his stay in Germantown during the month of November 1793, by C. F. Jenkins. 1906. Campbell.

During the epidemic of yellow fever in Philadelphia in 1793 Congress met at Germantown. Jefferson was then secretary of state and about 60 of his letters written at that time, including both personal and official correspondence, have been here gathered together. An oration is included which was delivered by the principal of the Germantown Academy shortly after Jefferson's death.

Cockburn, Henry Thomas, lord. Life of Lord Jeffrey, with a selection from his correspondence. 2v. in 1. 1856. Lippincott.

Lord Jeffrey (1773–1850) was a lawyer and critic, at one time editor of the "Edinburgh review," which became under his rule the leading organ of public opinion and the most dreaded of critical censors. He criticized with great severity the new school of poetry represented by Wordsworth, Shelley, Byron and Coleridge.

Jerome Napoleon, king of Westphalia. 92 J2812m

Martinet, André. Jérôme Napoléon, roi de Westphalie. 1902.

Too much in the style of a panegyric and not sufficiently critical; but it contains many documents taken from the national archives. Includes also many interesting details on the short-lived kingdom of Westphalia and accounts of the many conspiracies which took place there. Condensed from Nation, 1902.

Jerome Napoleon, king of Westphalia—continued. 92 J2812m

Jewett, Sarah Orne. 92 J316j

Letters; ed. by Annie Fields. 1911. Houghton.

These letters, addressed to various friends in America and England, have the unusual qualities which give distinction to Miss Jewett's stories. They are full of character and charm, and reveal her love of nature, impressions of foreign travel, literary likings, keen criticism of books, and a rare capacity for friendship.

Joan of Arc. 92 J329b

Bangs, Mary Rogers. Jeanne d'Arc, the Maid of France. 1910. Houghton.

"Her narrative eschews controversy and gives a purely objective statement of the facts as ascertained by recent research, couched, it is true, in the language of enthusiasm, but not colored by any attempt at systematic explanation." Nation, 1910.

Joan of Arc. 92 J329fr

France, Anatole, (pseud. of Jacques Anatole Thibault). Life of Joan of Arc; a translation by Winifred Stephens. 2v. 1909.

While nowhere calling in question the sincerity of his heroine, M. France belittles the part she played in the public events of 1429–30. He attempts to explain away all the spiritual side of her history and represents the Maid as an heroic but weak creature, a visionary, whose illusions physical science can account for. He attempts to clear away the mystery that surrounds her life by advancing the theory that she acted under the advice of some unknown person.

Joan of Arc. 92 J329la

Lang, Andrew. The Maid of France; the story of the life and death of Jeanne d'Arc. 1909. Longmans.

Written by an ardent admirer of Joan of Arc, who is conceived as saintly, brave, of high intelligence, a natural leader of men. This view is vigorously upheld against those of some other historians, notably that of Anatole France in his "Vie de Jeanne d'Arc," which is subjected to a severe and evidently merited criticism. Portraits, maps.

"A strong, clear, well-ordered brief, and will be an invaluable document for the next biographer of the Maid." Nation, 1909.

Smith, Sydney Armitage-. John of Gaunt, king of Castile and Leon, duke of Aquitaine and Lancaster, earl of Derby, Lincoln and Leicester, seneschal of England. 1904. Constable.

"Sources and authorities," p.13–18.

"He has done much to reconcile apparent inconsistencies in the career of the father of the first Lancastrian king and to unravel the tangled skein of English politics in the last quarter of the fourteenth century...His analysis of Lancaster's policy during the early years of his nephew's reign is well worked out, and with the help of the unprinted register of the duchy he clears up some obscure points...The chapter on the Lancastrian estates brings out very clearly the enormous political influence wielded by their owner, and a map, which is evidently the result of much labour, shows how widespread they were." English historical review, 1905.

John, Griffith. 92 J356t

Thompson, Ralph Wardlaw. Griffith John; the story of 50 years in China. 1906. Armstrong.

Johnson, John Albert. 92 J362d

Day, Frank A. & Knappen, T. M. Life of John Albert Johnson, three times governor of Minnesota. 1910. Forbes.

John A. Johnson (1861–1909) was thrice elected as Democratic governor of Republican Minnesota. This story of his life, told by two of his close associates, is not intended as a critical biography but as a memorial. It is too early to measure the man's influence or determine his place in the history of the nation, but the sympathetic picture here presented by those who knew and loved him is well worth preserving. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Thompson, Silvanus Phillips. Life of William Thomson, baron Kelvin of Largs. 2v. 1910. Macmillan.

"Bibliography," v.2, p.1223-1274.

Lord Kelvin (1824-1907), one of the very few men raised to the British peerage for purely scientific achievements, was professor of natural philosophy at Glasgow University from 1846 to 1899. The direct successor of Newton, he launched into the world the principle of conservation of energy, on which the whole fabric of modern physics was based. The world knows him best as the man who has shown how practically to measure electric and magnetic quantities, and has made it possible to link together distant continents by the electric telegraph.

"Full and authoritative account of his life and work. This biography was begun during the life of Lord Kelvin, and, in fact, had his coöperation; after his death, the original sketch was greatly extended by the materials furnished from his letters, diaries, and other documents put at the biographer's disposal. In addition to the abundant record thus available, Professor Thompson had the high privilege of being a personal friend of the great physicist. The result is a book which will appeal strongly not only to men of science, who have been eagerly awaiting it, but also to all those who have an interest in the thought of the nineteenth century." Nation, 1910.

La Farge, John. 92 L142c

Cortissoz, Royal. John La Farge; a memoir and a study. 1911. Houghton.

It should be said in praise and definition of Mr Cortissoz's adroit and sympathetic study that no opinion and no phrase in it would disappoint La Farge himself. It gives admirably the subtle and vivid thinker, the fastidious talker, the delightful man of the world, who was perhaps the greatest social figure in America of our time. Neither a record nor a criticism, but a character study. Aim is to make us hear and see the man; a knowledge of his works is presupposed and the delightful effect of the book depends precisely upon this limitation of the field. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Biographies of three Canadian political leaders, Baldwin (1804–58), LaFontaine (1807–64), and Hincks (1807–85).

Lamartine, Alphonse de. 92 L178d

Domvile, Lady Margaret (St. Lawrence). Life of Lamartine. 1888. Paul.

Places rather more emphasis on Lamartine's political than on his literary career. "It is to her credit that she has recognized his limitations and defects. She has not tried to make of him a great statesman: she has succeeded in demonstrating the nobility of his character...Outside of minor inaccuracies of which there are but few, her book gives, in addition to the life of Lamartine, a very good picture of French political conditions during the fifty years succeeding the Revolution." Nation, 1889.

Lamb, Charles. 92 L179p

La Touche, Mrs Maria (Price). 92 L358

Letters of a noble woman (Mrs La Touche of Harristown); ed. by M. F. Young. 1908. Allen.

Mrs La Touche (1824–1906) was an Irishwoman of distinction and charm, whose daughter Rose was the pupil and friend of Ruskin. Several of the letters in this volume are written to Ruskin and to his niece Mrs Severn. The greater part of Mrs La Touche's long life was spent on her estate in County Kildare. Her letters tell of her daily life, her garden, her reading and other occupations.

Lawrence, Amos. r92 L4222l

Extracts from the diary and correspondence of Amos Lawrence, with a brief account of some incidents in his life; ed. by his son W. R. Lawrence. 1855. Gould.

Amos Lawrence (1786–1852) was an American merchant and philanthropist, largely identified with the cotton manufacturing industry in New England. These extracts are chosen chiefly with a view to illustrating his high Christian character.

Lawrence, Sir Thomas. 92 L426k

Knapp, Oswald Greenwaye, ed. An artist's love story, told in the letters of Sir Thomas Lawrence, Mrs Siddons and her daughters. 1904. Longmans.

"Not of overmuch importance as a contribution to artistic and dramatic biography. Its main theme, the double courtship by Sir Thomas Lawrence of Mrs. Siddons' two daughters, Sally and Maria, has long since been established...The value of this correspondence consists, in fact, in its repeated illustration of bygone manners and habits of thought." Athenæum, 1904.

Illustrated by several reproductions of portraits by Lawrence.

Lawrence, Sir Thomas. 92 L426w

Williams, D. E. Life and correspondence of Sir Thomas Lawrence. 2v. 1831. Colburn.

Layard, Sir Austen Henry. 92 L436

Autobiography and letters from his childhood until his appointment as H. M. ambassador at Madrid; ed. by W. N. Bruce, with a chapter on his parliamentary career by Sir Arthur Otway. 2v. 1903. Murray.

Layard (1817–94) was an English traveler, archæologist and diplomatist whose reputation rests chiefly on his excavations of Nineveh.

Lear, Edward. 92 L459

Letters of Edward Lear to Chichester Fortescue, Lord Carlingford and Frances, countess Waldegrave; ed. by Lady Strachey. 1908. Unwin.

Lear (1812–88) is known chiefly as the author of "The book of nonsense," but he was a considerable water-color artist as well, and a man of interesting personality, as is shown in this collection of personal letters to his nearest friends. They were written from 1849 to 1864, most of which time he spent on the continent. Illustrated with reproductions in color and black and white of Lear's paintings and sketches.

Jones, John William. Personal reminiscences, anecdotes and letters of Gen. Robert E. Lee. 1875. Appleton.

As chaplain in the Army of Northern Virginia and later as one of the chaplains in Washington and Lee University, of which Lee was president, 1865–70, the author came into rather frequent personal contact with him. Lee's character and private life are dwelt upon more fully than his military career.

Lee, Gen. Robert Edward. 92 L5261m

McCabe, James Dabney, (pseud. Edward Winslow Martin). Life and campaigns of General Robert E. Lee. 1866. National Pub. Co.

Devoted almost entirely to Lee's campaigns. The author, although a Southerner, was bitter towards Jefferson Davis, to whose blunders he attributed many of the Southern disasters.

Lee, Gen. Robert Edward. 92 L5261p

Page, Thomas Nelson. Robert E. Lee, the Southerner. 1908. Scribner.

Hervey, Arthur. Franz Liszt and his music. 1911. Lane.

"Principal compositions," p.161–168; "Literary works," p.169–171; "Bibliography," p.173–176.

Mr Hervey has devoted the larger part of his book to a careful and very musicianly analysis of Liszt's chief works for piano, orchestra and voice, but in the brief account of Liszt's life he has been admirably successful in bringing out the nobility of his character. Condensed from Academy, 1911.

Liszt, Franz. 92 L738hu

Huneker, James Gibbons. Franz Liszt. 1911. Scribner.

Certain aspects of Liszt's life and art are studied without strict adherence to chronological sequence. The result, though it falls short of the author's original plan for an exhaustive biography, is admirable and the book gives a vivid impression of this many-sided musical genius, his career and the adulation which he received. There are 126 pages of extracts from the writings of men and women who have known Liszt, analyses of some of his most important compositions and numerous illustrations.

Alison, Sir Archibald. Lives of Lord Castlereagh and Sir Charles Stewart, the second and third marquesses of Londonderry, with annals of contemporary events in which they bore a part, from the original papers of the family. 3v. 1861. Blackwood.

Authoritative account, though considered unduly laudatory. The brothers were both eminent in English politics and diplomacy in the first half of the 19th century, Castlereagh being by far the more notable. The younger marquis had a long and eventful military career, having engaged in 25 battles between 1796 and 1814.

Norton, Charles Eliot. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow; a sketch of his life, together with Longfellow's chief autobiographical poems. 1907. Houghton.

Contains, besides the sketch of his life, those of his shorter poems which are referred to in the narrative, also those which have a distinctly autobiographical character and those which relate to his special friends and to the places of his birth and abode.

Louis XIV, king of France. 92 M8592w

Williams, Hugh Noel. Madame de Montespan and Louis XIV. 1910. Scribner.

Smaller and less fully illustrated edition of the elaborate quarto which appeared in 1903 (q92 M859w).

"Remains, after seven years, the only complete and accurate account in English of the most famous and most magnificent of all French royal favorites." Nation, 1911.

Louis XVII, titular king of France. 92 L9274e

Evans, Mrs Elizabeth Edson (Gibson). Story of Louis XVII of France. 1893. Sonnenschein.

"Bibliography," p.359–360.

Although it has now been proved that the son of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette died in 1795, various pretenders to the title appeared after that time. The book, which is written especially to champion the claims of Eleazer Williams, the American missionary to the Indians, devotes a large amount of space to the life of Karl Wilhelm Naundorff who also claimed to be the dauphin.

Louis XVII, titular king of France. 92 L9274w

Louisa Auguste Wilhelmine Amalie, queen of Prussia. q92 L927b

Bailleu, Paul. Königin Luise; ein lebensbild. 1908.

"Die zeitgenössischen bildnisse der Königin Luise," von Paul Seidel, p.358–384.

This biography of the beautiful and well beloved queen of Prussia (1776–1810) is semi-popular in style, yet based on good sources and finely illustrated.

Louisa Auguste Wilhelmine Amalie, queen of Prussia. 92 L927m

Moffat, Mary Maxwell. Queen Louisa of Prussia. [1906.] Methuen.

"Sources of information concerning the life of Queen Louisa," p.311–312.

Readable and sympathetic account of the life of the famous Prussian queen (1776–1810). The author has consulted German authorities and made use of recently published letters of the queen. Contains portraits.

Lovat, Simon Fraser, lord. 92 L938b

Burton, John Hill. Lives of Simon, lord Lovat and Duncan Forbes of Culloden, from original sources. 1847. Chapman.

Lord Lovat (1667?–1747) sided with the government in the Jacobite uprising of 1715, but with the rebels in 1745–46. He was captured at the battle of Culloden, tried for treason and executed. Forbes (1685–1747) was a Scottish judge and a warm supporter of the government.

"He gives...authorities which show an extent of research, among printed and unprinted materials, for which...we were not prepared...The value of his labours can only be acknowledged by those who, by having studied this portion of our history, can estimate the skill with which he has compressed so much into so small a compass." North British review, 1847.

Low, Will Hicok. 92 L952

Chronicle of friendships, 1873–1900. 1908. Scribner.

Recollections by an American painter of his life and experience in Paris and in New York. Of particular interest is the attractive and vivid picture of the life, the feelings and sentiments of artists and art students in Paris and on their summer expeditions. Many well-known men are numbered among his friends, notably Robert Louis Stevenson, his cousin "Bob," and Augustus Saint-Gaudens. Many illustrations.

Lowell, Charles Russell. 92 L956

Life and letters [ed.] by E. W. Emerson. 1907. Houghton.

Lowell (1835–64) was a nephew of the poet. At the outbreak of the Civil war he applied for a commission in the regular army. He showed genuine military ability and his commission to be brigadier-general was signed on the day that he was killed at the battle of Cedar Creek. To a singular degree everyone who came in contact with Lowell seems to have felt the fineness of his spirit. Mr Emerson prefaces the letters, many of which were written to his wife Josephine Shaw Lowell and to his friends Thomas Wentworth Higginson and John Murray Forbes, with a biographical sketch.

Sehlbrede, G. E. Wittenberg and its association with the reformation of Germany; introduction by W. L. McEwan. 1906. Winston.

"The writer of this little book has told, in simple and interesting way, of his visit to Wittenburg...He takes us through the rooms of Luther's house and the College and the Church; and as he lingers in each place gathers up in their order the events...that were associated with them. He makes the figure of Luther stand out in its rugged simplicity and greatness." Introduction.

Luther, Martin. 92 L982sm

Smith, Preserved. Life and letters of Martin Luther. 1911. Houghton.

"Bibliography," p.433–470.

Unlike the usual lives of Luther which represent him chiefly as a theologian and defier of popes, this admirable biography treats him as a human being. Author has drawn largely for his material upon Luther's correspondence, in which he is revealed as a plain, earnest, sensible man with a childlike, religious faith and a keen sense of humor. Illustrated.

Luther, Martin. 92 L982st

Stoughton, John. Homes and haunts of Luther; ed. by C. H. Irwin. 1903. Religious Tract Soc. (Anti-papal library.)

Lyell, Sir Charles. 92 L987

Life, letters and journals; ed. by Mrs [K. M.] Lyell. 2v. 1881. Murray.

"Geological papers and works by Sir Charles Lyell," v.2, p.479–482.

Noted English geologist (1797–1875).

"The two volumes contain a vast mass of information which will be invaluable to the future historian of the progress of natural science during the nineteenth century, or to Lyell's future biographer; but his 'Life' as we understand the term, is not to be found in them...The notes are few and far between...the meagre fragments of personal narrative which occasionally head the chapters read like quotations from an indifferent article in a biographical dictionary...On the other hand, those who know Lyell's books will be delighted with his letters. He wrote in a good style...and he described what he saw and heard very graphically and well." Saturday review, 1882.

Lyndhurst, John Singleton Copley, lord. 92 L992m

Martin, Sir Theodore. Life of Lord Lyndhurst; from letters and papers in possession of his family. 1883. Murray.

Lord Lyndhurst (1772–1863), the son of Copley the famous artist, was a brilliant lawyer who at three different periods served as lord chancellor of England. He destroyed almost all of his own papers and letters, but his biographer has acquired a good deal of material on his public career and corrects the misstatements made by Lord Campbell in his life of Lord Lyndhurst.

Mackenzie, William Lyon. 92 M182l

Lindsey, Charles. William Lyon Mackenzie; ed. with numerous additions by G. G. S. Lindsey. 1908. Morang. (Makers of Canada.)

Mackenzie (1795–1861), Canadian politician and journalist, violent in support of popular government, led a small band of insurgents against Toronto in 1837. Although the movement ended in failure, it called the attention of the home government to colonial abuses and resulted in the establishment of responsible government in Canada.

McKinney, David. r92 M185i

In memoriam David McKinney, D. D., born Oct. 22, 1795, died May 28, 1879. [Pittsburgh Board of Colportage. Pittsburgh.]

McLoughlin, John. 92 M199h

Holman, Frederick Van Voorhies. Dr John McLoughlin, the father of Oregon. 1907. Clark.

From 1824 until his death in 1857, the story of McLoughlin's life is closely connected with the history of Oregon. At the time of the union of the Northwest and the Hudson Bay companies he assumed charge of the company's interests in Oregon and was an important influence in settling the disagreements which arose between the English and the American pioneers.

Macmillan, Alexander. 92 M2142g

Graves, Charles Larcom. Life and letters of Alexander Macmillan. 1910. Macmillan.

Alexander Macmillan (1818–96) was the younger brother of Daniel Macmillan who founded the publishing house of that name. Apart from the personality of the subject, the biography is valuable as giving sidelights from an unusual quarter on the literary life of the last century. His letters as well as the Macmillan lists reflect the history of Victorian ideas from 1860 to 1890.

Macmillan, Daniel. 92 M214h

Hughes, Thomas. Memoir of Daniel Macmillan. 1882. Macmillan.

Macmillan (1813–57) was the founder of the publishing house which bears his name. The interest of this memoir does not lie in its narration of outward happenings, for Macmillan's life was uneventful, but in its revelation of a character singularly noble and attractive.

Malatesta, Sigismondo Pandolfo, da Rimini. 92 M281h

Hutton, Edward. Sigismondo Pandolfo Malatesta, lord of Rimini; a study of a 15th century Italian despot. 1906. Dent.

An excellent book, worthy to be read by every lover of good English. Mr Hutton has set himself to write fact as fiction, endeavoring to give an impression of the first part of the 15th century without using a single incident which is not authenticated. His subject is that strangest and yet most typical of Italian despots; and his mouthpiece is a certain Pietro Sanseverino, a wholly imaginary person, but one, nevertheless, who tells the story of his patron's life as seriously as Monsieur Yriarte himself has done, and certainly with greater accuracy. Condensed from Nation, 1906.

Sir Horace Mann (1701–86) was for 46 years British envoy at Florence. During this time he kept up a steady correspondence with his friend Horace Walpole.

"Lord Dover describes the letters on Mann's side as 'voluminous, but particularly devoid of interest, as they are written in a dry, heavy style, and consist almost entirely of trifling details of forgotten Florentine history'...Their contents are summarised in two volumes published by Dr. Doran...They abound in accounts of serenades, fêtes, masquerades, court ceremonial and Italian eccentricities." Dictionary of national biography.

Mansfield, Richard. 92 M343w

Wilstach, Paul. Richard Mansfield, the man and the actor. 1908. Scribner.

"Bibliography," p.485–490.

Mr Wilstach was associated with Mr Mansfield (1857–1907) for many years, was devoted to his interests and writes of him with an unwavering and self-evident partiality. Though packed with detail and somewhat disorderly in arrangement, the book succeeds in revealing his powerful personality and versatile genius, and affords glimpses, through the letters to Mrs Mansfield and his son, of a tender human side which was little known to the world.

Mansfield, Richard. 92 M343wi

Winter, William. Life and art of Richard Mansfield, with selections from his letters. 2v. 1910. Moffat.

"Worthy memorial of a brilliant actor by his trusted friend and critic. Volume 1 is devoted to the life, practically commencing with Mansfield's initial New York success in 1883; volume 2 takes up his important rôles in order. The book is authoritative in its statements of fact, sympathetic and just in its estimate of Mansfield's complex character and the nature and scope of his genius, and contains examples of felicitous description and penetrating analysis that rank it with Mr Winter's best critical work. The appendix contains a forty-three page chronology and a note on 'The gentle art of plagiarism,' referring to Paul Wilstach, whose interesting life of Mansfield, though fuller on the biographical side, will be critically superseded by this authorized biography. The illustrations consist mostly of portraits of Mansfield in his various characters." A. L. A. booklist, 1910.

Princess Marguerite (1480–1530), the daughter of Maximilian I and aunt of Charles V, was one of the foremost figures of her time. The book presents her public rather than her private life.

Margaret of Austria, regent of the Netherlands. 92 M3824t

Tremayne, Eleanor E. First governess of the Netherlands, Margaret of Austria. 1908. Putnam.

"Catalogue of manuscripts in Margaret of Austria's library at Malines," p.330–334.

The story of her various courtships and marriages carries the reader into almost every country of western Europe. As regent of the Netherlands for her nephew, the emperor Charles V, she was able and successful; the "Ladies' Peace" of Cambray attests her ability as a diplomatist; the church of Brou, her skill as an architect; her patronage of Erasmus and the eulogies of Jean Lemaire de Belges, her literary appreciation and skill as a poet. A welcome addition to the lighter biographical literature of the 16th century. Condensed from Nation, 1909.

Other studies: Andreas Vesalius.—Conrad Gesner.—Cyrano de Bergerac.—College work.—English for Englishwomen.—Gabriel Harvey.—Influence of the Celt on English literature.—An old student of English.—The opening of Cædmon's paraphrase.

The life of Marot (1495–1544) is depicted against the background of his time—the France of Francis I and of Margaret of Angoulême.

Marryat, Capt. Frederick. 92 M412m

Marryat, Florence. Life and letters of Captain Marryat. 2v. 1872. Appleton.

Marryat (1792–1848) was a novelist and a captain in the English navy. The biography is written by his daughter.

"It does not present a complete portrait of her father; the scanty material is supplemented by too many trifling details." Dictionary of national biography.

Marsh, Grant Prince. 92 M413h

Hanson, Joseph Mills. Conquest of the Missouri; being the story of the life and exploits of Captain Grant Marsh. 1909. McClurg.

"Bibliography," p.437–440.

"A book strangely ill-named. Anything more unconquered than the great Missouri it would be hard to find; and in what sense the career of a steamboat man who, for nearly sixty years, has experienced its snags, sand-bars, and floods, can be called a conquest of the river, it would be hard to say. The book is the story of Grant Marsh, who, beginning as a cabin-boy, in 1846, at the age of twelve, has sailed the Mississippi and its tributaries almost to the present hour. It is a picturesque and instructive record." Nation, 1910.

Marshall, John, chief justice. 92 M417d

Mary, queen of Scots. 92 M439he

Henderson, Thomas F. Mary, queen of Scots, her environment and tragedy; a biography. 2v. 1905. Scribner.

Both a narrative biography and a critical and impartial study, based on a thorough mastery of the literature of the subject. Portraits.

"A logical theory of the fundamental causes of her failure is developed with unusual force and rigidity." American historical review, 1906.

Mary, queen of Scots. r92 M439r

Read, Conyers, ed. Bardon papers; documents relating to the imprisonment & trial of Mary queen of Scots; ed. for the Royal Historical Society, with a prefatory note by Charles Cotton. 1909. (Camden Society. Publications, 3d ser. v.17.)

"The papers (so called from having been for many years kept at a house of this name in Somersetshire) are concerned with the imprisonment, trial, and execution of Mary Queen of Scots...A very lucid account of the whole relation of Mary to Elizabeth and English politics is to be found in Dr. Read's introduction." Spectator, 1910.

Biography, in story form, of the noted Jewish philosopher (1729–86). Portrays the chief scenes of his childhood and his experiences in Dessau and Berlin.

Mendelssohn-Bartholdy, Felix. 92 M6161

Letters from 1833 to 1847; ed. by Paul Mendelssohn Bartholdy and Carl Mendelssohn Bartholdy, with a catalogue of all his musical compositions, comp. by Julius Rietz; tr. by Lady Wallace. 1868. Leypoldt.

Mendelssohn-Bartholdy, Felix. 92 M616he

Hensel, Sebastian, ed. Mendelssohn family (1729–1847), from letters and journals; tr. by Carl Klingemann and an American collaborator, with a notice by George Grove. 2v. in 1. 1881. Harper.

"Compiled from journals and family papers, and containing 73 letters or portions of letters hitherto [1879] unpublished. The title of the book would perhaps be more appropriately 'Fanny Hensel and her family;' but it is a most valuable addition to our knowledge of Felix...The notices and letters of Abraham Mendelssohn are especially new and valuable." Grove's Dictionary of music.

Meredith, George. 92 M635h

Hammerton, John Alexander. George Meredith in anecdote and criticism. 1909. Kennerley.

Large collection of extracts from newspapers and critical reviews, woven into a continuous narrative. They deal with Meredith's life-history, with his walks and talks —so large an element in his life—his memorable friendships, and contemporary opinions on his work. Distinctly interesting and valuable to the student and future biographer.

Meredith, Owen, (pseud. of Edward Robert Bulwer-Lytton, earl of Lytton). 92 M635

Personal & literary letters; ed. by Lady Betty Balfour. 2v. 1906. Longmans.

Even readers indifferent to "Lucile," the work by which Lord Lytton (1831–91) is best known, may find this a brilliant and engaging book. As a letter writer his style is clear and elegant, he gives glimpses of scores of notables from Daniel Webster to Sarah Bernhardt, and on all the many subjects he discusses his utterances are those of a thinker who was also a poet. Arranged by his daughter, who was also his intimate and sympathetic companion. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Metternich-Winneburg, Clemens Wenzel Nepomuk Lothar, fürst von. 92 M648s

Sandeman, G. A. C. Metternich. [1911.] Methuen.

On the whole the best life of Metternich which has yet appeared (1911). It enables the reader to realize the extent of his influence in the diplomatic history of Europe.

Michelet, Mme Athenaïs (Mialaret). 92 M666

Story of my childhood; tr. from the French by M. F. Curtis. 1867. Little.

The early years of Mme Michelet, wife of the French historian, were passed in the southern part of France. She writes delightfully and simply of their home life and of her childish experiences.

Michelet, Jules. 92 M6662m

Monod, Gabriel. Jules Michelet; études sur sa vie et ses œuvres, avec des fragments inédits. 1905.

"An illuminating book...Entering upon his duties in the spirit of an interpreter rather than of an annalist, M. Monod gives us seven admirable essays...along with copious excerpts from Michelet's journal and correspondence. The bulk of the volume centres in the historian's activities during the period 1839–51, though incidents of earlier and later life come into view from time to time." Nation, 1906.

Michelet, Jules. 92 R337m

Monod, Gabriel. Les maîtres de l'histoire; Renan, Taine, Michelet. [1894.]

Gardner, Monica M. Adam Mickiewicz, the national poet of Poland. 1911. Dent.

"List of the chief books I have used," p.301–302.

Miss Gardner writes with ample knowledge of her topic, after study not only of the works of Mickiewicz himself, but of the most important Polish treatises on his life and writings. She gives summaries and appreciations of his chief works, accompanied by dignified prose translations of their most striking passages, and she narrates the facts of his life simply and clearly. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Mifflin, Warner. 192 M676j

Justice, Hilda, comp. Life and ancestry of Warner Mifflin, Friend, philanthropist, patriot. 1905. Ferris.

Warner Mifflin (1745–98) was a Quaker and one of the early anti-slavery leaders. In 1774 he freed all his slaves and gave them compensation for past services. Through his labors most of the members of the Society of Friends emancipated their slaves.

Mill, John Stuart. 92 M687m

Letters of John Stuart Mill; ed. with an introduction by H. S. R. Elliot. 2v. 1910. Longmans.

"Some notes on the private life of John Stuart Mill," by Mary Taylor, v.1, p.39–46.

The interest of this correspondence, which covers the period from 1829 to 1873, is threefold. The letters tell much about Mill's own character which his autobiography does not reveal, they throw light on some of the leading literary figures of his time, including Carlyle, Sterling and Bulwer, and they give a clear and direct impression of the public questions of that day in England.

Mill, John Stuart. 92 M687b

Bain, Alexander. John Stuart Mill; a criticism, with personal recollections. 1882. Longmans.

Not a complete biography of Mill but an examination of his character and writings.

Miller, Sanderson. 92 M695d

Dickins, Lilian, & Stanton, Mary, ed. Eighteenth-century correspondence; the letters of Deane Swift and others to Sanderson Miller, esq., of Radway. 1910. Murray.

Sanderson Miller was an English country gentleman with a reputation as an amateur architect and a capacity for friendship of which these letters are a faithful record. They seldom deal with public affairs but are largely occupied with architectural matters, in regard to which Miller's friends often appealed to him for advice. Prominent among the letters are those of Deane Swift, cousin and biographer of the great dean. Miller's replies have not been preserved and we thus get a curiously reflected portrait of the man as he appears in the minds of his friends.

Mistral, Frédéric. 92 M744m

Memoirs; rendered into English by C. E. Maud; lyrics from the Provençal [tr.] by Alma Strettell. 1907. Baker.

Translation of "Mes origines" with an appendix continuing the history of Félibrige from 1859, where the memoirs end, to about 1907.

"It is a history of Provençal poetry and story, and of the men who revived the literary fame of their province; but still better and newer than all this, it is the true and wonderfully vivid picture of Frédéric Mistral's own childhood...of the adventures and friendships of his youth." Spectator, 1907.

Mocenigo was doge of Venice from 1414 to 1423, and Foscari, from 1423 to 1457. They were politically at variance, the former endeavoring to maintain the position of Venice by a policy of peace, the latter standing for an aggressive policy.

Modjeska, Mme Helena (Opido). 92 M765

Memories and impressions of Helena Modjeska; an autobiography. 1910. Macmillan.

"Interesting for its self-revelation of a fine and highly gifted personality and valuable for the light it throws upon the true secret of the writer's brilliant artistic success ...From the egotism which is the distinguishing mark of most theatrical autobiographies it is almost entirely free...But few of her admirers, perhaps, realize the trials and obstacles which this Polish actress had to overcome before she realized her youthful ambition of triumphing in Shakespeare on the English stage. They are all set down in this book, and constitute an engrossing and instructive story." Nation, 1910.

Molière, Jean Baptiste Poquelin. 92 M791m

Matthews, Brander. Molière; his life and his works. 1910. Scribner.

Contains also "La bonne comédie," by Austin Dobson.

Author, who is (1910) professor of dramatic literature at Columbia University, has given years of study to the making of this book. He sets forth the facts of Molière's life, stripped of all the legends that have gathered about it, and traces carefully his development as a dramatist and his intimate relation to the time in which he lived.

The author was the singing teacher of Moltke's nephew and a frequent visitor in the Moltke household.

"These recollections of one of last century's greatest personalities are set down with a certain naïveté, which however nowise detracts from their interest; and while they are very modestly put forward and do not for a moment claim to be a 'great book,' there is yet something Boswellian in their author's adoring attitude to Moltke." Outlook (London), 1907.

The first duke of Albemarle (1608–70) was influential in military affairs during the rule of Cromwell and the reign of Charles II.

"Of modern lives the most important is that by Guizot, originally published in 1837. Of this there are two translations, the first published in 1838, with valuable annotations by J. Stuart Wortley." Dictionary of national biography.

Montagu, Mrs Elizabeth (Robinson). 92 M8453

Elizabeth Montagu, the queen of the Blue-stockings; her correspondence from 1720 to 1761 [ed.] by her great-great-niece, E. J. Climenson. 2v. 1906. Dutton.

"There is a touch of the Paston letters about the innumerable quaint details of domestic life that crop up everywhere in the intimate letters of a woman to other women, which form the greater part of this correspondence...A wit, a scholar and a critic, she was no less notable as a hostess and local patroness. To be Mrs. Montagu was her profession; it was her hobby to wear the bas bleu." Outlook (London), 1906.

Life of the English poet and hymn-writer (1771–1854). The authors apparently made use of every scrap of material which they could find and the result is an extremely long-drawn-out biography.

Montrose, James Graham, marquis of. 92 M872n

Napier, Mark. Life and times of Montrose. [1840.] Oliver.

Montrose (1612–50) was a Scottish statesman and soldier who served in the Presbyterian army at the beginning of the civil war, but afterwards joined the king. He was captured while conducting an abortive Royalist descent on Scotland, and executed.

Napier's work is the fruit of much original research, but as an historical guide its value is much impaired by its controversial tone and violent language. Condensed from Dictionary of national biography.

Motley, John Lothrop. 92 M941m

John Lothrop Motley and his family; further letters and records; ed. by his daughter and H. S. Mildmay. 1910. Lane.

"The most important letters of the historian of the Dutch Republic were published by George William Curtis [1889]...but a considerable remnant has been in the family archives, and some important letters have in the interval come to light. These, with numerous letters by Mrs. Motley and Miss Lily Motley, now Lady Harcourt, make up a very interesting volume. All the Motleys were good letter-writers, and the wife and daughter kept abreast of all literary and political activities of the head of the family. So this book, though frankly made up of scraps, has a certain continuity, and covers in a glancing fashion the greater part of Motley's public life." Nation, 1910.

These recollections by a faithful attendant cover the period from 1847 to the poet's death in 1857. Also contains letters of de Musset and his mother, and rambling reminiscences of him by several friends.

Myers, Ned. 92 M994c

Cooper, James Fenimore. Ned Myers; or, A life before the mast, with an introduction by J. P. Keese. 1899. Putnam.

Mowhawk edition.

Myers sailed with Cooper on his first voyage. After an interval of 37 years they met again and the sailor related to the author his varied experiences on the sea.

"This work has often been falsely spoken of as a novel. It is, on the contrary, a truthful record, so far as dependence can be placed upon the word or the memory of the narrator." Lounsbury's James Fenimore Cooper.

Napoleon I, emperor of the French. 92 N129nj

The Corsican; a diary of Napoleon's life in his own words [ed. by R. M. Johnston]. 1910. Houghton.

"Passages selected from letters, state papers and conversations, and arranged chronologically under the dates to which they refer, not under the dates of utterance. They form an interesting but incomplete and disconnected autobiography, but not a 'diary' as the sub-title states. Its value is lessened by the editor's failure to mention sources and to tell what versions have gone to make up composite entries, and the absence of context renders many passages vague. A work of little or no historical value, but of decided interest as a psychological study." A. L. A. booklist, 1911.

Napoleon I, emperor of the French. r92 N129na

Napoleon's letters to Josephine, 1796–1812; for the first time collected and translated, with notes social, historical and chronological, from contemporary sources by H. F. Hall. 1901. Dent.

These letters are neither new nor of much importance. The framework of the book is an elaborate diary of Napoleonic and European history from 1796 to 1814, in which the correspondence is inserted in batches. Between February 1797 and May 1800, no letters are available, and another complete vacuum reaches from August 1811 to the date of Josephine's death in 1814. The collection may be accepted as generally authentic. The topics of the letters are always the weather, health, clothes, presents, debts, grumblings, and other intimate personal details, the whole written in an unaffected good-natured style. The exhaustive notes are a delightful omnium gatherum of Napoleonic lore, but are often foreign to the context. Condensed from Spectator, 1902.

Napoleon I, emperor of the French. q92 N129a

Abbott, John Stevens Cabot. History of Napoleon Bonaparte. 2v. 1883. Harper.

First published in 1855. Fully illustrated. Maps.

"This book has been read with more enthusiasm, and criticized with more severity, than perhaps any other life of Napoleon. The author was not simply an ardent, but a boundless, admirer of the emperor. His effort was to create an enthusiasm for his hero similar to that which he himself felt. He was not too particular in regard to his facts, but those which he made use of he arranged with such consummate skill as to captivate completely the judgment of the ignorant and the unwary." Adams's Manual of historical literature.

Gonnard, Philippe. Exile of St. Helena; the last phase in fact and fiction. 1909. Heinemann.

"Bibliography," p.251–258.

M. Gonnard devotes himself to the patient investigation of Napoleon's literary work, to his methods of composition, to his authorities, to the comparative value of the various versions of the memoirs, by means of which the Napoleonic legend was built up. He analyzes all the St. Helena literature, as well as the memorials of Las Casas, Montholon, O'Meara and the others, and shows its relation to the later history of the Bonapartist party.

Palmer, Mrs Alice (Freeman). 92 P194p

Palmer, George Herbert. Life of Alice Freeman Palmer. 1908. Houghton.

The work of Alice Freeman Palmer (1855–1902) was of historical importance in the development of education in America. Becoming president of Wellesley College at the age of 26, she shaped its policies in the direction they have since followed. She was a member of the Massachusetts State Board of Education and for three years dean of the Woman's Department of the University of Chicago. All these interests are fully treated in this biography, written by her husband, but they are subordinated to the intimate and penetrating study of Mrs Palmer as a woman.

Palmer, Alfred Herbert. Life and letters of Samuel Palmer, painter and etcher. 1892. Seeley.

"Catalogue of the exhibited works and the etchings of Samuel Palmer," p.405–422.

One of the most original and poetic of English landscape-painters and almost the last of the ideal school which was represented by Wilson and Turner. His series of exquisitely finished illustrations for Milton's "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso" are the supreme expression of his art.

Paris, Louis Philippe Albert d'Orléans, comte de. 92 P233f

Flers, Hyacinthe Camille Spiro François de Paule de La Motte-Ango, marquis de. Le comte de Paris; tr. by Constance Majendie. 1889. Allen.

The comte de Paris (1838–94), grandson of Louis Philippe, was claimant to the French throne and head of the Legitimist party in France. In 1862 he came to the United States, served on General McClellan's staff and afterwards wrote one of the most valuable of the many histories of the Civil war. This biography deals chiefly with his public and political life.

Parker, Theodore. 92 P242p

Autobiography, poems and prayers (Centenary edition); ed. with notes by Rufus Leighton. [1911.] Amer. Unitarian Assoc.

Included in the fragmentary autobiography are "The true idea of a Christian church," "The position and duty of a minister," and "Some account of my ministry." which contains an exposition of Mr Parker's creed, of his attitude toward public questions and references to the difficulties he encountered when he began to preach his doctrines. The copious notes contain much additional biographical information.

Wright, Thomas, principal of Cowper school, Olney. Life of Walter Pater. 2v. 1907. Everett.

"Bibliography of Walter Pater," v.2, p.254–264.

With the exception of one or two points, Mr Wright's two volumes bring to light no detail of real biographic significance not to be found in Mr Benson's volume, and few not adduced in Mr Greenslet's earlier and briefer study. The reader could arise from the closest perusal of the two volumes with little sense of Pater's peculiar and charming idiosyncrasy. It is, in short, the failure of the "Boswellian" method in biography when applied by a man who is not a Boswell to a subject not a Johnson. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Pattison, Mark. 92 P3142p

Memoirs. 1885. Macmillan.

Pattison (1813–84) was an English scholar and writer, tutor and examiner of Lincoln College, Oxford and later its rector.

"The book is one of deep and painful interest, the only one in existence that can be compared with Rousseau's 'Confessions' in the fidelity with which it lays bare the inmost secrets of the heart, but in which, unlike the 'Confessions,' the author does himself much less than justice. He gives a far less favourable impression of himself than any impartial outside observer would have done, and draws a portrait not so much of what he really was at the time of which he writes, as of what he seemed to himself through the morbid recollections of the past and the often not less morbid entries in his diary...In his 'Memoirs' he is no less unfair to those whom he disliked than to himself." Dictionary of national biography.

Petrarch. 92 P463j

Jerrold, Mrs Maud F. Francesco Petrarca, poet and humanist. 1909. Dent.

"Bibliography," p.335–344.

"The author has not merely read widely in the enormous mass of Petrarch literature, but has thoroughly familiarized herself with the original texts, including Latin works usually neglected, and generally has provided her own translations. She has shown tact in arrangement, and has chosen a form of expression at once sufficiently enthusiastic and self-effacing. It seems to us the best single work on the humanist poet in English, and not likely soon to be superseded." Nation, 1910.

Combines the history of Spain during Philip's reign with an account of his life.

Phillips, Wendell. 92 P517s

Sears, Lorenzo. Wendell Phillips, orator and agitator. 1909. Doubleday.

"Readable and inspiring account of the life work of the great American antislavery agitator and orator, founded on the biographies of Martyn (1890) and Austin (1884) with additional letters and reminiscences furnished by friends of Phillips. The earlier biographies are fuller and take up his private life. Sears is more conservative and probably more trustworthy because the lapse of years has defined more clearly the value and significance of Phillips' public services." A. L. A. booklist, 1909.

Philo Judæus. 92 P519b

Bentwich, Norman De Mattos. Philo-Judæus of Alexandria. 1910. Jewish Publication Soc. of Amer.

"Bibliography," p.263–265.

Philo-Judæus was a Jewish-Hellenistic philosopher born in Alexandria about 20 B. C. He included in his philosophy both Greek wisdom and Hebrew religion, which he sought to harmonize by means of the art of allegory that he had learned from the Stoics. His work was not accepted by contemporary Judaism. His writings consist chiefly of commentaries on the Pentateuch.

Coolidge, Louis Arthur. An old-fashioned senator, Orville H. Platt, of Connecticut; the story of a life unselfishly devoted to the public service. 1910. Putnam.

Under the sympathetic hands of his biographer, whose tone is that of a fervent Republican, the story of Mr Platt's career in the Senate from 1879 to 1905 has become almost a history of national legislation for that period. Senator Platt was one of the last of our patriarchal statesmen, representing a kind of ancient severity and virtue, men of deeds not of words. For a score of years he spent himself devotedly upon matters of high public concern in which little individual glory was to be won. It was he who put the Patent office upon an independent basis. Of the cause of international copyright he made himself the champion and for years he served on the Indian committee. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

"Dr. Lee is one of the moving spirits of the Order of Corporate Reunion, which has for its object the reunion of the English church with Rome, and it is, perhaps, not unnatural that in writing of the one man who came next to effecting, and did for a time effect, the much-desired reconciliation, he should view everything too exclusively in the light of its bearing on his present aims...It results in the omission of many interesting and important facts, particularly those connected with his middle life." Spectator, 1888.

Powell (1850–1904) was regius professor of modern history at Oxford. The second volume includes short sketches of historians and other writers and of historical personages, original verses and translations.

"Through the spontaneity of his nature, the extent and richness of his learning, the breadth of his outlook, and his genius for friendship, Powell won, and will keep, a high place among the Oxford men of his generation." Nation, 1907.

Pownall, Thomas. q92 P877p

Pownall, Charles Assheton Whately. Thomas Pownall, M. P., F. R. S., governor of Massachusetts Bay, author of The letters of Junius, with a supplement comparing the colonies of kings George III and Edward VII. 1908. Stevens.

Exhaustive account of Pownall's (1722–1805) career both in America and England. An interesting part of the book is the ingenious argument for Pownall's authorship of the letters of Junius, with Sir Philip Francis employed as amanuensis. Portraits, maps and facsimiles.

Priestley, Joseph. 92 P947t

Thorpe, Sir Thomas Edward. Joseph Priestley. 1906. Dent. (English men of science.)

Brief account of the life of the English theologian and natural philosopher (1733–1804). Based largely on Priestley's Memoirs, which however extend only to 1795.

Procter, Bryan Waller, (pseud. Barry Cornwall). 92 P964f

Fields, James Thomas. Old acquaintance; Barry Cornwall and some of his friends. 1876. Osgood.

Not a formal biography. Mr Fields merely recalls some of the interesting conversations which he has had with Procter, Leigh Hunt, Samuel Rogers and other literary people of 19th century England.

Pryor, Mrs Sara Agnes (Rice). 92 P978m

My day; reminiscences of a long life. 1909. Macmillan.

"Author has supplemented her entertaining Reminiscences of peace and war with memories of earlier and later times. She writes with attractive simplicity of travel in the North in the 40's, Virginia society in the 50's, further experiences during the Civil War, and New York social and artistic life up to 1900." *A. Pugin, Augustus Welby Northmore. 92 P982f

Ferrey, Benjamin. Recollections of A. N. Welby Pugin and his father, Augustus Pugin, with notices of their works; with an appendix [in which the writings and character of Augustus Welby Northmore Pugin are considered in their Catholic aspect], by E. S. Purcell. 1861. Stanford.

Pugin (1812–52) was an English architect, ecclesiologist and writer.

His guiding principle was his belief in Gothic architecture and his work was in its day the most sincere, most faithful and most Gothic work that had been executed in England since the 15th century. His father, Augustus Charles Pugin (1762–1832) earned his fame partly as an educator of young architects, notably his own son, but chiefly by his work as an illustrator of Gothic architecture. Condensed from Dictionary of national biography.

Quantrill, William Clarke. 92 Q17c

Connelley, William Elsey. Quantrill and the border wars. 1910. Torch Press.

Quantrill (d. 1864) was a Confederate guerrilla chief.

The book has obvious shortcomings, but the author has investigated every incident of Quantrill's life, followed to its source every story and tradition and set down the recollections of scores of persons who knew Quantrill and his followers. A contribution of prime importance to the history of the Kansas struggle and the Civil war. Gives an authoritative account of the famous Quantrill raid of August 1863, which in a few hours reduced a large part of the town of Lawrence, Kansas, to ashes and left some 150 of its citizens butchered in cold blood in its streets. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Rawlinson, George. Memoir of Major-general Sir Henry Creswicke Rawlinson, with an introduction by Lord Roberts. 1898. Longmans.

Rawlinson (1810–95) was an English soldier and Assyriologist. His successful decipherment of the Persian cuneiform inscriptions, especially that of Darius Hystaspes at Behistun, marked an epoch in the knowledge of Persia's history and ancient languages, and also prepared the way for the decipherment of the other cuneiform alphabets. Later successful work was accomplished in excavations in Babylonia for the British Museum.

Especially valuable are the footnotes and the supplementary notes appended to the several chapters. An uninteresting but useful book." Larned's Literature of American history.

Reagan, John Henninger. 92 R256

Memoirs, with special reference to secession and the Civil war; ed. by W. F. McCaleb, with introduction by G. P. Garrison. 1906. Neale.

Reagan (1818–1905) was a self-made man who rose to high rank under the ancien régime in the South and became the trusted adviser of Jefferson Davis. He was a man of unusually clear vision, of absolute honesty and few abiding prejudices. The main topics treated in his book are the writer's early life in Texas, the organization of the Confederacy at Montgomery, the Civil war as viewed by an active and efficient cabinet officer in Richmond, and the problems of reconstruction. The most interesting portion of the book is the plain unvarnished story of Reagan's hardships and early struggles. The last 100 pages contain his more important speeches in Congress and his public letters of 1865–66. Condensed from American historical review, 1907.

The husband of the countess von Reden was minister of mines at the time of Napoleon's invasion of Prussia and knew Stein and many of the public men of the day. The interest of the book lies chiefly, however, in the description of the countess's domestic life and of her various religious and philanthropic activities.

Redgrave, Richard. 92 R274

Memoir; comp. from his diary by F. M. Redgrave. 1891. Cassell.

Redgrave (1804–88) was an English painter and Academician, intimately associated with the art work of the South Kensington Museum. For the general reader the main interest of the book lies in its anecdotes, of which there are many, chiefly of his brother artists.

Renan, Ernest. 92 R337re

Recollections of my youth; tr. by C. B. Pitman and revised by Madame Renan. 1883. Chapman.

"His style is fair in both the senses in which we use the word—in that of being temperate and just, and in that of being without a flaw; and these Reminiscences of his younger years...are perhaps the most complete revelation of it...The first chapters ...are not the most vivid, though they contain a very interesting picture of the author's birthplace, the little dead town of Tréguier...It is when he comes to dip into his own spiritual history that M. Renan shows himself a masterly narrator...The chapters on the two seminaries in which he spent the first years of his residence in Paris, Saint Nicholas du Chardonnet and Saint Suplice, are full of the most acute notation of moral and intellectual conditions...He traces with singular art the process by which, young, simple, devout, dedicated to the church from his infancy...he found himself confronted with the fact that he could no longer be a Catholic." Henry James, in Atlantic monthly, 1883.

Monod, Gabriel. Les maîtres de l'histoire; Renan, Taine, Michelet. [1894.]

These writers were all personally known to the author, and the essays, a mingling of biography and criticism, are extremely sympathetic in their tone.

Reni, Guido. See Artists, p.1410.

Rennie, Sir John, 1796–1874. 92 R344

Autobiography; comprising the history of his professional life, together with reminiscences dating from the commencement of the century to the present time [1867]. 1875. Spon.

English civil engineer, whose most important work was the construction of London bridge.

"Besides much that is tolerably interesting to the general reader, Sir John Rennie's commentary upon his own works is likely to be useful to the younger men of his profession." Saturday review, 1876.

Reynolds, Frederick. r92 R376

Life and times of Frederick Reynolds, written by himself. 2v. 1826. Colburn.

Reynolds (1764–1841) was an English dramatist whose plays obtained a temporary popularity. His autobiography narrates with some spirit the adventures of his earlier life.

constant and usually in close personal relations...The book can hardly be described as a biography of Cecil Rhodes. It is rather a sketch of the more prominent phases of his public life, its aim being not to recount events, but to explain the part which Rhodes took in them, the motives that animated him, and the spirit in which he went about his work...It is fair and temperate. It does not attempt to conceal or to palliate either the defects that belonged to Rhodes as a man, or the grave errors he committed." Nation, 1910.

"The authorities," p.166–183.

"His book is ingenious, bright, and readable; he marshals his arguments cunningly, and he scores some good points. But it is not too much to say that he approaches the whole subject in the spirit of an advocate, and consequently his essay can hardly be considered a serious addition to historical literature...The thesis which he first expounded in the English Historical Review, and to which he now returns...is that Henry VII., and not Richard III., murdered Edward V. and his brother." Athenæum, 1907.

Richelieu, Louis François Armand du Plessis, duc de. r92 R421r

Memoirs. 3v. 1903. Merrill. (Courtiers and favourites of royalty.)

The duc de Richelieu (1696–1788) was a marshal of France and a grandnephew of Cardinal Richelieu. He was a prominent social figure in the Paris of Louis XV, not without talents in war and diplomacy, but chiefly remembered as an unscrupulous intriguer and a gallant. The interest of his biography lies in its picture of French society of the time.

Rosegger, Petri Kettenfeier. 92 R721k

Kappstein, Theodor H. Peter Rosegger; ein charakterbild. 1904.

Among the German writers now living there is no man who, for simple, wholesome humanity, can compare with the Austrian, whose name is not only a household word in the humblest homes of his native Steirmark, but whose works are read throughout the world. This book is written by one who with honest enthusiasm has traced the development of his hero not only in his books, but among the people of his native province. The work has the flavor of the soil and the atmosphere of the plein air portrait. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

James Ross (1762–1847) was born in York county, Pa. He was admitted to the bar of Allegheny county in 1788 and became a United States senator in 1794. His life covered an interesting period in the development of what is known as the "Pittsburgh district."

Rossetti, Dante Gabriel. 92 R744

Letters of Dante Gabriel Rossetti to William Allingham, 1854–1870 [ed. by] G. B. Hill. 1897. Unwin.

These familiar letters of Rossetti to his intimate friend, the Irish poet, are ranked among the best he ever wrote, and show him in a particularly attractive light. Allingham was the friend of many great writers of the time and their names occur frequently in these letters. Illustrations from drawings by Rossetti and others.

Rossetti, William Michael. 92 R7442

Some reminiscences. 2v. 1906. Brown.

List of writings by W. M. Rossetti, v.1, p.13–14.

According to the preface, the present work is the eighteenth more or less connected with his family for which Mr Rossetti is responsible. Some recurrence to the same matter is in the circumstances inevitable, though repetition of identical details has been avoided. Further light is cast upon the members of the preraphaelite brotherhood. A short semi-biographical sketch of most of them is provided. Condensed from Athenæum, 1906.

v.2. Von 1852 bis 1870.
v.3. Briefe und lebensabriss.

Recollections of the well-known journalist and statesman (1829–1906). They include an account of his school days at Cologne and the University of Bonn, of the part that he played in the revolution of 1848–49, of his coming to the United States in 1852 and of his services during the Civil war. The third volume contains a selection of intimate letters to his family and friends, and a brief account of his political career from 1869 to 1906 by Frederic Bancroft and W. A. Dunning.

Scott, Sir George Gilbert. 92 S426

Personal and professional recollections; ed. by his son G. G. Scott, with an introduction by J. W. Burgon. 1879. Low.

Scott (1811–78) was an eminent English architect, a leader in the Gothic revival. He was employed in restoring many old English churches, notably Westminster abbey and Ely cathedral. It is with this phase of his work rather than with the erection of new churches, public buildings, etc. that these recollections are concerned.

Skene, James. Memories of Sir Walter Scott; ed. by Basil Thomson. 1909. Murray. (Skene papers.)

James Skene, a Scottish lawyer with a love of letters, was a lifelong friend of Scott. The manuscript of his "Memories" was offered to Lockhart, who, from some motive of delicacy, did not use it, and it has remained in the possession of Mr Skene's descendants ever since. A great-grandson now publishes it, with an introduction and useful notes. While the pages reveal nothing of historical importance, they add greatly to an appreciation of Scott's character.

Sedgwick, Catharine Maria. 92 S448

Life and letters; ed. by M. E. Dewey. 1871. Harper.

Miss Sedgwick (1789–1867) was an American novelist whose writings were at one time very popular. Her life was mostly spent in Lenox and in Stockbridge, among the Berkshire hills.

"The story of her life is a simple tale as regards outward circumstances. No striking incidents, no remarkable occurrences will be found in it, but the gradual unfolding and ripening amid congenial surroundings of a true and beautiful soul, a clear and refined intellect, and a singularly sympathetic social nature." Editor.

Sellar, Mrs Eleanor Mary (Dennistoun). 92 S467

Recollections and impressions. 1907. Blackwood.

Mrs Sellar is (1907) the widow of W. Y. Sellar, who was at one time professor of Greek at St. Andrews and from 1863 to 1890 professor of Latin at Edinburgh University. She has been familiar for many years with Scottish society and university life. Among the friends introduced in her memoirs are Jowett, Spencer, Carlyle, Tennyson, Lord Bowen, Henry Smith, Dr John Brown, Principal Shairp, Sir Hugh Playfair and T. C. Sandars.

Sellstedt, Lars Gustaf. 92 S468

Sharp, William. 92 S531s

Sharp, Mrs Elizabeth Amelia (Sharp). William Sharp (Fiona Macleod); a memoir; comp. by his wife. 1910. Duffield.

"Whilst she reveals the very inner ego of a complex, and to the outsider most bewildering, personality, she never draws the veil from the sanctuary of his home life... She chronicles the outer events of William Sharp's extraordinary career, bringing out the results of the strange blend of nationalities in him, which, to quote the words of a friend, made him a 'Viking in build, a Scandinavian in cast of mind, and a Celt in heart and spirit;' noting the strong influence Nature exercised over him from the first, and dwelling on the deep undercurrent of mysticism that was to the end of his life one of the most potent elements of his character." Outlook (London), 1910.

Shaw, George Bernard. 92 S534c

Chesterton, Gilbert Keith. George Bernard Shaw. 1909. Lane.

"Quite as much a picture of Mr. Chesterton as a study of Mr. Shaw. The two-edged quality of criticism has never made a more striking or amusing display of itself than in this analysis of the supposedly... Shavian... characteristics... As to the plan and scope of the book, it begins with a characteristic assertion: 'Most people either say that they agree with Bernard Shaw or that they do not understand him. I am the only person who understands him, and I do not agree with him.' Then follow... chapters on Mr. Shaw as an Irishman, as a Puritan, and as a Progressive; but the greater part of the book is devoted to 'The Critic,' 'The Dramatist,' and 'The Philosopher.' Hence it is, as was natural, more a study of the writer than of the man." Dial, 1909.

Shaw, George Bernard. 92 S534h

Henderson, Archibald, b. 1877. George Bernard Shaw; his life and works; a critical biography (authorized). 1911. Hurst.

Contains a genealogical chart of the Shaw family.

Though fulsome in its admiration and somewhat disfigured by imposing literary allusions, French phrases and a journalistic exuberance, this 500-page biography is a document of value. It brings together as many of the facts about Mr Shaw's life, character and opinions as he wishes to be generally known. There is no other authority (1911) for the interesting period of his childhood in Dublin, when the love of music seems to have been his first interest, nor has so much been told before of his early literary work in London, of the genesis of the Fabian Society and of his journalistic career. Contains numerous and interesting illustrations.

Shaw, George Bernard. 92 S534j

Jackson, Holbrook. Bernard Shaw. 1907. Richards.

Contents: The man.—The Fabian.—The playwright.—The philosopher.

This little book will afford great satisfaction to the admirers of Bernard Shaw; for the author is an enthusiastic disciple of that brilliant but erratic propagandist. It is cleverly written in a style that often suggests what the faithful call the Shavian attitude and manner, gives an apparently authoritative summary of his various theories, political and the like, and furnishes some significant facts which may help to account for a good many of them. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

"Sheil played a distinguished, if not a decisive, part in the history of his times. He was amongst the foremost of Irish tribunes, and was in the House of Commons a successful speaker, of a peculiar kind. In our Clubs and in London society his caustic tone and sparkling sayings were familiar to many, while his literary accomplishments commended him to the regard of several who had no taste for Irish agitation." Athenæum, 1855.

from which to write the poet's biography. The result was a surprise and a disappointment. Hogg took unwarrantable liberties with his materials, and Shelley's representatives, fearing that the prosecution of the work would result in stereotyping a caricature, withdrew the documents on which Hogg had depended for continuing it.

"Hogg's offences as a biographer are grave...Yet how much less we should have known of the youthful Shelley if Hogg had not written...The book is indispensable for one who would know Shelley; and yet for one who would know Shelley fully and aright it is wholly insufficient. It is a fragment not only in the sense that it tells no more than a portion of the story; it is fragmentary also in its presentation of Shelley's character." Edward Dowden, in introduction.

Peacock, Thomas Love. Memoirs of Shelley, with Shelley's letters to Peacock; ed. by H. F. B. Brett-Smith. 1909. Frowde.

Appeared first in "Fraser's magazine," v.57–62, June 1858–March 1862.

Among the memorabilia of Shelley's friends the memoirs which Thomas Love Peacock contributed to the pages of "Fraser's magazine" will always hold an important place. These memoirs have only once been reprinted and have been for many years out of print. Mr Brett-Smith's introduction gives an account of Peacock's association with Shelley. Peacock's record contains many particulars that are not to be found in other accounts of Shelley, but in his desire for impartiality he sometimes appears to fail in sympathy. As a clear and circumstantial chronicle of the chief events in the poet's life it is especially valuable. Condensed from Outlook (London), 1910.

Smith, George Barnett. Shelley; a critical biography. 1877. Douglas.

"Mr. Smith undertakes to realise to us what Shelley was as a man and as a writer, introducing the leading biographical facts more by way of illustration than of regular narrative. This design is carried out with a fair amount of consistency, and a moderate instalment of success; and it was worth trying, for one cannot say that the same sort of treatment has as yet been applied, in any substantial form, to the career of Shelley ...Mr. Smith tells us a few things...which are new...others which are new without the stamp of truth; and some which are decidedly erroneous." *W. "As a careful and intelligent compilation, Mr. Kerr's work will hardly need to be done over again, but the student of American history will not find in it anything new; while the general sketch of events, though making fully a third of the bulk, is quite without distinction. The pervading tone, moreover, is persistently eulogistic, though not offensively so; and one looks in vain for any critical appraisal of Sherman's notable public services. On the whole, the book does not displace the briefer and more discriminating volume by Theodore E. Burton [92 S5531b]." Nation, 1908.

Greville, Fulke, baron Brooke. Life of Sir Philip Sidney, etc., first published 1652, with an introduction by Nowell Smith. 1907. Clarendon Press.

As a memorial of friendship it is worthy of a place among the classics of human history. It is the source of the classical story of Sidney's death; it is the best likeness of the young "president of learning and chivalry" which has been left us by a contemporary; and it is a remarkable testimony by an experienced statesman to the greatness of Elizabeth's government. The whole work commands admiration as an archaic but noble expression of the same spirit of chivalry that animated Sidney and Spenser. Condensed from Croll's Works of Fulke Greville.

The autobiography extends only through the year 1863.

"It requires a very clear conscience and perfect guilelessness to expose one's self as he has done; but having done it the reader sees an earnest man of complete purity, discharging his daily duty with singleness of purpose, and reaching fame by conscientious and intelligent exercise of brain and hand. But the story is more than an autobiography: it not merely illustrates the evolution of a South Carolina lad into one of the most useful and conspicuous of modern benefactors; it is local history interpreting rural life in that section fifty years ago." Nation, 1885.

Goldwin Smith (1823–1910) was a publicist of two nations. Educated at Oxford, he became a tutor and then a professor there. In 1868 he came to America and was for two years professor in Cornell University. Thence he went to Toronto, where the last 40 years of his life were spent. He was a reasonable and constant critic of public events, and of this his reminiscences give abundant evidence. Among the topics discussed are American Civil war times, the Manchester school of political economy and its leaders, visits to Jamaica, Europe, Washington and the Northwest, and Canadian politics.

Stanley, Sir Henry Morton. 92 S787z

Autobiography; ed. by his wife, Dorothy Stanley. 1909. Houghton.

Sir Henry Stanley (1841–1904) prepared the greater part of this work, the supplementary narrative being made up from his letters, diaries, etc. It is an extraordinary life-record, beginning in the workhouse, where he was cruelly treated, continuing in a hand-to-mouth existence, a voyage to America, soldier life in the Civil war, the ups and downs of journalism, and finally, the African explorations which made him famous.

Stanley, William Ford. 92 S789s

William Ford Stanley; his life and work; ed. by Richard Inwards. 1911. Lockwood.

Stanley (1829–1909) was a maker of mathematical drawing instruments, inventor of various mechanical devices, writer on mechanical subjects and founder of the technical school at South Norwood, England.

Stanton, Edwin McMasters. 92 S792zc

Carnegie, Andrew. Edwin M. Stanton. 1906. Doubleday.

The same.....r92 S792zc

Address on Stanton memorial day at Kenyon College.

The address dwells chiefly on the value of the services rendered by Stanton as secretary of war.

Stark, Gen. John. r92 S795s

Stark, Caleb. Memoir and official correspondence of Gen. John Stark, with notices of several other officers of the Revolution; also a biography of Capt. Phinehas Stevens and of Col. Robert Rogers, with an account of his services in America during the "Seven years' war." 1860. Lyon.

Stearns, George Luther. 92 S799s

Stearns, Frank Preston. Life and public services of George Luther Stearns. 1907. Lippincott.

Stearns (1809–67) was identified with the antislavery cause and was one of the first to advocate the forming of negro regiments at the time of the Civil war.

Stedman, Edmund Clarence. 92 S812

Life and letters of E. C. Stedman, by Laura Stedman and G. M. Gould. 2v. 1910. Moffat.

"Bibliography," v.2, p.613–654.

These portly volumes reveal an exceedingly manly, kindly, alert and engaging personality. They are sure to be of great service to close students of Mr Stedman's career and of the period of which he was probably the most distinguished poet and critic.

Steiner, Edward Alfred. 92 S822

Against the current; simple chapters from a complex life. 1910. Revell.

Author's early life was lived in a little Hungarian town where Magyar, Slav, German and Jew lived in close proximity, and where racial and religious questions were matters of most vital interest. He describes some of the scenes which stand out most clearly from this background of his early boyhood and which influenced him in his later development.

Stephen, Sir Leslie. 92 S8282

Life and letters; by F. W. Maitland. 1906. Duckworth.

Sir Leslie Stephen (1832–1904) was preëminent as a critic, thinker and philosopher and as editor of the "Dictionary of national biography." Mr Maitland, who was Stephen's intimate friend for many years and his kinsman by marriage, tells with much detail the story of his life and brings together many of his letters. One of the most interesting chapters is devoted to Stephen's first visit to the United States, as some of the best letters are written to his American friends, notably Charles Eliot Norton, James Russell Lowell and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Stephens, Alexander Hamilton. 92 S832

Recollections of Alexander H. Stephens; his diary kept when a prisoner at Fort Warren, Boston harbour, 1865, giving incidents and reflections of his prison life and some letters and reminiscences; ed. with a biographical study by M. L. Avary. 1910. Doubleday.

Sterne, Laurence. 92 S839c

Cross, Wilbur Lucius. Life and times of Laurence Sterne. 1909. Macmillan.

Descriptive bibliography of Sterne's manuscripts and published works, p.524–537.

Full and interesting record of the life of the English humorist, based on a careful examination of letters and documents. Author is (1909) professor of English in the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University. Portraits.

Sterne, Laurence. 92 S839s

Sichel, Walter Sydney. Sterne; a study. 1910. Williams.

Contains also Sterne's "Journal to Eliza."

Mr Sichel has brought forward a few fresh facts and documentary matter hitherto unpublished, notably the "Journal to Eliza." The debt which subsequent writers owe to Sterne is examined with insight.

Stevens, Phineas. 192 S795s

Stark, Caleb. Memoir and official correspondence of Gen. John Stark, with notices of several other officers of the Revolution; also a biography of Capt. Phinehas Stevens and of Col. Robert Rogers, with an account of his services in America during the "Seven years' war." 1860. Lyon.

Stevenson, Robert Louis. 92 S848l2

Letters; ed. by Sidney Colvin. 4v. 1911. Scribner.

Biographical edition.

These four volumes constitute a definitive edition of Stevenson's correspondence. Here the two series, "Vailima letters" and "Letters to his family and friends," are united and set in chronological order, with the addition of some 150 new letters. The result is a comprehensive view of Stevenson's life and interests as revealed in his letters. The new letters relate for the most part to his early life and the correspondents of this fresh instalment are mainly Sidney Colvin, Mrs Sitwell, W. E. Henley, and the writer's parents.

Stevenson, Robert Louis. 92 S848m

Moors, H. J. With Stevenson in Samoa. 1910. Small.

These memoirs, while adding little of importance to our knowledge of Stevenson's character, are distinctly interesting because of the angle from which they are written. The author, a shopkeeper, dealer in real estate, and local politician in Samoa, had an interest in his subject which was rather neighborly than literary. Book bears witness to the friendliest intimacy and to the fact that Stevenson was able to mix familiarly with all sorts of men on their own ground. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

Stowe, Mrs Harriet (Beecher). 92 S892m

McCray, Florine Thayer. The life-work of the author of Uncle Tom's cabin. 1889. Funk.

Written in popular style and extremely eulogistic in its tone. A good deal of space is devoted to outlines of Mrs Stowe's books.

Stowe, Mrs Harriet (Beecher). 92 S892st

Stowe, Charles Edward, & Stowe, L. B. Harriet Beecher Stowe; the story of her life, by her son and her grandson. 1911. Houghton.

This centenary biography is more a study of Mrs Stowe's character and personality than of her literary work. While making many intimate revelations, it is free from the tone of idolatry.

Strafford, Thomas Wentworth, earl of. 92 S896c

Cooper, Elizabeth. Life of Thomas Wentworth, earl of Strafford and lord-lieutenant of Ireland. 2v. 1874. Tinsley.

Full account of the life of the English statesman (1593–1641).

Strauss, Richard. 92 S9123n

Newman, Ernest. Richard Strauss, with a personal note by Alfred Kalisch. 1908. Lane.

"Compositions of Richard Strauss," p.138–144.

Author is frankly a partisan of program music and as Strauss is its latest and most powerful exponent, Mr Newman is, naturally, a friendly critic, though a not unthinking one.

Talleyrand-Périgord, Dorothée (von Biron), duchesse de. 92 T161z

Memoirs of the duchesse de Dino (afterwards duchesse de Talleyrand et de Sagan); ed. with notes by the princesse Radziwill (née Castellane). v.1–3. 1909–10. Scribner.

v.1. 1831–1835.
v.2. 1836–1840.
v.3. 1841–1850.

"Biographical index," v.1, p.291–349, v.2, p.361–429, v.3, p.347–409.

The duchesse de Dino was the niece of Talleyrand, who was during the first three years of these memoirs ambassador in London. She observed with keen sense the court world of which she formed a part, and her diary yields some striking portraits of eminent people.

Talour de la Cartrie, Toussaint-Ambroise, comte de la Villenière. 92 T166

Memoirs of the count de Cartrie; a record of the extraordinary events in the life of a French royalist during the war in La Vendée and of his flight to Southampton where he followed the humble occupation of gardener; with an introduction by Frédéric Masson, appendices and notes by P. A. Pichot and other hands. 1906. Lane.

The result of the painstaking investigations of M. Pichot, one of the most skilful unravelers of historical problems connected with the revolution in France, establishes the genuineness of these memoirs and their substantial accuracy beyond reasonable doubt. Their interest is great and they have considerable historic value, although the author may not have played a preponderant rôle in the military events he describes. The publisher's account of the discovery of the manuscript is one of the romances of publishing. Condensed from Nation, 1906.

He was not only one of the first to give New Yorkers their musical education, but he soon extended his mission to a number of other cities by establishing his musical "highway," and finally his orchestra in Chicago. In the annals of music there are few chapters so interesting as those in which Mrs Thomas relates how the great conductor gradually enlisted the sympathies of the captains of industry in that city, persuading them, with the aid of his friends to erect for him a special building, Orchestra hall. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

In spite of drawbacks, a valuable and in many ways an illuminating biography. Mr Maude is an Englishman who received part of his education in Moscow and who lived for than 20 years in Russia, becoming acquainted with Tolstoï in 1887. He more than atones for his inadequacy as a literary critic by the understanding with which he portrays Tolstoï's personality. He writes with ease and simplicity and with an abundance of concrete illustration. Considerable portions of the work have been revised by the countess Tolstoï or by Tolstoï himself, so that its accuracy may be generally relied on. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Torrey (1813–46) was devoted to the cause of abolition in Maryland. When, in 1844, it was discovered that he had aided in the escape of several slaves he was sentenced to a long imprisonment. He died two years later from the effects of prison life and was regarded in the North as a martyr to the antislavery cause.

Its first and longer part is W. D. Howells's memories of the great humorist; the second part is a collection of the same critic's reviews of his books, beginning with that of "The innocents abroad." The genial spirit of the immortal fun-maker himself has touched the hundred pages of reminiscence with characteristic gaiety, and it is a vivid picture one gets, not simply of Mark Twain, but of a rare friendship between two richly endowed natures. The record has, of course, a charming anecdotal interest. Condensed from Nation, 1910.

v.3. 1854–61.

The object of the publication, the editors tell us, is not to supply matter to the historical student, but to present the nation with a portrait of Queen Victoria. With this aim such letters have been selected as exhibit the development of the queen's character, her political relations with her ministers, and her domestic relations with her husband and the members of her large family at home and on the continent. Especially interesting are the lights thrown on the four men who formed her select body-guard, so to speak—Lord Melbourne, her uncle Leopold, king of the Belgians and his former physician and secretary, Baron Stockmar, and Prince Albert. Condensed from Saturday review, 1907.

Wagner, Richard. q92 W134w
Mein leben. 2v. 1911.

Wagner, Richard. 92 W134w
My life; authorized translation from the German. 2v. 1911. Dodd.

This autobiography was privately printed in 1871 and the half dozen copies given to intimate friends, republication for the world at large being deferred till years after Wagner's death. "Mein leben" closes with the year 1864, but, though a torso, it takes its place at once among the world's great autobiographies. It is very full in regard to Wagner's childhood and youth and much of it is devoted to a narrative of the ill luck which pursued him, through the greater part of his career, because of his unfortunate determination to be a composer. The author tells a plain tale sparing himself no more than others when occasion for censure arrives. He gives glimpses into the workshop of his genius and throws a flood of light on the musical conditions of his time in most European countries; and finally, what many readers will relish most, there are many comments on great musicians who befriended or opposed him—Liszt, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Berlioz, Meyerbeer, Bülow, Saint-Saëns and a host of others. Condensed from Nation, 1911.

Author, a Paris journalist, daughter of Théophile Gautier and an ardent admirer of Wagner, was invited by the latter to visit him at his home in Lucerne in 1869. She gives an intimate account of his home life and activities, adding a description of a visit to Munich where the "Rheingold" was to be given for the first time.

English version of the authoritative German biography of Wagner. Glasenapp's name is omitted from the title-page of v.6, as this volume is almost entirely the work of Mr Ellis.

"Based upon an intimate acquaintance with Wagner's writings, and a diligent study of periodicals, etc. Somewhat verbose, but reliable on the whole." Grove's Dictionary of music and musicians, 1900.

Wagner, Richard. 92 W134ne
Neumann, Angelo. Erinnerungen an Richard Wagner. 1907.

The most important biographic contribution to musical literature since the beginning of the century, with the exception of Wagner's Letters to Frau Wesendonck. It contains a large number of the master's letters which have never before been printed, and it gives so many interesting glimpses of life behind the scenes—both literally and figuratively—that in a short time it has reached its fourth edition. Neumann began his career as a baritone, 50 years ago. He became a Wagner enthusiast during the Vienna concerts in 1862 and in 1876 he became joint manager, with August Förster, of the Leipzig Stadttheater, and from that time on he played a rôle in the life of Wagner, the importance of which has heretofore been known to few. The Leipzig performances were a brilliant success, and so were those Neumann gave at the Victoria Theatre in Berlin. Neumann afterward gained Wagner's consent for his project of a traveling Wagner theatre. The adventures which befell them in Paris, London, and the other European cities down to Italy take up the remaining pages of Neumann's reminiscences. Condensed from Nation, 1907.

Whitelocke, R. H. Memoirs, biographical and historical, of Bulstrode Whitelocke. 1860. Routledge.

Bulstrode Whitelocke (1605–75) was an English statesman, a member of the Long Parliament, commissioner of the great seal in 1649, and ambassador to Sweden in 1653. He was one of Cromwell's lords and, after Cromwell's death, commissioner of the great seal to Richard Cromwell.

Whitman, Marcus. 92 W6482e

Eells, Myron. Marcus Whitman, pathfinder and patriot. 1909. Harriman.

Another deliverance in the long and acrimonious controversy as to whether or not Marcus Whitman saved Oregon to the United States. It is by a zealous disciple and follower of that sturdy pioneer and martyr-missionary.

Whitman, Walt. 92 W648bi

Binns, Henry Bryan. Life of Walt Whitman. [1905.] Methuen.

"Both a biography and an interpretation...Mr. Binns writes frankly as an admirer, but he rarely allows his admiration to run away with his judgment, and his eulogy is generally tempered by the discretion which has been too conspicuously absent from the writings of Whitman's professed disciples." Academy, 1905.

Whitman, Walt. 92 W648ca

Carpenter, George Rice. Walt Whitman. 1909. Macmillan. (English men of letters.)

Brief study, more concerned with Whitman's individuality than with his work.

"Especially successful in fusing together criticism and narration, in showing, that is, how Whitman's rhapsodies are a reflection of his life and in telling his life by means of comment on his rhapsodies." Nation, 1909.

Whitman, Walt. 92 W648p

Perry, Bliss. Walt Whitman; his life and work. 1906. Houghton.

"Strikes a note of just appreciation while avoiding the...extravagance of...professed Whitmanites...Altogether the volume will probably take its place as the sane and authoritative life of Whitman for many years to come." Nation, 1906.

Whitney, James Parker. 92 W653

Reminiscences of a sportsman. 1906. Forest and Stream Pub. Co.

The author has led an active and varied life, including adventures in California, Colorado and New Mexico and has had a wide range of personal acquaintances and friendships. He is more fisherman than hunter and is especially interested in brook trout and salmon.

Whitney, Josiah Dwight. 92 W6532b

Brewster, Edwin Tenney. Life and letters of Josiah Dwight Whitney. 1909. Houghton.

"Bibliography," p.387–400.

Josiah Dwight Whitney (1819–96) was an American geologist who served on the New Hampshire, the Lake Superior and the California surveys. He was professor of geology at Harvard for 31 years. Through his travels and studies in the principal mining regions of the United States he became the foremost authority of his day on economic geology and did great service in the development of the mineral resources of the country.

Wikoff, Henry. r92 W694

Adventures of a roving diplomatist. 1857. Fetridge.

Although an American by birth Wikoff spent most of his life in Europe. He took a keen interest in public affairs and knew many of the noted men of the day. The book deals chiefly with his experiences, 1850–51, when he was employed by Lord Palmerston as the agent of the British Foreign Office at Paris.

Newman, Ernest. Hugo Wolf. 1907. Methuen. (New library of music.)

"List of Wolf's published compositions," p.264–274.

First part of the book is devoted to the biography of the Austrian composer (1860–1903). The second part contains an analysis of his compositions. Mr Newman possesses sympathy with his subject and a knowledge of music.

Wolfe, Gen. James. 92 W837w

Willson, Beckles. Life and letters of James Wolfe. 1909. Heinemann.

"Mr Willson has visited almost every scene in which Wolfe moved, in Britain, on the Continent, and in America, and has used great diligence in gathering information and unearthing letters. The new information is small in amount and about trifling things; but the mass of correspondence here for the first time collected is a real enrichment...It almost constitutes the book, besides giving its chief value; for the author's own contribution consists, over a great part of the volume, of little more than connecting paragraphs." Athenæum, 1909.

Wolff, Sir Henry Drummond. 92 W8382

Rambling recollections. 2v. 1908. Macmillan.

Author is an English diplomat, who has served in Egypt, Turkey and Persia and was ambassador at Madrid from 1892 to 1900.

"Seldom can a book have borne a more accurate title. Sir Henry gives an outline of his diplomatic and Parliamentary career, throws in a few notes of travel with some sidelights on the political history of his time, but his main interest is personal, and he ambles gently on from man to man that he has known." Nation, 1908.

Woolery, William Henry. 92 W872w

Woolery, L. C. Life and addresses of W. H. Woolery, third president of Bethany College. 1893. Standard Pub. Co.

William Henry Woolery (1850–89) was from 1887 until his death president of Bethany College in West Virginia, a college established by Alexander Campbell, the founder of the sect known as the Disciples of Christ.

Wordsworth, Charles, bp. 92 W8972

Annals of my early life, 1806–1846, with occasional compositions in Latin and English verse. 1891. Longmans.

Wordsworth (1806–92) was a nephew of the poet and for many years bishop of St. Andrews, Dunkeld and Dunblane. This volume of his reminiscences concerns itself mainly with his life at Harrow, his Oxford career and Winchester mastership.

Wordsworth, Charles, bp. 92 W8972a

Annals of my life, 1847–1856; ed. by W. E. Hodgson. 1893. Longmans.

Deals almost entirely with matters ecclesiastical, covering as it does the period of Wordsworth's wardenship (1846–54) of Trinity, the then new Episcopal college at Glenalmond, Scotland, and the first few years of his bishopric.

Wordsworth, William. 92 W897w

Wordsworth, Christopher, 1807–85, bp. Memoirs of William Wordsworth; ed. by Henry Reed. 2v. 1851. Ticknor.

This memoir, written by the nephew of William Wordsworth, was designed to serve as a biographical commentary to the poet's works.

"A useful though not very full narrative." Dictionary of national biography.

Wotton, Sir Henry. 92 W919s

Smith, Logan Pearsall. Life and letters of Sir Henry Wotton. 2v. 1907. Clarendon Press.

"Prose works, poems and letters of Sir Henry Wotton," v.2, p.412–454.

Sir Henry Wotton (1568–1639) is familiar to lovers of English literature through a few enduring poems, particularly the "Character of a happy life," and the memoir by Izaak Walton, prefixed to his collection of Wotton's works. Wotton passed the active years of his life in high diplomatic office and ended his days as provost of Eton. Mr Smith has changed his vague image into a vivid portrait. He has come only a little short of producing a literary masterpiece. He devotes two hundred and twenty-five pages to a compactly detailed biography of Wotton. This is followed by Wotton's letters, more than half of which are here printed for the first time. Condensed from American historical review, 1908.

Yung Wing. 92 Y47

My life in China and America. 1909. Holt.

Yung Wing (b. 1828) was educated in the first English school established in China and was the first Chinaman to graduate from Yale University (1854). Returning to China, he was appointed chief of the Chinese educational commission, and under his leadership, in 1872, a band of 120 Chinese students came to this country for 15 years' education. Later he was made associate Chinese minister at Washington. His entire life has been devoted to the welfare of China, and he has been in intimate association with its two greatest statesmen, Li Hung Chang and Tsang Kwoh Fan.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY
OF PITTSBURGH
PRESS

Explanation

This list is Part 9 of the third series of the Classified Catalogue of books in the Library. It includes titles added up to, but not including, January 1912.

The following list includes all books in embossed type for the blind, arranged first according to type and secondarily according to divisions of the Decimal classification.

The symbol at the right-hand side of the page, opposite each title, is the number to be used in calling for the book, and should be copied exactly. If the work is in more than one volume, the volume wanted should be specified.

The books in this catalogue may be borrowed by any adult blind resident of Pittsburgh or western Pennsylvania. Books will be sent by mail without charge for service or transportation.

Adult blind who cannot read will be taught to read in their homes by a teacher, herself totally blind, representing the Pennsylvania Home Teaching Society and Free Circulating Library for the Blind. No charge is made for instruction. Applications for lessons should be made to the Librarian, Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh.
